Board of Education Get Assistance for Domestic Science Department

Ontario Government will Pay 20 Per Cent. of the Cost for Five Years— Principal Kenner Addressed the Board

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last night, when routine business was transacted.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were received and dealt with.

From C. W. James, secretary Department of Education, on behalf of the Minister of Education, Hon. Dr Pyne, acknowledging the Peterborough Board's invitation for him to take part in the formal opening of the new college. Hon. Dr. Pyne has accepted and will be here on Friday, Nov. 27th.

CHIEF'S REPORT

From Fire Chief W. A Howard, enclosing a report of his official inspection of the public schools in the city. The report showed the time occupied in responding to the fire alarms at the respective schools as follows,

Central school, 400 scholars, 48 seconds.

Old Collegiate school, 130 scholars, 45 seconds.

East City school, 625 scholars, 50 seconds.

Queen Alexandra, 250 scholars, 38 seconds.

King Edward, 425 scholars, 52 seconds.

Park St. school, 180 scholars, 45 seconds.

South Central, 450 scholars, 57 seconds.

Each school has fire drill once a week, which saves from 10 to 20 seconds in time, over other cities.

In some of the schools the doors open inward, which is contrary to law, and the board is requested to have them remedied.

A few other suggestions of needed alterations were also made.

From W. Ridge, asking that the water works be placed in his house at 468 Cedar street. He has been in the house now and has to travel all over for water.

ASSISTANCE GIVEN

The Supervision Committee reported as follows;

That on going into the cost of equipping a domestic science room with Miss Stennoff, it was found a much larger sum than at first was anticipated would be required. In view of this fact the committee communicated with the department and Inspector Leeks visited the city on Oct. 15th.

The committee passed the following resolution and forwarded it to the department;

That in view of the misunderstanding that has arisen as to the cost of domestic science equipment, and considering the amount the board has already spent in connection with the Observation schools, it is resolved that this board ask the department to pay 20 per cent. of the cost each year for five years, such equipment not to cost any more than that placed in the Normal school.

The Minister of Education has replied to the resolution and stated that the department would agree to the proposition to pay 20 per cent for five years.

Moved by Messrs. W. H. Hill and John Crane that the janitor's salary for the Collegiate Institute be based on a 15 occupied class room, as per schedule, dating from Nov. 1st, 1908. This to include the care of the lawn and school grounds.

If the above is carried out the janitor's salary will be increased to $900 per year, while he is now only getting $800, and that is not nearly enough.

The motion was carried after Mr. Dumble pointed out several objectionable features connected with the school.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The total attendance in the public schools the past month was 38,-600, with an average attendance of 1736 or a percentage of 90.4. The enrollment is 1911.

At the Collegiate Institute, the total enrollment was 344, and the total attendance 831, with an average of 96 per cent.

Moved by Messrs Robinson and Nelson that the secretary and chairman be instructed to have the electric light and meter connected up in the Toll gate Institute.

Moved by Messrs D. W. Dumble and Nelson that a door from the outside to the basement of the South Central School —Carried.

SIR KENNER SPEAKS.

Mr H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Toll gate Institute, was present, and as this was the first opportunity he had had since his appointment to the principalship of the Collegiate, he wished to take advantage of it to thank the board for the appointment. In referring to the staff he stated that the various teachers were equal to any in the province, and there should be excellent work done.

Mr. Kenner explained that it was impossible to keep the lawn around the building, while the men are at work on the armoria.

The school cadet corps will be inspected on Friday by the officer commanding at Kingston. There are four companies this year and it is the largest cadet corps in the province. Mr. Kenner suggested that a few bugle and drums be secured for the cadet corps. If the board would grant the $50 to the corps it would give them a start.

Mr. Kenner extended an invitation to the chairman, and as many of the board as possible to attend.

It will take place on Friday at Riverside Park.

Those present were, Chairman, R. Fair, John Crane, D. W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, Robinson, Nelson and Hill.

TAFT ELECTED PRESIDENT OF U. S.

Taft Gets the First Republican Majority in New York City--Governor Hughes Elected by 54,000--Republicans Lose in the Middle West.

(Special to The Times.)

New York, Nov. 4.—Returns up to 1.30 o'clock this morning, give Taft elected by 298 votes.

Practically no changes are indicated in the National House of Representatives. The U.S. Senate will be returned with its present Republican majority. Governor Hughes is re-elected in New York by 54,000 plurality.

The Ohio returns are very slow owing to the numerous ballot, but Taft will carry it by a large majority.

TAFT IN NEW YORK.

Judge Taft may also have a majority in New York City, which is the first time hte big city has given the vote to the Republicans in the Presidental contest.

Taft has exceeded Mr. Roosevelt's majority in New Jersey, and received a surprisingly large vote in Massachusetts.

The Republican majorities, however, were pulled down heavily in the Middle West, thoroughly astonishing the Republican managers.

Speaker Cannon was re-elected by his usual majority.

PAYNE ELECTED.

Representative Payne of New York, and Dalzell of Pennsylavnia, were both elected to the House of Representatives, which will probably continue under the old regime.

Mr. Payne will have charge of the new tariff bill which will be introduced at the special session Mr. Taft will call immediately after March 4th next.

Mississippi has returned to the "Solid South" on the Presidential ticket, and elected Vardaman as governor.

MACHINES USED.

Returns from up country districts in New York State, where voting machines are generally used, the returns arrived early. It had been predicted several days that the county defeating the heavy vote in Buffalo, might be taken as an indication of the result throughout the country. This proved correct so far as the Presidential ticket was concerned. Mr. Taft having a plurality of something more than 4,000 votes, but gave Governor Hughes a plurality of 20,000 votes. The vote for Candler in Greater New York, was deeply disappointing to his friends.

There was a heavy vote for Taft, especially in the Borough of Brooklyn, which completely eclipsed the most sanguine expectations of the Republicans.

Governor Hughes was cut heavily up State, but lost so deeply as to imperil his election. When once the draft of things turned in his favor below the "Hook," Hughes began to make inroads of felt.

New York's governor sent congratulations to President-elect Taft early in the evening, and in reply Mr. Taft said, "I thank you warmly for your congratulations, and I wish to reciprocate by sending you my congratulations on carrying New York state. We are also indebted to you for our large vote in the national campaign."

GOVERNORS ELECTED

The returns received up to time of going to press are,

Democrats gain in Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

The governors elected are;

New York—Hughes, Republican, with 54,000 plurality.

Connecticut—Lilly, Republican.

Illinois—Deneen, Republican.

Indiana—Marshal, Democrat.

Missouri:—Cowherd, Democrat, by 20,000 majority over District Attorney Hadley.

Massachusetts—Draper by 30,000.

North Dakota—Johnston, Republican.

Wisconsin—Davidson, Republican.

"All the Comforts of Home"

Surprisingly good and most satisfactory to all its audiors was "All the Comforts of Home," presented under the auspices of the Peterborough Hockey Club last night at the Grand Opera House by a clever local cast. The comedy which is one of great originality in conception and construction was adapted from the German by the celebrated playwright Wm. Gillette, and was one of the most original and amusing ever seen here.

Every member of the cast was excellent and deserves great credit. The large audience gave it a very flattering reception and it was voted one of the best amateur productions ever seen in Peterborough.

During the evening Miss Hallman sang "To-night" in splendid voice and was encored gave the "Last Rose of Summer." Miss Pearl Morgan sang a much appreciated number which was also encored, and Messrs A. B. Cutting and Mort Johnston rendered a duett. "The Fisherman," in a manner that merited the hearty recall given them.

Tonight the piece will be repeated and should be greeted with capacity house. It will be preceded by a sketch of short interest, written by Richard Davis, and entitled, "The Littlest Girl."

Alfred Hastings	Chas. Barber
Tom Bigelow	Geo. Lynch
Theodore Bender	Irving Beers
Mrs. Bender	Mrs. J.N.Barber
Evangeline Bender	Miss L. Bullihan
Fifi (Artzank)	Miss Pearl Morgan
Dabney	C. G. Graham
Mr. Pettibone	Mort Johnston
Mrs. Pettibone	Agnes Pentland
Emily Pettibone	Nell Graham
Mr. Langhorn	F. D. Craig
Mr. McSnath	D. B. McRae
Victor Smythe	W. G. Ferguson
Thompson	Claude Brady
Katy	Nellie Gilliham
Gretchen	Nellie Hallihan

Better Water and More Power Here than Elsewhere

Like all other towns and cities in Ontario, Peterborough has suffered a little inconvenience from a lack of rain, but the city is more fortunate than the others. It has only been the last day or so that any particular difference was noticed, and last night the lights came on as bright as usual. The Quaker Oats Co. were running at night, and the C.G.E. ran all day. For a little while it looked serious but, while the water along the whole stretch of the Trent Canal is lower than usual, there is enough water still in the back basins to hold the water steady at its present height for a couple of months without any rain. There will be a little inconvenience for a short time, but the people will have no kick coming. In the past they have always had a good supply and it must be remembered that there has been no rain which has assisted the water supply since July, and there is no definite information as to when there will be.

The people will therefore do well to accept the situation calmly. The canal authorities will supply just as much water as possible, and still look to the future flow. It gives the city a very bad reputation to publish broadcast that there is no power, and factories have to close down. Other cities are at liberty to do so and they do. They are also glad to learn and publish anything which will be damaging to this city. As it is, Peterborough is running while Ottawa, Hull, Belleville, Gananoque and other cities are either closed or using steam.

Elected to Fellowship of College

(Special to The Times)

Montreal, Nov. 3. — Considerable satisfaction exists among the authorities of McGill University upon the receipt by Dr. Peterson, of a tablegram from England, announcing that John G. Archibald, the Rhodes scholar of McGill, had been elected to the fellowship of All Souls' College, Oxford. This is the second Rhodes scholar from McGill to be elected to the fellowship. The other was Berbert Rose, B.A., who was elected to the fellowship of Exeter College.

Dislocated His Neck in Guelph

(Special to The Times.)

Guelph Nov. 3—Daniel Carter, a Guelph township farmer, while entering an archway in the city struck his head and dislocated his neck.

Libel Actions Started in Edmonton

(Special to The Times.)

Edmonton, Alta., Nov 3.—Mr. H A. Harpwell of Wainwright, who acted as commentator in preparing the lists for the recent Dominion election in that subdivision, will enter action for damages for libel and slander against E. W. Day, the Conservative candidate for Strathcona; J. R. Lowell, Strathcona; the Chronicle, and the Canmore Mail. Harpwell was charged with being connected with the alleged ballot box stuffing in Ontario. He denies the charges.

Wife Sold for Twenty Five Dollars

London, Nov. 5.—An extraordinary story of the sale of a wife was told at Dunmow Police Court yesterday, when Samuel Lee, a market gardener aged 76, was charged with neglecting his three illegitimate children aged respectively 3, 7, and 5 years.

Mary Cuttick, a middle-aged woman, said she had lived with Lee for twenty-two years, and there had been twelve children.

He first married Harriet Lee for $25. Three months ago Lee turned her out with the two youngest children, and she had found a temporary home with a married daughter.

Lee was committed for trial.

Two Brothers Killed in Woods

Smith's Falls, Ont., November 2. — Cyril Gallipeau, of this place, died at the hospital, the result of a mysterious accident which he met with last Tuesday. With his brother Elisha he was engaged in cutting wood on James Maitland's farm. They had partaken of their dinner in the woods and had sat down on a log to light their pipes. A few moments later both were unconscious. About 3 o'clock Elisha recovered and saw his brother sitting on a log some distance away, but neither could tell what happened. They called for help, and a short time later were brought to town. They became delirious and from that condition Cyril never rallied. His brother has almost recovered, but is suffering from several bruises on his body.

It is supposed that a heavy branch was blown from the tree near where the men were sitting and struck them both at once, the injury inflicted on Cyril Gallipeau proving fatal.

Montreal Inventor Navigates the Air

Montreal, Nov. 1. — Mr. L. J. Leah of Peel street, this city, has invented an airship and has made two or three successful flights with his machine.

Closely guarded from intruders and with the greatest secrecy, two successful flights were made at Delorimier race track this week to demonstrate that Mr. Leah's idea was practicable. As soon as he became convinced that he had mastered the secret he telegraphed the Aeronautic Society of New York. Mr. Leah is now prepared to leave for New York to demonstrate his success to members of the Aero Club. All summer Mr. Leah has hidden himself away from the outside world at Lake Charlevoix, in the Laurentian Mountains. There with his models, his theories, and his formula, he eventually produced a small model airship which would fly, and fly straight, automatically righting itself, no matter which way the wind hit it. He had already constructed a ship which would fly under favorable conditions, but to have gained this point seemed too good to be true. Although naturally enough he refuses to give the slightest inkling as to the manner of his invention, it is understood it is a modification of the gyroscope, embodying one of the simplest formulae of mathematics. There is also a small extra fan-shaped wing, which works on ball bearings from side to side, according to the direction which he wishes, and working on exactly the same natural methods as the curving of the wings of a bird. The machine turns itself at will while sailing (not flying) through the air. The inventor's success has aroused a great deal of interest here.

Italian Trial on Saturday Next

(Special to The Times.)

Ingersol, Nov. 3.—Pucci, the Italian murderer in Ingersoll, has been arrested and will come up for his preliminary hearing on Saturday next. At the inquest here today only two witnesses gave evidence. The first was Dr. Coldridge, who identified that Pardi Constantine came to his death by the stone thrown by Pucci.

Senator Dandurand Goes To Europe on Business

(Times Special).

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Senator Dandurand, speaker of the Canadian Senate, who was today, stated that he did not think that Hon. Wm. Scott would be his successor as president of the Canadian Senate. He thought, in fact, the choice was between Senator Finlay Young of Manitoba, Senator Kerr of Toronto, and Senator Ellis of St. John's, N.B.

Senator Dandurand left this evening for New York, from whence he will sail to Europe. While in Paris it is hoped he will be able to do something towards smoothing over the difficulties which are impeding the adoption of the Fisheries Treaty.

Tom Longboat will Race a Fellow Redskin

Tommy Longboat's first professional race will be with a fellow redskin, an unknown Apache Indian. He will meet this aborigine, who is the champion of the reservation, in Buffalo, Friday, Nov. 13.

Now that Big Chief has turned "pro" there is going to be trouble getting him races.

Dorando, the Italian will probably run him, for Dorando is a games youngster, but it will about take wild horses to drag Johnny Hayes into the ranks with Big Chief.

Both Dorando and Hayes know that the big Indian will make them look like candidates for the cripples' home. Neither one of them is a heavy runner, Harry Lawson, Tom Coley, Don McCuaigh, Hilton Green, George Adams, Jack Tait, Bradin, Galbraith, Jack Caffery, Fred Simpson, Billy Woods, Geo. Black, Percy Sellen, and a half a dozen more would beat either man at any distance from five miles up.

Ten-Pin Bowlers will Organize a League

That the Ontario Provincial Bowling League will be organized is a certainty. Hamilton, St. Catharines, London, Peterborough, St. Thomas, and Berlin have signified their intention of playing, and with a strong Toronto team in line, the new organization should prove a success. A decided incentive is provided in the fact that the winning team will be sent to Pittsburg at the expense of the American Bowling Association, who, at their last annual meeting, held at Cincinnati, passed a motion to that effect. It is proposed to hold a championship competition in which the teams who were high at the American, Canadian and Western Tournaments will take part. This will be altogether separate from the tournament itself, at which, in all likelihood, many Canadian teams will figure. There was considerable talk about the accuracy of the scoring at the last tournament held here, and as the matter of sending a team has been left altogether in the hands of the C.B.C., it is very probable that the association will select the champion Ontario team to represent Canada at Pittsburg.

Congratulations are due to the chairman and Mr. Richard Hall, executive of the Nicholls estate, for having arrived at a satisfactory understanding in connection with the erection of a new public library for the city. This matter has been hanging fire for some time, and it is well to have it settled. The next question will be to locate a site for the new building, as it has been decided to dispose of the property on Simcoe street, which was vested by the Nicholls estate and to use that money along with $35,000 to be received from Mr. Carnegie to erect an entirely new structure, and also to provide an endowment fund for the same.

A new building means a new location and so far as The Times can learn there is no property in the city which would be more suitable than the vacant lot on the corner of McDonnel and George streets, next to Jackson Park. As for location it could hardly be better as it is central, on the street car line, and within easy reach to all." The library there would also be an attraction to all visitors as few come to the city without going at least as far as Jackson Park. Mr. Richard Hall favors that location, as we also most of the council who appointed a small committee to interview the owner of the property in reference to securing it.

With the new public library, the George street Methodist church, the new toll gate institute, the new armouries, and the Y.M.C.A. all around the Central Park that spot will be one of the most popular and most attractive in the city, and the presence of so many imposing structures of a public nature cannot help but improve all surroundings. It will also be a big advertisement for the city.

Membership Contest Has Been Started

The Y.W.C.A. has instituted a membership contest and the war for new members and renewals will be fiercely waged for the next two weeks. Four teams with fifteen members on each have been selected, making a total of sixty young ladies. The winning team will be entertained at a banquet by the losers, and the individual girl securing the most members will receive an extension of one year to her membership.

Dairymen Meet This Afternoon

A special meeting of the Dairymen's Association will be held this afternoon at half past one o'clock in the council chamber. It is under the auspices of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, and will be addressed by Senator Dandurand, Henry Glendenning and J. G. Publow. The chair will be taken by Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie.

House and Contents Destroyed by Fire

A disastrous blaze from some unknown source took place yesterday morning between four and five o'clock at the residence of Mr. Michael Healy, Hilliard street, close to the town limits line. The house and its contents were burned. It has not been learned whether the loss was covered or partially covered by insurance.

The fire was detected by Mrs. Healy smelling smoke and calling her husband's attention to it. He found the flames had gained considerable headway. The alarm reached the fire hall at 4.10 and though the brigade made a quick run the walls of house which was a one and a half storey frame dwelling had fallen in by the time they had arrived and the back kitchen was destroyed. There was no hydrant closer than 2500 feet and water was used from the wells close by. The firemen devoted their attention to thoroughly drenching the house next door and saved it from catching fire. Mr Healy's residence was too far gone to save.

Dynamite is Stored Near Ottawa City

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—The County of Gloucester, has a summons against the Hamilton Powder Co., for storing dynamite to the detriment of the township, but the chief of police has been unable to find any responsible person upon whom to serve the summons and he does not know what to do. In the meantime the stores are confined near Ottawa, and some of the residents who are getting uneasy are likely to assist in locating the party.

A Recount in North Perth

(Special to The Times.)

Stratford, Nov. 3.—An order has been issued by Judge Barron, for a recount of the ballots cast in North Perth during the recent Dominion election. The application was made on behalf of the Conservative candidate, by E. G. Smith, K.C. The affidavit was filed by Mr. Collins, to the effect that a ballot marked for McLaren in Avon Ward, was rejected by Deputy Returning Officer Waugh. The recount will take place on Friday.

(Special to The Times.)

North Bay, Nov. 3.—There will be a recount of the ballots cast in the recent Dominion election in Nipissing before Judge Valin on Friday next.

The Gunpowder Plot

A large number of Orangemen gathered in the Orange Hall, on Simcoe street last night, and listened to a very able address by Rev. Robt. Pogue. The event was in commemoration of the Gunpowder Plot and all the addresses of the evening were on that subject. Rev. Mr. Trumpour conducted the ceremony.

The Weather

Masquerade Party a Big Success

The masquerade party at the Y.W.C.A. last night, was a great success and attended in costumes. A large number were present and the costumes represented were very fine. The young ladies representing royal courts and fancy characters, and was recognized as the best and most successful party ever held in the building. Those present had a most enjoyable time, playing fine selected games, when refreshments were served and a most appreciated.

A feature of the affair was that the invitations were sent out in verse and the one receiving was to be in rhyme also. The best answer received a prize was turned, and this was awarded to Miss Chambers of the Times Bookstore.

STOMACH CATARRH

WATERY RISINGS, BELCHING GAS DIGESTIVE WEAKNESS.

Fred M. McKenzie Recommends a Scientific Treatment that Cured Him

New discoveries in the line of medical treatment have come before the profession of late years with almost alarming rapidity, but one that promises to outnumber all others in the unanimity of approach and digestive troubles is Ferrozone, which is a scientific combination of vegetable extracts and pure heat seems the stomach and improve digestion in a truly wonderful way.

So many are interested in finding a really good stomach medicine, that Mr. McKenzie, one of the most prominent citizens in Cambridge, tells of exactly he proved to be a "cure."

"Although my appetite was poor and I ate little, I always had the sensation of having eaten too much. I experienced weight and oppression an hour or two after eating. Often I had heartburn, risings of a bitter liquid, coated tongue and bad breath. There was a continual gnawing pain in my stomach, especially before meals.

BAD CASE CURED.

"No case of Catarrh of the stomach and digestive organs could be worse than mine. I suffered the limit of human endurance for two years I doctored but didn't find the real remedy until I got Ferrozone, what a blessing this preparation must be to all mankind. I took one Ferrozone tablet at the close of each meal and in one week improved in a month, although not cured, the improvement was steady. I continued to use Ferrozone for three months and was restored to robust perfect health. I would urge every man to try Ferrozone—in many ways it will do good."

In all cases of Weak Stomach, Indigestion, Nervousness, Palpitation of the Heart, Insomnia, General Debility, Chronic Dyspepsia, and all wasting diseases use Ferrozone, no remedy will so surely and quickly restore one to the full vigor of health and strength.

When you take Ferrozone everything you eat tastes good, and every bit of the nutriment that your food contains is assimilated and appropriated by the blood and tissues. Try Ferrozone, all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Get it today.

Merchants will Have Banquet at the National

The Merchants' Association of Peterborough, will meet at the National Hotel on Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock, where they will partake of supper, after which addresses will be delivered on benefits to be gained from a real live merchants' association.

The local brunch has been for some time an association in name only and it is the object of several of the members to make it more active and to awaken a deeper interest among the merchants in the matters of vital importance to them. The supper on Thursday evening will be informal and it is urged that every business man in the city be present. The speaker of the evening will be Mr. C. N. Towers, of Toronto, and Dominion and Provincial Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, who will deal with such subjects as collection of bad debts and other things of general interest to merchants.

Mr. S. G. Kingen is chairman of the committee who are looking after the arrangements.

Rheumatism promptly driven from the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. Don't waste time with common remedies. A test will surely tell. In tablet or liquid form. Sold by all druggists.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus se on appliaation. Every information freely given

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE LATE THOS. GREENWAY

The death of Hon. Thomas Greenway will come as a shock to those who have anticipated many useful years of service from him on the Railway Commission. He was a typical Westerner and had the confidence of the farmers to an extraordinary degree. His political career was one of the most remarkable that Western Canada has yet produced. Beginning as a member of the Dominion Parliament from an Ontario constituency in the old Alexander Mackenzie days, he came into prominence as the plucky Premier of Manitoba who kept up the fight against the railway monopoly which the Federal Government had imposed on that province. This gave him his hold upon the people which was not loosened until Hugh John Macdonald carried an election against him in 1896. In the meantime, his Government had passed school legislation that had flung an apple of discord into Dominion politics; but for this he lieutenants—Martin and Sifton—have been more generally regarded as praiseworthy or blameworthy according to the point of view.

Since 1904, he has sat in the Dominion Parliament again and has always compelled that house to listen to his individual and usually independent opinions. His elevation to the Railway Commission was generally acceptable; for it was felt that he represented an element which should have a potent voice in the deliberations of that body. No class in the country comes into more direct contact with the railways than the farmers of the West; and "Uncle Thomas" Greenway was expected to look after their interests with an informed and friendly zeal. It will be difficult to fill his place in this regard. His name will long be remembered as that of one of the most potent of the moulders of the West.

THE FUTURE OF AVIATION

cates of the dirigible gas-sustained balloon on the one hand, and the heavier-than-air aeroplane on the other, has been enlivened by a contribution on "The Problem of Aerial Navigation," by Professor Simon Newcomb, in the Nineteenth Century. While conceding certain merits which have been urged by the exponents of the two distinct types of airship Professor Newcomb contends that, excepting in rare and negligible cases, the earth's surface affords a much better basis for navigation and transportation than will ever be found in the air.

Professor Newcomb attributes the glamour which surrounds the idea of flying through the air to ancestral notions, implanted in the minds of the race before steam transportation had attained its present development. He is of the opinion that there may be exceptional cases in which the airship will serve a purpose, but they are, he thinks, few and unimportant. He admits, for instance, that the North Pole, may first be reached by a dirigible balloon, but regards any type of airship, as an engine of war, as impossible.

While the Nineteenth Century contributor makes an apparently strong case against the practicability of the airship, heavier-than-air or otherwise, he does not take fully into consideration the possibility, and, in view of precedents, the probability, of marked and definite advance in the art, along the lines of new discoveries and inventions. The experience of Dr. Larder, the early nineteenth century scientist, familiar as an illustration, is fairly applicable to Professor Newcomb. It was his contention, substantiated by the scientific views of that day, that no vessel would be able to carry enough fuel to enable it to cross the Atlantic solely under its own steam. He confidently predicted that steam would never supersede canvas in trans-oceanic navigation.

Some of the obstacles to practical and economical aerial navigation suggested by Professor Newcomb appear to be as insurmountable as those which suggested themselves to Lardner. Yet mammoth steamships now cross the Atlantic in a fraction over four days, without the use of sail power.

SPEEDY ENGLISH JUSTICE

Complaints having recently been made of the delays in procedure in English Courts, especially in the King's Bench Division of the High Court and the Court of Appeals, a correspondent of the London Times made an examination which led him to conclude that "the bitter cry of the King's Bench suitor" must have been imaginary or due perhaps to his own unreadiness to go on trial.

English justice now, whatever might be said of it a few years ago, is remarkable for its speed. In the list of appeals in the Privy Council for hearing on June 16 last, for instance, no one of them was of earlier date than Feb. 11 of this year and all but three had been entered subsequently to May 11 last. The correspondent referred to also states that of the thirty final appeals from the beginning of the Easter sitting last spring only six were marked as standing over, and of forty-one effective final appeals, more than half of which were entered in that term, all but three were disposed of.

As a matter of fact there is now little or no cause for complaint in English courts over "the law's delays" and readers of Dickens stories and the long drawn-out case of "Jarndyce and Jarndyce" will no longer find anything in English legal procedure to justify such criticism and caricature, says the New York World.

In America, continues the World, the dilatory ways of courts and lawyers are approximating more and more to the old rather than the new English methods as regards delays which defeat justice.

Canadian Pacific and the Coast

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 2.—In connection with the Victoria visit of the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was entertained by an elaborate dinner at the Empress Hotel, given to him by the Victoria Board of Trade. Many complimentary things were said during the dinner, especially with regard to the work that the railway had done in Victoria. In replying to the toast given to him, Sir Thomas spoke in regard to some of the works that have been undertaken during the past few years. Said he:

"Within the last six or seven years upwards of 125 millions of dollars have been expended by the company in its various undertakings, and largely, of course, in the improvement of our property as it existed, that is, in building additional yards and stations, and in providing double tracks, and in improving our grades, etc., as well as, and to a very considerable extent, too, in extending the various branches which are tributary to our main system.

"While many of these expenditures are probably only indirectly of advantage to the Coast, their real importance cannot be overlooked, because every dollar which is expended by us in the great western country and every additional thousand of population which we bring into the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta furnish an additional market for your lumber, your fruit, and your fish, as well as for other products of yours.

"While we have already spent these $125,000,000, we further expect to spend $50,000,000 more in the near future in providing additional facilities in different parts of the country. While we have also deducted from our property an amount of upwards of $100,000,000, which represent subsidies that we have received from the Dominion and provincial governments, being the proceeds of land sales, so that now we are able to say that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has not exacted from the country one single penny which has not been returned for the subsidies which we have received from these governments."

Do Not Expect Any Unemployment Measure

London, Eng., Nov. 2.—Leaders of the Labor party are beginning to admit that they do not expect Parliament to pass any comprehensive unemployment legislation during the present session. "We are content to wait," says Ramsay Macdonald, "for the promised social reform session of next year." With the exception of the Old-Age Pension Act, all the measures of the year have now to go through the ordeal of facing the House of Lords. The Licensing Bill, the Deu Cual Bill, Education Bill, and various other Ministerial treasures are now about to arrive at the beautiful brass gates over which there might well be blazoned a solemn warning to bad young Bills in a hurry; "Abandon hope all ye who enter here." There are three things their Lordships do. They often pass good Bills; they often kill bad ones; sometimes they pass a bad Bill. They have passed great Liberal measures with which they did not altogether agree when they have seen with their far-reaching gaze that the Bill was likely to be so largely inoperative as to do nobody any very great harm. It looks as though the Liberal Government's most cherished darling, the "great" English Land Bill known as the Small Holdings Act of 1907, was allowed by Lord Lansdowne to survive the Gilded Chamber for this season. Thus the parliamentary weeks which lie between now and Christmas are likely to be full of drama, perhaps a little farce, a touch or two of comedy, and ever so much tragedy.

The Cotton Strike Has Paralyzed Trade

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 2.—The great lock-out in the cotton spinning trade has now lasted over a month, and already its devastating effects are being felt over the whole of Lancashire.

When the lock-out began, only 130,000 operatives were involved, and it was hoped that an early settlement would be no stoppage of the entire industry. This hope has been disappointed. As the stock of yarn became depleted, no fresh stocks became available, and now practically the whole of the weaving trade, as well as the spinning is at a standstill.

More than 400,000 operatives are idle, and it is asserted on the authority of one of the best known men in the industry that up to date over $14,000,000 has been lost in wages. This amount may be divided as follows:—

Operatives locked out $7,560,000

In addition to the loss in wages the lock-out operatives have lost from their trade union funds the amount they have made in lockout pay, which now totals about $1,120,000.

But the loss to the operatives themselves by no means accounts for all the cost of the dispute. Collieries all over the county have either stopped or are working short time, owing to the falling off in the demand for coal for the hundreds of mills that are idle. It is estimated that at least $1,500,000 a week has been lost to the coal trade. Another $100,000 a week has been lost by the principal railway company of the county, while the loss to trades people in every large town in the county is simply incalculable.

Posters on Churches Aroused Indignation

Rome, Nov. 2. — A rather unexpected result is threatened from the action of the Roman Municipality in assuming to itself a monopoly of billposting on the walls in the city. This is nothing less than the project of utilizing the exterior of the churches on which to post bills. There is very bitter feeling aroused by this project, and it is not confined to church-goers, but it also finds expression among those who have a sense of decency still left. The announcements that one meets with on the walls to-day are not always of the most moral character; but to put posters of this type on the facades of churches is an outrage upon decency and propriety. There are publications of the foulest character announced on the posters already affixed to the walls, and to put these or such as these on churches is a gross insult to the people who attend these places of worship. People ask what is to prevent this tyrannical authority from posting bills even within the churches.

Dog Crazed with Grief Committed Suicide

Paris, Nov. 2.—Grief at the death of his mistress seems to have driven a big Saint Bernard dog to suicide. He appeared in the midst of the Place Saint Sulpice, where traffic was heaviest, and got in the way of almost every vehicle, as it were, on purpose, to the great annoyance of the drivers, who shouted at him and used strong language. The dog looked the picture of misery and seemed to be longing for something to run over him. A motor bus, which came along with a tremendous rush, made straight for him. The driver did not see him in time, and the dog did not move. He let the wheels go over him, and was crushed to death. A policeman picked up the collar and read the name and address of the dog's owner. She was a lady living in the Rue du Chateau. On calling there the policeman learned that the lady had died of apoplexy only an hour before. The dog was so affected that he left the house howling, and apparently in a state of despair.

Fort Elizabeth, Cape Colony, Nov. 2.—Orders have been given that the British squadron under the command of Rear Admiral Sir Percy Scott proceed to South America on the completion of its South African programme.

The squadron consists of the cruisers Good Hope, Antrim and Carnarvon and Devonshire.

London, Oct. 30.—It was declared at the Foreign Office to-day that the sending of the squadron under Sir Percy Scott to South America, was in no way connected with the present Venezuelan situation.

Three Men to Hang on December 18

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 1.—Lee Chung a Chinaman charged with the murder of Young Hung Ching, in a quarrel in Southern Vancouver, last July, was found guilty last night and sentenced to hang on December 18. Lee Ching and Young Hing were partners in a ranch and evidently quarreled over the partnership. The body was found in a bush badly hacked and a trail of blood led to Lee Ching's shack. This makes three to be executed here on December 18th. Pottila, a negro, murdered Mrs. Jenkins, a woman, Jenkins, a negro, murdered Mrs. Morrison and Lee Ching.

way, the boys'd be tickled t' death t' see y'. Then there's allus room at the fort when there's good lookin' gals in th' fambly."

Dallas understood the insult. Her gray eyes flamed in her grayer face. She slammed the window.

Matthews came near, so that his face all but touched the glass. "Oh, that don't do no good, my dear," he said, raising his voice. "When I get ready I'll come in."

Marylyn had stifled her weeping to listen to him. Now, pallid with fear, she threw herself upon her sister and again burst forth.

Dallas put her swiftly aside. The face that had been gray was now a tense white. Her eyes were blazing. She sprang to the gun rack and put up her arms.

What the pegs were empty!

CHAPTER IX.

"WHAT under the shining sun?" exclaimed Lounsbury, spilling ground coffee into his boot tops. He strode to the front of the store, the tin scoop in his hand still held recklessly upside down. A pung was passing the grocery—a green pung drawn by a milk white horse. On its quilt padded seat were two men. Above them as they slowly proceeded sagged a high board cream.

Lounsbury glanced inquiringly about him. His neighbors were also watching the strange sight. At the windows of the bunkhouse opposite and at the openings of other buildings near were many faces, wide with good natured grins. As Lounsbury turned to the travelers again his own mouth curved in a smile.

But all at once he sobered. The pung was now so far away that the backs of the men were presented to him, and between them, projecting at a slant over the seat, were the curved tops of a pair of crutches.

Jocular opinions of the passersby were being freely exchanged back and forth. He paid no heed to them. The scoop dropped from his hand and clattered upon the floor. He let it lie. Silent and troubled, unaware of the demands of an insistent customer, he looked after the departing sleigh.

At last he acted. Without waiting even to put on his cap he started at a run up the street. His race, bareheaded, increased the laughter of those who were still watching. They yelled to him boisterously, "Ste' 'em, Bud!" "Sell 'em somethin', John!" "Drag 'em back an' skin 'em!" But the storekeeper was deaf. Each yard made him more certain of the identity of one traveler. His thoughts as he pursued were of him. He gained rapidly on the pung. At the edge of the camp, in the trough of a drift, he stopped it.

Lancaster spoke first, for Lounsbury was too spent. "Waal, waal!" he said crabbedly.

"Excuse me," panted the other, giving in his eagerness only a glance at David Bond, "excuse me, but I see you're headed from home. I wondered—I thought maybe I could do a turn for the young ladies while you're gone."

For a moment the section boss did not reply. He was still smarting over Dallas' generalship and if anything was more disgusted and rebellious than when he left the shack. So in the brief pause he gave ready ear to the whispering of the yellow harpy. His lids lowered. His lip curled.

"You understand, I'm sure," Lounsbury hastened to say. "I thought they might be alone, that"—

"Thank y'," answered Lancaster, snapping out each word, "thank y', they is alone. An' you'll oblige me a d—n sight by leavin' 'em that way!" He settled himself in his seat. "Git up!" he said to Shadrach. The pung slipped slowly on.

Lounsbury was too taken aback either to follow or to retreat. For awhile he stayed where he was, busily coining forcible phrases for the relief of his mind. As he retraced his steps the few men who saw him were discreetly silent, for the camp knew that there were rare moments when it was best to give him a wide berth.

The interview in the trough of the drift was so brief that David Bond was shut out of it. But had it been longer—had he been given a chance to speak—the result might have been the same. The section boss had been mute all the way to Clark's. The fact that Dallas had told him to relate the story of the claim was the strongest reason for his not doing so. David Bond therefore was left in ignorance and had no means of connecting the evil companion of his journey north with the fortunes of the Lancasters. So as they left Lounsbury behind he even found some censure in his heart for the storekeeper.

"You were quite right," he said, flicking Shadrach gently. "That young man should pay no visit to your daughters while you are absent. Yet"—he could not refrain from putting a reproof where it seemed due—"yet I regret your manner of addressing him, your oath"—

Lancaster glared. "Oh, you' gran'mother's tortoise shell cat!" he said wrathfully. For several hours thereafter he added nothing to this.

Back in his store Lounsbury was mixing brown sugar with white, oolong tea with a green variety and putting thread in the pickle barrel. Simultaneously he was torturing himself. Had the section boss left home with no danger threatening? But—the green pung was undoubtedly bound for Bismarck. What was it that had suddenly made him see the necessity of attending to the claim? Along with this came self arraignment. After all, he should have told Lancaster that a man who claimed the quarter section on the peninsula had been called from Dodge City. Lounsbury had been certain that Matthews could not remain [illegible] previous autumn before the spring. But it had never occurred to him that the section boss would leave his girls alone! Now, he vowed that if any harm befell Dallas and Marylyn he had only himself to blame.

He buckled on his pistol belt and padlocked the door. "I don't care whether the old man likes it or not," he declared aloud, "I'm going down there."

As he swung through the camp on his way to the corral he saw one of old Michael's helpers coming toward him, picking his steps in the slush. The man motioned and held out out a white something. It was an envelope, grimy and smeddrumed.

Lounsbury ripped it open and pulled out a written sheet.

"Our new lumbery [ran the note] matheus com his wife in a quare outfit with a krany preecher the preecher I think is at the hadcwarters but the other sumwaygas is her I hav a i on him prty bold wether river solid.

It was partly through the generous employment of his imagination that the storekeeper was able to make out the scrawl, which, though not signed, he knew to be the pilot's. That same imagination enabled him to bring up numberless disturbing—almost terrible—pictures.

The astonished helper gazed after him as he went tearing away in the direction of the horse herd. "By jingo!" he grumbled. "Twenty miles, and he didn't even say treat!"

Soon Lounsbury's favorite saddler, urged on by a quirt, was kicking up a path across the crusted drifts that Shadrach had so recently surmounted. As the storekeeper cantered swiftly forward a new question presented itself to him. Was the "preacher" in league with Matthews, and so was carrying the section boss out of the way. He decided Negatively. He had given only a glance to Lancaster.

How It Opens Up the Wonders of the World of Nature.

If you want to keep your boy out of mischief, give him a microscope, but one of the elaborate, intricate, expensive affairs that the bacteriologists use when hunting for germs, but a common one with two or three lenses that revolve on a pivot and fold into a cover which protects them from injury when carried in the pocket.

There is no better way of interesting the boy in the wonders of the natural world than this simple contrivance, which opens to his eyes visions of a universe of which he knew nothing. Seen through the microscope, the most insignificant flower becomes a thing of wonderful beauty. The interior of a nasturtium is a fairy cavern, showing a dozen different tints and hues of color, with dainty white stalactites and stalagmites almost touching each other midway between floor and roof.

He will find monsters, too, for the head of an ant seen through a microscope is a terrible object, and he cannot help thinking what an awful aspect such a creature would present if it were as big as a horse. He has heard about the creatures that are to be found in water from a stagnant pool. He will find them for himself and show them to other boys, and all his crowd will become interested and bring in things to look at and wonder about. He may not develop into a Darwin, but if he has any faculty of observation at all it will be sharpened by what he sees, and he will learn that there is more in nature than what we discern on the surface.

SILENT CRANES.

The mountaineer glanced complacently at his hard calves.

"We climbers," he said, "up there on the white heights see lots of things worth seeing. I tell you we could if we wanted to outdo the nature fakirs without deviating from the truth. For instance, take the Mount Taurus cranes. Do you know the cranes of Mount Taurus?

"Well, these birds are great chatterers. They chatter, chatter, chatter, as they fly. Hanged if they're not worse than women! Up on the heights the eagles lie in wait for them, hidden behind crags or ice blocks. They don't have to show themselves at all. Their ears, not their eyes, tell them of the cranes' approach, and, swooping down on those bundles of feathers and noise, they take home a mess of crane for dinner.

"With their chatter and babble and gossip the cranes of Mount Taurus give themselves away in that still air to the eagles, and in all eagle households crane is the staple dish.

"But the old cranes fly without a sound—never a word out of them as they sail and wheel in the blue air. That seems against nature, and it is against nature. The old cranes to restrain their innate love of talk fly with large stones in their mouths.

"Shoot one of these crafty and silent birds and you will find his beak tightly closed upon a large stone."—Exchange.

His Plan Was Simple.

Frederick the Great once requested his generals to submit to him plans of campaign for a supposititious case. Hans Joachim von Ziethen, the famous cavalry general, produced a queer diagram in black ink. It represented a big blot in the center, intersected by two black lines, whose four terminals ended each in a smaller blot. The king was furious and upbraided his old comrade in arms bitterly for what he considered disrespect.

In explanation Von Ziethen said: "Why, your majesty, I am the large blot in the center. The enemy's are the four smaller ones. He can march upon me from the right or left, from the front or rear. If he does I simply advance upon any of the four lines and lick him where I find him."

Frederick was satisfied.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Statistics.

In all probability the first administrative act of the first regular government was to number its fighting men and to ascertain as nearly as was possible what amount of taxation could be levied on the rest of the community. As human society grew more highly organized there can be no doubt that a very considerable body of official statistics must have come into existence. We know that such was the case in Greece, Rome and Egypt, but it was not until within the last two or three centuries that systematic use of the information available began for purposes of investigation rather than mere administration.

Businesslike England.

The English are not a revengeful people. They forget everything after a fight in their eagerness to trade with their late enemy. It is not so much the spirit of forgiveness of sins which prompts them as the spirit of pushing trade. That is the central impulse in their being.—Dublin Irish Homestead.

Some Costly Toys.

The presentation by President Fallieres of a costly toy railway to the Czarevitch reminds us that one of the first model railways, on anything like a large scale, was the most prized possession of the ill-fated Prince Imperial when a boy. It was constructed in the gardens of the Tuileries, and is said to have cost 80,000 francs. In the private grounds of Mr. T. H. Shriver, a wealthy resident of Denver, Colorado, is a still more remarkable miniature railway. On a circular track, 400 feet long, with a gauge of 23-4 inches, Mr. Shriver drives a train of eight Lilliputain carriages, carrying a dozen or more passengers. The Rev. H. L. Warneford of Windsor is the proud proprietor of "the Chicago and Jericho Railway," with its cuttings and tunnels, stations and signal-boxes; while a Manchester gentleman, Mr. P. H. S. Leigh, has (or had not long ago) in a specially-constructed room a similar railway, of 270 feet in length and 6 inch gauge, over which a £300 engine draws exquisite models of passenger and luggage trains.

Human Ostrich.

A remarkable case is under treatment at the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary. In June a young postman was sentenced to nine month's imprisonment for appropriating small postal orders, and after his removal to prison he began to swallow all manner of things. First, he swallowed a portion of a blanket, then 24 iron pins, each about two inches long, a considerable number of stones, pieces of iron, and bits of a water jug which he smashed. When he told the prison officials what he had done they disbelieved him, but after being taken to the infirmary the various articles were located by the X-rays. A consultation was held by the doctors, but it was deemed advisable not to perform an operation. The patient is still confined to bed, though apparently quite well and normal in every respect, notwithstanding his extraordinary experience. In the infirmary he is known as the human ostrich.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

What Every Woman Requires for Headache Langour

Mrs. Mary Flanagan Gives Advice that is Sound, Useful and True.

Has your strength given out? Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, nervous, nervous, finding it hard to do your housework? Thousands feel just the same.—feel the enervating influence of spring, whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flanagan of Bay mat Junction — here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the tortures of deadening spring illness — never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I tried through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless.—Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic, blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Women who are continually pale, tired and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing down pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that surely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c at all dealers.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

It was pointed out that while the water supply was low there had been no rain for months, and the very best possible was being done, and in future, until such times as the rain comes the people will have to be content. With reasonable economy everyone should be able to get a sufficient supply. At any rate this city is much better off than the other cities depending upon electrical energy.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood THE more will itself superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

Winter Dairying is as Cheap as in the Summer, Says Henry Glendenning

The dairymen of Peterborough district have again chosen Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie as their representative to the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association and a better man could not find. He has represented the dairy interests of this section for the past couple of years and has rendered good service.

A special meeting of the dairymen was held in the County Council chambers yesterday afternoon, and the attendance was very fair. Among the speakers present were Senator Dan Derbyshire, Mr. Glendenning and Mr. Murphy as well as Mr. Ward the instructor and sanitary inspector for the district.

The object of the gathering was from previous reports was to further the interests of the dairy industry in this district. The chief features of the addresses were the increase in the cost of production and the advocacy of winter dairying. The farmers should keep up the flow of milk all winter, also convert it into butter if not cheese. It was pointed out that cows can be fed as cheaply in the winter as they can in the summer.

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie as chairman opened the meeting, and explained that Senator Derbyshire be chosen to preside over the meeting in the stead. On motion this was accepted.

Mr. Derbyshire stated that it was a good thing to get together and talk over the business of the past year. There was one thing which all must admit and that was the shortage of cheese, and it would do well to consider for a few minutes what was the cause. The quality of cheese in Eastern Ontario this year was certainly the best that has ever been produced in this section.

One thing which caused the shortage was the lack of milk and the fewer number of cows. Milk never brought so high a price as it did this year. Now the question is, what scheme can we devise to produce more milk at less cost and thus retain our position as the leading producers.

Mr. Derbyshire advocated the erection of modern cheese factories to replace the present structures which are sitting on stilts with the wind blowing under, through and around, and thus altering the temperature of the factory every time the weather changes. Under present conditions the best cheese and the best work cannot be secured.

The next improvement was the condition of the cow. She must be given every consideration so that she can do the best possible work.

INSTRUCTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. Ward, the cheese factory instructor for this district, was called upon to make his report. In opening the emphasis of this fact that it was necessary now for the cheesemen to be wide awake and up-to-date in every respect.

In his report he stated that there was a decided improvement in the cheese factories this year; that the milk is delivered in better shape and that old rusty cans have been discarded and replaced by new ones. Still he visited one farm this summer where the delivery cans were good, but on the farm were several rusty old pails with rags drawn through holes. He hoped this was the exception and that that farmer would soon replace his pails.

Mr. Ward then read the result of a four days' delivery of milk to one factory showing the effect of changeable weather upon milk and the great loss to the farmers from delivery too hot milk to the factories. He pointed out the great necessity of providing now cold storage rooms for cooling the milk next summer.

Some one asked what the loss in milk would be in making a pound of cheese by using the over ripe milk. Mr. Ward stated that every pound of cheese made from over ripe milk meant the loss of at least of one pound of milk.

SECRETARY MURPHY.

Mr. Murphy, secretary of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association was present in place of Mr. Publow, who was unable to be present. He said he had been 40 years on a farm and had once 32 cows to milk which was indeed no small job. Mr. Murphy then took up several little matters which would help to make dairying profitable to the farmer. First was to reduce the cost of production. Be sure to water the cows every night as soon as the weather turns a little cool, so they would be comfortable. Have a well and windmill at the barnyard where the cattle come up at night. He had always salt in front of his cows in the stable. He pointed out that if a farmer got angry at his cow and struck her or twisted her tail she would give a pound less milk.

Mr. Murphy then called for the election of a representative to the Eastern Ontario Dairyman's Association. Mr. Gillespie made a splendid representative and did great work on the board. He was highly respected by all.

Mr. Derbyshire stated that a district was looked upon according to the class of representative sent to the association. Mr. Gillespie was a bright, clear wide awake fellow and he always stood the district well.

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie was elected unanimously upon motion of Messrs. J. J. Hogan and G. Rancier.

Mr. Gillespie thanked his fellow cheesemen for again honoring him with election. He expressed his pleasure at meeting so many cheesemakers present. Speaking of the season's work he stated that the quality of the cheese this year was the best in the history of the Peterborough section. He also hoped that next year would see as great an improvement.

MR. GLENDENNING

In introducing Mr. Glendenning, Senator Derbyshire referred to him as the most successful milk producer in Eastern Ontario. He also

Chapped Hands and Cold Sores

Zam-Buk Gives Speedy Relief

Few women entirely escape the pain and annoyance of rough or chapped hands during the winter season, and most outdoor workers suffer more or less. If your hands are chapped, wash them at night in warm water; cleanse them thoroughly—using Zam-Buk soap if possible—and then anoint them well with Zam-Buk balm. By next morning you will be pleased with the result. Zam-Buk gives almost instant ease, and speedily closes the cracks.

Mrs. Walker, of 14 Manufacturer Street, Montreal, says: "My son Henry works with his sleeves rolled up above his elbow, and passing from a warm room to the biting cold, as he was obliged to do, he got the worst case of chapped hands and arms I have ever seen. From his fingers to his elbows was one mass of raw flesh, with bad cracks here and there. Whenever he washed, it brought tears to his eyes, the pain was so acute.

"He tried several kinds of salve, but nothing relieved him really until he tried Zam-Buk. This took away the burning and smarting almost at once. The cracks began to heal, and a few applications of the balm cured him. His hands and arms are now smooth and soft.

"We have also used Zam-Buk for other emergencies. I sustained a burn on one of my fingers. Zam-Buk took the fire out, and healed up the sore. It really is a wonderful household preparation."

Everybody says so who has tried Zam-Buk. Purely herbal. It is nature's own remedy. Eczema, ulcers, and chronic sores it heals and closes. Same with cuts, burns, and lacerated wounds. For children's injuries it is without equal. Rubbed on the chest it ends the aching and tightness due to cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

For Hours the Flames Swept Through Important Lumbering Town, Destroying Several Hotels and Many Business Places

SUMMARY OF FIRE

ITS ORIGIN—In the National Mfg. Co.'s foundry, Pembroke.

TIME—Started at 4.30, still burning at last report.

PLACES DESTROYED—40 residences, and many hotels, and business places, including apparently the following; National Mfg. Co's plant, Leland Hotel, Manitoba Hotel, Copland House, big grist mill, Munro Block.

(Special to The Times.)

Renfrew, Ont., Nov. 4.—The following report of the Pembroke fire is told by a traveler, who left Pembroke about eight o'clock this morning. The fire originated at 4.30 a.m., in the foundry of the National Manufacturing Company's plant, spread to the Leland Hotel, and toward the street leaning go to dock. Crossing the street it burned the buildings down towards the C.P.R. railway track, and spread up Main street as far as the Manitoba Hotel, in the vicinity of the Leland Hotel the fire was checked.

THE FLAMES RAN WILD.

Around the old Manitoba Hotel the fire was apparently under control at six o'clock, but at that time it was caught in the wooden buildings and boat houses along the river front up near the bridge and opposite the post office.

The fire again broke out in a frame butcher's shop between two large brick stores, and then swept around and caught in the wood work of the bridge, and swept back towards the Copeland House, both the wood blocks of brick stores was on fire.

BRIDGE IMPASSABLE.

Passing across the bridge was stopped by the flames. Then it leapt the river and took up in the trees on the west side of the river. Then as it swept back towards the business part it became evident that the Copeland House would go, and presently a large part of the business section would be destroyed.

COPELAND HOTEL GONE.

Later reports say the Copeland House is burned, also the Munro Block. At the bridge the sound of the roaring of the flames, the cracking of the metallic roofs, the jingling of glass, the explosion of plate glass windows like the report of a cannon, added to the general excitement.

The Pembroke fire brigade did heroic service, and all that was possible for human strength, they worked, could do to stop the progress of the fire was done, but the strong wind blowing from the river towards the town made it impossible for them to overcome the flames. Early in the morning Pembroke despatched a train over the C.P.R. line to get fire-fighting equipment from outside. The train arrived back about 9.30 with the Renfrew brigade, and those fresh and quite a number of Renfrew citizens.

Later reports say about forty residences have been burned, but as telephone and telegraph wires are down it is hard to get full particulars.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Pembroke asked assistance of Ottawa's Fire Department at five o'clock this morning, and again later, but the city was indisposed to risk sending any apparatus out.

IS STILL BURNING.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—A report received from Renfrew, at 12 o'clock, noon, states that the fire at Pembroke is still burning, and that forty residence s have been destroyed.

UNDER CONTROL AT 1 P.M.

At 1 p.m. the fire, although still burning, was said to be under control.

The central part of the town was burned out, including the National Mfg. Co.'s plant, the Dickson Block, the Munro Block, the Pembroke Milling Co., the National Woolen Mills, the Quebec Bank, and one other bank. A heavy wind rendered the firemen's efforts almost useless and this wind is still blowing.

Apparently the fire traveled east two blocks from the point where it started, and then south, two blocks more to the bridge, but the Muskrat river saved the flames from spreading further to the east.

FIRE BURNS ITSELF OUT.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—The latest news from Pembroke this afternoon is to the effect that the fire has locally burned itself out at the bank of the Muskrat River, which runs through the town, and that the residential as well as most of the business section was saved.

LOST HALF A MILLION.

No accurate estimate is yet made of the loss, but it will amount to close on to half a million.

The loss to the National Manufacturing Company's plant alone is estimated at $100,000.

In addition to other property destroyed the local branch of the Royal Bank, Wallace and Co.'s drug store, David Clifford's butcher shop, Bristow's confectionery store, the Pembroke clothing Co.'s store, the Pembroke Standard office, Alex. Miller's drygoods store, J. T. Miller's provision store, W. M. Bridge's clothing store, Taylor's paint and paperhanging shop, Fraser's boot and shoe store.

The residences of Thomas Delahey and Henry Irwin, as well as two tenement houses adjoining, were swept by the flames.

Startling Developments of Inquiry in Quebec Dept. of Marine and Fisheries

(Times Special)

Quebec, Nov. 4.—Justice Cassels' enquiry into the administration of the Quebec agency of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, has elicited startling evidence at the very opening.

The enquiry opened at 11.20 o'clock. J. W. Gregory, superintendent of the local agency of Marine and Fisheries Department, was represented by Senator Choquette.

Mr. Geo. Watson, K.C., on the commission, gave first a list of the members of the staff of the agency and the salaries received, also a statement of the expenditures of the agency since 1904.

According to the public accounts the expenditure of the agency has been nearly a million dollars in 1904 and 1905; in 1906 and 1906 it was $382,577; in 1906 and 1907 it was $274,540, some of the contractors of the agency, viz.; Joe Acoin, of Acoin & Co., coal and lumber merchants; Dickinson, mill maker; F. X. Brolet, merchant; and Gagnon, pork and butter merchant, were put in the witness box and promised to produce their books in the afternoon.

The contracts to Acoin & Co., issued in 1904, amounted to $151,937.

J. J. Murphy was the first witness examined and he testified that during the last four years he had paid Fireproof $6,500.95. Murphy was a supplier of sash, doors, brick, etc. His books showed that from 1904 to 1908 he supplied at this wharf of the department goods to the value of $40,000. The orders for the goods came from Gregory and sometimes over the phone. There was no commission arrangement as to price although sometimes Gregory asked what they would be. At Gregory's suggestion, witness drew on him for payment, and he accepted the draft. This was only done during the last four or five years. Gregory stated that by this means he could get the money at once.

To Mr. Watson the witness admitted that it was not necessary in the business to have been paid at all, but that the government business was so great that he would be glad to have it.

PAID THE DRAFT.

On every cheque issued by Gregory the business price was five per cent. the yearly price it by the two cheques was deducted as he was personal account. The products and cheques book of corporations of the settlement. In some Gregory in 1905, there is one in four goes, as there are paid notes in 1907 as paid goods, and in 1906 the pass book, and there was a sum as good, which Gregory claimed was still due him.

Mr. Watson remarked:—"You seem to be an easy mark.

Witness—I won't do that with every body as I can help it.

Mr. Watson—I've received the orders from Gregory, and thought the commission would help you.

Witness—Yes.

The witness charged the government the regular local rate and in some instances he got 25 per cent. more, but he was never paid for what the old hat delivered. Taking the months of the account he probably got 10 per cent. over the ordinary rates. He added the five per cent. on Gregory to the cost of the articles.

Gregory never told him of having divided the commission with any other members of the staff. Witness also paid some $600 by way of gratuities to Gauge, the foreman of the wharf.

Natural Gas Explosion, Chatham House Damaged

(Special to The Times.)

Chatham, Nov. 4.—While workmen were working at a natural gas pipe in a cellar occupied by Mike Eagon of Raleigh street, one of the men lit a match and an explosion followed which lifted the whole of the first floor of the house, and broke all the doors and windows as well as many windows in neighboring houses. The workmen escaped without injury. The explosion went up and as a result the building caught fire, but it was soon extinguished. It is thought the gas leaked and partly filled the cellar. None of the family were home at the time and no one was hurt.

Cotton Employees Did Not Agree

(Times Special).

London, Eng., Nov. 4.—The conferences of cotton workers of Manchester, ended without a settlement being reached. It was latter decided, however, by the spinning carders and weavers that they would take a second ballot upon the terms submitted by the employers. The decision is expected on Nov. 17.

Unknown Man Tried Suicide

(Times Special).

Windsor, Nov. 4.—An unknown man plunged into the Detroit River this afternoon and was drowned. A deck hand on one of the ferry steamers saw the man make the plunge, and he jumped into a boat and succeeded in rescuing him. His heroic deed however, was futile, as the suicide died on the way to the hospital.

Premier Bond was Defeated

(Special to The Times.)

St. John's, Newfoundland, Nov. 4.—A bulletin received on the result of the Newfoundland elections is to the effect that Premier Bond has been defeated. The bulletin gives 19 government supporters elected, and 12 of the opposition.

All Europe Pleased with Taft's Election

That the election of Judge William H Taft as the next president of the United States, meets with favor in European countries, is verified by despatches received from the capitals of the various powers. Some of the despatches are as follows;

(Special to The Times.)

Rome, Italy, Nov. 4.—The election of Wm. H. Taft to the presidency of the United States has given general satisfaction here. The despatches confirming his success have been communicated to King Victor Emanuel, the Pope and Duke of Abruzzi. The general opinion is that Taft's election means a continuance of the stability and a survival of business in America.

In view of this fact many thousands of Italian laborers intend emigrating to the United States next spring. The Pope cabled his congratulations to Mr. Taft.

(Special to The Times.)

Paris, Nov. 4.—The news of Mr. Taft's election, in spite of the fact that it was conceded a foregone conclusion several weeks ago, was received here with great satisfaction in the business circles, where it is considered an assurance of continued prosperity in America. Already French financiers are showing a greater interest in American investments.

(Special to The Times.)

St. Petersburg, Russia, Nov. 4.—The election of Judge Taft is very popular here.

Halibut Suffer from American Poachers

(Special to The Times.)

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 4.—The Board of Trade has sent a very strong resolution to Ottawa regarding the importance of protecting and conserving the halibut fishing of the Pacific Coast. Mr. H. H. Watson declared that halibut had been absolutely depleted. Single fish are caught which weigh only ten or twelve pounds, while a few years ago they weighed from 50 to 60 pounds. This is due entirely to the invasion of American poachers. It is declared that at the present time 120 American poachers were engaged in fishing in Canadian waters. Last year 30000 tons of halibut had been caught in Canadian waters by American poachers and shipped east from Seattle while only 13000 tons had gone east by way of Vancouver.

Amalgamation of Engine Concerns

(Times Special).

London, Eng., Nov. 4.—The Liverpool Journal of Commerce will today contain the following;—We are in a position to state authoritatively that the whole of the marine engine works on the north-east coast, are on the eve of signing a working agreement which is virtually in the form of an amalgamation of firms with a capital totalling $25,000,000. The scheme includes practically all the engine works doing business on the Tyne, Wearside, Leeds and Hartlepool.

LOSS OF APPETITE

NO AMBITION, LACK OF ENERGY, DYSPEPTIC, LANGUID

Under the Beneficent Action of Ferrozone Soon is Quick and Certain.

How common these conditions are. They are the outcome of the hurry of our day, proving that wear is immensely greater than the power of our body to rebuild.

In order to cure, first construct the blood—blame, which feeds to the cells, fill the blood with nourishment—do this, and the result will be in your case just as it was with J. E. Vanhorne, a prominent citizen of south Bermudiana.

"Four years ago my health became very poor. I grew thin and yellow. I wasn't strong, lacked energy, and slept poorly. At breakfast I ate very little. My physician said it was a bad case of indigestion. I grew worse and many said I would die. I tried everything and almost lost faith in medicine. My mother had been reading about Ferrozone and advised me to try it.

IMPROVED IN FOUR DAYS.

"The change brought about by Ferrozone was marvellous. In four days I felt stronger and had better appetite. I enjoyed my meals and felt no more nausea. My digestion improved steadily and my general health continued better than ever. Ferrozone made a new man of me and I know of no tonic half so good."

FERROZONE CURES INDIGESTION.

When you take Ferrozone everything you eat tastes good—all your food is converted into nourishment that supplies vigor and strength to blood, nerves, muscles and heart. Can't you see just why Ferrozone cured you?

Not a case of weak stomach, heart palpitation, indigestion, gas belching, headache or languor that Ferrozone won't cure. It agrees with men, women, children—old and young, harmless and pleasant. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Try Ferrozone—do so today.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

"All the Comforts of Home"

Even better than the presentation of the first night was the second presentation of "All the Comforts of Home," at the Grand Opera House last. The audience was again thoroughly appreciative.

Mr. Irving Beers in putting on "All the Comforts of Home," under auspices of the Peterborough Hockey Club succeeded in demonstrating that the amateur talent in Peterborough, is usually equal to that of any place its size in the Dominion. It was indeed a pleasant surprise for the citizens to realize that a cast so unfamiliar as that which presented "All the Comforts of Home," could be chosen from purely local talent.

On both nights the work of the entire company was a big surprise to local theater goers and would have done credit to professionals. The whole performance went without a hitch. There was no signs of stage fright or of that gaucherie which so often marks the stage work of amateurs. The parts were played with a spirit that showed proper appreciation of the lines, and the humor of the many funny situations was taken full advantage of. No better amateur production has been seen in Peterborough, and Mr. Irving Beers, as director, and the local amateurs who took part are to be congratulated upon the great success which attended their efforts and upon the magnificent dress which they provided for the people of Peterborough. Mr. Beers, who has staged "All the Comforts of Home," in many Pacific Coast cities, has worked energetically in producing it here, and the performers responded nobly with the result that it was in every way a grand success.

THE PLAYERS.

Mr. Chas. Barber, as Dr. Hastings, had the long star role in the production, and his work in the part could not have been improved upon. His interpretation of the part of the penniless but resourceful young doctor, was natural and unaffected, and he threw life and vigor into the parts his work being much appreciated. Mr. Geo. Lynch, always a favorite, was cast as Tom McDow, the Irish servant, who shares with Dr. Hastings the discomforts of the lodging house, and who took hold with a glove. His lines are among the funniest in the play, and needless to say he gets the most out of them. He is funny all the way and kept the audience in fits of laughter whenever he was on the stage.

Mr. Beers takes the part of Bender, the wizened business man, with a tendency towards dissipation, which possible, gave a capital interpretation of the role, making the character of the hen-pecked husband stand out prominently.

Mr. Mortimer Johnston makes a very amiable and jealous Pettibone playing the part with a spirit and vim that is refreshing and adding a splendid touch to a good stage picture.

Miss J. N. Barber plays the part of Mrs. Bender to perfection, throwing life into the part and giving her lines with a zest that makes her work most enjoyable. Miss Lavina Hallihan makes a very natural and charming Evangeline, her work leaving nothing to be desired, while her attractive stage presence adds to the effect. Miss Pearl Morgan has a difficult role, that of the opera singer, and she succeeds in making it highly successful, her work being most creditable throughout.

Mr. C. G. Graham is decidedly funny as Dooley, the mad musician. The part is laughable in its if, and Mr. Graham makes the most of it, his work bringing down the house.

The other parts were in good hands and were well looked after. Mr. Graham Ferguson as Victor Smyth, Miss Agnes Portland as Mrs. Pettibone, Miss Nellie Graham as Emily Pettibone, Mr. O. B. McRae as Mr. Smith, Mr. Claude Brady as the policeman, Miss Nellie Hilliban as a maid, and Mr. F. D. Craig as Langborne, all gave capital interpretation of their parts, and gave the principals excellent support, with the result that the whole production went harmoniously and without the slightest mishap.

At the conclusion of the play, a one act playlet, "The Littlest Girl," was presented. It was very cleverly and sympathetically interpreted, and is an touching a sketch as has been seen here.

Attempted Murder in Owen Sound--Mulatto in Custody

(Special to The Times.)

Owen Sound, Nov. 4.—Albert Porter, a mulatto, is in custody here for trying to murder Andrew Peterson. Last night about 11 o'clock some persons passing Checkley's quarry in the north-east section of the town heard cries for help coming from the quarry and upon investigation found Peterson at the bottom of the pit. He suffered a compound fracture of the hip, and was cut and bruised from head to foot. He was able to say, however, that Porter threw him there. The two men had been drinking during the afternoon.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner indepeandent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE TRADE COMBINES

There is on the official records enough evidence to convince most people that the law against trade combines needs stiffening up. That the law is not obeyed either in spirit or in letter we know upon the showing in the several enquiries conducted in Toronto during the last few years, says the Ottawa Journal. The story of the old groceryman who broke down and wept in the witness box as he recited the sorry detail of a 35 years' vain struggle to emerge from the status of shopkeeper to that of wholesale dealer, traveled far enough and bit deep enough in Canada to shake the common faith in the honor and honesty of certain branches of Canadian energy. The evidence in that enquiry shows at large that even if there be no conspiracy punishable under the law, the Grocers' Guild so called, has operated to stifle competition and even to increase the price of goods to the consumer. That these things are done in the holy name of business and defended on the plain ground, bluntly stated by the counsel of the guild, that the wholesaler can't make money by any other means are authenticated facts. The knowledge comes to us in the form of a rude disillusionment and impels us to view with less respect accretions of wealth which we had been taught to believe had had their beginning and their growth in industry, thrift and honest foresight alone.

The law provides that the Government may commission a judge to enquire into any conspiracy, combination, agreement or arrangement alleged to exist among manufacturers or dealers in any article of commerce to unduly promote the advantage of the manufacturers or dealers in such article at the expense of the consumers. If the judge reports that such conspiracy, combination, agreement, or arrangement exists, the Governor-in-Council may admit the article free of duty, or so reduce the duty as to give to the public the benefit of reasonable competition.

Members of the Grocers' Guild, as "dealers", seem to be under law. The remedy in the case of sugar, for instance, the prices upon which the guild raises arbitrarily, would be that the Government would remove the duty on sugar and let the foreign product into competition in the Canadian market. If the Canadian sugar refiners didn't like that they could pull out of the agreements under which they work with the wholesalers for the control of prices.

But as is sensibly remarked by the Toronto Star, the law is not enforced with sufficient strictness and energy. The Dominion Government itself, it says, should "take the initiative, appointing its own officers to see that the law is enforced, and its own prosecuting counsel to carry on the enquiry. The law against combines is part of the customs law, and ought to be enforced as the rest of that law is enforced." For the enforcement of the rest of the law, of course, the Dominion Government has an army of customs officers. And the suggestion that the Dominion Government should prosecute offences under the anti-combine clauses is a reasonable proposition.

Meantime the trade combine is a naked outrage upon the people's simplest rights. The law against it should be strengthened if it is weak and inexorable enforcement should follow the law.

THE INTERNATIONAL MEDICAL CONGRESS

The Sixteenth International Medical Congress will be held at Budapest, Hungary, under the distinguished patronage of the Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, from the 19th of August to the 4th of September, inclusive.

A Canadian committee to represent the medical profession of Canada at this Congress has been formed composed as follows:—Doctors W. H. B. Aikins, A. H. Garratt, Edmund E. King Jas. M. MacCallum, Geo. H. McDonagh A. McPhedran, H. J. Hamilton, G. Sterling Ryerson and Adam H. Wright of Toronto. Doctors H. S. Birkett and F. Shepherd of Montreal, Que.; Dr. J. J. D. Courtenay, Ottawa; Dr. James Third, Kingston; Dr. Ingersoll Olmsted, Hamilton; Dr. J. D. Wilson, London; Dr. Jas. H. Duncan, Chatham; Dr. S. T. uTnstall, Vancouver, B. C.; Dr. O. M. Jones, Victoria, B. C. and Dr. H. Halpenny, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Secretary of the Committee is Dr. W. H. B. Aikins, 50 College street, Toronto.

This is likely to be the most important medical congress held for many years, and any member of the profession of Medicine in Canada who wishes to attend would do well to communicate with a member of the above Committee in order to secure fuller information.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR VETERAN

During the past week two enthusiastic and largely attended meetings have been held of men who took part in the South African War, and who are not entitled to participate in the land grant under the Volunteer Bounty Act of 1908. An Association has been formed to be called the "Imperial South African Veterans' Association." The object of the Association is to seek to have the above Act extended so that all men of the Anglo-Saxon race who took part in the South African war, and who are not already entitled to participate in the land grant, and who were residing in Canada at the time the said Act came into force, shall be included in its provisions. Lord Milner and Lord Northcliffe, who have been staying here, and the newly elected members of the Dominion Government for this city, have expressed their sympathy with the proposed amendment. Mr. Shelford Grimwood, 3 Metcalfe street, Toronto, has been appointed President of the above Association, and is also acting as Organizing Secretary for the Dominion, and as soon as all the names of the men living in Canada are to hand, a deputation will wait on the Government at Ottawa.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

King Edward's Communication to India

London, November 3.—On the occasion of the jubilee of Great Britain in the direct government of India, Queen Victoria having been proclaimed Empress throughout India, November 1, 1858, King Edward issued a long message to the prince and people of India, which the Viceroy, the Earl of Minto, will read at the Durbar at Jodgpur to-day. The message dwells upon the peaceful progress of the Empire under a beneficent administration, pays a warm tribute to the loyalty of the Indian subjects and troops, announces amnesty for prisoners and a further gradual extension of the principle of representative institutions in the direction of equality and citizenship, and a greater share by the Indians in legislation and the Government.

The Dowry May be Over $1,000,000

Elkins, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Anticipating that the objections of Queen Marguerite will eventually be overcome, preparations for the wedding of Miss Katherine Elkins to the Duke of the Abruzzi are now being made. Unless there is an unlooked for change in present plans, the wedding will take place in Washington before Jan. 1.

The winter home of Senator Elkins has been decided upon in preference to the country estate because of the limited facilities to be found at the latter place. Hotel accommodations would prove inadequate to take care of the numerous guests, and the railroad service is so poor that it would be necessary to run special trains. The two homes owned by the Davis and Elkins families could accommodate about 100 guests, but even then there would not be room enough for those who will receive wedding invitations.

CIPHER CABLEGRAMS DAILY.

Miss Elkins drove to the village and received two cablegrams from the Duke to-day. Both of them were in cipher. The daily receipt of these cablegrams indicates that the royal suitor is keeping Miss Elkins in close touch with his movements and of his efforts to obtain consent for the nuptials. None of Miss Elkins friends has any doubt that this consent will be already given. The prospective bride is now happier than she has been since the Duke's departure for Italy. This is believed to be due to the encouraging tenor of the daily cablegrams. Visitors to the Elkins home say that Miss Elkins is studying the Italian language and sings Italian melodies.

DOWRY TO BE $1,000,000.

As in the case of all marriages between noblemen and American heiresses there will be a dowry for the duke. In this instance it will be a substantial one. It being stated by the senator's intimate friends that $1,000,000 in cash will be placed to the credit of the royal explorer in some Italian banking house on the day the marriage takes place. The Duke is cognizant of the generous intention of his father-in-law-to-be, and it is believed that this will prove to be his most effective argument in eventually winning the consent of the queen mother.

A settlement of some kind would be necessary in order that the couple might live up to their position. The duke's income is only $30,000 a year. Some of his exploring and scientific expeditions were costly affairs, and they made serious inroads on his financial resources.

A significant remark made recently by Senator Henry Gassaway Davis is causing considerable comment. The old senator is known to be heartily in favor of the marriage. In discussing it with a prominent politician he said: "If Steve can't put up the money I will."

SENATOR CAN RAISE CASH

The suggested inability of the Senator to get a sufficient amount of ready money is interesting in view of some of the negotiations he is known to have on hand looking to the sale of some of his most valuable properties. The Baltimore and Ohio has been anxious to purchase the Morgantown and Kingswood Railroad. This railroad is the personal property of Senator Elkins and it is perhaps the most valuable in his possession. Although the road only covers a stretch of forty-nine miles, it owns 30,000 acres of rich coal lands and 1,500 coke ovens. The property is worth about $5,000,000 and the Baltimore and Ohio is willing to pay the figure. The senator, however, is holding out for a bigger price.

His recent visit to New York, it was learned to-day, was for the purpose of talking the matter over with the president of the Baltimore and Ohio. No definite decision has been reached. The Baltimore and Ohio officers having taken the senator's proposition under advisement.

Tickling, tight coughs, can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription. Druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Astor, the American Queen

To-day the people of the United States choose a phantom king; but their real rulers do not risk their empire every four years. They are born to their thrones as are the royal sons of Europe, the sons of the Morgans, of the Rockefellers, the Goulds, the Harrimans, et al. Their queen died at her home on Friday night; but in the case of Mrs. Astor there promises to be an inter-regnum. No princess of the blood is ready to seize the sceptre that falls from the dead hand. There is more apt to be a fierce, though smiling struggle for the vacant crown. For many years past nobody questioned Mrs. Astor's premier position in American society, but the evolution of an aristocracy in the United States has not reached that point where precedence is a matter of course. In another generation or so that may come.

THE ASTOR MONEY.

One fine thing about the Astor regime was that no one ever asked how rich she was. No one now demands to know how many millions she has left behind. That part is as much out of place as speculations on the personal estate of the late Queen Victoria. Mrs. Astor was a rich woman, of course, but there was more "rich" her than her money, scores, perhaps hundreds, of American women could have bought and sold her. Compared with Mrs. Hetty Green or Mrs. Russell Sage she was poor. But she was great, for although the struggle for social preeminence may be a contemptible one in many of its phases and in its grand aim, the competition is more ruthless than in more hoodlum species of emulation. No woman with a small bank and a little heart could do what Mrs. Astor did. For thirty years she reigned as the Queen of American society, and her death leaves as great a gap as could the death of any other man or woman on this continent.

OF KNICKERBOCKER STOCK

Mrs. Astor came of old Knickerbocker stock. Unless she had had Indian blood in her veins her family connections on this continent could not have claimed a more respectable ancestry. She traces back to Jacob Janse Schermerhorn, who settled on Manhattan Island in 1646. Her father was named Abraham, and one of her grandfathers was Henry White. Born in Brooklyn, she made her debut in New York society nearly sixty years ago. Shortly afterward she was married to William Astor, great-grandson of John Jacob, of that ilk, and at once became a social factor. There can be no question that without her husband's wealth she could not have reached the front rank so soon; but his little $60,000,000 in the days when he inherited it was as good as almost any number of millions you care to name to-day.

THE RIVAL QUEENS.

But there were other Astors with just as much money and with equal social aspirations. There was Mrs. John Jacob Astor, her sister-in-law, for example. There were also the Vanderbilt dames, and at one time and another Mrs. Astor had to struggle for mastery with Mrs. Maurin Livingstone, Mrs. Hamilton Fish, mother of Stuyvesant and Hamilton Fish, the venerable Mrs. John Jay, and Mrs. August Belmont, mother of August, Perry and the late O. H. P. Belmont. Of the family quarrels that sprang from the successful struggles of Mrs. Astor much might be said in such a paper as Town Topics. Of late, however, these rumors have died down, and Mrs. Astor's home was really half of a magnificent double establishment, which was also occupied by her son, Col. John Jacob Astor, and his wife and children.

THE REAL SPOILS.

The tangible spoils of social leadership in the United States are the foreign lions; and no one ever caged so many as Mrs. Astor. It is boasted on her behalf that no stranger of mark has visited New York in the past thirty years without being entertained by Mrs. Astor. The late Emperor and Empress of Brazil were once her guests, and scions of nearly every Royal and Imperial house in Europe. Miss Seabury-Hamilton. Fashion falls have visited her. The number of dinners, dances and other functions that she gave every year was prodigious, and annually she gave the great and only "Mrs. Astor's ball", at which generations of well known society women have made their debut. To get a pass for this event was to have social credentials of the highest order. It is said and believed that women of great wealth and ambition have plotted for years in a vain attempt to secure admission to one of these balls.

LIKE ROYALTY.

In an interview published a few days ago Mrs. Astor remarked, "I am not so vain as to think New York society cannot get along without me." No one, however, knew better than herself that there was only one Mrs. Astor. It is said that she even had her calling card—"Mrs. Astor"—copyrighted. When she drove along Fifth Avenue she bowed to everyone on the street, after the fashion of royalty. It made no difference whether she knew those she passed. They all knew her.

passing glimpse from the store, has shown him a venerable man whose piercing eyes held a pious light. He was no scoundrel confederate. He was plainly but a brave, perhaps a fanatic and foolhardy, apostle in the wilderness, and his calling had kept Matthews from confiding in him.

While Lounsbury thus alternately tortured and eased his mind he had passed the somber clump of cottonwoods where the Indian dead were lashed and was fast covering the miles that lay between the burial boughs and Fort Brannon.

* * * * * * *

When the ten minutes he had allotted were past Matthews made a great show of putting away his watch and took a last pull at the whisky flask. The bottle disposed of, he walked down the drift to the warped door and rapped a staccato. No answer was returned. Again he rapped and more imperatively than before. Again no answer. He pushed back his hat and applied an ear to the hole through which had hung the lifting string of the latch. Then he heard long, infrequent sobs, like those of a child who, though almost asleep, is yet sorrowing. Between the sobs, punctuating them fiercely, sounded the prolonged sucking in of breath.

"Might as well stop y' bawlin' an' squallin'," he called through the latch-hole. "Time's up!"

Getting no reply, as before, he altered his tactics. First, shading his face with his slim fingers, he looked in. He could not see the girls. Dallas was close to the door and beyond the limit of his vision. So was Maryiya, who, helpless with fright, half knelt, half lay, against her sister. What he could see was, from the south window, the gaudy Navajo blankets forming two partitions of Lancaster's bedroom and nearer two partly filled sacks, some harnesses and the seat of a wagon. The other window afforded a better view. "Looks mighty comfortable," he said as he contemplated it. There was a hearth with its dying fire. In front of it were circling benches and a thick buffalo skin rug. Above was a mantel, piled with calico covered books. A freshly scrubbed table stood in the farther corner beneath a dish cupboard, which was made of a dry-goods box. To the left of this, high up on the log wall, were a couple of pans.

It was these that finally riveted Matthews' attention and brought him to a temporary halt. "Got th' gun down!" he exclaimed. On finding that Lancaster was gone he had decided not to produce a weapon. Now, however, he quickly felt for one and dropped on all fours. "That biggest gal 'd no more mind pumpin' lead into me than nothin'," he declared, wagging his head wisely. "I could tell that by the shine in her eyes." He crawled around the corner.

Behind the lean-to, he came to several conclusions. It would be useless to try to get in by either window. Both were high and small. The best spot for an attack was the door. Unless he was hard pressed he must not shoot. Women were concerned, and the fort or Clark's might be stirred to unreasonable retaliation in their name. For example, there was that poor devil of a cow puncher at Dodge who had been riddled simply for slapping his wife. Obviously the shack must be occupied without the shedding of blood. But what of his safety? "I'll jus' have t' chance it," he said, and hunted for something to use as a battering ram.

Not a pole, not even a piece of board, could he find. A scarcity of fuel before Squaw Charley began furnishing it had led to the burning of every odd bit of timber. Disgruntled, but not discouraged, Matthews crawled back to the front of the cabin and closely examined the door. "I thought so!" he declared joyfully when he was done. Rain and snow had swelled the thick boards of which it was built. But through the narrow cracks between these he saw that the transverse pieces on the inside, like the four without, were only slender battens. "If I can git some of them cleats off," he said, "I can bust in."

With a horn handle knife he pried up the end of a batten until he could get his fingers beneath it. Then he pulled, and it came away. A light strip from side to side marked where it had been. Three times more he pried and pulled, and the outer transverse pieces lay on the snow. For the rest of his job Matthews had to depend on his shoulders.

Putting his knife in his pocket, he backed to the top of the nearest drift. There he gathered himself together and, with a defiant grunt, hurled himself headlong at the door. As it burst with the force of the impact a shriek rang out. Well satisfied, Matthews retreated and flung himself forward a second time. The door cracked ominously. The inside bolt rattled in its sockets. Anticipating a speedy entrance, Matthews warmed to his task. And each time he fell upon the barrier a weak moan from within swelled to a cry of mortal terror.

And then—a few feet behind him a voice interrupted—a well modulated voice in an amused, ironical tone. "Well," it said slowly, "I hope you're enjoying yourself."

Matthews whirled and reached for a weapon. He was too late. As he swung it forward the single eye of a revolver held him. Beyond was Lounsbury.

A queer tremor ran around the storekeeper's mouth. His nostrils swelled, and he wrinkled his forehead. "Sorry," he said dryly, "but it's my hand."

Sheer surprise, together with a lack of breath, made the other dumb.

"Drop your gun," bade Lounsbury.

Matthews' right hand loosed its hold. His revolver fell and slid, spinning, to the bottom of the drift.

"Now, I know all you want to say," said Lounsbury; "that this claim is yours, that your six months ain't up, that Lancaster's jumped it, and so on. But that won't excuse what you've tried to do—break into this house while these young women are alone. Besides, you haven't the ghost of a right

"Sorry," he said dryly, "but it's my hand."

BUILDING PICKS UP.

Reports From Trade In Canadian Cities Show Prosperity.

To determine with a fair accuracy the exact building conditions that exist throughout the country generally, "Construction" has secured statistics from eleven representative cities of the Dominion, showing the aggregate cost of buildings for which permits were issued for the first eight months of 1908, as compared with 1907.

In eleven cities reported, the cost of buildings for the first eight months of 1908 was $24,134,915, as compared with $32,950,599 for the same period of 1907, thus showing a decrease of 26.84 per cent.

In nine cities for which figures were secured for the month of August, the aggregate cost of buildings for August, 1908, was $3,854,984, as compared with $3,194,535 for the corresponding month of 1907, thus showing an increase of 20.67 per cent.

From this it can be seen that Canada's principal centres have turned a decrease of 26.84 per cent. for the eight months of 1908 into an increase of 20.67 per cent. for the month of August, 1908, as compared with the same periods of 1907.

It will be noted that Regina shows the largest increase (339.13) per cent.), Toronto the smallest increase (6.05 per cent.), Vancouver the largest decrease (23.96 per cent.), and St. John, N.B., the smallest decrease (19.96 per cent.) for the month of August.

Fort William has the largest increase (90.15 per cent.), Edmonton the smallest increase (8.5 per cent.), Montreal the largest decrease (50.32 per cent.), and Winnipeg the smallest decrease (27.3 per cent.), for the first eight months of the year.

In view of the general opinion that Winnipeg suffered most from the money stringency, it is worthy of note that the decrease in her building was much lower than that of any of our larger eastern cities.

Only three of the cities reported, show a decrease for August, viz.: Vancouver, Calgary and St. John, N.B., while only three show an increase for the eight months of the year, viz.: Vancouver, Edmonton and Fort William.

Reports as to prospects for the remainder of the year were generally bright and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the year will finish well. There seems to be a large amount of building, that was contemplated early in the year, and for financial reasons had to be postponed, that is being proceeded with this fall.

Sir John's Battle Cry.

It was in his address to the electors issued at the opening of the campaign of 1878 that Sir John A. Macdonald used that oft-quoted and stirring sentence—"A British subject I was born—a British subject I will die."

The wish therein expressed was realized shortly afterwards, when Sir John passed away at Ottawa. Mourned by the entire Canadian people his remains were borne back to Kingston, to which, seventy-one years before, he had come from Scotland, a poor lad, to make his way in a new land.

Sir John's expression of determination to remain a Briton, and which struck a responsive chord in the heart of the Canadian electorate, was used almost word for word some years earlier by that great Nova Scotian, Joseph Howe. When addressing a gathering of electors during a time of considerable unrest, and when mutterings of disloyalty were heard in certain parts of the province, Howe, in the course of his speech, said: "I will live and die a British subject." He died not only a British subject and a citizen of Nova Scotia, but an officer of the Government of the Dominion of Canada, whose creation in the form it took in 1867 he strenuously opposed.

The Siffleur.

The following note by Dr. Hector, the geologist who accompanied one of the early explorations of British Columbia under Captain Palliser, refers to the mountain woodchuck, which the French trappers called siffleur, or "whistler," on account of its cry. The animal is common near the timber-line throughout the northern Rockies.

"We saw (on Castle mountain) several bands of sheep, but did not get a shot; however, we killed two of the marmots or siffleurs. This animal is the size of a badger, with coarse hair, and no proper fur. It has large incisor teeth like those of the beaver; it lives among the rocks, and has a large nest, in which it lays up stores of provisions for winter, during which season it never comes abroad, but whether it hibernates or not the Indians do not know. It is turns to its hole late in September, at which time it is very fat, and quite as good eating as the beaver, having the same rat flavor."

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organs itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

Synopsis of Canadian North west HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Disaster Pursued Him.

Charles Dynes, storekeeper of Sapperton, B.C., a suburb of New Westminster, was awakened by fire in the store below his room. He, his wife and five children fled in their night-clothes just in time to save their lives. His wife and her baby of two weeks were both ill. The building and contents burned to the ground.

The same morning representatives of insurance companies decided to immediately pay the damage. Dynes went to New Westminster for his check. He received the money and was riding home on the front end of a street car. At a switch the car lurched and threw him off. He was thrown under the wheels and cut in two.

The Irish of It.

The Minister of Agriculture for the fair province of Alberta is Irish. It is hardly necessary to label him after reading the following:

This son of Erin was down at Magrath, in the southwestern corner of the province, where he was addressing the farmers. In the course of his remarks, he urged upon them the necessity of following a line of "mixed farming," and told them not to try and "carry all their eggs in one basket." Then came a display of the Emerald in these words:

"We must alway look 'forward' for something to fall 'back' on."

Matrimonial Romance.

Particulars have just come to light of a strange romance connected with the will under which an English lady recently left an estate of nearly £300,000 to several charities. The owner of the estate had not finally decided how to leave her money a month before her death. She was then in her seventieth year, and casually remarked to a friend: "I might marry again if a baronet came along." The remark was repeated by a third person to a matrimonial agent, who was in touch with a baronet looking for a rich marriage to replenish his financial resources. The baronet agreed with the agent to marry the lady on the understanding that £25,000 should be settled on him, £5,000 of this amount being due to the agent as commission. In due course the baronet was introduced. He proposed, and was accepted. Twenty-four hours later the owner of the property received an anonymous letter informing her of the whole circumstances. She at once broke off the marriage, sent for her lawyer, and left her whole estate to charity.

Mr. Justice Warrington.

Many good stories are told of the cases tried before Mr. Justice Warrington, who is one of the most genial judges on the English Bench. On one occasion he was listening to a case in which an Irishman was called as witness. His ignorance was painfully evident as soon as he stepped into the box. A young lawyer, in his cross-examination, tried his best to obtain some information from the witness which might prove helpful, but all to no purpose. Then he asked him if he had read anything in is life. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Then, tell the court what you have read." "Well, yer honor," replied Pat, innocently, "I have red hairs on my neck."

CLEAN UP INSIDE

In spite of all your careful bathe safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had sores pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Arrangements for the Y.M.C.A. Conference

Mr. Waite, international secretary of religious work for boys will be present at the Y.M.C.A. conference opening next Saturday. He is an excellent speaker and one well acquainted with every detail of the boys' work.

Communications have been received from Ottawa, Hamilton Central and East End Y.M.C.A.'s, Lindsay, Port Hope and Brantford, and a large number is expected. The local boys are reminded that they must register with Mr. Geo. T. Evans, boys' secretary, before Friday, and they should all wear the Peterborough colors.

As many boys as possible are asked to be present on Saturday morning at the Y.M.C.A. at nine o'clock to assist in arrangements, and to meet the visitors at the trains. Members of all boys' clubs in the city are invited to attend this conference and will be made welcome. This is a rare opportunity for Peterborough boys and one which they should take advantage of.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Peterboro Man Coming to the Front

Peterborough boys are coming to the front in various portions of the United States as well as in Canada. Another evidence of this is given in the Plumbers' Trade Journal for November, published in New York. It refers to the appointment of J. C. Alford as supervising plumbing inspector of Chicago. Mr. Alford is a son of Mrs. Alford, 301 Reid street, and is known to many in Peterborough. The Journal says:

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the seven schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them thought that a practical address from him on a reduction in the cost of production of milk would be valuable.

DAIRYMEN MEET

In opening Mr. Glendenning said he would refer to the practice adopted on his own farm. Times were not so many cows in Eastern Ontario this year on account of the scarcity of fodder. This year, however, things were even worse as hay, straw and roots were scarce, although corn was very good and the farmer who planted corn last spring was indeed lucky.

Mr. Glendenning stated that there was not much winter dairying in Peterborough, and this he considered was a big mistake. The farmers should dairy the year round, especially if they have to hire help. To hire help for a few months cost the farmer nearly as much as it would for the whole year. A yearly engagement would also overcome the labor difficulties. He also advocated feeding cows well all winter and especially before the calves. The making of a cow is before she drops her calf, not after. He also stated that a cow could be fed just as cheaply in the winter as in the summer, if properly looked after.

The chief item of feed for milk production was bulk and he did not know of anything so good as corn silage. Only give an animal that quantity of food which she will eat readily, and the food must be palatable. It takes two-thirds of what a cow consumes, at full ration, to maintain herself, and the farmer gets only profit from one-third. Besides silage for winter food a farmer must provide abundance of good clean water, lots of salt. He also strongly recommended that farmers grow alfalfa hay as that produces a large quantity of protein and no cow will produce a large flow of milk without being fed foods containing a large quantity of protein.

Mr. Glendenning gave an illustration of a test he made in feeding a cow last winter which proved that it cost 66 cents for seven days feeding while she produced butter to the value of nearly $3.75. This was to prove the value of dairying the year round, either of cheese or butter.

SENATOR SPEARS

Senator Derbyshire then addressed the dairymen, very earnestly beseeching them to wake up and adopt all the modern methods of farming, instead of sitting around all winter while their farm and stock were going to waste. They should make money the year round.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Glendenning, Mr. Murphy and Senator Derbyshire, and was unanimously carried.

Peterborough Foot Races are Crooked

The Toronto Star last night makes a significant statement in reference to the conduct of foot races in this city. One might ask to whom or what organization in particular, does the Toronto paper refer. The sporting editor evidently has something in his craw, and in justice to the sporting fraternity here, he should make his charge more specific, as the great majority of those interested in athletics would be glad to clean out the crooked bunch. The Star's reference to Peterborough, is contained in the last paragraph of an article on the recent Quebec Telegraph road race and is as follows;

Those on the inside say the deal was practically framed up on the return voyage of the Olympic team, but the Toronto members of the team are loth to believe that it was Meadows. They would rather believe that it was Art Born of Calgary, who has been mixed up in queer races before. He and Dave Beland both are well known in Peterborough, which for crooked foot racing has Hamilton or Brantford eh and backed to the kindergarten. Beland, Meadows, and Born were cabin mates on the Victorian coming home.

Horticultural Society Will Agitate For a Park Commission

Annual Meeting of the Society Held and New Officers Elected—Work of Improving Victoria Park to be Taken Up This Fall or Early in the Spring

The annual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society was held in the city council chamber last night. The attendance was not as large as it might have been on account of the Retail Merchants' Association banquet at the National Hotel. However there were about a dozen present and the business was gone on with.

The past year was an uneventful one. The weather was very dry and it was most difficult to keep things in shape. At Central Park a great many things interfered with progress, among which was the decision of the water commissioners to cut down the hours for using the water. The building operations were also a serious drawback.

The society also intends to advocate for a parks commission to take over Central Park, the new park in the north end and also the rocky grounds at Victoria Park. The advantages of a commission are very numerous, and will be brought before us from time to time.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report was adopted as read.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

President Col. Rogers stated that the past year has been an uneventful one and owing to the very dry weather the several parks which the society had been interested in, looked very well. A deputation had waited upon the county council twice during the past year and succeeded in getting a grant on the understanding that the upper part of the Victoria Park should be put in the same condition as the lower part. This however is to be done by degrees as the funds warranted.

Mr. Rogers stated that while expressing opinions he certainly thought that as the Central Park had been greatly improved during the past year this society should give it up until such time as the city council either likes to step or make a substantial grant. He thought in fact that the Central park should be placed in the hands of a park commission as it was altogether too big a job to look after with the small assistance from the city. The past year however, was a hard one on the parks although the flowers looked well.

Mr. Rogers added that if the society was to look after Central Park they must have greater control over it and protect the use of it. Wire had been put up but hoodlums have cut the wires and trampled them down destroyed the sod and trampled on the tulip beds. As soon as the park is closed up men and boys break them down. They will not keep out of the park. He hoped the next executive would take some action.

Secretary Beal stated that now that this society had secured a lease from the county, he certainly thought they had a right to place signs on

THE PETERBOROUGH RETAIL MERCHANTS ORGANIZE LAST NIGHT

Banquet Held at Hotel National—Fine Address by Mr. B. Ziemann and E. N. Trowern and Other Local Speakers

Unqualified success marked the banquet of the retail merchants of Peterborough at the Hotel National last night. There were about 125 guests seated at the tables and everyone of them were loud in their praises of the whole affair. From beginning to end everything passed off smoothly and as planned and all, especially those most closely connected with it, are delighted.

Mr. D. D. Dennison, the genial and capable proprietor of the National, proved himself well qualified to cater to and care for a large banquet. The gathering were seated at small tables in the handsome and spacious dining hall, and a perfect service was rendered. The tables were artistically arranged and looked exceedingly well, while the menu was all that could be desired

The speakers of the evening were Mr. B. W. Ziemann, of Preston, president of the Provincial Association, and Mr. E. N. Trowern of Toronto, the general secretary. Mr. Ziemann is probably one of the most active workers connected with the retail merchants and he has taken great interest in the organization of local associations. He is also a good speaker and made a very favorable impression upon his audience. The other speakers were;—His Worship Mayor Rush, Rev. Canon Davidson, Mr. H. F. Matthews, Mr. Robt. Fair, Mr. W. Hartstone and Mr. Robert Kingan, who acted as chairman and who was largely instrumental in bringing the gathering to a successful climax.

ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

As a result of the gathering and the speeches, which were along the lines of how retail merchants can assist each other in business and protect each other from unscrupulous people, it was decided to organize an association here. The matter has been under discussion for some time, and has been met with favor generally and last night's banquet put the finishing touches on. The association has been gotten under way with very bright prospects. Fully seventy merchants attached their names to the membership roll last night and those who have not yet done so are requested to call upon the secretary Mr. W. Hartstone, 387 Water street, at as early a date as possible.

The executive committee was appointed as follows;—Messrs. W. E. Conway, Alex. Gibson, J. H. Connell, A. H. Stratton and R. Kingan.

MR. B. W. ZIEMANN.

Mr. B. W. Ziemann of Preston, president of the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association, was the first speaker introduced. In beginning he expressed his pleasure at being present, meeting as he did, such a representative gathering of merchants. He was sure that they had not come together to hear long speeches but to organize a good live association. He had heard that the local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association in the past had not met with much success. The same had been the experience in many towns. Judging from the material gathered at the dinner last night, the speaker was of the opinion that a very successful organization could be formed in the city.

The benefits to be derived from such were manifold. "We have been negligent in looking after our own interests" he said. Our object should be to bear one another's burdens. We should strive to make it easy to do right and hard to do wrong. In these days when we are up against fake and schemes we have to be on our guard. Business men must discard fake methods.

By means of the association merchants become acquainted with each other. It showed that the competitor was not such a bad fellow after all and that there are a great many things that merchants have in common.

In the opinion of many persons, business men, in their several lines of trade, were one great combine. Their minds must be disabused of this idea.

One thing the association might do here is to get rid of the dust in the streets. (Applause.) Mr. Ziemann remarked that he noticed that it was quite bad yesterday and merchants' goods were covered.

In conclusion, he hoped that when the annual meeting of the Dominion Association was held next year, Peterborough would report a flourishing branch.

Has Rockfeller Got Control of Gas Fields?

(Times Special)

London, Nov. 5.—As a result of rumors that John D. Rockefeller is behind the London and Western Counties Natural Gas Co., which is seeking a franchise to enter London, there is a strong feeling amongst the citizens against having anything to do with that firm's tender. The belief is that as a result of Ida M. Tarbell's famous articles, the Standard Oil Company controls all the oil and gas in the Middle States, and it is believed that he controls the natural gas fields in Tilbury, Ont., also.

Witnesses Tell Judge Cassels of Paying Out Commissions to Officials

(Special to The Times.)

Quebec, Nov. 6.—Senator Choquette at today's sitting of Judge Cassel's enquiry into the conduct of the Quebec agency of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, stated he was prepared to admit that in the case of some dealers with the agency to whom money had been advanced, Mr. Gregory charged five per cent. for the use of the money while they were waiting for their pay from the department. Judge Cassels said; —"Mr. Senator are you prepared to argue before me that it is right for any official connected with the agency of the department to order supplies and charge a commission on the sums paid to firms furnishing such supplies?"

Senator Choquette said he was amply prepared to admit that advances were made to those waiting payment of their accounts from the department and that charges were made for the use of the money.

W. R. Blackstock, soul maker, explained that his dealings with the department amounted to about $3,000 per year. He had no fixed price but always tried to get as much as he could within a degree of fairness. He paid Gregory a commission for cashing drafts, because it suited his purpose when he needed the money. He never got cheques directly from the department in Gregory's time. He did not think the five per cent. was too high when he needed the money. He admitted, however, that 5 per cent. for two months was 30 per cent. a year, and looking at it that way it was pretty high.

J. J. Murphy was cross-examined, and declared that he considered his payment of the 5 per cent. was certainly a commission for favor, past, present and future.

Several other witnesses were also examined, who testified along the same lines.

Rumors of War Between The French and Germans

(Special to The Times.)

Berlin, Germany, Nov. 5.—The relations between France and Germany are once more disturbed through Germany seeking through the French government the release of the German deserters from the foreign legion at Casa Blanca, and for additional satisfaction for an alleged assault made upon a subaltern officer of the German consulate at that place.

The French Foreign Office wish to submit the matter to arbitration, and M. Jusle Cambon, the French Foreign Minister is negotiating in Berlin to that effect, but as yet has met with no success.

Public feeling is appealed to in all the newspapers.

The summoning of the Foreign Affairs sub-district of the Bundesrats, the federal council, which is a rare occurrence is required by constitution.

The government's conservative regard of the state of the negotiations between France and Germany, is considered an indication that the present situation is serious.

Business in Winnipeg is Booming--The West is Developing

Great Rush of Wheat

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 6, 1908.—With a ring and tumult of the election campaign over, business has again resumed activity. The campaign in its latter stages was one that was most highly fought, both candidates having staked their issues, "early completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific" and "the road to Hudson Bay or bust".

It is generally understood that the session just closed will be the last one which there will be only one representative to the Dominion house from the City of Winnipeg, as its increased population from 67,000 in 1901 to 125,000 at the present time has brought it to the rank third in trade importance in the Dominion.

The lake port elevators are handling their full capacity of both railway delivery. Giving due credit to the excellent delivery of the 1908 crop so far by the railways, indications are that, if there were more cars available, it would mean a 20 per cent. increase in shipments as western farmers are taking advantage of the high prevailing prices on wheat and the rush of 400 to 600 cars for daily inspection at Winnipeg continues.

The sudden death at Ottawa of Hon. Thomas Greenway, ex-premier of Manitoba, has called profound expressions of regret throughout the province. This sorrow is not confined to personal or political friends, but to everyone in Manitoba, who knew how faithful the late chieftain's love was for the premier province of the west. A special cabinet council meeting was immediately called by Premier Roblin at the parliament buildings, and arrangements were completed for a special train to convey Winnipeg friends who wished to attend the obsequies at Crystal City, Man.

THE GUNPOWDER PLOT

Orangemen Celebrate

The most successful and enjoyable entertainment was given in the C. O. F. Hall on Simcoe street last night, under the auspices of District Orange Lodge. The occasion was the commemoration of the 303rd anniversary of the Discovery of the Gunpowder Plot. November fifth is an important day for all Orangemen. It is always suitably celebrated.

The theatre Hall last night was well filled with a most appreciative audience, and the addresses were very appropriate for the occasion.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Robt. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church, and he was well received.

During the intermission in the program the ladies served refreshments, which were greatly enjoyed and added much to the pleasure and success of the evening.

The program was as follows;

Hoagland Beat Four Roller Skaters

Hoagland, the world's champion walker, was successful in his feat at the roller rink last night. He walked two miles faster than five skaters could make four miles. Prof. Genno, proprietor of the rink, took the first 16 laps and gained a lap on the walker but the other skaters did not do so well, but the finish was close and exciting. Hoagland is in great shape, and his exhibition was well worth seeing. The performance will be repeated tonight. Those who skated against the walker were Prof. Genno, Jack Seymore, Percy Parrington, Martin Kennally and Ben Cleto.

Premier Scott's Plea Thrown Out

(Times Special).

Regina, Nov. 5.—The plea put in by Premier Scott in the case brought against him by H. W. Laird, that the court at Regina, had no jurisdiction to try the criminal libel charges, was thrown out by Judge Johnston here today. The court held that it was the attorney-general's department which had the charge, and they could try it anywhere in the province. Premier Scott contended that as the offence was committed in Moosejaw, it should be tried there.

The case is that Premier Scott made a charge in Moosejaw during the last Dominion election campaign against Mr. Laird, which reflected upon his conduct while in the city council in connection with some unstated contracts.

Evidence of Prosperity Everywhere Apparent

President of C. P. R. Returns from the West and is very Optimistic Regarding Future

Montreal, Nov. 6.—President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to Montreal this morning. The president has been making a thorough inspection of the whole of the company's lines in the West and just before this return to this city he inspected the Toronto terminals, where extensions in he yards at West Toronto are expected.

In an interview the president stated his satisfaction at the evidences of the return of prosperity displayed throughout the West.

The general prosperity of the country was one of the most pleasing features of our trip," he said. "Everywhere there are evident signs of better times and all departments of commercial and industrial life show a good improvement."

In connection with the visit to Vancouver and Victoria the president said: "We have many improvements under way on Vancouver Island, and advances will be made with these as rapidly as is reasonable. Every effort will be made to aid the people in the development of the great resources of the Island."

Rev. H. J. Keith's Lecture on India

Quite a large crowd visited Knox church school room last night, to hear Rev. H. J. Keith's illustrated lecture on India, which was given under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society.

The lecture was a most interesting one, and the views were good.

Mr. Keith took up the conditions existing in India, the people, their temples and their feasts which were indeed interesting to learn of.

The choir rendered a short program which was also greatly enjoyed. Miss Kathleen Willis rendered two most beautiful selections on the violin.

Altogether the evening was very interesting, and instructive, and those in attendance were well pleased.

Murder and Suicide of Young Man and His Girl

(Special to The Times)

Hamilton, Nov. 6.—A double tragedy was enacted here tonight at about 9.30 o'clock at 180 Rebecca St., the home of Mrs. Camille. It is believed to have been a murder and suicide, although the police as yet know very little about it.

About 9.30 o'clock a man rushed into the police headquarters, to say that he heard shooting in a house on Rebecca street. He was so excited, however, that he could give very little information, and the police spent an hour in trying to locate the house. When they finally did reach it, they said it looked for all the world like a slaughter house.

Upon investigation they found Chester Johnston, aged 18 years, in an unconscious condition on the floor as a result of a bullet wound, and a girl who went by the name of Rose, was suffering from five or six bullet wounds.

As soon as found an ambulance was called, and they were carried to the City Hospital, where the doctors say that there is practically no hope of saving Johnston's life, although there is some chance of saving the girl. She was consequently put upon the operating table.

At midnight the police had not been able to get any information on which would help us unravel the mystery. It is believed, however, that Johnston shot the girl, and then turned the gun on himself.

WEAK, NERVOUS WOMEN

Their Sad Story Would Fill a Book of Countless Pages.

Ever since the world began woman has borne more than her share of suffering. Secret troubles undermine her strength, yet she seldom complains. But because she has suffered in the past is no reason why she should forever be dragged down by misery and sleeplessness.

There are periods in the life of every woman when she should exercise great care in the protection of her health. There are times when the slightest cold will bring on troubles that shock the nervous system, weaken the kidneys and invite disease.

THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN CURED.

There is a remedy, one that will lift that awful burden and remove the ills from which women suffer. The name of this remedy is Ferrozone, which today is a household word throughout the length and breadth of the American continent. New hope has been brought into the life of many a downcast woman, and a new era of health has dawned for thousands who have tried and proved the merit of Ferrozone.

GET BACK FULL STRENGTH AND VIGOR.

Ferrozone is a remedy that acts directly on all the organs and assures functional activity upon which health so largely depends.

Among the troubles that are relieved and cured by Ferrozone are suppressed, painful or irregular menstruation, leucorrhoea (whites), bearing-down pains, womb and ovarian weaknesses and organic displacements.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN.

Your days of weakness and headache, your hours of nervousness and despondency will all depart. Life will hold for you many new joys as it does for everyone that uses Ferrozone regularly.

Your whole body will feel the quickening influence of Ferrozone. The blood will be purified and enriched. You will no longer suffer from the suppression and interference with the menstrual functions. Ferrozone cures all such ailments and prevents their return.

Don't listen to the druggist who urges something just as good. No substitute compares with Ferrozone, which does all that is claimed of it. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at druggists and dealers.

The Constitution was Adopted

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—The full constitution as prepared was adopted by the convention of the Ontario and Quebec Baptists here today. The plans for the conducting of the Grande Ligne Mission and the foreign mission by one board, were also agreed upon. The concluding session was held last night.

An Explosion Entombed Four Shot Firers

(Special to The Times.)

Branton, Ill., Nov. 5.—An explosion at the mine of Col. W. P. Bond, three miles west of here, occurred tonight, which wrecked the shaft. As a result four shot firers are entombed

Three Killed in an Explosion

(Special to The Times.)

Kenora, Nov. 5.—The report that seven were killed in the explosion here is exaggerated. Only three were killed, viz., F. Eleitowpa, 22 years old, a Norwegian; Olaf Christianson, 26 years old, a Dane; and Nelson P. Strandbe, aged 25 years, a native of Denmark.

One man, Andrew Odeberg, a Dane, had his right arm blown off, and he was also injured about the head.

Berlin Minister for Moosejaw

(Special to The Times.)

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Rev. E. S. Marshall, pastor of the Methodist church here, will accept the invitation to the pastorate of the Methodist church in Moosejaw, to succeed Rev. E. J. Chegwin, and that gentleman will come here.

Speakers and Sub-Jects Arranged

The first two meetings this fall under the auspices of the West Peterborough farmers' institute will be held in Lakefield on Wednesday, Dec. 9th, and at Bridgenorth on Thursday, Dec. 10th. The speakers will be W. E. Reid, Curator, Miss Campbell, Woodstock. Miss Campbell's subjects have not yet been announced, but Mr. Reid will speak on the following subjects,

1.—Am I raising the most profitable stock?

2.—The dairy cow, her summer feed, and winter care.

3.—Small fruits and care of grape vines, peach and plum trees.

4.—Cultivation and manures.

5.—Evening—A stitch in time.

Mr. Reid talks on horses, dairy cattle and small fruits. He has had a large and practical experience in all these departments, and being an aggressive and forceful speaker, he always carry weight. He has also had a wide experience in fair matters, being the superintendent of the horse department of probably the largest agricultural show in the province. He is also a judge of light horses, and as such has been invited to place awards in many parts of Ontario. He is one of our most acceptable institute speakers.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,000.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

MR. TAFT'S ELECTION

It is not a year for political overturows. Though at the moment of writing the returns are necessarily incomplete, Mr. Taft's election as President of the United States seems certain. Leading Democratic papers concede it. The outcome of the struggle between the two parties, while of interest, to Canadians, is of no practical concern to Canada. The only possible result of a victory for Mr. Bryan that could materially affect us would have been a reduction in the American tariff. Not out of esteem for us, but as a means of checking the exactions of the trusts, would the tariff have been lowered; and it is more than probable that we should have been required to make some corresponding concessions, in short, an opportunity to renew the reciprocity bargaining would be all Mr. Bryan's election could have meant for Canada. It is with considerable stoicism, therefore, that we can bear the tidings of his defeat. The election of Mr. Taft means that President Roosevelt is still the one great political force in the United States. Despite the insensate panic that was the result of his crusade against "certain malefactors of great wealth", the very men who indirectly suffered through his activity retain full confidence in his honesty and courage. These qualities no less than the trained Mr. Taft to possess in almost equal measure. His own mantle he wrapped around the portly shoulders of his Secretary of War, and sent him forth to the people with his fervent blessing. Sworn to carry out the Roosevelt policies. Mr. Taft appealed irresistibly to those Americans who believe the Roosevelt policies to be wise. Those who held contrary opinions were assured in loud whispers that Taft was not in reality a second Roosevelt, but a second McKinley, and that his work would be to heal the bruises wrought by the Big Stick. In vain Mr. Bryan protested that he was the rightful heir of Roosevelt. The President disowned him, and the people stood by the approved. Mr. Bryan had the support of neither the Conservative nor the Radical voters of the United States. Debs, the Socialist, and Hisgen, the candidate of the Hearst party, to say nothing of a Socialist-Labor candidate, split up among them thousands of votes, and the strength was drawn from the Democratic party rather than from the Republicans.

Almost as much interest was felt by Canadians in the race for the Governorship of New York State as in the Presidential contest. Hughes has become a household word on this continent in the past two years, and his re-election will give general satisfaction wherever principle and courage are admired. Governor Hughes did not poll the full strength of his party, because the Republican machine fought against his renomination and put no energy into the campaign in his behalf. The Taft-Chanler League was formed, and tens of thousands of Republicans were persuaded to vote for the Democratic candidate for Governor. The sporting and pool-room forces campaigned against the Governor, but his hold upon the independent voters pulled him through. That he might be the next Republican President after Mr. Taft seems far from improbable.

FUN, AND POURING HOUSE

Some time ago it was announced in the newspapers that Thomas A. Edison was about to retire and invent no more, remarks the Montreal Witness. He was quoted as saying that he had been at work for over forty years, week days and holidays, besides many nights all night long, and that he thought it about time that he took a rest. He said he wanted to retire and have fun. However, the other day, a correspondent of the "American Magazine" went down to see him at his labratory in Orange, New Jersey, and found him as busy as ever. He wore an old, thin black coat a good deal soiled; on his forehead were a number of bright green spots and streaks, reminders of recent activities in his chemical labratory, and his white hair was well rumpled where he had run his fingers through it in one of his characteristic gestures. He gave the impression of a singularly sturdy, able, active man. And as for looking tired or worn, no man ever looked less so. The writer says he has rarely seen eyes with more of the eternally youthful in them than Edison's. "I thought you had retired and were looking for fun," he was reminded. "Me", he answered, "Why, I have retired and am having the fun of my life."

He then went on to explain what he considered fun and retirement. He had retired from money-making, which he had found a distressing experience. "That's what I have been trying to escape from. Now I'm free and I'm going to have some fun. Money has got me into all the trouble I've ever had. If you want less and entanglements and trouble, just go in for money-making. If you want to meet rascals and have friends turn out bad, get into business! No, I don't like the crowd or the game. I don't see how any man can go in for money-making as a real business in life. It would kill me. I don't need much of any thing personally, but I've had to have a lot of money for my work. It's come, somehow, and now I've got all I need, and all I want—and I'm retired." "And you're having fun?" "Yes, I'm having the fun of my life—steering clear of anything that has any money-making connected with it. I'm trying for chemical experiments. For years I've been making notes—I've got a lot of books up there filled with suggestions which I've been planning to work out just as soon as I get the time. Now I'm going at them—not to make money—but just to find out things. I'm going to put a lot of things together and take 'em apart, and see what the result is. That's the greatest fun in the world." But in his outer habits there has been no change. In the library, the friend and interviewer saw the remains of the inventor's luncheon. It was on a little bare table in one of the alcoves, and consisted of part of a glass of milk and a crust of bread. Every day, as he has done for forty years past, he takes this simplest of simple lunches in his library. In another alcove was a bed cot. Here, if he is particularly busy, and fourteen, or sixteen, or eighteen hours a day are not enough, the inventor can lie down and sleep.

Just at the moment he is having most rest and fun out of what he calls 'pouring' houses. In a large work-room he has had the model of a house constructed. It is complete in every particular, doors, windows, roof, chimney, and all, but it is only some ten feet high and fifteen feet long. His idea has been to make a homelike house of architectural beauty, which can be constructed by his new method of 'pouring', at a very low expense and in an incomparably short time. "I wanted to do something", he said, "to solve the housing problem in the cities. My idea is to make a home that will have all the modern conveniences, and yet be within the reach of the working man." He has had moulds of iron made for a full-sized house like the model. They can be set up and bolted in a few hours' time on the lot where the building is to stand. Into the completed model is poured a liquid preparation of ordinary cement, which rushes into and fills every crack and corner. It requires only three hours to do the pouring — in other words to construct the house complete. After being allowed to harden for a day or two, the moulds can be removed and the house stands practically complete, save, of course, for windows, doors, and interior work. Mr. Edison calculates that such houses can be built at absurdly low prices, and being practically a solid block of cement, they will not only be indestructible, but will require next to no repairs. They will also be water and vermin proof.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of doing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Should Buy Up the Associated Press

There can be no question that the most sensational incident of the Presidential campaign was the publication by William Randolph Hearst of the Archbold letters. Mr. Archbold is vice-president of the Standard Oil Company, and, unlike Mr. John D. Rockefeller, is active in its affairs. To Mr. Archbold seems to have been left the more or less delicate business of dealing with politicians. In order to protect the interests of Standard Oil, or to extend its business, Mr. Archbold did not hesitate to bribe men, who, on their part, did not hesitate to be bribed. Much of this criminal trafficking was done by mail; and apparently the conspirators did not take the common precaution of destroying the incriminating letters that passed between them. Mr. Archbold, so far from destroying the letters of the grafters, kept copies of his own equally damning answers. Hundreds of them, correctly docketed, and telling many a shocking and complete story of political debauchery, were kept like ordinary business correspondence in the vaults of the Standard Oil Company's head offices, 26 Broadway, New York.

More than three years ago it came to the ears of Mr. Archbold that a number of these letters had been offered for sale to a New York newspaper. He made an investigation and found that many of the letters were missing. Suspicion at once fell on a certain employe, who slowly denied his guilt. Not long afterwards a stranger interviewed Mr. Archbold, and offered to sell some of the letters back to him, admitting that he had already disposed of a few choice specimens to representatives of Mr. Hearst's newspaper. This precious scoundrel said that the idea of the theft had originated with his own brother, once an employe of the company, who had induced the previously suspected clerk to commit the actual theft. He also shocked Mr. Archbold by informing him that a couple of letter-copying books had been carried off also. Several of their most sensational pages had been photographed, others torn out. The books were then returned, and no one in the office had suspected anything wrong with them. It is to be inferred that Mr. Archbold bought back some of the letters, but whether they had been already photographed the vice-president of Standard Oil declines to say.

Of the effect of the publication of these letters upon Senator Foraker, of Ohio, and Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, everybody knows. There were also ruinous letters from Senator McLaurin and Congressman Gibbs. These four men, among the most prominent of American politicians, have had their public career blasted by the Hearst exposures. Another sensational batch of stolen letters referred to Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania; Attorney-General John P. Elkin, of Pennsylvania, and Judge Morrison and Judge Henderson, both of the Supreme Court of that State. One letter was to Governor Stone, asking that Judge Morrison should be appointed, to the Supreme Court, to fill a vacancy, and contained the ambiguous remark that it was "unnecessary to dwell upon his fitness for the position." It was also urged that both Judge Henderson and Judge Morrison had a deep knowledge of oil and gas.

After the letter had been published Mr. Archbold made the following indirect statement:—"I am very sure that until Hearst read the letters neither Judge Morrison nor Judge Henderson had any knowledge of my having written to Governor Stone about them." Judge Morrison incautiously declared:—"It is inexplicable that the Standard Oil man should have taken so deep an interest in my welfare." Alex'd M. Hearst next day published the following letter:—

New York, Aug. 3, 1908.

"Hon. Thomas A. Morrison,
Smithport, Pa.

"My dear Sir,—I am duly in receipt of your favor of August 1st, and it has given me great pleasure to write to Senators Quay and Penrose, expressing my earnest desire, that it may prove possible and consistent for them to support you for the Supreme Judgeship.

"Very truly yours,
"JOHN D. ARCHBOLD."

The letters relating to the other workships, Judge were similar in tone. The letters to the Attorney-General of Pennsylvania showed him to have received $10,000 in less than three weeks, and to have received at the same time instructions regarding measures relating to the oil industry then before the State Legislature.

There is still another batch of Archbold letters. One of them deals with a proposal of Sibley's to the effect that the Associated Press should be bought up. Another contained $5,000 for a year's contribution to a paper called the Southern Farm Magazine. Its regular price is 50c a year. Another letter enclosed $4,000 for a year's subscription to the Manufacturers' Record, regular price $4. There was also $1,000 to the editor of the Pittsburg Times, and $5,000 to a Professor Gunton, a lecturer and editor of the magazine that bears his name. And unless we mistake Mr. Hearst's issue, he has still a few sensations to spring at a suitable moment.

Tickling, tight coughs, can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription Druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung healing mountainous shrub, gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all Druggists.

News in Brief

Paris, Nov. 6.—A dramatic incident occurred in the Palace of Justice at Beziers in the middle of a thunderstorm yesterday afternoon.

A witness whose veracity had been questioned by the judge lifted his hand and exclaimed: "May I be struck by lightning if I am not telling the truth!" The words were hardly out of his mouth before lightning struck the building, and the witness fell on the floor in an agony of fear.

He was unhurt, and, rising to his feet, he confessed himself guilty of the crime of which he had just accused another man.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 5.—During a review of troops at Askabad, the capital of the Russian transcaspian territory, a detachment of soldiers fired on the commander of the Turkestan district, General Mitschenko, the great Cossack leader, who distinguished himself in the war with Japan.

The general was accompanied by the staff officers at the review. Many of the bullets fired by the soldiers passed over the heads of the officers, but the general and the adjutant were wounded. Many arrests have been made.

Bad Axe, Mich., Nov. 5.—Joseph Smith's unlocked the door of the county jail today and released his wife and his brother, who were confined there. Then he went to his home alone while his brother and Joseph's wife went their way together. The pair were under arrest following an elopement. The deserted husband says his wife may secure a divorce and marry the brother.

The two brothers loved the same girl years ago. Finally Charles, the younger, married another, and Joseph married the girl. When Charle's wife died this old love returned for the woman his brother had married, and they finally ran away together. Joseph decided today to drop all proceedings, and the Sheriff let him release them.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done; exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide and 170 feet deep extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share. (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

Write immediately for full particulars. Local agent wanted.

to this land. So you'll oblige me by keeping off it from now on."

Matthews found his tongue. "Who in hell are you?" he demanded coolly.

"Who am I?" repeated the storekeeper, smiling down the revolver barrel, "why, I'm St. George, and you're the dragon." He raised his voice. "Miss Lancaster!" he called. "Miss Lancaster!"

A face appeared at a window, then a second. There were more cries, but not of fear. The sash was pushed open. Dallas and Maryiya, the younger girl still clinging to the elder, looked out.

"It's all right," said the storekeeper, not taking his eyes from the enemy. "I'm here."

Dallas could not answer. But Maryiya, though exhausted, was fully alive to their rescue. Her eyes, wide and tearful, were fixed upon Lounsbury.

"Oh, we're afraid!" she cried plaintively. "Pa's gone, and we're afraid!"

"You needn't be any more," he said reassuringly.

Matthews under his breath was cursing the self contained man in the saddle. Enraged at the storekeeper's interference, but with disappointment, he saw himself stood up like a tenderfoot. But his caution prevailed. A certain expression in Lounsbury's eyes, a certain square set to his jaw, the very cues that guided the cattle camp, made him cautious.

"Look a-here," he said to Lounsbury, assuming a conciliatory manner. "Let's talk as one gent to another. These ladies is your friends. So far so good. But I has my rights, an' I can prove that I slep' on this quarter section three times and"— Lounsbury's face darkened. He was lightly ironical no longer. He urged his mount forward. "Don't argue with me, you infernal blackguard," he said. "You can prove anything you want to by a lot of perjuring, thieving land grabbers. Don't I know 'em! If you filed on this claim you were hired to do it. You hadn't an idea of settling or building a home. You did it for speculating purposes—nothing else. And the law, I happen to know, is dead against that. You're a shark. But your game won't work. These folks are going to stay in this shack and on this bend. And you be mighty careful you don't make 'em any trouble!"

"I'll git a Bismarck lawyer," declared Matthews.

"Yes, and we'll tar and feather the shyster. What's more, I'll head a bunch of Clark's boys, and we'll wipe Shanty Town off the face of the earth!"

Matthews raised his shoulders and put his tongue in his cheek. "You're mighty interested in these ladies, seems t' me," he said insinuatingly.

The slur did not escape the storekeeper. It determined him to parley no further. "Hoist your hands!" he commanded.

Matthews obeyed. His fingers were twitching.

The next command was curt. "Mosey!"

The other moved away. When he was beyond pistol range he produced his second revolver and waved it above his head. "You jus' wait!" he shouted. "You jus' wait! I'll fix y'!"

Lounsbury returned him a mocking salute.

CHAPTER X.

As Matthews ceased his threatening and strode on a new fear came over Dallas. She leaned toward Lounsbury from the window. "What does he mean by 'fixing you?'" she asked hoarsely.

The storekeeper was still watching riverward, and he answered without turning his head. "He means it's a case of shoot on sight," he said.

"Then you mustn't go near him—you must go back to Clark's. Promise me you will! I can take care of Maryiya till dad comes. If you got hurt"—

Lounsbury threw one leg over the pommel and sat sideways for a while, buckling and unbuckling his reins. When he spoke it was very gently, and again he did not look at her. "Hadn't you better wrap up a little?" he suggested. "It's cold."

She put a seat about Maryiya. "It ain't right for you to make our quarrel yours. You mustn't. I wouldn't have you hurt on our account for anything." Her eyes beseeched him.

He glanced at her. "It's worth a lot to know you feel that way," he said slowly. "But—I'm afraid I can't do what you want. It's your safety that counts with me."

Maryiya's face had been hidden to shut out the dread sight of Matthews. Now she lifted it. She said nothing. But as if suddenly smitten by a painful thought she turned from Dallas to Lounsbury, from Lounsbury to Dallas, questioningly, doubtful. She drew to one side a few steps and stood alone.

The movement escaped the others. The storekeeper had slipped from his saddle to pick up Matthews' revolver. And the elder girl, against whom was setting in a tide of reaction, was struggling for composure. She put out a trembling hand for the weapon.

"Got a rifle, too, haven't you?" he asked.

"No. Dad took it."

"Good heavens! I'm glad I didn't know that coming down!"

"How'd you happen to come?"

"I saw the sleigh go by and was sure something had scared your father about the claim. So I didn't wait to black my boots."

"Oh, it was a comfort to hear you," she said.

"Was it?" eagerly. He stepped toward her, then drew back. "Well," with a feeble attempt at humor, "I'd rather be a comfort than a wet blanket." He had remembered that evil eyes were watching, that his least move might subject Lancaster's daughter to the coarse comment of Shanty Town. He dared not even remain out of his saddle. He mounted.

"Oh, you're going to leave us!" exclaimed Maryiya. She began to cry helplessly.

"But I'll be on the lookout every second," he declared. "Miss Dallas"—he urged his horse up to the window—"don't think I'm idiot enough to try to do up that saloon gang down there single handed. If I go to Shanty Town it'll be because I have to. I won't go alone if I can help it. First of all, I intend to see the colonel over there and lay this matter before him."

"But dad"— she began.

"Got to do it, whether your father likes it or not. We're dealing with a cutthroat. He knows this land's worth money."

"Yes"—

"And you can't tell what he'll do." He beat to last. "That scoundrel scared you," he said regretfully. "You're ready to drop. Oh, yes, you are. And it's my fault. I knew he might come my day—that bird makes trouble. But I didn't believe he'd get here so soon. I"—

"I'd given him up," she said.

"You! You did know, then!"

"Quite a while ago."

"Knew what?" asked Maiyiya, stopping her tears. Then, certain that there was some awful secret behind it all and that it was being kept from her, she began to cry again.

Dallas soothed her and explained.

"Do you know when Matthews' six months is up?" Lounsbury inquired.

"Tonight at 12."

OCEAN AN ENORMOUS POOL.

Winds and Currents Keep It Moving Round and Round.

The discoveries of modern science have revealed monsters of the deep as terrific as any that ancient fancy created and have shown that oceans are not mere wastes of water, but the homes of an astounding variety of living things. More than this, it has been discovered that the seas themselves have each a sort of law of existence which they obey. The hydrographic office at Washington has for years been trying to learn something of the characteristics of the Atlantic ocean as a great moving body of water by means of bottles containing papers, which have been dropped overboard from vessels in many places to drift at the mercy of the winds and waves.

Many of these bottles have been found and picked up again either in the open sea or on shores where they had stranded.

Knowing from its records where the bottles had been thrown overboard, the bureau has been able to trace in a general way the path they must have followed in order to reach the places where they were found.

Being partially filled with air and then securely corked, the bottles float on the surface of the water and go wherever the winds and the currents of the sea carry them. Each bottle contains a record of the place and date of its starting. Some of those found have floated for many months on the bosom of the Atlantic and traveled thousands of miles.

It has been ascertained that bottles dropped overboard between the shores of the United States and England or France generally travel toward the northeast, following the course of that great river in the ocean called the gulf stream. Bottles started off the coasts of Spain or Africa travel westward until they arrive among the West India islands. Along the European side of the ocean the bottles take a southerly course and along the American side a northerly course.

Thus as a result of winds and currents the whole Atlantic is shown to be slowly circulating around and around, like an enormous pool. This accounts for the stories that were current in Europe hundreds of years ago of strange objects of human manufacture having floated from the new to the old world, thus giving a clew to the existence of undiscovered lands across the sea.

A Rare Nobleman.

The American father of the bairns greeted the count who was a suitor for her hand with dignified frigidity. "Sare," said the count, "your daughter has done me so honnaire of consenting to be my wife. I am called to complete ze negotiations."

"All right," wearily said the father. "How much of a cash settlement do you expect?"

"Nossing, sare."

"What! How much will I have to pay for your racecourse debts?"

"Nossing, sare; I do not gamble."

"How much will I have to put up to settle breach of promise cases brought by chorus girls?"

"Nossing, sare; I do not flirt."

"How much will I have to pay to rebuild your castle?"

"Nossing, sare; it is in fine repair."

"But there must be some expense for me. Out with it."

"No, sare, nossing; I simply love your daughter and she loves me, and we wish to be married. Is not zat enough? Is it not enough to ask you to give me your daughter wizzout your expecting to——"

"Come to my arms!" exclaimed the American father, and tried to fall upon the neck of the delightful count.

But he awoke on the floor, having tumbled from the bed as a finish to his amazing dream.

Vessel Vases.

The ancient Peruvians must have understood something of the laws of atmospheric pressure, else how could they have constructed some of the very curious jars and vases they left behind them? One of these pieces of pottery was ornamented with the figures of two monkeys, and when water was poured into or out of the vessel sounds like the screeching of monkeys were heard. Another similar vessel had the figure of a bird, which uttered appropriate notes; another was ornamented with a coiled serpent, and another with snakes which hissed. A most ingenious water jar bore the form of an aged woman, upon whose cheeks tears were seen to trickle, while sobs were heard, when water was poured from the jar.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Dortmund—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granules or grains, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer, without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

It was noticed that the woman devoted many more hours to mirror gazing than formerly. "I can't tell," she said, with dreamy satisfaction, "how many times I have caught people, especially women, snapshotting me recently."

"I shouldn't be so puffed up about it if I were you," said the brute of a man. "It wasn't your good looks that attracted them. They were taking pictures of your dresses, so they could copy the best points in their own clothes."

"In that case," said the woman after a moment's visible disappointment, "I feel more highly complimented than if they had photographed me. Nature is responsible for me, but I designed my clothes myself."

"Parceling Out de People."

Fishing, two boys strung their big catch on the same string. Passing a graveyard they entered the gate to divide the catch, dropping two fish just as they went inside the cemetery.

Passing an aged negro heard the two boys: "I'll take this one, you that one; I this one, you that one; I this one, you that one," etc.

The negro listened in dismay and ran away as rapidly as his old legs could carry him. He met his negro minister, who called:

"Deacon, why you run in such terror?"

"Declare, parson, I been down yonder by de graveyard and over de fence heard de devil and de Lord parceling out de people atween 'em."

The parson laughed at the old man's fright and made him go back with him to the graveyard to convince him of his error.

The boys were still dividing—"You take that, I take this," etc. Finally one boy asked, "What you going to do with them two at the gate?"

This was more than parson or deacon could stand, and both ran pellmell, neither wishing to take any further chances, no matter what was going on just over the fence.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Edison as Humorist.

The great American inventor, T. A. Edison, who is at work perfecting a motor powerful but small enough to bring the aeroplane within a measurable distance of success, is partly deaf in his right ear. In one way this an advantage, as it enables him to pursue his work undisturbed while surrounded by all the noise of a busy shop. When offered an infallible cure for his deafness, he once remarked, "Why should I try it? Think of the lot of stuff I'd have to listen to that I don't want to hear!" On another occasion a would-be wit said, in ordinary tones, "I guess he'd hear it if I asked him to have a drink." The inventor looked the young man who spoke squarely in the eye. "Yes, perhaps I should," he said; "but no, not to-day, thank you!"

His Deep Concern.

The kind old lady noticed a small lad entering a cobbler's with a small package.

"What have you there, sonny?" she asked kindly.

"Ma's slipper," replied the lad. "You see, there is a tack out of place in it, and I want to have it fixed before ma notices it."

"Ah, what a considerate little boy! I suppose you are afraid the tack might hurt your mother's foot?"

"Well, it isn't exactly that. You see, the tack is sticking out on the sole, and this is the slipper ma spanks me with."

Rheumatism promptly driven from the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. Don't waste time with common remedies. A test will surely tell. In tablet or liquid form. Sold by all druggists.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harrison arrived home from Cleveland Wednesday night.

Mr. Jas. Lang of Lang & Maher's, Peterborough, was in town yesterday for a few hours on business.—Lindsay Warder.

Miss Annie Tully of Midland, who has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. James McDonald, Hunter street, east, for the past five weeks, left to visit friends in Lindsay and Toronto.

Mrs. Keith will conduct the ladies' thanksgiving service on Sunday at the Springville Presbyterian church.

Miss Jessie Sullivan of Toronto, is in the city visiting her friend Miss Maggie Doherty, Water street, for a few days.

Rev. H. R. Trumpour, of All Saints' church will preach the Harvest Festival sermon at St. Mark's, Otonabee, next Sunday afternoon.

Miss Eileen Fair will receive on Friday and Saturday of this week and thereafter on the first Friday and Saturday of each month.

Miss Isabel Macbeth who has just returned from abroad, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Collins, McDonel street, on her way home to London, Ont.

Miss Reesor of the Conservatory of Music, will go to Markham today to spend her Thanksgiving vacation at her home. She will return to the city on Tuesday.

Mr. E. Wood of Fort William High School, who has been sent by the school board of that city, was in the city yesterday. He visited the new Collegiate Institute there as well as the collegiate institutes in Ottawa, Kingston and Brockville.

New Suction Hose

The new suction hose for the fire engine, arrived Wednesday, and has been put on in place of the defective section, and the old one has been returned. Wednesday morning, Chief Howard had the engine taken down to the Geo. Matthews Co.'s establishment and gave it a test for the benefit of Inspector Howe. The machine worked perfectly and three fine streams. The inspector expressed his satisfaction as he could hardly do anything else.

Canada Votes Solid

There may be a difference of opinion amongst the voters of Canada regarding political matters, but when it comes to a question of a newspaper to suit the Canadian people the vote is solid for the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. It is marvelous what popularity that paper enjoys. It is well deserved, too, for it is beyond question the best dollar's worth to be had. Every home in Canada should receive that great weekly, when it can be had for one dollar a year. In this section it reaches almost every home, and not one of them would think of letting their subscriptions expire. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is too good to miss even a single copy.

Address Y.M.C.A.

The meeting to be held in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Sunday afternoon in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Conference will be addressed by Mr. R. A. Waite, secretary of International Religious Work. Mr. Waite holds several athletic championships in the Syracuse University and takes a deep interest in sport as well as in work of morality among the boys. Some fifty delegates have signified their intentions to be here and a number of places have not been heard from.

The induction of Rev. H. R. Trumpour, M.A., as rector of All Saints' church, will take place this evening at eight o'clock. The induction ceremony will be performed by Venerable Archdeacon Warren, of Toronto, and the special preacher for the occasion will be Rev. Canon O'Meara, D.D., principal of Wycliffe College. A number of other ministers will be in attendance, including several from outside the city. After the induction refreshments will be served by the ladies of the congregation.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—F. Campbell.

Vice-President—D. W. Dumble.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Dr. Burnham.

Sec.-Treas.—Harry Beal.

Directors—Messrs. J. R. Stratton, Jas. English, Walter Stalker, F. Wise, F. A. S. Hay, Col. Rogers, D. W. Dumble, Wm. James, H. Nesbitt, R. Tenn, S. Jordan, Adam Hall, Thos. Tucker.

Park Committee—Walter Stalker, F. Wise, Dr. Burnham, H. Nesbitt, S. Jordan, Wm. James.

Auditors—Messrs. F. A. S. Hay, Arthur Stevenson.

Col. Rogers stated that the secretary Mr. H. Beal, was deserving of the sincere thanks of this society. He had really taken the burden of the whole society on his shoulders. He was possessed of a love for the beautiful and spent a great deal of time.

Mr. Beal was re-elected secretary-treasurer will authority to engage an assistance.

It is proposed to have the council order the band to play in Central Park next year, and then take the upper half of Victoria Park, and fence it out. Then level it down and seed it. Then keep it closed all year. The next year it will be opened up and the lower half treated the same way. Mr. Beal also pointed out that the disgraceful practice of last year of distributing advertising matter on band night must be stopped.

Mr. F. A. S. Hay suggested that the executive of the Horticultural Society formulate a request and present it to the city council to have Central Park laid out and that arrangements be made to have that park and all other parks protected from hoodlums.

Mr. Pousette suggested that the society make a request to the city council to appoint a park commission to handle all the city parks. The city could hand over to the commission its base of Victoria Park and thus the police will have authority over both the Victoria and Central parks.

As there was no further business before the society the meeting was adjourned.

Heavy Traffic on Railways for Thanksgiving

Starting on the first train this morning the holiday visitors began to move out of the city. The Thanksgiving season promises to see very heavy traffic on the railways and a very large number of people will take advantage of the cheap rates to visit their homes or friends. This is the first time Thanksgiving has been held on Monday, and the travelers are able to have several days' rest. The railway companies report very bright prospects for heavy traffic today and tomorrow and on Monday.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

test: Controllers Latimer, Harvey and Baker, for re-election, with ex-Controller Cockburn, R. D. Waugh, Ald. Thos. Wilson officially in the field, and D. L. McIntyre and ex-Ald Davidson as possibilities.

Following the announcement of the awarding of the contract to Thos. Kelly and Sons, Winnipeg, for the construction of shops for the G and Trunk Pacific at Winnipeg, involving the expenditure of over $500,000, the Grand Trunk Pacific announce this week the letting of contracts for three new stations on their main line west, at Watrous, Biggar and Wainwright, the successful tenderers being the Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co., of Winnipeg. In addition to the above, the Grand Trunk Pacific have awarded to James Stewart & Company the contract for a four million bushel elevator at Fort William, which will be absolutely fire proof and have all of the equipment necessary for cleaning, drying and properly handling grain.

Messrs. McDonald and Stewart, directors of the Scottish Co-Operative Wholesale society, have returned to Winnipeg after a two weeks visit in the west, and announce that contracts have been let for six new elevators on the G and Trunk Pacific in Manitoba, and that farther west they will, in the near future, erect others.

President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, of the C.P.R., has returned from his western tour of inspection and, interviewed said: "The completion of the C.P.R. line into Edmonton from Saskatoon is one of the important works that will be completed by early spring. Everywhere there are evident signs of better times and all departments of Commercial and Industrial life in the west show great improvements," remarked Sir Thomas. Very much satisfied with the progress of the work made on the irrigation scheme near Calgary, the president said that a section now comprising 700,000 acres was practically ready for settlers.

NEW STREET CAR SYSTEMS.

The realisation of having a street car system in Edmonton was brought to a certainty last Friday when the first car made a satisfactory trial run over a part of the new line, carrying as passengers the city commissioners and many prominent citizens. A regular service will likely go into effect on Dec. 1.

The city council of Calgary decided at last week's council meeting to push the construction of their street railway, which, when completed, will be ten miles in length. Work on the new General hospital in the Alberta city, to cost $150,000, is rapidly progressing. Main street is being paved with wooden blocks and double tracks laid for the coming street car lines. The central portion of the C.P.R. new depot was formally opened last week. Substantial development has taken place is shewn by the fact that in Calgary the head offices of 164 provincial joint stock companies are located as well as some hundred and forty foreign companies having registered offices in that city.

In the past week Winnipeg has entertained three prominent lady journalists in the persons of Mrs. George R. Crau, of London, England, Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, of Chicago, and Miss Agnes Laut, of New York. As a result of their extensive tours throughout the west, Mrs. Crau will contribute many articles to the press in England; Miss Cameron will prepare special stories on the Peace River country for the Philadelphia Saturday Post, and will also write a book on Western Canada. Miss Laut will have published a series of very important articles on Canada in leading New York magazines.

With such marvelous development in western industry and population, Winnipeg is optimistic. The real reason for such cheerfulness at the Capital City of Western Canada will be dealt with in next week's letter.

Rev. H. R. Trumpour was Inducted as Rector of All Saints' Last Night

The Impressive Ceremony was Performed by The Venerable Archdeacon Warren of Toronto —Successor of Rev. Wm. Major

Rev. H. R. Trumpour was last night inducted and became the official rector of the Parish of All Saints,' as the successor of Rev. W. Major, who is now in Montreal. The ceremony which was a most impressive one, was performed by the Venerable Archdeacon Warren of Toronto, who, in his opening remarks, stated that this was a most important occasion, to the congregation, the parish, and the people, and were all happy over, and also hoped a great deal from, to the church and to the city. On this occasion we are occupied by the thought of the call of God to mortal man to be the heralds of the message of God. We do not understand the mystery of God, but we have always been met by evidences of the call of God to man to be a steward of His mysteries.

The speaker stated that the members of the congregation should never judge the minister from a purely worldly point of view. The minister is not responsible to the people but to God. The minister who is coming to All Saints' has been appointed, and by your election, but through the wisdom of those who have the authority to make such an appointment. He is coming here as an envoy, and is possessed with all the authority of the great church of God at his back. He also comes with the strength that is derived from the knowledge that the complete approval of those to whom he comes has been signified.

Do not allow the full responsibility of the work of the church to fall upon the new minister's shoulders alone. He needs the help of everyone, and he is entitled to it. He is a leader that you all can rally around, and you are asked to work with him.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour then read the declaration of assent, and Rev. Canon Davidson read the mandate of induction. The keys of the church were presented by the wardens, and the archdeacon presented the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer.

Following the ceremony of induction the evening prayer was said, being taken part in by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Rev. F. J. Lynch and Rev. R. D. Raymond of Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Trumpour.

THE SERMON

The sermon was delivered by Rev. Canon O'Meara, LL.D., principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto. He said that if there was any question which was absorbing every man, woman and child all over the world today, it was, "How can I make a success of this life?" There is nothing in life so beautiful as success if gained by holy and righteous efforts. As the school boy, the business man, or the professional man strives for success, so will the new minister strive to make his ministry in All Saints, a success. Rev. Mr. Trumpour is a man in every sence of the word, and he is worthy of your respect, trust, love and help, and the only one that the work of All Saints' church can be a success is by the united and harmonious efforts of the congregation with the minister.

After the service all present were invited to adjourn to the basement where an informal reception was held and where the ladies served refreshments. An enjoyable social hour was spent.

AN ADDRESS.

During the evening the following address of welcome was presented to Rev. Mr. Trumpour on behalf of the congregation:—

To Rev. H. R. Trumpour, M.A., B.D., Rector of All Saints' Church, Peterborough, Ont.

Reverend and Dear Sir;—

If affords us much pleasure and gratification to extend to you words of welcome on behalf of the members of the congregation of All Saints' church. Not only as a group of people sincerely anxious for your welfare and prosperity, but as individuals ready and anxious to greet you in your new relations, but to assist that your life among us may be pleasant and profitable.

We are assured that you bring to the service of the Lord and of All Saints,' an ardent of a high order, an untiring zeal and most earnest effort that nothing on your part may be lacking.

Under your zealous care we feel that the work of the church will go on gathering ever increasing momentum and gaining in importance. In our mutual relations we have implicit trust that we shall find in you a friend, adviser, and helpmate, that you will hold a torch to right our spiritual life and guide our steps in the temporal world. We will earnestly endeavor to share with you the responsibilities which the church entails on all who gather within its fold, responsibilities which are a joy when undertaken in spirit and hopefulness.

We look forward to many years of pleasant association and as the borders of the parish enlarge and the duties increase in importance, both will stand as evidence of your devotion, energy and faithfulness in your chosen work.

We again welcome you to your charge, with joy and gladness, in a spirit of confidence and helpfulness, offering you freely and willingly our respect, love and devotion.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of All Saints' Church.

Signed by the wardens.

Labor Leader Deserted the Premier

Many Close Districts in U. S. Elections

(Special to The Times)

Washington, D.C., Nov. 6.—With the latest returns from the congressional districts throughout the country there are indications of a number of contests in many of the districts the voting between the Republican and Democratic candidates was so close it may involve possible change as a result of the official count.

The most remarkable upset in the congressional situation was in Reconstruction Day, this occurred in North Carolina, where, with a Democratic majority of 40,000, at least three of the ten members sent to Washington will be Republican. This change is attributed to a great change in sentiment which has a leaning to the Republican doctrine of a protective tariff.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong; Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

McKenzie King is Canada's Representative on the Opium Commission

(Special to The Times)

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Mr. Mackenzie King, M.P. for North Waterloo, when seen today by a Times representative in reference to his appointment to the International Opium Commission, said that it was being formed on United States initative with a view of having the powers assist China to eradicate her opium curse. The countries to be represented are, — Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland, Japan, United States, Canada, and China.

The first step was taken two years ago by China. That country sought and secured Great Britain's assistance and the result being a scheme to suppress China's curse in ten years by England agreeing to reduce the export of opium by ten per cent. each year, and China to reduce the growth of poppy in the same proportion.

Mr. King has not yet decided whether he will accept, his friends here are urging him to do so. His visit to China, they claim, would have the additional scope of developing trade between China and Canada.

Bomb Factory Discovered Among the Hindoos of British Columbia

(Special to The Times)

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 6.—That a conspiracy, having for its object the manufacture of bombs and the supplying of them together with arms for malcontents in Calcutta, and other districts affected in India, exists among Hindoos at Millside, near Westminster, was the very startling information conveyed today by a Sikh to a police officer here, who formerly lived in India, and who speaks Bengali, and who has befriended numbers of these people since their arrival in this country. To what length the plot has gone, it is very difficult to learn, for the reason that the heads of the conspiracy are comparatively few in number, and very closely guard the innermost secrets of their works.

In a general way, however, it is known to exist, Hindoos at Millside that the manufacture of bombs is being pursued with a most guarded secrecy in that town. They also have a general knowledge that arms have already been secured from time to time, and the manufacture of bombs which are to be used to throw off the yoke of England by India's millions.

One of the principals in the conspiracy is a Hindoo working at a saw mill at Millside, but the chief parties, it is asserted, in Seattle. The latter was formerly a resident of Vancouver, and always appeared to have considerable dealings with his countrymen.

Detroit Mayor Out for More Favors From the Railway Company

(Special to The Times.)

Detroit, Nov. 6.—Mayor-elect Philip Breetmeyer, during whose term of office, several of the present franchises of the Detroit Union Railway Co., will expire, said today; "I will submit no proposition of the Detroit Union Railway Co. to the people of Detroit that does not provide for at least eight tickets for 25c., with uniform transfers at all times, day or night. If they offer less than will be a fight. He asserted that no renewal of franchise would be granted to extend beyond 1924, when the franchise of the old Detroit Electric, popularly known as the 3c. line, and now a part of the Detroit Union, expires. After the new State constitution is adopted at the election on Tuesday, all public franchises granted in this State must first be submitted as a vote to the municipality interested and accepted by them before being granted.

Charles W. Morse, the Ex-Millionaire Sent Down for 15 Years

New York, N.Y., Nov. 6.—Charles W. Morse was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment by Judge Hough of the United States Court today.

Sentence on A. H. Curtis was suspended.

New York, N.Y., Nov. 6.—Charles W. Morse, one time "Ice King," "Steamship King," and the controlling force in a long string of national banks in this city, whose personal fortune a little more than a year ago was estimated at more than $22,000,000, and Alfred H. Curtis, former President of the National Bank of North America, spent last night in a cell in the Tombs Prison.

They were convicted yesterday in the United States Court of violations of the National Banking laws in connection with their conduct of the National Bank of North America, of which Morse also was an officer. Today, when they arose simultaneously with hundreds of others in the grim city prison they faced the possibility of many years behind iron grated doors. Sentence had been deferred until today when the jury rendered its verdict last night.

SOON WENT TO BED.

Both Morse and Curtis passed a fairly restful night, according to the prison guards. They occupied cell No. 726, which contains two bunks, one above the other, against the inner walls. The cell is six feet wide and eight feet long. Morse occupied when the two men settled down for their first night behind bars, and they soon tired of the attempt to while away time sitting in the narrow quarters. Both sought their berths early, but it was after midnight when the heavy breathing told the guard that both were sleeping. From that time until morning no other sound came from cell 726.

With the first call this morning both men awoke and a few minutes later were pacing up and down their corridor outside the cells.

When the regular prison breakfast of coffee and rolls were served Morse and Curtis accepted their share like every other prisoner in the Tombs.

Much of the time up to the hour set for them to appear in the United States Court for sentence was spent in reading the newspaper accounts of the closing scenes in their trial yesterday.

THE ACTUAL CHARGE.

The technical charges on which Morse was found guilty, were of misapplication of funds and falsifying the books of the bank. There was also the additional charge of conspiracy against the prisoners, but the jury acquitted the men on this count.

The maximum penalty on the charge of falsifying bank books is ten years' imprisonment. The jury recommended clemency for Mr. Curtis, but made no recommendation in the case of Mr. Morse.

There has been wide interest in the joint trials of the accused on charges growing out of the failure of the National Bank of North America. It was brought out in the testimony that Mr. Morse had made large loans from the bank through so-called "dummies," and that President Curtis had enabled him to do so. The money thus obtained was used to finance the Morse ice goods and steamship operations.

NEEDS NO "JIMMY"

In summing up the case against the prisoners, District Attorney Stimson told the jurors that no highway robbery was bolder than Morse's overdrafts in the panic days before his retirement from the bank, and reminded them that a director did not need a "jimmy" to get into the bank's vaults, and that the United States statutes took this into consideration and recognized that a director might were he so minded, do what the police call an "inside job." Morse's "inside job" was his last big overdraft.

WIVES IN COURT.

The scene in the court room was a dramatic one. Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Curtis had remained in the court room nearly the entire day, awaiting the verdict, which was as follows;

"We have agreed upon a verdict in the case of both defendants," said the foreman. "On the charge of conspiracy we find them not guilty." A look of relief came to the faces of the prisoners and their wives; but it only lasted for a moment, and Mr. Elder continued; "On the charge of the misapplication of the funds of the bank we find both defendants guilty. On the charge of making false entries in the books of the bank we find both defendants guilty. In the case of Alfred H. Curtis, the jury wishes to make a strong recommendation to the mercy of the court."

A stifled sob of relief escaped Mrs. Curtis as she heard the recommendation for mercy for her husband. Mr. Curtis took the verdict like a stoic, but Morse was unable to conceal the disappointment he felt.

A Park Commission

For the City's Play Grounds

For many years the city of Peterborough has been exceptionally fortunate in the way of park and play grounds in fact it is doubtful if any city of a similar size can boast of as many or as beautiful public resorts. This however, is by no means the most fortunate side. The parks here have cost the people practically nothing, and are today costing very little. Still the beauty spots here are known and talked about in many other towns and cities in Ontario. The reasons for all this are not many. As a matter of fact only two or three causes can be attributed to the present favorable condition of affairs. The estate of the late Mrs. Nicholls is responsible for the presence of and maintenance of Nicholls Oval, Inverlea Park, and Jackson Park. The Horticultural Society is to be credited with the care of Victoria Park and Central Park.

The work of the Horticultural Society is one worthy of all praise and the citizens generally should at least acknowledge the labors of those gentlemen who make up the membership of that organization. It is to be regretted, however, that comparatively few of those who receive the most benefit and derive the most pleasure from the efforts of the society realize that they are taxed practically nothing for that pleasure, and others again do not care, but go on thoughtlessly taking all that comes their way with no thought of where it comes from or who provides it. Consequently a great deal of damage is done and under present conditions there is no way of stopping it. The Horticultural Society are merely agents. They do the work, spend the money and make things look well. The irresponsible, or thoughtless people, some of whom are prominent merchants who distribute advertising matter, do the damage by cheating out and by causing waste paper to be thrown promiscuously by destroying the sod and by trampling on and rooting up the flower beds. The Horticultural Society members, at least those who take an interest in the work, know what is going on but they cannot stop it as they have no authority, neither have they any protection.

Such things have brought about an agitation for a complete change in the program. The Horticultural Society has done a great work. The members have always taken great pleasure out of the work. The time has come, however, for a change. The officers of the society are of opinion that the city should appoint a parks commission and hand over to them the care of the parks. Especially is this feeling strong in regards to Central Park, which will require the expenditure of a large sum of money to put it into proper shape again, and the society have not the funds to handle the work.

There is a new park in the south end of the city, recently acquired and which it is proposed to lay out and plant with trees and shrubs next year. This would come under the hands of the commission, and this body could also take over the society's lease of Victoria Park. A parks commission has been spoken of before, but just now there appears to be a determination to make a change which it is believed will be better for all parties.

Prisoner Terminated Life By Chewing His Own Tongue

(Times Special).

Vancouver, Nov. 6. — Arthur Newman, a prisoner, committed suicide yesterday in a novel manner. He was found bleeding from the mouth. There were no weapons in his cell, and the only conclusion the prison officials could come to, was that he had chewed his tongue. He was rushed to the hospital, but died later of heart failure and loss of blood.

Newman was serving the last year of a five-year term for burglary committed in Vancouver.

This Blood Made Strong

TIREDNESS AND WEAKNESS OVERCOME.

A Joyous Letter.

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. H. B. Campbell. "At last I felt sort of tired in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remember my sleep was disturbed, and I would awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin, lost my color, got nervous and fearful about nothing, and kept thinking about myself all the time, and was irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if I had not taken Ferrozone, I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and in a little while, less than three months, no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere. I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advantage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance. It's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men, women and children use Ferrozone every day and all say it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers.

Mayor Charged Up Daughter's Expense to France

(Special to The Times)

Montreal, Nov. 6.—Much interest is being taken in the quo-warrante proceedings taken for the purpose of unseating the members of the Finance Committee for having used money for sending Mayor Payette and his daughter, and Secretary Rose Hauser and wife to France last summer. It was the presence of the two ladies which led to the proceedings.

Argument began before Mr. Justice Mathieu today. Messrs. L. J. Ethier K.C., and A. W. Adwater, K. C., on behalf of the Finance Committee contended that their action was quite legal. It was impossible to state in advance the amount of the expenses as they were not known. The payment was authorized and they had the certificate of the city control to show that the reserve funds were sufficient to meet the payment. They admit that the expense of the mayor's daughter, and the secretary's wife had been paid, but argued that the Finance Committee did not know this at the time.

No Block System Between Chicago and Montreal

(Times Special).

Montreal, Nov. 6.—Official denial is made of the rumor that the Grand Trunk intends to install the block system along its line between Montreal and Chicago. This may be true as regards future development, but it is an expensive improvement that is not now contemplated.

Schooner went Ashore off Maine

(Times Special).

St. John's, Newfoundland, Nov. 6. —The Schooner Ella May from New York to St. John's, laden with a cargo of coal is ashore at Browns Island, Maine, and it is feared the crew may be lost as no sign of them or of a boat can be found. Capt. Geo. E. Gale of St. John, is in command of the schooner which is owned here.

HOCKEY

(Times Special)

Stratford, Oct. 6.—The annual meeting of the Stratford Hockey Club was held here tonight, when the boys reorganized for the season. There was a large attendance, and lots of enthusiasm and the club starts out with a very bright future. Mr. Chas. Farquharson was nominated for a place on the O.H.A. Executive. Which series the boys will enter this year was left for the new executive to decide.

Basketball

Two very fast and stubbornly contested games of basketball were pulled off at the Y.M.C.A. last night. The first game was between the Tigers and Rustlers, and resulted in a win for the former by a score of 47 to 28. The second game between Brownies and Maple Leafs, resulted in a victory for the former by 19 to 17. The teams lined up as follows;

Tigers — Stanbon, Wallace, Hall, Loomis and Ray.

Rustlers—Dobbin, McGuire, Mulhern, Pringle and Lees.

Maple Leafs—Sutherland, Lang, Best, Downing and Martin.

Brownies — Fitzpatrick, Cressman, Miller, Darling and Hall.

A Sure Cure for Woman's Troubles!

Ten Days' Treatment Free

is a certain cure for all disorders of women. It is applied locally, and is absorbed into the suffering tissue. The dead waste matter in the congested region is expelled, giving immediate mental and physical relief; the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened, and the circulation is rendered normal. As this treatment is based on strictly scientific principles, and acts on the actual location of the disease, it cannot help but effect a cure of all forms of female trouble, including delayed and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, etc. Price $1.00 per box, which is sufficient for one month's treatment. A free Trial Treatment, enough for 10 days, worth 50c will be sent to any suffering woman who will send me her address. I will also obtain for her free medical advice from the eminent specialist, Dr. D. N. Cooley, President of the Cooley Med. Inst. about any special feature of her case which she may desire information about.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

WILLIAM TAFT PRESIDENT ELECT

Mr. Taft is no shrinking violet whose perfume has been wasted "on the desert air," and there is no difficulty in gathering the salient facts in his career. Indeed, the chief incidents are a matter of departmental record, for the President-elect has been an office-holder almost since he could vote. It is rather curious that though the greatest office in the gift of the people of the United States has been bestowed on him, the chief ambition of his heart has not been filled, nor will it be until he has finished his career at the White House. Mr. Taft's remaining desire is to become a judge of the Supreme Court. Twice before has this coveted honor been proferred to him, but on each occasion he felt called upon to refuse it, as he felt that the time was not ripe, and there was other work at hand to be done.

HIS FATHER A STATESMAN.

Mr. Taft's father before him was a public man, and by a strange coincidence was once Secretary of State for War, the very office that his son resigned to enter the Presidential campaign. Fifty-one years ago last September, William Howard Taft was born in Cincinnati, where his father was making a name for himself as a judge. The boy got his early schooling in the Ohio city, and then went to Yale. In the meantime, Judge Alphonso Taft was adding lustre to the family name by becoming Secretary of War, and later Attorney-General under President Grant. He was also Minister to Austria and to St. Petersburg, in the Arthur regime. William, the son, appears not to have been the typical "log cabin-to-White House" student, for he was of a very sociable disposition, and popular with the students.

AS A NEWSPAPER MAN.

After graduating he returned to Cincinnati, and spent two years in the Law School of the University of Cincinnati. Then he went to work as a court reporter for his half-brother, Charles Phelps Taft, who was the owner of the Cincinnati Times. Shortly afterward he was weaned away by Murat Halstead, the famous editor of the Cincinnati Commercial. Mr. Halstead wanted young Taft to remain in journalism, but the prospect failed to charm him, and he seized the first opportunity of legal work, by becoming Assistant Prosecuting Attorney.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL AND JUDGE.

Next year he was appointed a collector of Inland Revenue, but resigned after eighteen months, and began the practice of his profession. In 1885 he became Assistant County Solicitor, a position he held until Governor Foraker, of malodorous Standard Oil memory, made him a judge of the Superior Court. By another coincidence, this also was a position held by his father twenty years before. Three years later he was appointed Solicitor-General of the United States made chairman of the Second Commission to the Philippines by President McKinley. A year later military rule in the islands ceased, and Judge Taft returned home. In 1903 he was offered and declined a seat on the Supreme Court bench, as he felt that the Philippines needed him. In 1904 he was made Secretary of War, and took charge of the work on the Panama Canal. In the Fall of the same year he undertook a mission to Panama; and in the Spring of 1906 declined another opportunity to become a member of the Supreme Court. The importance of the canal work was the reason assigned for this refusal. In the fall of 1906 more work was found for him in Cuba, where he went to reconcile the warring factions. This he succeeded in doing in the capacity of Provisional Governor, after which he made way for Governor Magoon. In the past year and a half Mr. Taft has paid official visits to the Philippines, Cuba, Japan, Russia and Germany. His summer home is at Murray Bay, Quebec.

THE TAFT "BOOM."

The Taft "boom" began with President Roosevelt's definite announcement that he would not be a candidate for re-election. The President himself was responsible for the movement that resulted in Mr. Taft's election. At the Republican nomination in Chicago, on June 19, Senator Foraker, Senator Knox, Speaker Cannon, and Governor Hughes were nominated. It had been expected that Hughes would be the strongest factor in the opposition to the Secretary of War. As a matter of fact, there was one sustained attempt to stampede the delegates for Roosevelt. After that it was plain sailing for Mr. Taft.

The election of the Republican candidate, Mr. Taft, to the Presidency of the United States must have been generally expected. The people of the United States in large majority are mainly disposed to maintain in power the party which has handled its public affairs ever since 1860, with lapses of only two Presidential terms. And in Mr. Taft they have chosen a man who will probably shed new lustre on the honorable records of the high office he is to hold.

In the final issue of great national questions it has been shown tht the questions it has been shown that the people of the United States make few mistakes. They achieve the national advantage by the exercise of the individual sanity. Great causes have been won and bad causes have been shattered through the disposition of the powerful independent vote, which however far the individual voter may incline to the one political party or the other, is almost invariably cast for the cause which is right.

In the recent election, as in many previous elections, it was observed that in several states where Taft polled large Republican majorities, Democratic Governors were elected. The votes for President and Governor were cast by the same men, in the same polling booths, at the same moment. The circumstance indicates the ability of great masses of voters in the United States to hold themselves independent of party and to vote as they think best in the interest of themselves and their country. That is a good spirit, and it would be well for us if we had more of it here in Canada.

The Third Annual Y.M.C.A. Conference

The Third Annual Conference for the Older Y.M.C.A. Boys of Ontario to be held in Peterborough on November 7th, 8th and 9th, promises to be the best conference that has yet been held. If the programme is any indication the conference will be a great success, and will mean a great deal to the local association. It will give the boys some idea of what is going on in the different associations all over the province, and one will meet the best of the boys of Ontario. About 150 delegates are expected from all over the province. The different churches of the city have kindly consented to supply billets for the boys who attend from outside places from Saturday night to Monday noon.

This is an opportunity that every boy should take, especially the members of the local Y.M.C.A. A hearty invitation is extended to all boys over fourteen years of age. The boys who represent the Peterborough Association will receive a blue and white badge with the word Peterborough on it, so that they can be distinguished by the other boys.

Any boy who would like to attend a registered card, and get the Peterborough colors.

The following is the programme:—

News in Brief

Kingston, Ont., November 2. — The smallpox scare is assuming alarming proportions here, no less than ten cases have been discovered within the last forty-eight hours. Dr. R. W. Bell, provincial health officer, has been called here and verified the diagnosis of the local health officer, Dr. J. H. Bell. Thirteen patients are now confined at the new isolation hospital, Fort Henry, with Dr. Hunter in charge. The local health officer threatens to prosecute several doctors for their carelessness in handling cases that have come under their observation.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., November 5. —The provincial campaign is now on in full swing, there being only fifteen days before election. Premier Haszard has issued a Liberal platform, including the following planks: Pressing further rights against the Dominion government; the abolition of the provincial debt; the improvement of the educational system; the appointment of an educational commission, cheaper school books; further encouragement of agriculture; establishment of an experimental farm to be conducted by the Federal Government; assisting telephone extension in rural districts; the survey of Northumberland Straits to determine the practicability of a tunnel; defining the fishery rights with a view to better management and protection; equitable transportation rates, and the restoration of federal representation in the House of Commons.

Chatham, Ont., October 30.—Crown Attorney H. D. Smith announces that the Crown will press the prosecution of Elliott Kimball, late chief of police of Leamington, charged with the shooting of W. J. Healey, of Tilbury. The jury were unable to agree Wednesday night, and they were discharged. The case will come up again at the spring assizes.

Kimball is being held in custody until the Attorney-General's Department is heard from in the matter of bail.

London, Nov. 2.—Advocating the union of Newfoundland and Canada, the Morning Post says: "Economically, the little colony pays a heavy price for its isolation; politically, the advantages of union would be yet more pronounced. Canada will not gain less than Newfoundland, for she would be reassured by the permanent, fraternal British stock to be found anywhere beyond the sea, continuing alike in their lives and blood the traditions of England's maritime greatness.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2 — Something new in aeronautics was attempted today, when a balloon with a capacity of 110,000 cubic feet of gas shot up into the air with an automobile where a basket is usually suspended. The balloon carried Carl G. Fisher of Indianapolis, and G. L. Bumbaugh of Springfield.

The idea of the aeronauts is to roll up the balloon on landing and return by automobile to the place of starting. The automobile weighs 1,500 pounds.

Dayton, Ohio, is said to be the objective point of the trip. A southeasterly direction was taken from here.

The balloon descended near Southport, Ind., seven miles from Indianapolis, after being in the air two hours and ten minutes. Bumbaugh and Fisher returned to Indianapolis in the automobile. The automobile made the landing without the least mishap.

Vienna, Nov. 6.—The "Wiener Betrabiatt Illustrirte" announces that a marriage has been arranged between Prince Miguel of Braganza, the eldest son of the Pretender to the Portuguese throne, and Miss Mary Pullman, and that the ceremony will be celebrated in London the end of November.

London, Nov. 4.—A dispatch to "The Daily Telegraph" from Vienna says that Prince Miguel and Miss Pullman met at Ostend and were introduced to each other by a Hungarian aristocrat, who was instrumental in arranging the marriage of Count Szechenyi and Miss Gladys Vanderbilt.

The marriage of Prince Miguel of Braganza to Mrs. Samuel Bryan Chauncey, the daughter of J. H. Carr, of Louisville, Ky., was reported to have taken place early in September, but later this report was denied.

London, Nov. 6—General Booth, interviewed, made the statement that the Salvation Army emigrants to British Columbia have proved a God send. The general asks what is the use of a big empire if we don't use it for assisting poor, struggling workpeople.

"I wish you wouldn't go to the fort, though. You've heard dad—you know how he feels."

"I wouldn't go if I didn't have to. But the temperature's falling. By sundown they'll begin changing the sentries at Brannon every hour. No one man could stay out even half the night. And this shack has to be guarded till morning. I must get some one to relieve me."

"I suppose you're right," she said reluctantly.

He brought the horse about. "Is there anything I can do before I go?" he asked.

"No. We've got everything but wood, and Charley brings us that."

"Charley," repeated Lounsbury. "Who's Charley?"

She told him.

He seemed relieved. "I'll look that Indian up," he said, and raised his hand to his cap.

From the road he looked around. Despite the distance he could see that the girls were where he had left them, and Marylyn's head was once more pressed against her sister. The sight made him writhe in his saddle and wish he were as old as the river bluffs themselves, that he might go back and protect them. As he descended to the ice their two faces rose before him. One, pretty and pale, with the soft roundness of a child's, the blue eyes filled with all a child's terror and entreaty; the other, pale, too, though upon it there still lingered the brown of the summer sun, but firm of outline, its crown a heavy coil of braids, its center, eyes that were brave, steadfast, compelling.

The first picture blurred in remembering the second. "God bless her!" he murmured. "To think she knew all the time and never cheeped!"

At the shack Dallas, too, was pondering—over a strange contrariety. Their home was in danger, perhaps their very lives. Yet the day had fulfilled its promise of the morning—it was the happiest in her life!

The ramshackle ferryboat was firmly wedged in a drydock of ice on the western side of the Missouri. As Lounsbury passed it, with his horse following pluckily in spreadeagle fashion, he shouted for old Michael. But long before the river had flooded, when it was edging and covering only in the least swift places, the pilot had made his final crossing, ran the wheezy steamer nose-on against the bank and deserted her. So the storekeeper received no answering halloo. He was disappointed. It was desirable to embroil as few as possible in the Lancaster dispute. Old Michael, already a factor, was needed to act the picket—to fire a warning signal if Matthews left Shanty Town.

A substitute was found at the stables. The storekeeper as he rushed away after disposing of his mount came upon Lieutenant Fraser busily roaching his own riding animal, a flighty buckskin cayuse that no one else cared to handle and that was affectionately known in barracks as the "she devil." The men had met before, around the billiard table at the sutler's, and Lounsbury had set the young officer down for a chivalrous but rather chicken hearted youngster, who had chosen his profession unwisely. So, his story told, the storekeeper was altogether surprised at Fraser's spirited enthusiasm and quick response.

"I've nothing to do, old man," he said as they went toward the parade ground. "I can help as well as not. So just take your time. I'll watch for you."

"I hardly think our man 'll show his nose before dark. But I can't leave the way open"—

"Don't fret."

They parted at the flagpole, the West Pointer going down to the river and Lounsbury hurrying off in the opposite direction.

Colonel Cummings' entry and reception rooms were crowded when the storekeeper entered. A score of officers were standing about in little groups talking excitedly. But Lounsbury was too anxious and distraught to notice anything unusual. He hurried up to a tall, sad faced man whose mustache, thin and coarse, drooped sheer over his mouth, giving him the look of a martyred walrus.

"Can I see the K. O., Captain Oliver?" he asked. "It's important."

"I'll find out," answered the captain. "But I don't believe you can. He's up to his ears." He disappeared into the next room.

Lounsbury bowed to several officers, though he scarcely saw them. He heard Oliver's low voice, evidently announcing him, then the colonel's.

"Yes, bring him in," cried the latter. "Maybe he'll know."

The storekeeper entered without waiting. Colonel Cummings stood in the center of the room. It was the room known as his library, in compliment to a row of dog eared volumes that had somehow survived many a wet bivouac and rough march. But it resembled a museum. In the corners, on the walls beneath the bulky heads of buffalo and the branching antlers of elk, there were swords, tomahawks, bows and arrows, strings of glass wampum, cartridge belts, Indian bonnets, drums and shields and a miscellany of warlike odds and ends. Today the room was further littered by maps, which covered the table, the benches and the whole length of an army cot. Over one of these hung the colonel, making imaginary journeys with the end of a dead cigar.

He turned swiftly to Lounsbury and caught him by the shoulders. "John," he said before the other could speak, "I need an interpreter. You've been about here for years. Do you know one?"

"There's Soggy, that Phil Kearny fellow"—

The colonel gave a grunt of disgust. "In jail at Omaha," he said. "Played cards with a galoot who had some aces in his boot tops. Plugged him."

"What's the matter with your Reese?"

"That's just it! You see, that bunch of Sioux out there"—he jerked his head toward the stockade—"helped in a bit of treachery two summers ago. Rounded up some friendly Ilees at a dance and scalped 'em. So—there's poison for you! in this business on hand I couldn't trust even my head scout." He began pacing the floor. "Anyway, sign language, when there are terms to be made and kept, isn't worth a hang!"

"I wish I could suggest a man," said Lounsbury. "Fact is, colonel, I'm terribly worried myself. I came to ask you for help in some trouble"—

The old soldier threw up his hands. "Trouble!" he cried. "Why, I'm simply daft with it! Look at that!" He pointed to the farthest side of the room.

It was dimly lighted. Lounsbury stepped forward and peered down—then recoiled as startled as if he had happened upon something dead. On the floor was a man, a man whose back was bent rounding and whose arms and legs were hugged up against his abdomen and chest. Torso and limbs were alike, frightfully shrunken; the hands, mere claws. Lounsbury could not see the face. But the hair

AN OLD INDIAN MYTH

MOUNT TAHOMA MADE FIRST.

Then Came the Trees, the Birds, the Fishes and All the Animals, With the Grizzly Bear the Last and the Greatest of All—The Origin of Man.

The Indians say that the Great Spirit made Mount Tahoma the first of all. Boring a hole in the sky, using a large stone as an auger, he pushed down snow and ice until they reached the desired height, then stepped from cloud to cloud down to the great icy pile and from it to the earth, where he planted the first trees by merely putting his finger into the soil here and there. The sun began to melt the snow, the snow produced water, the water ran down the side of the mountain, refreshed the trees and made rivers. The Great Spirit gathered the leaves that fell from the trees, blew upon them, and they became birds. He took a stick and broke it into pieces. Of the small end he made fishes, and of the middle of the stick he made animals, the grizzly bear excepted, which he formed from the big end of the stick, appointing him to be master over all the others.

Indeed, this animal grew so large, strong and cunning that the Creator somewhat feared him and so hollowed out Mount Tahoma as a wigwam for himself where he might reside while on earth in the most perfect security and comfort. So the smoke was soon to be seen curling up from the mountain where the Great Spirit and his family lived and still live, though their hearth fire is alight no longer, now that the white man is in the land. This was thousands of snows ago.

After this came a late and severe springtime, in which a memorable storm blew up from the sea, shaking the huge lodge to its base. The Great Spirit commanded his daughter, then little more than an infant, to go up and bid the wind to be still, cautioning her at the same time not to put her head out into the blast, but only to thrust out her little arm and make a sign before she delivered her message.

The eager child hastened up to the hole in the roof, did as she was told and then turned to descend, but her curiosity impelled her to look at the forbidden world outside and the rivers and trees, at the far ocean and the great waves that the storm had made as hoary as the forest when the snow is on the firs. So she stopped and put out her head to look. Instantly the storm took her by the long hair and blew her down to the earth, down the mountain side, over the smooth ice and soft snow, down to the land of the grizzly bears.

Now, the grizzly bears were then somewhat different from what they are at the present time. In appearance, it is true, they were much the same, but they walked then on their hind legs like men and talked and carried clubs, using the fore limbs as men use their arms. At the foot of the mountain, at the place where the child was blown to, lived a family of grizzlies. The father grizzly was returning from the hunt with his club on his shoulder and a young elk in his hand when he saw the shivering little waif lying on the snow with her hair all tangled about her.

The old grizzly, pitying and wondering at the strange, forlorn creature, lifted it up and carried it in to his wife to see what should be done. She, too, was pitiful and fed it from her own breast, bringing it up as one of their family. So the daughter of the Great Spirit grew up, and the eldest son of the old grizzly married her, and their offspring was neither grizzly nor Great Spirit, but man.—Forest and Stream.

An Original Oath of Allegiance.

In the old days when the Spanish province of Aragon was a proud and independent monarchy the people used when choosing their king the following singular form of election:

"We, the freeborn inhabitants of the ancient kingdom of Aragon, who are equal to you, Don Philip, and something more, elect you to be our king on condition that you preserve to us our rights and privileges. If in this you should fail we own you for our king no longer."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have the same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is to be directed to these weak and wasting nerves mainly. It builds it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person, by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

The Red Ferns.

"Stop the auto!"

"But, sir"—

"I think I saw some red ferns."

"Better lemme keep on, boss," advised the chauffeur earnestly. "Them red ferns is the local constable's whiskers."

The Open Window.

The best part of a modern house is its windows. To keep these open day and night and to make the air inside approach as nearly as possible the air outside should be the first business of the housekeeper.

A Precaution.

Model of Old Quebec.

Among the recent additions to the objects of interest in the archives branch is a complete model of old Quebec City, which was sent one hundred years ago to the British Government by Colonel By, the founder of Ottawa.

The model was sent probably for military purposes and has been in Woolwich arsenal since. Dr. Doughty has succeeded in securing it and it will repose in the capital hereafter.

Wolfe's chair, which was donated by the Prince of Wales, was another interesting historical relic now in the archives' branch.

Rheumatism promptly driven from the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. Don't waste time with common remedies. A test will surely tell. In tablet or liquid form. Sold by all druggists.

C. G. E. Company Constructing an Electric Locomotive

It is not generally known in Peterborough yet it is beyond dispute a fact that at the Canadian General Electrical Works there is in the course of construction an electrical locomotive—the first, that has ever been constructed in Peterborough. The engine was ordered a few months ago to be built for use in a tunnel at Shawinigan Falls, Que., to replace the steam locomotive. The engine in size is about one-half as it first ordered and is more in the line of a department being used in such tunnels. The first machine of its kind ever built in Peterborough, and is said to be the first ever manufactured in the Dominion of Canada. It will probably be completed in the course of a week or ten days and will then be shipped to Shawinigan Falls.

Largest and Best Cadet Corps in the Province

The Peterboro Cadet Corps passed a very creditable inspection yesterday morning at the Armouries by Lieut.-Colonel Hemming, D.O.C. Kingston, district commanding officer, being assisted by Lieut.-Colonel Miller, Major L. M. Hayes and Captain Hall. The cadets have been under the capable training of Lieuts. Hodgson and Merritt and their showing yesterday was indeed a splendid tribute to the capable instruction they received at the hands of these two gentlemen.

The cadets, 124 strong, in four companies, marched to the Riverside Park, where the inspection took place. They were put through the different military manoeuvres in excellent manner, going through the exercises in a quick, soldier-like fashion.

At the conclusion Col. Hemming expressed himself as being greatly surprised with the corps. He thought that he would find only one company but instead of that he found four. In his opinion it was the best and largest cadet corps in the Dominion.

Col. Miller and Major L. M. Hayes were present at the inspection.

The teachers and girls of the school were also there. The Collegiate had a half holiday yesterday.

The Convention will Open Today

In connection with the Y.M.C.A. boys' convention which opens this afternoon, it is necessary that all local boys should register with the boys' secretary, Mr. Evans, before the first session.

It is hoped that the boys will turn out this morning and meet the trains on which the delegates will arrive. Badges can be secured at the Y.M.C.A. The first delegates will arrive by eight o'clock, so the boys will have to get around early to welcome the visitors.

Thanksgiving Service

First Church of Christ, Scientist, 378 Aylmer street, will have a thanksgiving service at 10 a.m., Monday. A special sermon has been prepared. The public are cordially invited. No money offering at this service.

Sunday Meeting

Between 125 and 150 delegates will take part in the Boys' Convention at the Y.M.C.A., which opens this afternoon. The big feature of the gathering so far as the public are concerned is the rally for boys, 11 years and over in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Sunday afternoon, when Mr. R. A. Waite, jr., of New York, will address the meeting.

Disease of The Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

MR. GEORGE KING

Mr. George King, 453 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realise that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognise the difficulty as being caused catarrh.

INTERNAL CATARRH REACHES THE KIDNEYS.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys fail to work properly, health surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics for the ills and tired feeling of spring. Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton, of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure, helpful for old and young.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others, equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at the published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

GIFFORD EXTENSION MINES, LIMITED

(NO PERSONAL LIABILITY)

Recognizing that the public to-day anxiously looks for opportunities to invest in legitimate mining enterprises.

Having carefully watched the growth and development of the Cobalt Camp from its beginning and having seen mere prospects become great Shipping Mines, sending out to the Smelters of this continent Trainloads of the Richest Ore ever shipped.

More and more clearly has it been demonstrated that never were such opportunities offered to the Canadian Public as to-day.

RIGHT AT HOME, within 12 hours' ride by rail from Toronto, WEALTH is exposed both on the SURFACE and AT DEPTH that the ordinary mind can only vaguely comprehend.

Many Toronto Brokers visited Cobalt recently and so enthused did they become that the entire Toronto Mining Exchange goes to Cobalt this week to spend several days inspecting the Camp.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW ALL ABOUT COBALT AND HAVE NOT BEEN THERE

ASK YOUR BROKER ABOUT IT

Remember That in the Cobalt Camp, Only 4 Years Old, There Are Today More Dividend-Paying Mines Than Are Listed on All Foreign Exchanges

Do you realize that millions have already been paid in dividends? And that even at present depth many more millions are now blocked out than have yet been shipped. Also that development on the wonderful Temiskaming veins means to every mine owner in that part of Cobalt many millions are yet to be mined at great depth. Is it possible that this great lode exists on the Temiskaming alone?

No! We are already aware that the GANS portion of the Temiskaming acreage shows a 12-inch vein running in a southerly direction, and this alone is worth the entire Temiskaming capitalization.

Does this vein stop on the GANS? No! No! This ore chute extends the whole length of the camp. Richer, of course, where it comes in contact with the diabase, and leaner in values when furthest from them.

Read our geologist's report. Observe the mention of these contacts or intrusions of diabase on the Gifford Extension. Go there and see for yourself. You do not need to be a geologist nor yet a mining man to make comparisons of surface indications.

You will easily detect the similarity of formations. Only twenty chains south of these great veins, and having an acreage with a width of over a quarter of a mile in which to pick them up, with indisputable surface evidences that WE HAVE THESE VEINS in the very centre of our property, we have no hesitation in urging the immediate purchase of this stock.

We have 50 acres. This is no mere prospect with surface indications, but a property with good veins, on which genuine development has already been done.

Shafts have already been sunk, which will be continued to greater depth. The main shaft is now down 86 feet, from which point we will immediately start diamond drilling and prove up our ore bodies.

A diamond drill has been purchased, to be delivered in two weeks, and progress will be faithfully reported to our shareholders.

FOUR HUNDRED POUNDS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODED

Montreal Badly Shaken—Thousands of Windows in Business Section were Shattered—Barge Blew Up

Montreal, Nov. 9.—The whole city of Montreal was shaken as by an earthquake just before one o'clock this afternoon, when four hundred pounds of dynamite on a river barge exploded. The concussion was so tremendous that many thousands of windows in the business part of the city were smashed, and buildings rocked so as to move furniture. While a good deal of damage was caused to sheds on the guard piers, there was fortunately no loss of life, only one person being near the barge when the dynamite exploded, and he escaped without injury.

The dynamite was the property of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners and was intended for blasting operations in connection with dredging the channel. The barge was moored fifty feet in the stream, and flew a flag announcing that she had a load of explosives. The dynamite was carried in a shack on the barge deck, and a stove was kept going in the hut to keep the dynamite from freezing. In some way the stove set fire to the shack, and this soon put the fire out by the process of blowing the barge into fragments. There was a man just leaving the barge when the fire started. He was warned of his danger by whistles from other craft and rowed away as hard as he could, getting about a hundred yards away before the explosion occurred. Although the terrific concussion nearly threw him boat out of the water he was not hurt.

The force of the explosion was felt by all the ships in the harbor, and they were rocked as though in a storm. On Commissioners street, which caught the full concussion, hardly a window was left, and the street was littered inches deep with broken glass. Along the harbor front as far up as Notre Dame street, thousands of windows were smashed, the broken glass making the sidewalks almost impassable. A number of doors were also broken open, and the whole district thrown into such confusion that Chief Campeau has been compelled to send all his reserve police to make a special guard for the business places in order to prevent robbery.

It is impossible to estimate the damage caused by the explosion, but it will certainly be very heavy, as many valuable sheets of plate glass were shattered. The loss will, of course, fall on the Government through the Harbor Commissioners.

Annual Supper of St. Anorews Ladies' Aid

A greater success than ever is the best that can be said of the annual supper given by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church. As is customary the affair took place on Thanksgiving night, and between 400 and 500 people gathered in the lecture hall between the hours of 5.3 0and 8 o'clock and partook of the good things which had been provided. The first tables were set at 5.30 and they were filled, and from that time on there was hardly time to clear away the dishes before the empty chairs were taken again. Fortunately a bountiful supply of food had been provided and everyone was enabled to have a good supper. As a result of the affair the society will have a large sum of money to place in their treasury.

After the dinner was over a short programme was given in the church and a large number remained and enjoyed it.

The programme was as follows:—
Hymn 686, "Come Ye Thoughtful People."
Duet—Messrs. Cutting and Mortimer Johnston.
Reading—Mr. Robertson
Solo—Miss B. King
Reading—Mr. D. McD. Robertson
Solo—Miss Florence Manning
Reading—Mr. Robertson.
SSolo—Mr. Gordon Wright.
Address—Rev. E. A. Pearson
A motion of thanks was moved by Mr. Andrew McFarlane and John Stanger, and was carried National Anthem.

Mrs. P. A. Kerr and Mrs. C. B. McClelland, pianists.

Mr. Regnar delighted the audience with several well rendered selections on the pipe organ, of which the following are a couple— "The Sixteen Herdsman's Hymn," "The Wedding March," "The Wedding March of the Priest," and "Esquisse Militaire."

Simpson Ran Second in the Hamilton Herald Road Race Yesterday

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 9.—Simpson, the Hiawatha Indian of Peterborough, was second in the Herald road race here this morning, being only 3 minutes and 12 seconds behind Hans Holmer, of Halifax, a young Englishman. As a result Simpson's stock has gone up a lot among the fathers of the athletic fraternity and considerable results are looked for from Simpson.

Hans Holmer, who holds the one mile record, won the Herald road race, a distance of 19 miles and 168 yards, in 1 hour 56 min. and 16 sec which is 2 min. 33 sec. behind the record of Sammy Mellor in 1904, and almost 3 min. behind Longboat's time in 1906. Holmer was looked after by Longboat. Out of 34 who entered 20 started, and the first nine to finish were—

Hans Holmer, Halifax, in 1.51.16.
Fred Simpson, I.C.A.C., Peterborough, 4.5128.
Harold Parsons, Neepawa, Manitoba, 1.5420.
Tom Cooley
Charles Cook, Hamilton
Roy H Porter, Hamilton
Ernie Woods, I. C. A. C., Toronto.
John Roe, Toronto.
Frank Munson, Uxbridge.

Holmer finished fresh and strong and looked to be good for twice the distance. After finishing he wrenched out his mouth and pushed his way through the crowd to sit for his photograph. This was his first attempt at long distance running, and as good as 20 to 1 were laid against him, although just before the race 4 to 1 was the best that was offered.

Simpson was the first Irish Canadian to finish, and he did so in second position, the same place he got last year, though hardly in as good time by about one minute. With proper handling he might have won as five miles from the finish he was in sixth place, and appeared to be just warming up. He mowed down his opponents one by one in easy style and looked to be after Holmer's scalp.

Parson, who was third, ran unplaced on the race on a previous occasion, but this year was a strong favorite less than many being offered. He won the Winnipeg Telegram race.

Tom Cooley was a poor fourth.

Drunken Man Blew His Head off at St. Thomas

(Special to the Times.)

St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—Lying in a ditch with his toe fastened in one end of a shawl strap, while the other end was fastened to the trigger of a shotgun, Joseph Harty, of Aylmer, put the muzzle of the gun to his temple and blew his brains out this morning. He was 55 years of age, and had been drinking heavily of late. For the past few days he had been in a semi-comatose condition as a result of his heavy libations. He had been contemplating suicide for several days. To-day his wife went to Ingersoll on a visit, leaving her two daughters at home, one being unmarried, while the other is just back from her honeymoon trip. Harty also leaves two sons, George, of Galt, and John of Buffalo.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS IN CONVENTION HERE

The third annual convention of the boys of the Y. M. C. A. is in full swing here, and is being attended by over 125 delegates. It is the first time anything of the kind has been attempted in this city, and those who are at the head of it are entitled to credit. The convention is not only a big success spiritually but socially. The boys are having a first-class time and are well pleased with the reception they are receiving at the hands of the local Y. M. C. A.

The delegates began to arrive early in the morning and were met by the various committees and escorted to the Y. M. C. A., where they registered and were assigned to their respective homes. In the afternoon the first session was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, where a big crowd gathered. In the evening a banquet was tendered, followed by addresses, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Sunday was pretty much left to the boys to attend church where they wished.

Y.M.C.A. Delegates Dine Entertained by Local Boys

One of the features of the third annual boys' conference now in progress at the Y. M. C. A. building was the banquet held in the gymnasium on Saturday evening. About one hundred and fifty boys were in attendance and the event was an enjoyable as well as instructive gathering. At 6.30 o'clock the boys sat down to a sumptuous repast prepared by the ladies of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary, and the boys were loud in their praises of the excellent things provided. The supper was interspersed by club yells and songs from the different ones represented.

After justice had been done to the dainty viands, Mr. W. Foggie, of Ottawa took the chair and called upon Mr. Max Dobbin for a few remarks. On behalf of the boys' association here Mr. Dobbin extended a hearty welcome to the visiting delegates. He stated that when it was announced that the conference would be held here he did not think there would be more than thirty or forty delegates present. Instead of that there was 125 in attendance. He was sure that much would be learned as a result of the conference.

Messrs. John Bainbridge, of Hamilton; P. Buffman, Toronto West End Y.M.C.A.; James Pedley, Toronto Central, and A. W. Milks, Ottawa, responded to the welcome, expressing their delight at being present and speaking in the highest terms of the reception accorded them, and of the city of Peterborough.

Boys representing the different associations then extended invitations to the conference to meet in their towns next year.

Mr. Clarence Dunn, of Toronto Central, spoke on the subject of "Our business in Peterborough." He said that some boys had come to Peterough to see the city and to have a good time. That should not be the motive in attending a boys' conference. Our business here should be to learn something of boys' work that they might go back to their several institutions and impart to the ones there some of the instruction they had received.

Mr. C. C. Robinson, State Boys' Secretary, Maine, was the next speaker. He addressed the boys on the subject of "Leadership." He said that leadership was a subject that was engaging the minds of many people at the present time. He thought that if the boys who had come to Peterborough did not know more when they returned home than when they came, they had lost their time. "If you are going to lead you must excel" he said. He urged his hearers to let Jesus Christ be the supplement of their lives and to fight sin and vice in His name.

Mr. White then addressed the boys after which the gathering was brought to a close.

Sunday Afternoon Session at the Y.M.C.A.

The feature of the boys' Y. M. C. A. convention in progress here Sunday was the big meeting in the Conservatory of Music Hall in the afternoon. That handsome hall was nearly full of young men and boys including many local fellows as well as the delegates. It was purely a mens meeting and the addresses were all directed by young men to young men, with the result that not a little good was accomplished.

Soon after 3 o'clock the delegates began to arrive and a short preparatory service was held before the general session was opened.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was Mr. H. A. White, jr., of New York, who is taking a leading part in the Y. M. C. A. work in that city. His address was full of interest and was closely followed by all present. Several other young men also spoke and the object of all the addresses was to point out the great necessity of young men to denounce the worldly life and to proclaim themselves soldiers ready to fight for the great Leader. It was pointed out that to join a Y. M. C. A. and enjoy all the pleasures and privileges of that institution and to join the Church and still disown the real Head was a mockery, and one day every man would feel the shame of it.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the musical programme, which was lead by the orchestra and taken part in by all present. The affair was a decided success and every young man will be benefited by it.

Chorus by 125 scholars.
Invocation.
Address of Welcome—12 boys.
Solo and Chorus—Gladys Sudgrove and 40 children.
Dialogue—5 boys.
Chorus—60 children.
Recitation—6 boys.
Chorus—17 boys.
Quartette—Children.
Chorus and drill—40 girls.

Part II.
Recitation in concert—17 boys.
Recitation in concert—9 girls.
March, song and drill—Young men.
SSolo—John Ridyard.
Recitation—Miss Am. L. Doty.
The Seasons—18 girls.
Exercise—60 scholars.

Prospects of Campaign for Board of Education

Once or twice lately a brief notice has appeared in the press in reference to the mayoralty, although nothing definite has been announced. No person has stated that they intend being a candidate, although two or three are looking around and doing a little thinking. But there may be something doing in the Board of Education line. Between now and nomination day it will not be a surprise if two or three young men in the city do not allow their names to go before the public. If they do it will not be from any feeling of dissatisfaction or from any desire to put anyone out of their position. The idea which is prompting the new blood is a desire to take part in the public affairs, to assume their share of municipal responsibility and to prove themselves good citizens. That young men should rise is natural, and when men are found who are capable of filling a position, and who possess an ambition to take up the educational or municipal business they should receive every encouragement. It is all right to make them put up a little fight for it, and the young man will fight, but no man should think that because he has satisfied the people fairly well for a number of years that he has a divine right to occupy that position for the rest of his life. Let the young men come out and take up the work.

Inthon Bible Class

The Inthons gathered as usual in the George Street Church parlor on Sunday afternoon.

A report on the convention held in Orillia some time ago by the teacher, Rev. E. A. Pearson, and a report on the thousand men banquet held in Toronto last Tuesday night by Assistant Secretary Briggs, were given in place of the regular lesson.

Briggs might make a good speaker if he studied elocution for about six years.

At the close of the lesson Mr. C. C. Robinson, secretary of the State of Maine for the Y. M. C. A., addressed the school. Mr. Robinson is a splendid speaker.

After the regular friendly handshake the Inthons dismissed. Some of the fellows went to the Conservatory of Music and will give a report on the splendid addresses they heard.

Mr. F. A. Sisson, the class artist, had a very pretty design illustrating the lesson on the blackboard.

George Frost Killed by a Gas Explosion

(Special to the Times.)

Toronto, Nov. 9.—George Frost, 66 years old, was to-day burned to death as the result of an explosion of gas at his home in Deer Park. The deceased had been caretaker at Upper Canada College for 33 years, and to-day he was repairing a leak in the gas pipes and lit a match which caused the explosion. The building was damaged to the extent of $20.

Farewell Services at the S. A. Barracks

The farewell services of Staff-Captain Goodwin and Captain Macey were conducted by Adjutant Habkirk and were very largely attended. These officers are leaving the city since coming to this city and they will be greatly missed by the corps. Their successors will be Staff-Captain Walton, of the Temple, Toronto, who will arrive soon. On leaving the town the Staff-Captain and Captain Macey will leave for Montreal some time during the week to take up the work there.

At St. Luke's Church

The following meetings will be held at St. Luke's Church this week.

Tuesday evening—The Girls' Auxiliary at the rectory at 8 o'clock.

A good meeting of the Senior and Junior Chapters of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday afternoon—The Ladies' Aid, to make final arrangements for St. Luke's annual harvest supper entertainment and sale of work on Nov. 26th in the C. O. F. Hall on Simcoe street.

Wednesday evening—Weekly prayer service.

Thursday afternoon — Women's Auxiliary at 2.30.

Thursday evening—Executive of the A. Y. P. A. in the infant class room.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put this in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feet weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distressing "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "rising" or "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or more thoroughly than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested

Hon. J. H. Agnew Has Passed Away

(Special to the Times.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—Hon. J. H. Agnew, the Provincial Treasurer for Manitoba, died at 3.35 this afternoon. He was operated on for appendicitis last Monday. At midweek his condition had improved considerably and his recovery was looked for.

Tigers Defeated Montreal Team

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 9.—An exhibition rugby game was played here to-day between Montreal and the Tigers, in which the Tigers won by a score of 23 to 1. The usual bad luck was with the Tigers to-day, too. Walter Marriott, the fast outside wing, had his nose broken. To-day the doctor also discovered that Dan Lyon, who was injured in the Ottawa game, has a broken shoulder blade, and he will not be in the game again this year.

$125,000,000 for western Farmers

(Special to the Times.)

Montreal, Nov. 9.—F. W. Thompson, vice-president of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Limited, returned from the west to-day and stated that he estimated the total value of all the agricultural products of the three west on provinces this year would total $125,000,000. While away he was talking to one farmer near Winnipeg who had been there for 27 years and he said he had had 25 successful crops. The fall ploughing is now practically completed, and things look good for next year.

Labor Men and the Licenses

London, Ont., Nov. 9.—The Trades and Labor Council will circulate a petition to the council asking that the number of licenses in the city be reduced.

The action is taken in view of trouble between the brewers of the city and their men.

The hotelmen in town are now forming a protective union and will fight any such move.

Evidence of Prosperity in New York Market

New York, Nov. 6.—Following the tremendous buying movement of American securities in London and on the continent, the New York stock market opened today with higher prices all round, and an activity which has not been surpassed in a long time. Taft and Sherman's victory seemed to stimulate trading at financial and speculative centres and most of the stock exchange houses received orders to buy stocks from all parts of the country.

The volume of trading on the floor was great and united brokers rushed hither and thither to execute their commissions. Big blocks of stocks were bid for and sales were made so quickly that it was almost impossible to secure correct quotations. In the first half hour, 200,000 shares changed hands.

Pools immediately got to work. One in Amalgamated Copper was most aggressive, forcing a sharp advance in the stock. Among the rumors in circulation to-day was one that a Wall Street bull pool of $10,000,000 was formed last night by certain well known financial interests for the purpose of buying stocks on the theory that the election of Taft will be the signal for widespread buying movement for the public account. At Waldorf-Astoria last night there were representatives of Harriman and Gould properties, while at the Plaza interests identified with Rock Island Company were in close touch with the Harriman people at the first named hotel. The $10,000,000 pool (will, it is said, include Philadelphia interests.

The Post's financial leader says:—"Opening trading in stocks was accompanied by much excitement and throughout the entire first hour business was in enormous volume, promising to establish the high record for the year. All first quotations were from 1 to 2 points above Monday's last prices for active stocks, and 1-2 to 1 for usually inactive issues. The first sale of Union Pacific was of 7,500 shares from 175 3-4 to 178, a gain of 1 3-4 over Monday. Reading opened with a sale of 8,000 shares at an advance of 1 2-4 to 2 1-4 points. Steel Common with the sale of 10,000 shares at the gain of one point. Amalgamated first sale showed a gain of 1 3-8 points, Erie 1 3-4, Great Northern 2 1-8, Smelting 1 3-4, New York Central 1 5-8. Other gains were in the same proportion.

"London prices before the local opening, however, showed gains much in excess of those scored here during the early trading. Gains were from 1-2 to 2 1-2 points over Monday's final prices. Cables reported brisk demand for stocks from this date, but this was to some extent offset by English and Continental houses, who freely supplied stock at better prices, securing large profits thereby. Towards the close of the first hour prices here lost little of their improvement, but the tone remained very firm.

Demonstration of Fire Escape This Afternoon

A public demonstration of a new patent fire escape will be given at the Oriental Hotel this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Wm. J. Huff, of Toronto, has invented a patent ladder fire escape. And he will show it here for the first time. It has never been shown in any town or city before. The ladder is of wire with wooden rungs and rolls up. It is kept inside the hotel and can be dropped out of any window. A 25-foot ladder is the one which will be used to-day and it weighs less than sixteen pounds. The fire chief and license inspector will be present, and all others are invited.

A Wise Mother's Story

All Mothers and Daughter Read Carefully and Profit By It.

"I am convinced," writes Mrs. A. E. Bousford from St. John, "that a majority of young girls who die of consumption do so because their mothers neglected their health at the critical time when carefulness insures vigor and sound health. If a girl's health is neglected from her eleventh to sixteenth year her body will be weak and she becomes a ready victim of typhoid anaemia, and in many cases consumption itself. In her sixteenth year my youngest daughter showed signs of failing strength. Some dyspeptic troubles developed, her heart became weak and palpitation frightened her dreadfully. She was irregular in the important bodily functions and rapid loss in weight and a ruddy complexion pointed to a rapid decline.

She disliked making her troubles known to our doctor, a feeling I felt I should respect, and so by good fortune I was led to use Ferrozone with most gratifying results. My neighbor next door, Mrs. Woods, had found Ferrozone so good in nervousness that she persuaded me that it would restore Flossie's health, and from the time the second box was commenced her improvement was constant. She is now a big, strong girl, ruddy and plump, able to study hard and to take her share of household duties. I am an earnest advocate of

Rev. Dr. McLaren, of Vancouver, B. C., Secretary of the Presbyterian Home Mission work, was in the city yesterday and delivered two splendid talks on home mission work. In the morning he occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's Church, and in the evening at St. Paul's Church. His sermon in the morning was listened to by a large congregation who were greatly interested. The talk or sermon was somewhat different to the usual run of missionary sermons and consequently was more impressive. It appealed to the congregation's patriotism as well as their interest in the welfare of the Church. Dr. McLaren took up the question of immigration and outlined out the difficulties that have arisen by the fact of the Government bringing out the thousands of the degenerates of the many nations of Europe and huddling them together in colonies in the Canadian Northwest. To begin with, the immigrant from Hungary, Galicia and the different provinces villages. The people are entirely incapable of adapting themselves to Canada and the ways of Canadians, and they refuse their children education. The missionaries of the church have a most difficult time to reach them. As a matter of fact the time is not far distant when the whole Dominion of Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will be effected by the scum of Europe. Our nationality will be gone and our morality will be greatly impaired. These immigrants have no regard whatever for Canadian law or Canadian custom, and they never will so long as they are allowed to colonize. It is now up to the people of Eastern Canada to assist the people of the west to fight against the evil that has been forced upon them by the importation of this class of immigrants.

Beaudmore Suit will be Pressed

Toronto, November 5.

The city was served yesterday by Messrs. O'Brien and Lundy with the statement of claim in the suit of Mr. W. G. Beardmore against the City of Toronto for an injunction restraining the city from carrying out its contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant corporation was not authorized to enter into or execute the contract, as the same does not conform to the terms of By-law No. 4,834, in that there is nothing in the contract limiting the liability of the corporation to a sum not exceeding $14.10 per horse-power per annum for continuous power ready for distribution, and including all charges for interest, sinking fund, for cost to construct, and cost to operate, maintain, repair, renew and insure the plant, machinery and appliances to be used by the commission, and the defendants might be bound to take power at a price considerably in excess of $14.10 ready for distribution at the city limits.

The plaintiff further alleges that the signing of a contract was a fraud on the ratepayers of the City of Toronto in that the corporation, acquired by misrepresentations induced the council to authorize the signing of the contract involving a different and greater liability.

The plaintiff says that the defendants have no power to enter into such a contract. He says that the act of signing the contract is ultra vires, and is not binding on the ratepayers owing to the said misrepresentation and fraud, and that it should be delivered up and canceled.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney disease that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, your think it's weakness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainville, "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles and joints, lack of appetite and loss of sleep. Reach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c per box. All dealers.

Check Your Fat

Hold it where it is, or take off some. You can do either without disturbing your meals or your ease of your digestive organs. You can do it without physical risk, mental effort or danger of a wrinkle. 'Sounds well, but these are words only," you say. True, but there is a nation full of indorsers of these words, so your protest, while natural, is feeble. Prove it. Write to the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., inclosing 75c, or better still, take that amount over to your druggist and get one of the extra large cases of Marmola Prescription Tablets. You will find it generously filled. Take one after meals and at bedtime, and within thirty days you should be losing a pound of fat a day without disturbance, as we said, of either your meals habits or organs. Fact is, these statements are not to be denied, for the tablets are an exact duplicate of the famous fat-reducing Marmola Prescription—One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water, which any druggist will tell you is the World's Fair medal winner in its class.

Thanksgiving Market in Peterborough

Hundreds of farmers, farmers' wives and farmers' daughters, with thousands of dead birds for the Thanksgiving festivities, hundreds of dozens of eggs, and hundreds of pounds of butter, together with probably two thousand men, women and children bargain hunters, was the spectacle presented to one who was permitted a bird's eye view of Peterborough's market on Saturday morning. For weeks the wives and daughters of the soil tillers have been busy stuffing turkeys, ducks and chickens to get them in prime shape to feed the hungry thousands that make up Peterborough's population on the holiday, and for weeks the house wives of the city have discussed with their daughters what to have on the menu for Thanksgiving dinner. Those who were away from home were taken into consideration and the fond mothers racked their brains in an effort to recall some delicacy which this one or that one of her children liked when at home. Thanksgiving dinner was to be a big feast. All the family would be home and it was to be one of the dine re-unions held during the year.

Thus the producer and the consumer thought each worked along the same lines, but with a vastly different end in view. On the one hand visions of additional wealth were seen, while on the other hand the picture in mind was one of a jolly family seated around the old family table which was ladened with seasonable good things, and decorated with the autumn bloom from the green house. The two factors, producer and consumer, met Saturday morning in the market hall and presented a living picture rarely seen but always enjoyed. The former lined the long tables and opened out their baskets of poultry, butter and eggs, while the latter, in a regular stream, crowded and crushed and wiggled in and out in an endeavor to find what they wanted, and each vied with the other in securing the best bargain. So great was the crowd that the big hall was not only too small, but the atmosphere became so some overpowering, and they were forced to seek the open air. The majority however well pleased as any. In fact she could not help but chuckle to herself sometimes when a "know-all" meddled up to her basket and after feeling the breast bone, looking at the bird's teeth and counting its rees, decided to take an old hen because it was big and fatt in preference to a tender young creature lying by its side.

Everybody was happy, everybody was good natured and everybody got bargains, and the pleasure of marketing is by no means one of the least attractions of the holiday season.

Hidden Skin Troubles

Free Box

Send this coupon and 1c stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, with name of this paper, and free trial box will be mailed you. 5 Z 1

Have you on some part of your body a sore, or eruption, or ulcer, or eczemous patch which, hidden from the gaze of others, yet causes you hours and hours of pain and inconvenience? Have you tried this and that, and the other remedy in vain, and are you feeling disheartened and discouraged? If so read the following instances of Zam-Buk's healing power, and apply it to your case:

"I had an ulcerated leg for several years. The ulcers spread all round the limb, which was swollen to nearly twice its normal size. Several doctors treated me. One suggested amputation. None did me any good. Zam-Buk healed the sores." So says Mrs. Gilmour, of Princess St., Kingston. Or, read this:—

"My mother tried many things for abscesses and eruptions, but in vain. In Zam-Buk she found a complete cure." So says Miss A. Coggill, of Wapella (Sask.).

Sufferers from these "Hidden Skin Troubles" of any nature should profit by such experiences as this. Zam-Buk is seen at its best when applied to cases which have defied ordinary treatment. Write for trial box, and test it at our expense.

ZAM-BUK
THE GREAT SKIN-CURE.

ZAM-BUK AND A MIRACLE OF HEALING

Over and over again Zam-Buk has performed a miracle of healing when applied to sores and skin injuries which have refused to heal under any other form of treatment. Why not let it heal your trouble? Immediately Zam-Buk is applied to a sore or wound or diseased portion of flesh it commences its work in two directions. It anoints the exterior, and its antiseptic properties prevent any germs and bacilli from creating trouble. Then the herbal essences and juices so finely purified and concentrated, penetrate the subjacent layers and stimulate the weakened or diseased cells to active, healthy operation. These cells then put forth their "Building" products and repl ce the diseased outer layer with fresh and healthy tissue. By degrees the whole diseased surface is thus replaced by new healthy skin.

In this way Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, abscesses, itch, eczema, eruptions, pustules, scurvy, salt rheum, blood poison, and other forms of skin trouble. Zam-Buk also cures piles, varicose ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c per box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes $2.50.

GIFFORD EXTENSION MINES, LIMITED

(NO PERSONAL LIABILITY)

Recognizing that the public to-day anxiously looks for opportunities to invest in legitimate mining enterprises.

Having carefully watched the growth and development of the Cobalt Camp from its beginning and having seen mere prospects become great Shipping Mines, sending out to the Smelters of this continent Trainloads of the Richest Ore ever shipped.

More and more clearly has it been demonstrated that never were such opportunities offered to the Canadian Public as to-day.

RIGHT AT HOME, within 12 hours' ride by rail from Toronto, WEALTH is exposed both on the SURFACE and AT DEPTH that the ordinary mind can only vaguely comprehend.

Many Toronto Brokers visited Cobalt recently and so enthused did they become that the entire Toronto Mining Exchange goes to Cobalt this week to spend several days inspecting the Camp.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW ALL ABOUT COBALT AND HAVE NOT BEEN THERE

ASK YOUR BROKER ABOUT IT

Remember That in the Cobalt Camp, Only 4 Years Old, There Are Today More Dividend-Paying Mines Than Are Listed on All Foreign Exchanges

Do you realize that millions have already been paid in dividends? And that even at present depth many more millions are now blocked out than have yet been shipped. Also that development on the wonderful Temiskaming veins means to every mine owner in that part of Cobalt many millions are yet to be mined at great depth. Is it possible that this great lode exists on the Temiskaming alone?

No! We are already aware that the GANS portion of the Temiskaming acreage shows a 12-inch vein running in a southerly direction, and this alone is worth the entire Temiskaming capitalization.

Does this vein stop on the GANS? No! No! This ore chute extends the whole length of the camp. Richer, of course, where it comes in contact with the diabase, and leaner in values when furthest from them.

Read our geologist's report. Observe the mention of these contacts or intrusions of diabase on the Gifford Extension. Go there and see for yourself. You do not need to be a geologist nor yet a mining man to make comparisons of surface indications.

You will easily detect the similarity of formations. Only twenty chains south of these great veins, and having an acreage with a width of over a quarter of a mile in which to pick them up, with indisputable surface evidences that WE HAVE THESE VEINS in the very centre of our property, we have no hesitation in urging the immediate purchase of this stock,

We have 50 acres. This is no mere prospect with surface indications, but a property with good veins, on which genuine development has already been done.

Shafts have already been sunk, which will be continued to greater depth. The main shaft is now down 86 feet, from which point we will immediately start diamond drilling and prove up our ore bodies.

A diamond drill has been purchased, to be delivered in two weeks, and progress will be faithfully reported to our shareholders.

LARGE CROWD WITNESS THE ROAD RACE

In the junior race there was a long list of entries. The boys were driven to Nassau and were started off at 10.34, the same time as the seniors were started at Lakefield. Jimmy McMartin, of the Otonabee A. C., led nearly all the way, but blew up about the Y. M. C. A., Croff and Toupe crossing the tape ahead of him. Time, 51 min. 7 sec.

The senior race created great excitement. The race was fought all the way by Adams, Thorpe, Wilson and Howard. From the start Wilson led most of the journey and was leading at Nassau with the other runners close on his heels. The runners took to the sidewalk until the park was reached, when Wilson collided with a little girl and took a tumble, which no doubt shook him up considerably. Thorpe and Adams gained about ten yards on him before he regained his feet. He made a desperate run, however, to again lead the cup, but Thorpe and Adams had the sport, Adams finishing in first place, with Thorpe and Wilson chasing him right to the tape. Time, 58.55.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—A disastrous muff by Davey Tope, the Tiger full back, probably cost the backers of the Hamilton Football Team anywhere from seven to ten thousand dollars wagered on the result of the final game of the Inter-provincial schedule at Varsity oval Saturday afternoon in which Ottawa reversed the defeat handed out by the Tigers in Hamilton some weeks ago and won by the remarkably close score of 8 to 6. This ties the teams for championship honors and the final will probably be played either in Toronto or Montreal next Saturday.

IN THE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

Millionaire is Implicated

The following statement was made in New York the other night by Victor M. Pisarra, of No. 147 West Fourth street, the agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, whose detective work in unearthing the white slave traffic was highly complimented from the bench by Magistrate Leroy B. Crane, in the Yorkville police court.

"The millionaire whose name has been so prominently connected with the white slave disclosures is a champagne merchant. His name and telephone call are in the private telephone directory of the white slave exchange, which we seized yesterday, and are now in the possession of the commissioner of police."

KEPT NAME SECRET.

Pisarra said he was not at liberty to divulge the man's name, and Magistrate Crane again refused to divulge the name of the "Man high in politics who," he asserted, "can be connected with this traffic in young girls."

"He has not been arrested on any charge," he said, "and will not be until there is conclusive evidence. I don't want to do any man an injustice, and until I have had the matter more thoroughly investigated I will not even hint at his name."

"We are certain that he has made a business of supplying champagne to scores of places of ill repute, whose names appear in the confiscated directory, and we are working to establish a more definite connection. I do not know what police protection these places had."

The clearing house of the white slave exchange at 343 West Fifty-Eighth street was hurriedly deserted after the arrest of the four young girls the other night.

POWERFUL PULL AT WORK.

A panic has resulted in certain police circles and among certain politicians on account of the seizure of the directory of four hundred illegal resorts, most of them in good neighborhoods on the West Side. To this fear of discovery is attributed the delay in obtaining bail for the four women under arrest. It is believed they will be bailed out after election and no effort will be made to get them out of the reach of the authorities.

The powerful pull behind the white slave traffic became apparently busy, when it was seen that some one was at work to "brace" up Margaret Sheppard, who had given signs of a willingness to turn State's evidence and revealed all she knew. A note sent to her was intercepted in the Tombs Prison by a woman attendant.

DESCRIBED SYSTEM.

Describing the ramifications of the white slave system, Agent Pisarra said,

"Besides the big exchanges on West Fifty-Eighth street, there are between twenty and thirty other exchanges. In these places there are two classes of girls, the lodgers and the sitters. The sitters pay ten or twelve dollars a week to sit in the exchange from two in the afternoon [illegible] in the morning. They are scattered all through the West Side apartments, while many of them [illegible] Tenderloin hotels, given up entirely to women of their kind.

"The women who manage these places keep their eyes open for good looking girls and many a disappearance can be laid to them. Advantage is taken of family quarrels and girlish desires to spending money and have a good time. The girl is kept from her home till late by trick, and another victim is added to the roll."

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Few Men Going to the Lumber Camps

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The employment of labor men for the lumber camps this fall is less than it has been for years, according to local employment agencies. For this there are several reasons given, one of which is that the laborers in the city do not seem anxious to engage for the bush.

One agent explained to the Journal that not so many men were being sent to the woods this year for the reason that not so much work was being done. Most lumber camps had now all the men they wanted but there were several firms still looking for men. The demand for these could not be supplied by local agents as there appeared to be plenty of work in the city to engage all the laborers. The wages were also very low, as compared with recent years and the men are not attracted out of the city by the big payments offered. It is expected, however, that when the mills here shut down there will be plenty of labor to supply the present demands.

Hoagland Won from Harrison in Handicap Race in Brock St. Rink

Hoagland, the world's champion walker, of Auburn, N. Y., proved his right to the title so far as Harrison is concerned, by defeating him yesterday in what was to have been a nine-hour grind. The contest was witnessed by a large crowd and great interest was displayed. Walking is one of the best and cleanest of sports, and especially when taken part in by clean heel and toe walkers like Hoagland and Harrison. The sport, from a spectator's standpoint, is equal to anything, while it brings out all there is in a man. The local people are indeed fortunate in having the privilege of seeing such men as the world's champion walker perform.

The two athletes went on the track at Brock street rink at exactly a quarter past two, and the first hour they stepped off nearly seven miles, and for the two hours averaged 6pl-2 miles an hour, and at 6 o'clock they had covered 24 1-2 miles and Hoagland had gained seven laps. The men agreed to stop for half an hour for supper, and at twenty minutes to seven they once more appeared on the sawdust to continue the grind.

From twenty minutes to seven until a quarter to 10 o'clock the walk continued, but at a little slower pace. The men covered 16 miles or a little better than 5 1-3 miles an hour. During that time Hoagland gained another six laps, which were necessary to make the mile.

The arrangements were that Hoagland was to beat Harrison one mile in nine hours walking, and there are thirteen laps of the rink to a mile. Thus Hoagland had over half the distance covered before supper.

The local man has nothing to be ashamed of. He put up a good contest and proved that he can shove the dust to the majority of walkers. He has a long stride and an easy gait, and he has the staying power as well. He can take his gait and hold it throughout practically the whole time. Unfortunately he lacks the ability to sprint, and that is where the man from Auburn had him beaten. However, it is doubtful if there is any man in America who can walk with Hoagland with any hopes of defeating him.

Hoagland is one of the prettiest heel and toe walkers in the game. He walks from the shoulders down to his feet. Every muscle is brought into play, and he walks with the utmost ease. He is thus enabled to use extra energy in a sprint, because he has lots in reserve. He also has lots of speed.

It was just a few minutes after 9 o'clock when Hoagland started to close up the last two laps, which he succeeded in doing at a quarter to ten when Harrison after a final sprint for fifty yards stopped.

He announced to the public that Hoagland was too good for him and that it was useless for him to attempt to finish the nine hours in the hope of gaining on the champion.

Hoagland also stopped and attempted to get on the platform, but in doing so took a cramp in his leg and fell back. In a minute he was all right, and after complimenting Harrison upon the splendid contest he put up, announced that he would give an exhibition of three or four laps which he did in remarkably fast time.

On the whole the walk was a big success and the people were well satisfied with it, although it only lasted a little less than seven hours.

Now that the United States elections are over a brightening of trade generally is anticipated.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage, it can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

Write immediately for full particulars. Local agent wanted.

Algoma Liberals Plan a Revenge

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 5.—Will Mr. A. E. Dyment, Liberal ex-M.P. for East Algoma, who was defeated by Mr. W. R. Smith, Conservative M. P., and ex-M.P.P. for Algoma, seek retribution by contesting the Provincial constituency in the forthcoming bye-election? Local Liberals declare that this peculiar effort at interchange is planned. They also declare that, whether Mr. Dyment, is the candidate or not, the bye-election will be contested, and that "Ottawa will be heard from" in the struggle. If Mr. Dyment does not want the candidature, they mention the name of Mr. C. N. Smith, ex-M.P.P., of this town, as the candidate.

The Liberals say frankly that, in contesting the seat, they are seeking revenge for local disasters experienced in the Federal campaign. The three seats of Nipissing, and East and West Algoma, two of which were previously represented in the Federal House by Liberals, all went over to Mr. Borden's column at the recent voting. The change they charge more or less directly to the influence of the Whitney Government in the candidature of Mr. Smyth, who resigned his Legislative seat to win the Eastern riding, the active campaigning of Hon. Frank Cochrane, the Minister of Lands and Mines, who devoted his efforts, they say, to the three ridings in question, and to the intervention of Hon. J. J. Foy, the Attorney-General, with the Provincial police, in guarding the voters' lists for the "bush polls."

They say they propose to "even up" on the occasion of the Algoma bye-election, which is anticipated towards the end of the present month, and declare they have assurances of co-operation and support from the re-elected Government at Ottawa. If this be the case, there is likely to be a battle royal.

BLOOD DISEASES

Guaranteed Cured or No Pay.

If you ever had any contracted or hereditary blood disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been removed from the system. You may have had some disease years ago, but now and then some symptom alarms you. Some poison still lurks in your system. Can you afford to run the risk of more serious symptoms appearing as the poison multiplies? Beware of mercury or mineral drugs used indiscriminately—they may ruin the system. Twenty years experience in the treatment of these diseases enables us to prescribe specific remedies that will positively cure all blood diseases of the worst character, leaving no bad effects on the system. Our New Method Treatment will purify and enrich the blood, heal up all ulcers, clear the skin, remove bone pains, fallen out hair will grow in, and swollen glands will return to a normal condition, and the patient will feel and look like a different person. All cases we accept for treatment are guaranteed a complete cure if instructions are followed.

Reader if in doubt as to your condition, you can consult us FREE OF CHARGE. Beware of incompetent doctors who have no reputation or reliability. Drs. K. & K. have been established over 20 years.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, causes nerve excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

A LADY'S LIMIT

Important contributors to sociological data are made by the testimony in a New York divorce suit regarding the amount of champagne a perfect lady may drink with propriety, and by the statement of a Philadelphia physician concerning her proper allowance of tobacco.

In the matter of wine, a witness questioned as to the fair plaintiff's drinking habits said that she "drank only as much as a lady should," and in answer to further questions defined "a lady's limit" as a pint. The Philadelphia doctor, recommending cigarettes as soothing to feminine nerves, sets the limit of indulgence at a "five-minute smoke three times a day."

The fact that Mrs. W. E. Corey's seven guests on a hunting trip ate seventy-five pounds of candy in two weeks establishes "a lady's limit" in the matter of sweets; though mistress Gibbs may question it. But candy is aside from the main issue. A point yet to be elucidated is the "lady's limit" of other beverages.

After a particularly strenuous round on the golf links may she take a second highball and still maintain the "ladylike and decorous demeanor" which characterized the divorce plaintiff after her pint of champagne? Are these conditions—say those of an arduous afternoon of shopping or of social duties—which make a second cocktail before dinner permissible and an extra cigarette afterward? Some evidence in point is furnished, remarks the New York World, by the Hains correspondence and court testimony regarding the qualities of perfect ladyhood displayed by the army officer's wife who is represented as sometimes exceeding the minimum allowance and as "smoking all the time."

Only enough has been decided on the question to whet curiosity and to make timely an authoritative pronouncement by some one of the sex qualified to speak. Light is incidentally wanted on the question of "a lady's limit" of affinities.

LATEST WAR SCARE

The latest "scare" between France and Germany over the arrest of a number of German deserters from the French Foreign Legion, merely illustrates how easy it is for these powers to find a pretext for war when they want one. The question, however, is not whether they are likely to fight over such an issue, but whether either power regards it to its interest to fight at all just now. The truth may easily be that suggested by the cables—i. e., that Chancellor Von Buelow desires to kick up enough dust to enable him to escape from the eyes of those who are prying into his connection with the Kaiser's indiscreet interview. A French war alarm would do this better than most other things; and Germany feels that it need not fear that war will really come unless it forces it on. International politics is very nearly as pretty a game as the politics we know best in this country.

Boycott of Japan Leads to Rioting

Hong Kong, Nov. 1.—The rioting which resulted here yesterday from the attempt of those involved to force the local merchants to continue the boycott against Japanese goods has been suppressed by the soldiers. The were called out to patrol the business districts. One Chinese, who offered armed resistance, was shot.

The riots were organized primarily by the students of this city, and the disturbance is evidently widespread.

At Singapore similar riots have occurred and a number of merchants said to have shown a desire to discontinue the boycott and otherwise favor Japan have been branded as traitors, and in several instances marked by having their cars slitted. It is alleged that a league has been formed secretly and has pledged itself to give any man who slits the ears of a so-called "traitor" $10, and should he be thrown into jail, to see that he is help up to the public as a martyr, and to pay him a dollar a day while in prison. Should one of the traitor merchants be killed, it is alledged, the league agrees to pay his slayer $200.

At Canton there have been hints of the same trouble, and a number of ruffians have been hired to attack merchants. Vigorous measures to suppress the rioting have been taken.

Japanese Agree to Seal Treaty

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 8.—The Japanese government has consented in principle to the proposal made by the Russian Government for the conclusion of a pelagic sealing treaty which will include clauses similar to that arranged following the Paris Tribunal between Great Britain and the United States, whereby seal hunters will be restricted to certain open seasons and to areas distant from the various seal rookeries. Negotiations have not yet been opened but it is expected that representatives of Japan and Russia will meet shortly to arrange the details of a treaty which will have the effect of protecting the seals of the north Pacific. When the treaty between Japan and Russia is consummated, it is expected that Britain and the United States will be brought into the arrangement, and the North Pacific sealers put on an equal basis. At present, the Japanese sealers, owing to the fact that Japan is not a party to the sealing arrangements under which the British warships and United States revenue cutters patrol Bering Sea and the North Pacific, are permitted to hunt to within three miles from the seal rookeries, to use firearms, and are not restricted to a close season, while the British and other sealers are forced to remain a distance of more than sixty miles from the seal rookeries, to use spears, and closed seasons are provided.

Among the passengers of the steamer Kaga Maru, which left the outer wharf yesterday, was Capt. J. C. Voss, who had command of the sealing schooner Jessie, which returned some days ago from Bering Sea. He is going to Hakodate to take command of a Japanese sealing schooner, Capt. Voss stated that under present conditions the only profitable way to engage in the sealing business was under the Japanese flag. The Japanese sealers in Bering Sea last year numbered 23 schooners and they were prebered 23 schooners and they were permitted to hunt closer to the seal rookeries, while the hunters from Victoria were kept outside the usual radius of sixty miles from the islands.

Georgian Bay Canal

New York, Nov. 7.—The Sun, commenting on the Georgian Bay Canal project, says: "It would mean the saving of from one and three-fifths to two days as compared with any other existing water route from the head of the lakes to an ocean port. The period during which navigation would be practicable would be about the same via Georgian Bay as by the present Canadian route—that is about 216 days in the year.

"Of course, the projected Georgian Bay canal must expect to encounter some opposition from vested interests. An attempt may be made to show that the money needed would better be spent in improving the existing Canadian water route, but on the whole there is as much to be said in favor of the Georgian Bay proposal that Laurier's prediction that it may soon be taken in hand seems likely to be fulfilled."

New American Cabinet, Causes Speculation

Washington, Nov. 9. — Politicians here are already forecasting Taft's cabinet. They believe he already has his mind pretty well made up on several of the important cabinet places. They say he is certain to ask Elihu Root to remain as Secretary of State, and that the Treasury portfolio will be offered to George Von L. Meyer, present postmaster General.

Mr. Taft has always been an admirer of Gen. Luke E. Wright, present Secretary of War. Gen. Wright served with him in the Philippines, and Taft recommended him as his successor as Governor General of the Islands.

Mr. Taft was undoubtedly consulted by the President in the selection of Gen. Wright as Secretary of War, and there is good reason to believe that Taft will seek to keep him as one of his counsellors.

Political gossip already has Frank H. Hitchcock slated for Postmaster-General. Hitchcock has been in that department for a good many years, having resigned as first assistant to manage the Taft pre-convention campaign. The Secretary of Navy appears to be one of the places that are entirely open. Secretary Metcalf wishes to retire, Frank B. Kellogg, of Minnesota, trust buster, has been mentioned more often than any body else by Taft's friends as the Attorney-General.

SIMPSON'S USUAL

'Twas ever thus with Simpson!

A slow beginner, he wakes up after ten miles and makes them all look like woolly worms coming home from a banquet. If some one would take after Simpson with a blacksmith whip for the first mile he would show them that Tom Longboat wasn't the only redskin remarkable for his elasticity.

SEE HIM GO.

Galloped? Yes, galloped!

That's it.

The way that big bronze boy tore up that road was a picture for the man who likes to see human beings in stern competition. He came along in a little cloud of dust—running strong and revelling in his very strength.

He smashed by his club mate Sellen, like a quarter-miler out for a jaunt, and went after the prairie wolf.

Parsons was half a mile away—would he get him?

AFTER PARSONS

Nothing daunted Hayward sight of him. Simpson's attendant had lost his wheel in a collision, but Claude Pearce, who was with Percy Sellen, went on with his club mate when Sellen quit. He just whooped the road less onto the village.

How that redskin gobbled up Parsons's lead!

Every hound brought him closer to the fallen Manitobian.

Up the famous Valley run hill, where so many great runners have died, went the Indian without a halt. It looked like he had a world to him. Over the crest he sighted Parsons.

Whoop-la! he shouted in his glee, and down York street he tore like zebra or fate. He caught Parsons a mile from home and sailed after the Illinois out in front like a wild man. He couldn't get Holmer, but he crowded his lead down to a third of a mile and finished fresh.

Park Commission and Some of Its Advantages

At the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society a week or so ago the appointment of a parks commission was agitated by some of the officers. A few of the advantages were pointed out and there is no doubt but that the idea met with public favor. Was the Horticultural Society sincere in the agitation? If so, it is up to them now to take steps as required by law to have the voice of the people heard.

The first thing to be done is to present to the council a petition with at least 500 signatures of ratepayers. The council will then draft a by-law and present it to the people to say whether or not they want a parks commission to look after the public play grounds. If the people vote in favor the council will appoint the commission, which will consist of the mayor and six others, not members of the council. These are appointed as follows— Two for three years, two for two years and two for one year. In this way the council will have to appoint two commissioners each year.

A parks commission has full authority over all public parks and they have the same police protection as mill.

the city. The enforcing of the by-laws of the commission will be just as much the duty of the police as the enforcement of the city by-laws. This is a great advantage over the present system. Anyone, under the new regulations found destroying or damaging anything in or pertaining to the public parks would be punished accordingly. Those who deposit ashes, dirt or waste paper, or create a nuisance in any way would also be punished. Thus the laws of the commissioners would be greatly assisted and the parks kept in much better shape at less expense.

The parks commission is also authorized to raise funds for parks purposes. They make up an estimate of the year's expenditure and present it to the city council to be included in the estimates when fixing the rate of taxation. The commission may expend a sum equal to one-half a mill on the city's assessment, which in the case of Peterborough, would be up to $4,000 a year. That is the outside expenditure and it is not at all likely the full amount will be required for years. The commission may also issue debentures to purchase lands for park purposes without going to the people, providing the sinking fund and interest, together with the annual expenditure, do not exceed the one half

Church Hockey League Has Four Teams Already

A church hockey league was organized on Monday night, and already four churches have signified their intention of entering a team, viz., George Street Methodist, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Park Street Baptist and Knox Presbyterian.

The athletic committee of the George Street Young Men's Society called a meeting on Thanksgiving night, and the organization resulted. It is expected that two or three other church clubs will join. The only difficulty in the way is the lack of ice. The Brock street rink will likely be all taken up and the George street boys want to get it for one night a week. Park street boys expect to have a large open air rink and Knox may have one. It is believed that another large skating rink would pay well, as the Brock street rink is pretty well engaged.

The boys would also be glad to receive a trophy from some individual or firm who have an interest in the athletic side of church life. With a couple more clubs in the church league the season should be a very good one, and the trophy donator would have reason to be glad of his gift.

Warm Criticism for the Kaiser

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The opening of the debate in the Reichstag to-day on Emperor William's interview as published in the London Daily Telegraph found the chamber fuller than it ever has been before on the occasion of an important political event. All the Ministers excepting Foreign Secretary Von Schoen were present, the royal, diplomatic and public galleries were crowded, and there was not a vacant seat on the members' benches.

The interpellations regarding this interview, which has been characterized as highly indiscreet, were taken up at once. Herr Bassermann, Nathanel Liberal, who opened the debate, expressed a hearty desire for the continuance of friendly relations with foreign countries and said he believed that only a small proportion of the German people was unfriendly to Great Britain. The personal element in foreign politics was dangerous, he declared, and the higher a man stood the greater care he should take of his utterances.

Responsible officials should examine his remarks. The National Liberals did not desire the resignation of Chancellor Von Buelow, but they did want the elimination of the personal element from the conduct of foreign affairs, as its continuance was bound to bring failure. Great Britain had been stirred to greater naval preparations by the Emperor's utterances, he said, and German relations had become worse with well nigh all the principal powers, but especially with France, Russia, Great Britain and Japan.

Herr Singer, Socialist, declared that Emperor William ought to be brought before a high court and tried for treason because of this interview. Herr Singer was greeted by Socialist applause.

Cheek Your Fat

Hold it where it is, or take it some. You can do either without disturbing your meals or your ease of your digestive organs. You can do it without physical risk, mental effort or danger of a wrinkle. 'Sounds well, but these are words only," you say. True, but there is a nation full of indorsers of these words, so your protest, while natural, is feeble. Prove it. Write to the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., inclosing 75c, or better still, take that amount over to your druggist and get one of the extra large cases of Marmola Prescription Tablets. You will find it generously filled. Take one after meals and at bedtime, and within thirty days you should be losing a pound of fat a day without disturbance, as we said, of either your meals habits or organs. Fact is, these statements are not to be denied, for the tablets are an exact duplicate of the famous fat-reducing Marmola Prescription— One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water, which any druggist will tell you is the World's Fair medal winner in its class.

Week of Prayer in All Parts of the World

This week is observed as the world's week of prayer by the Y. W. C. A. in every land. There are some 7,000 associations. Many of them aim to secure funds. We ask that every member of our Peterborough association set apart a time each day for prayer for the association here and in every country. There will be a prayer service this afternoon at 3:30 in the Y. W. C. A. parlors, to which all are invited. There will also be a prayer service from 9 to 9:30 this evening. This is the week when we make our annual offering for Miss Oswald's work in Japan among the students. Will every member not give some cheer, no matter how small, to this splendid work of the association.

Cobalt Stock on the Rise, Heavy Buying

Recently Cobalt stocks have taken a fine jump and what was at one time the cause of an ordinary mining boom which would die out, is now showing that the mineral is there and is being taken out in large and paying quantities. As a result of recent shipments the public has become more confident in Cobalt stock and a lot of heavy buying is being done. Prices have gone up and are still going up. New mines are being opened and are proving equal to the older ones. In short, there is great activity in Cobalt and in Cobalt stocks. Patmore & Company, brokers, Toronto, carry Cobalt stock on 20 per cent. margins. Look up their advertisement in another part of this paper.

W. C. T. U. Elect Their Officers

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the Y. W. C. A. parlors on Monday afternoon. The reports showed a prosperous year.

The treasurer's report showed a paid membership of 42, and honorary members receipts, for the year $7.58, disbursements $6.10, leaving a creditable balance of $1.42.

Before proceeding to the election of officers the President, Mrs. Lewis, tendered her resignation.

The newly elected officers are:—

Hon. President—Mrs. Kennedy.

President—Mrs. Morrison.

First Vice-President—Mrs. E. D. Lewis.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. Potter.

Cor. Secretary—Mrs. Turner.

Rec. Secretary—Mrs. S. Taylor.

Treasurer—Miss P. Downham.

Superintendent of Department's Work in Schools—Mrs. Lumsden.

Press Work—Mrs. Carlyle.

Systematic Giving—Mrs. Campbell.

Lumber Camp Work—Mrs. Thornton.

Gospel Temperance — Mrs. Kendry.

Prison Reform—Mrs. Lewis.

Four new members were received. The hour of meeting was changed from 3 to 3:30.

Patent Fire Escape was Demonstrated

As announced in yesterday's Times a demonstration of the Hall patent fire escape was given in front of the Oriental Hotel yesterday afternoon, and a large number of people were present. The device is a very simple one and has made an impression on all who saw it. The apparatus is kept inside the room, and in case of fire a hook is attached to the window sill and the ladder dropped to the ground. After everyone is out, by a slight jerk on a wire the ladder comes down and is not destroyed by the flames. On the other hand, if someone is still found to be in the building after the ladder is down, all that is necessary is for the one inside to pull the ladder up by a rope which is attached to the ladder and also the window. Mr. Huff has applied for patents, and he will start at once to get the device on the market.

Released from Prison with Much Wealth

Seattle, Nov. 4.—"Bobbie" Miller has returned after eighteen months spent at McNeil's Island Federal prison and six weeks at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Pursuing a definite plan Miller, two years ago took $69,000 in gold dust from a Yukon steamer, of which he was night watchman, substituting birdshot. Knowing always that he would be caught, he carted $50,000 under a warehouse on the Chenoa River. The balance he carted elsewhere.

Miller was assured he would get the nearest thing to life sentence than an Alaskan court could give.

"All right", smiled Miller, "no bricks."

The bank, insurance company, and police officers threatened, cajoled, prayed and did other things. Miller stalled them off until they were ready to talk business. Then Miller made terms. He proposed to swap $50,000 worth of brick for a two year sentence. The bank wanted the other $19,000, but no inducement moved him. He had figured that as his home stake.

He won, being given two years. He led the United States Marshall and a squad of worried bankers across the Chenoa and told them where to dig. They found their share and Miller was taken to the Government penitentiary where by model conduct he cut down his time to eighteen months.

Then he went into Fairbanks trailed by detectives as the insurance company which still had to make good for $19,000 worth of gold he had cashed for himself. And now, despite detectives and other hindrances, he is back with a nicely certified paper for the mint value of the balance he held. He announces that when the opportunity comes he will hide his name and his past, and with stake in hand, go somewhere where his ability for finance may have full swing.

Russia Again Warns Persia of the Danger of Reaction

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10.—Official confirmation has been received from Teheran of a preliminary plot to abolish the Persian Parliament.

WOMAN DEMANDED $20,000 ON THE PENALTY OF DEATH

Dynamite Capped Sticks were to be Used on Denver, Col., Society Leader---Blackmailing woman was Frustrated in Her Scheme

(Special to the Times)

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—Mrs. J. Carlisle Phitts, the divorced wife of Lawrence Phitts, a Pittsburg millionaire, to-day narrowly escaped death by dynamite at the hands of a woman who for two days terrorized the Phitts house and who at last got hold of Mrs. Phitts and demanded $20,000 under penalty of death. Mrs. Phitts and Deputy Sheriff Allen Reed, brother of Mrs. Allen Reed, the society leader, struggled with this woman.

Mrs. Reed received a telephone message yesterday morning asking her to attend the funeral of a friend whose name has not yet been learned. It is believed that she was the victim. When about to attempt to carry out the plot she was discovered by Mrs. Phitts and Miss Phitts' attention was attracted to the bundle which was found to contain dynamite sticks. Mrs. Phitts, who is a nervous invalid, fainted and Miss Phitts attempted to escape from the house with her mother. Reed, who had been called by the servants, intervened to secure the money. In the confusion Reed was overpowered by the dynamite sticking out a revolver as the automobile. The woman was quickly put under control. She persistently refused to give her name, but an assistant said she was employed by the dynamite as a hypnotist, and that she was a fanatic.

Mrs. Phitts explained her attempt to blackmail Mrs. Phitt.

On Saturday Mrs. Reed repeatedly telephoned to the Phitt home and called there several times in an effort to have an audience with the society leader. When the calls were so frequently repeated Mrs. Phitt went automobiling in the city parks to avoid the woman, but the latter evidently saw Mrs. Phitt leave in the machine. She next attempted to attract her attention as she passed along one of the driveways in the parks. At that time the woman was standing behind a tree. Mrs. Phitt feared the woman. As the auto was passing the woman leaped into it and quickly engaged Mrs. Phitt in conversation, seeking to get that lady into the machine. Mrs. Phitt was to wait while the woman went to the banks where it was intended to secure the money. Excuse after excuse was presented by the dynamite stricken woman to get Mrs. Phitt out of the automobile. The woman was quickly put under control. She persistently refused to give her name, but an assistant said she was employed by the dynamite as a hypnotist, and that she was a fanatic.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome, and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE BRITISH UNEMPLOPED

The British Government has lately acknowledged it a duty to deal with the problem of the unemployed. The proposals looking to this end which are launched are criticised as insufficient but the principle is granted. Public works will be hurried on; naval construction will be begun sooner; the army will take more men; and the grant to the Central Unemployed Fund will be increased from—roughly —$100,000 to $500,000. This latter looks like a huge sum, but Britain is a land of dense population and at present much distress. If it is good policy for Britain to inaugurate "famine works" in India to keep the natives of that Dependency from starving, it would appear to be only fair play to spend what money she can on legitimate improvements in the Mother Country in a time of general idleness in order to keep the wolf from British doors.

The modern state will more and more come to care for the unfortunates who dwell within its gates. You may call this "socialism" if you please; but, if this be socialism, then the building and maintenance of hospitals is 'socialism.'' Britain is doing a good deal of pioneering along this path just at present, with her Old Age Pensions scheme and now with her special assistance for the unemployed. But Britain has two conditions which prompt her to venturous and forward action —the presence of a population which always lives very near to the margin of existence and is therefore exceedingly sensitive to variations in the labor market; and the fact that this population and its friends have a vast amount of political influence. If a Unionist Government were in power tomorrow, no one imagines that it would dare take away from the aged poor their promise of a pension or that it could ignore the clamorings of the workless at its doors.

Peterboro Cheese Board

The final meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board held Wednesday morning, and it was indeed a gratifying one to the salesmen. The highest price was 12 3-8 cents, which was an eighth better than two weeks ago, when many factories refused 12 3-16 cents. To-day only 196 boxes were left unsold. The factories were Lang and Killarney, who refused 12 1-4 cents. Altogether 2,601 boxes were boarded, but about 1,000 of these were boarded at the last sale and left unsold. At the final meeting last year 1,849 boxes were boarded, the price being 12 3-16 cents.

The president, Mr. Coughlin, referred to the presence of Senator Daniel Derbyshire and Mr. Murphy, of Brockville, who would address the dairy meeting in the Court House in the afternoon. He also thanked the Bank of Montreal for the use of the room during the summer, and also the newspapermen who had reported the meetings.

Senator Derbyshire requested the presence of all at the meeting in the afternoon, and Mr. Murphy, in a short address, referred to the advantages of the Peterborough Board and promised to tell those who attended the meeting this afternoon something about the Brockville Board.

Secretary Ed. Hawthorne opened a discussion on whether the buyers should be allowed a pound per box for shrinkage or not, on the last sale. Some were in favor of not allowing it, but it was finlaly decided that the cheese should be sold with the understanding that a pound per box would be given for shrinkage.

The buyers present were Fitzgerald, Gillespie, Whitton, Cook, Weir, Morton, Watkin, Riddell, Gunn and Langlois.

BOXES BOARDED.

Warminster	75
Shearer	130
Central Smith	103
Selwyn	106

Norwood	110
Fleetwood	110
Oak Leaf
South Burleigh
Hope
Brickley	51
Shamrock	50
Killarney	50
Total	2,601

The bidding was begun by Mr. Whitton at 11 1-2 and raised to 12 by Watkins, 12 1-16 by Fitzgerald, 12 1-8 by Gillespie, 12 3-16 by Fitzgerald, 12 1-4 by Watkins, 12 5-16 by Cook, 12 3-8 by Watkins.

Mr. Watkins secured first bid and took Keene, Shearer, Warsaw, Myrtle, Benafort, Central Smith.

Mr. Cook at 12 5-16 received Warminster, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Young's Point and Trewern.

Mr. Gillespie at 12 1-4 took Maple Leaf, Selwyn, Daisy D, Otonabee Union, King Edward, Cedardale and Fleetwood.

Mr. Gillespie at 12 1-4 for the balance of the board, secured East Emily, Cavanville, North Dummer and Fraserville. Killarney and Lang refused.

Before closing the meeting votes of thanks were tendered to the manager of the Bank of Montreal, the president and the press.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Flannel, Fur and Other Things

This is the time of year when people catch colds that stay with them most of the winter and often until spring. Glad to meet the more or less sudden changes in temperature, and with a knowledge of some hygenic principles, no one need catch cold in the fall more easily than at any other time of the year. To be suitably clad does not mean to be wadded in heavy garments, and the best way to avoid a chill is not to pass most of the time in a stuffy, unventilated room, whose unsanitary character is concealed under the attractive word "cosy".

KEEP IN THE FRESH AIR.

In an article in the Illustrated Sunday Magazine, Dr. Woods Hutchinson says that the wearing of thin underclothing causes not one-tenth of the colds that may be attributed to the stuffy rooms. He strongly protests against the general habit of giving up outdoor exercises with the coming of Winter. Keep up your Summer stint of exercise in the open air, he says; respond to the stinging and invigorating breath of the Frost King by putting more food fuel under your boiler, and by doing more work. He guarantees, as a medical man, that you will find that you need comparatively little additional underwear as a protection against the increasing cold. "A healthy, well splashed skin," says Dr. Hutchinson, "is the best underwear ever invented."

THE AIR CUSHION.

He goes thoroughly into the subject of clothes, and expains why wool and fur are such cold weather favorites. These garments we call "warmer" than others, not because they offer a lesser resistence to the wind, nor because they generate heat on their own account, but for the simple reason that they contain more air than any other materials used as clothing. The manufacturer who can mix most air into his fabric and keep it there produces the best article." Here it simply a matter of getting the air as near the skin as possible the problem would be a simple one, and the fewer the clothes the better. The air, however, must be kept near the skin, and finally it must be kept still. The 'warmth' of the cloth depends upon the degree of its success in solving the fixation problem, ranging from calico, with little more than 10 per cent. of air entangled in it, to fur, with 90 per cent. of its substance composed of air.

KEEPING THE HEAT IN.

The presence of air is desirable because air is the best non-conductor of heat that is known. If the air next the skin is warm, the body is warm. The difference is not to keep the air warm, for it is already warm, having just escaped from the body, but to keep it at all. Theoretically, a jacket of air a couple of inches deep kept in place by a fabric mechanically propped out from the body, would be the warmest garment. Practically, the objection is that such an outfit would produce currents of air, otherwise known as drafts. Spongy, porous flannels, fleeces, and, in extreme cases, furs are the nearest approach to the ideal air jacket that science has been able to devise.

WOOL AND COTTON.

Wool is called warm because it is spongy and porous to a greater extent than any other material in use for underclothing. Of late years, however, the peculiar kinkiness and elasticity of the wool fibres have been successfully imitated by manufacturers of cottons, linens and silks, and special garments of these materials should be just as warm as the more expensive woollen clothing. There is another way by which this essential air jacket can be kept close to the skin; and that is by wearing two thin garments. Dr. Hutchinson says that two summer underskirts are warmer than one winter one, especially if they are fairly loose.

SILK AND PAPER.

He insists that it is more dangerous to be took thickly clad than too thinly clad. The fault of too heavy clothing, and of flannels in particular, is that the body heat is wholly confined by them. The skin becomes softened and loses its power to resist cold. Perspiration is not permitted to evaporate whenever exercise is taken, and consequently the skin is kept damp, and becomes chilled. Finally, flannels are hard to keep thoroughly clean. Silk is no better and no worse than either cotton or linen as a covering for the skin. As a protection against the wind, silk is, of course, very serviceable. Indeed, a $10 silk garment is almost as good as a 1c newspaper. Dr. Hutchinson concludes his investigation of winter underwear by expressing the hope that some day we shall succeed in making a cloth of paper, soft and elastic enough to be comfortable, and tough enough not to dissolve when moist. Then, and not till then, shall we have the ideal underclothing.

London, Nov. 9.—A despatch from Melbourne says that the Labor leaders decided to withdraw their support of Premier Deakin and aim at create the ministerial benches of direct opposition. Premier Deakin will probably fight. The indications point to a fusion of the Reactives and Protectionists, and an opposition "combo" against the Laborites.

London, Ont., Nov. 9—William C. Savill, an English immigrant, found guilty of stealing, will be deported. The man is an expert painter, and strongly protested against deportation, declaring that Canada was the greatest country in the world in which to make a living.

Trenton, Nov. 4.—Since operations began in the spring, work on the section of the Trent Valley Canal at Glen Ross has progressed on a large scale. The locks and walls of the old canal were removed and a great amount of blasting and excavating done in widening and deepening the former waterway. This has been accomplished by the aid of a steam shovel and a large gang of workmen. A dam of reinforced concrete is being constructed across the river. A coffer dam was built halfway across the stream and the foundation of the piers laid. A bridge built of large timbers was also erected and a double track for steel dump cars laid thereon. About three-quarters of the dam has been completed and the remainder will be finished in a short time. The large number of laborers, chiefly Italians, are quartered at Glen Ross, mostly in huts and shacks, erected by themselves.

Montreal, Nov. 9.—It is stated on good authority that the paper makers employed in the International Paper Company's plant at Fort Edward, N.Y., who went out on strike on August 1, because the company proposed a 5 per cent. reduction in wages, have decided to accept the reduction in wages and return to work.

The operators employed by the Laurentide Paper Company at Grand Mere, Que., who had gone on strike in sympathy with the American strikers, returned to work a week ago, after a meeting held in the town hall in Grand Mere, and presided over by the Mayor of the town. The Laurentide Company have refused to recognize the operators' union, and have refused to allow the foremen who went on strike to return to work although in one or two cases they have been admitted to ordinary operators' jobs. There were, however, no evidences of violence during the strike, and the mills of the Laurentide Paper Company are now running full time.

Dawson, Y.T., Oct. 9.—Hundreds of miles through the wilderness and down winding rivers, J. W. Canning has reached Dawson, bringing here a pitiful condition his frontier partner, Joseph Francis Klick. The story is one of extraordinary patience and good judgment on the part of those who cared for the suffering man.

Klick became insane in the woods one hundred miles from the Pelly River, and a long distance above Ross River. It was necessary to escort and carry the insane man much of the first hundred miles through the forest, to where the canoes could be reached.

During all this time Klick was violently insane, and utmost care had to be exercised day and night. Carning, fortunately, had the assistance of others. Dr. Van Bibber came all the way to Dawson in company with Canning. The two made the entire trip especially to hand their fellow-hunter and prospector safely in a civilized center. Van Bibber and Canning were twenty-four days coming to Dawson. The full distance traveled was 600 to 700 miles.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

...uncovered, and it was the sight that made him "goose flesh" from head to heel. It was white—not the white of old age, with glancing tints of silver or yellow, but the dead white of an agony that had withered it to the roots. Circling it and separating the scalp from the face and neck ran a narrow fringe that was still brown, as if, changing in a night, it had lacked full time for completion.

Lounsbury could not take his eyes from the huddled shape. Colonel Cummings paused beside him. "This morning," he said, speaking in an undertone, "a sentry signaled from beyond the barracks. Two or three men took guns and ran out. They found this. His clothes were stiff with ice. He was almost frozen, though he had been traveling steadily. He was utterly worn out and was crawling forward on his hands and knees." The ragged sleeves and trousers, stained darker from the wounds on elbows and knees, were mute testimony. "He couldn't see," continued the colonel. "He was snow blind. They laid him out on a drift and rubbed him. The surgeon did the rest. He begged to see me. They brought him in, and he told his story. It's an old one. You've heard it. But it's always new too. This is Frank Jamieson, a young"—

Lounsbury stepped forward and peered down.

As he heard his name the man stiffened, straightened his legs and let fall his arms. He looked up.

"Young!" gasped Lounsbury. "Good God!" The face was aged like the hair!

Jamieson struggled weakly to his feet, using the wall to brace him.

Colonel Cummings hastened across and lent the support of an arm. "No, no," he protested. "You mustn't talk. You're too weak."

But Jamieson did not heed. "You an interpreter?" he asked in a rasping whisper.

"You're too weak"—

"No, I ain't; no, I ain't. If he'll go with us I'm strong enough. Why, I shoveled snow on the special to Bismarck—that's how they let me ride—and skating home I didn't stop to rest"—

"Yes, yes, my boy, we know."

"I walked and walked—straps broke—I forgot to tell you—that's why I had to. But it didn't do any good—it didn't do any good! When I got there"—As if to shut out some terrible sight he screened his eyes with one palsied hand and sank back limply into Colonel Cummings' arms. Lounsbury swept the cot clean of maps, and they laid him there.

"His father was dead," said the commanding officer—"dead and naked, scalped, mutilated, full of arrows and rifle balls. The house and barns were burned."

"Any women?"

"Two—gone."

Jamieson put out his arms. "My mother!" he cried imploringly. "My poor little mother!"

Lounsbury knelt beside him, feeling shaken and half sick.

"If I could only 'a' been there! But I was 'way off at St. Paul. I knew something was wrong when the letters stopped."

"But you must buck up, Jamieson," said the colonel, "so you can help us."

"I will; oh, I will!"

"How'd you get down here?" said Lounsbury.

"I didn't eat for a long time. I was crazy. The snow blinded me, and I was hungry. But I didn't leave the river. I knew enough for that. They found me."

"You think the women are alive, colonel?" asked the storekeeper.

"Undoubtedly, and with the other half of the very band we've got here—somewhere up in the Big Horn country." He took a turn up and down the room.

"May I ask your plan?"

"We are in fine shape to talk terms to the captors. I'll send a command to them, demanding the women. If they are not surrendered I'll hang four of the redskins I've got here—Lame Foot, the medicine man, and Chiefs Standing Buffalo, Canada John and Shoot-at-the-Tree—all ringleaders. Then the rest of the band will be put on a reservation. If the Jamieson women are alive and they send 'em in I won't hang the chiefs."

"When 'll the command start?"

"Three hours after we get an interpreter. I've sent word up to Custer at Lincoln. But the delay! Think what it means to those women!"

"It was about two women that I wished to speak," said Lounsbury. He felt apologetic, however, the one danger was so trifling beside the other.

Colonel Cummings listened. "Those girls had better come here," he said as the storekeeper finished. "Then they'd be safe enough. I remember seeing one of 'em the day we got back. She was a fine looking young woman."

"There are two arguments against their coming, sir. For legal reasons it's best they should not vacate the shack or leave the claim."

"I see."

"And, again, the father is—well, he's rather sore about the war."

"You don't say!"

"So, if you could give me a couple of men to take my place now and then during the night—the situation is temporary, you see, the father 'll be back in a few days."

"There are very strong reasons against my acting in the matter. I'm here to keep an eye on the Indians. The settlers are expected to go to the civil authorities when they have quarrels. Now, I'd like to mix up with Shanty Town, for instance. Our guard room is jammed with men who've been drugged over there with vile whisky. Yet I can't. I can only punish my men."

"I know that's so."

"Of course I shan't see defenseless women suffer"—

Lounsbury was piqued. "Not altogether defenseless, colonel. But I can't stay at the shack"—

"True, true. Why not ask Mrs. Martin, Major Appleton's sister, to go over? Then you might guard from the barn, if they have one."

"That's a splendid suggestion, sir. It would solve the difficulty."

"I'd be glad to speak to Mrs. Martin about it." He thought a moment, passing a hand over his clean shaven face. "You'd have to be relieved even then, John, I should think."

"Not at all."

"But you might. In that case"— He drew Lounsbury close and spoke with his lips in the storekeeper's ear. "But you understand," he said aloud as he concluded, "that I know nothing about it. If I hear of it I shall be very displeased—very."

Lounsbury was wringing his hand and ready to bolt.

"All the same, John, I wish the civil authorities could get at the man."

"I wish so too." He leaned over Jamieson.

"Good luck!" said Colonel Cummings, going back to his maps.

"Thank you."

And just at that moment, as Lounsbury swung round on his heel, there rang out from the river a single pistol shot. It echoed sharply against the barracks and went dying away upon the bluffs.

CHAPTER XI.

FRASER'S shot drew many eyes to the river—for in the winter time any occurrence, however trifling, could get instant attention of the lonely garrison. Troopers in various stages of dress came tumbling out upon the long porch at barracks. Others looked from the many windows of the big frame structure. The washerwomen and their hopefuls blocked the doorways of "Clothespin row." Officers everywhere—at headquarters, at the butler's, in their homes—and their wives and families up and down the "line" remarked the signal. But when Lounsbury brought up beside Fraser, and the two seemed to be occupying themselves with nothing in particular, the onlookers laid the shot to an overventuresome water rat and so withdrew from their points of vantage.

"What is it?" was the storekeeper's first breathless demand.

The young officer, hands on hips, nodded straight ahead. "You see those willows just below the cut?" he asked. "Well, there's a queer black bunch in 'em."

"Yes. Is it a man?"

"I think so."

"Moved?"

"Not yet."

"Come on then. Maybe he's aiming for the coulee mouth, so's to sneak up to the Lancasters' from behind."

They charged away across the mile of ice.

"If it's Matthews why didn't he wing me as I went by?" panted Lounsbury.

"Look, look!" cried Fraser. "Now, he's moving!"

They stopped to loosen their revolvers, after which they started again, cautiously.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute this unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

Lacrosse Team Returns from England

Hale and hearty after their long trip, the Toronto members of the Olympic lacrosse team returned home this morning. They were Ed Sullivan, Jimmy Murphy, Charlie Cummerford and Mara. Alex. Turnbull and Dan McLeod, New Westminster and Calgary, also stopped here.

Charlie Murphy was seen by The News and he was enthusiastic about the whole affair. He said of the game:

"In the first quarter the Englishmen were a little confused and we managed to get four goals. In the second the game was even. But in the third, the English team completely played us off our feet.

They gave an exhibition of the finest running and passing our boys had ever seen.

"If they had continued at in the fourth it is hard to tell what the result would have been.

"The game was one of the cleanest for so much at stake I ever witnessed. Not a player was penalized, and only two fouls were called, one on each team. These were both minor affairs for which each team received free throws.

"The banquet given by Lord Desbrough to the competing clubs was a magnificent thing. Five hundred and twenty covers were spread and fed sat down.

Alderman Foran, the team manager, replying to the toast to Canada's national game, covered himself with glory. It was the finest speech of the evening and he was complimented on all sides by the nobility and prominent people present.

"Lord Desbrough spoke for ten minutes on Canada's national game. It was the finest field game in existence bringing out all that was best in the man, he said. He hoped the time was not far distant when the school boys of England would be seen playing it.

"I can really see," he said, "that a great future awaits the game of lacrosse in England."

"After the Olympic game with Lord Desborough and Earl Roberts visited the Canadian dressing room, chatted with the boys and congratulated them."

Hobin was injured in practice three days before the game but he has now recovered. He played the Stadium but not the two following.

His prison term

Such things have brought about an agitation for a complete change in the program. The Horticultural Society has done a great work. The members have always taken great pleasure out of the work. The time has come, however, for a change. The officers of the society are of the opinion that the city should appoint a parks commission and hand over to them the care of the parks. Especially is this feeling strong in regards to Central Park, which will require the expenditure of a large sum of money to put it into proper shape again, and the society have not the funds to handle the work.

VARICOCELE CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I feared it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much, and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW MATHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a meniere shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Appetite Gone---Nees Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified In Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tried her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waimere, P.Q., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headaches, could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfect. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old, and guaranteed to give renewed activity and strength to every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Wedding Bells

SWEENEY—SULLIVAN.

A quiet though pretty wedding was celebrated on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Miss Bessie Sullivan and Mr. Thomas Sweeney were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father McGall. The bride was attired in a handsome traveling suit of blue Panama with hat to match, and was given away by her cousin, Mr. Timothy Dineen, of Havelock. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's friend, Miss Maggie Flaherty, Water street, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple left for their home in Toronto. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and handsome presents.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in restored comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Having carefully watched the growth and development of the Cobalt Camp from its beginning and having seen mere prospects become great Shipping Mines, sending out to the Smelters of this continent Trainloads of the Richest Ore ever shipped.

More and more clearly has it been demonstrated that never were such opportunities offered to the Canadian Public as to-day.

RIGHT AT HOME, within 12 hours' ride by rail from Toronto, WEALTH is exposed both on the SURFACE and AT DEPTH that the ordinary mind can only vaguely comprehend.

Many Toronto Brokers visited Cobalt recently and so enthused did they become that the entire Toronto Mining Exchange goes to Cobalt this week to spend several days inspecting the Camp.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW ALL ABOUT COBALT AND HAVE NOT BEEN THERE

ASK YOUR BROKER ABOUT IT

Remember That in the Cobalt Camp, Only 4 Years Old, There Are Today More Dividend-Paying Mines Than Are Listed on All Foreign Exchanges

Do you realize that millions have already been paid in dividends? And that even at present depth many more millions are now blocked out than have yet been shipped. Also that development on the wonderful Temiskaming veins means to every mine owner in that part of Cobalt many millions are yet to be mined at great depth. Is it possible that this great lode exists on the Temiskaming alone?

No! We are already aware that the GANS portion of the Temiskaming acreage shows a 12-inch vein running in a southerly direction, and this alone is worth the entire Temiskaming capitalization.

Does this vein stop on the GANS? No! No! This ore chute extends the whole length of the camp. Richer, of course, where it comes in contact with the diabase, and leaner in values when furthest from them.

Read our geologist's report. Observe the mention of these contacts or intrusions of diabase on the Gifford Extension. Go there and see for yourself. You do not need to be a geologist nor yet a mining man to make comparisons of surface indications.

You will easily detect the similarity of formations. Only twenty chains south of these great veins, and having an acreage with a width of over a quarter of a mile in which to pick them up, with indisputable surface evidences that WE HAVE THESE VEINS in the very centre of our property, we have no hesitation in urging the immediate purchase of this stock.

We have 50 acres. This is no mere prospect with surface indications, but a property with good veins, on which genuine development has already been done.

Shafts have already been sunk, which will be continued to greater depth. The main shaft is now down 86 feet, from which point we will immediately start diamond drilling and prove up our ore bodies.

A diamond drill has been purchased, to be delivered in two weeks, and progress will be faithfully reported to our shareholders.

Longboat Declared a "Pro"

Rugby, Basketball The Turf

At the annual meeting of the C. A. A. U. in Toronto on Monday night Tom Longboat was declared a professional. Simultaneously with that announcement comes the following dispatch—

Toronto, Nov. 01.—The programme originally arranged for Tom Longboat will probably be carried out as planned. Although the Indian is not in the best of condition he will make his first appearance as a professional at Kingston to-morrow night in a five-mile race against a relay of five men.

He will then settle down to good hard work-outs in preparation for his races in New York. Tom Flanigan is willing to enter Longboat against either Dorando or Hayes, on both together, but no arrangements have been made with Shrubb yet.

By his contract Longboat will entrust the earnings to the original committee appointed for the purpose, viz., Messrs. Ward, Morrow and Little.

Tom Longboat wants to be an amateur again.

Already he has applied to the C. A. A. U. to re-enter its ranks as an athlete in good standing. He has been a professional practically a matter of hours. But he has had enough of the new style of life.

At a late hour this morning he phoned to a prominent sporting man and declared his desire of returning to the fold again. Evidently he feels the loss of his affable manager, Tom Flanagan.

LONGBOAT GOES BACK.

Late last night Longboat slipped away from his Indian adviser, Aconas, and hied himself to the Grand Central Hotel, where, like the Prodigal Son, he asked his former manager to take him back. Flanagan, however, is undecided, as the Indian, he says, has been a lot of trouble. Longboat, meanwhile, is staying with Tom Flanagan, and will probably do so until some arrangement is made.

Poor Longboat!

It's up to Tom to say what he intends to do and to say it mighty quick.

A meeting which will practically decide the Indian's future is being held this afternoon at two o'clock and he will be there to explain a few things. Rev. J. D. Morrow and Controller J. J. Ward, trustees appointed to take charge of his bank account, are at the meeting and will try to persuade Tom to stick to them for his own sake.

"If $50,000 was offered to me to run Longboat on Thanksgiving Day, I would refuse it," said Tom Flanagan, the Indian's manager, this morning. "I haven't seen Longboat for a number of days, and I know he is not in any kind of condition.

"I heard a rumor this morning that these gamblers who have been talking to him want him to run a race on Monday. What do they care for him? They only want the money, which I want to see the Indian win.

"My ambition was to have Tom win that Olympic Marathon, but he failed, and then I wanted to make races with the winners, Dorando and Hayes. I was planning for these races even before I thought of entering the professional field, but Tom has got some ideas of his own now and I really don't know what will become of him.

"I have canceled every race which had been arranged just on account of his attitude. No, I'm not trying to down him. I only want to get after those gamblers."

During the course of the conversation Flanagan showed the News a letter which he had just received from Philadelphia, offering 65 per cent. of the gross receipts if Longboat would run there. A number of similar offers have been turned down awaiting the developments of the meeting this afternoon.

Rev. J. D. Morrow has issued a letter appealing to friends to save Longboat from those who in reality may be his enemies. Gambling, he says, should not for one moment be allowed to have anything to do with his professional career. If attempts to make Longboat realize the danger he is in and his efforts will certainly be backed up by the well-meaning public.—Toronto News.

IS THERE NATURAL GAS IN PETERBOROUGH?

Water Commissioners Preparing to Construct New Water Works Dam

At a meeting of the committee of the whole council last night the water commissioners were present and presented to the aldermen a proposition for a new waterworks dams and pump house for the waterworks system. For some time the commissioners have been considering great improvements to their plant and have had engineers here studying the situation. The result is that Mr. McKennedy, of Montreal, has been here and reported on what is necessary and the best way to make these improvements.

Mr. O'Keefe, of Montreal, recommended that a new dam at 875.00 in 1904 be built, but this did not seem satisfactory, as it was thought it would be cheaper to build a short distance below the present dam. Recently the water commission decided to communicate with Mr. Kennedy of Montreal, an engineer well known in Canada, and especially in the Ottawa Valley. Mr. Kennedy asked for certain soundings and measurements and has made a report. This report Mr. Matthews stated the commission thought would be better to lay before the council before anything further was done towards placing a by-law before the people to raise the required money. Mr. Matthews then read the letter from Mr. Kennedy and also his report.

After reading the report Mr. Matthews stated that the commission thought it would be advisable to go further into the matter and secure full details and put themselves in a position to decide what to do. He would like the council to sanction the commission's action at to-night's meeting.

Ald. Buller suggested that the power committee and the water commission have a joint meeting and take the matter up at once. He stated that he understood the power committee was working along similar lines.

It was moved by Ald. Johnston and Ald. Phelan that the city council approve of the plan of the water commission in securing the preliminary plans from Mr. Kennedy, jr., of Montreal, of the waterworks property.—Carried

Hindoos in B. C. Go British Honduras--More Expense to the Country

(Special to the Times.)

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 11.—The Hindoo delegates will report favorably on the proposal to transport their fellow countrymen resident in British Columbia to British Honduras. This is the advice received by cable by J. B. Harkin, private secretary to the Minister of the Interior, who is now in Belize, the capital of the Central American colony. It is understood that Harkin and the East Indians will leave next week for Vancouver. On the return here the Hindoos will present many reasons why the offer of the Imperial Government to locate them in British Honduras should be accepted.

The cost of transportation from British Columbia to the colony will likely be borne jointly by Ottawa and the Imperial authorities. The Hindoos will be employed on railroad work and in sugar plantations at a rate not to exceed $1 per day. It is expected that 95 per cent. of the East Indians in British Columbia will accept the terms respecting employment guaranteed by the Governor of British Honduras. Those who remain here and who are found out of work during the coming winter will be deported to Hong Kong.

Hungarians Adopted a System of Plural Voting

(Special to the Times.)

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 11.—The bill providing for the universal suffrage in Hungary was presented to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon by Count Andrassi, Minister of the Interior. It contains many novel provisions that are supposed to prevent political power falling wholly into the hands of the illiterate or those not in a position to use the franchise in the best interests of the country, but to retain the power in the hands of the intelligent classes.

The bill provides that all over the age of 24 years who has resided in any commune for one year is entitled to vote. The illiterates, however, are assembled in groups of ten and each group is allowed to select one voter. As a further means of preserving the ascendency of the intelligent people the bill provides for a system of plural voting. All electors over 32 years of age who have fulfilled their military duties and have three children get two votes. Workmen who have spent five years at the same trade, as well as workmen who have graduated from classes of the secondary schools also get two votes. The electors who have completed a full course in the secondary school or who pay $20 a year in direct taxes to the government are given the high privilege of voting three times.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Every week, severe drinking and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than pirates. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and told them my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got Their New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $21 a week in a machine shop before taking treatment, now I can consider $35 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

A Company of Americans will Make Borings for Gas in the Vicinity--Council have Agreement

If the Company Meet with Success They will Supply Gas for Domestic Purposes-- Means Cheap Fuel and Light for Consumer

Natural Gas for Peterboro

Is there natural gas in the vicinity of the city of Peterborough? If there is Mr. Chas. F. Dittman, of Waynesburg, Pa., and his associates will find it and supply it to the citizens as rapidly as possible. The city council last night passed a by-law confirming an agreement with Mr. Dittman to use the streets and public lanes for the purpose of laying pipes to supply the gas if it is found.

Mr. Dittman and his associates were in the city some weeks ago and introduced the matter to the council, and that body was favorably impressed. The American capitalists then started in to secure leases on all the land possible in the neighborhood, and they have succeeded in securing already 3,500 acres. They will endeavor to get 12,000 acres, and are now working in North Monaghan and Smith.

They are prepared to spend in their efforts to find gas from $10,000 to $20,000. They have the money now and are asking for no aid from the city, nor are they asking any local capitalists to take any stock, and as soon as possible after completing their leases of the land they will begin operations.

If natural gas is found in sufficient quantities it will be supplied to the citizens for domestic purposes (lighting and heating), and for manufacturing purposes within the next two years. Operations must be begun before January 1st next.

This should be great news to all Peterborough. Quite a number know how convenient manufactured gas is for cooking purposes. They will realize what natural gas would mean for heating, cooking and lighting, and especially when it will be furnished for 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet or less. It means doing away with the handling of fuel. There will be no more ashes or dirt, and once the gas is lit it requires no more attention except to regulate the amount of heat.

A whole volume could be written on the value of natural gas but space will not permit it.

Mr. Dittmar is being assisted in his work of securing leases by Mr. R. H. Leary, who is known to probably every farmer in Peterborough county. These two are the only ones authorized to make leases.

Fuller particulars of the find for natural gas in Peterborough county will appear from time to time.

Those present at the council meeting were Mayor Rush, Ald. Phelan, McIntyre, Neill, Gillespie, Bradburn, Buller, Morgan, Elliott, Young and Johnston.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall read the agreement entered into between the city council and the gas people, which is as follows—

Agreement between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and Charles D. Dittman, of Waynesburg, Pa., who with his associates propose to make tests and borings in the vicinity of Peterborough for the purpose of ascertaining if sufficient natural gas can be obtained to enable them to supply the inhabitants of the city with the same for domestic and manufacturing purposes. They have requested the council to agree that if natural gas should be found in sufficient quantities to grant unto them the right to use the streets and public lanes for laying pipes for supplying gas to the consumers. In the event of all the consent it is desirable and in the public interest to grant such a request, subject to the terms in the matter hereinafter.

The agreement is that Mr. Dittman and his associates will as soon as possible and not later than January, 1909, commence boring operations and spend at least $5,000 on wells and take such other actions as may be necessary to ascertain if a sufficient supply of gas can be obtained in the vicinity of Peterborough. And if within natural gas is found within two years from the date of the agreement Mr. Dittman or the company will in that time lay the necessary pipes from the source of the gas to the city and do other necessary work, and will supply the inhabitants of the said city with the same.

That the quantity of such natural gas shall be not less than four ounces per square inch at the outlet of the consumer, and the price to be charged therefor shall not exceed 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for domestic use and 25 cents per 1,000 for manufacturing purposes.

That at all times a good and efficient service shall be furnished to the citizens desiring to use it, so long as there is a sufficient supply.

In case Mr. Dittman and his associates fail to furnish the natural gas and install the system in the time specified, or fail to operate same at any time after such installation, except in case of strike, accidents, etc., or should they form a combine or amalgamate with or sell to any other person or company doing like business in the city, then all rights to use the streets shall upon these events, or in case of the breach of any of the terms after notice has been given by the corporation of the default and the same has not been remedied within two months.

That before Mr. Dittman or his associates shall lay, relay or change any pipes after the distribution of gas, an application accompanied by a plan and profile shall be furnished the city engineer, and shall be subjected to his approval. Such application must be made before the first of April in any year, or else the express consent of the council must be secured.

All the work must be done under the control and to the satisfaction of the city engineer and the company shall not do unnecessary damage or obstruct traffic while the work is in progress, and the streets and lanes must be kept in as good condition as before the work was started.

That the company shall indemnify and keep indemnified the city from all claims for damages, etc., arising by reason of the work, and shall pay all persons or firms or corporations such damages that may be sustained.

The city reserves the right to appoint the street commissioner or other person to superintend the work, and the company shall pay the reasonable expenses of such superintendance.

The city agrees that for twenty years from Jan. 1 1909, to allow Mr. Dittman and his associates to use such streets or public lanes as may be required for their purposes, but the city has still full control of the streets and lanes.

The city also agrees that for the first ten years of the twenty years the city will not grant or allow any other person, firm or corporation the use of the streets or public lanes for the purpose of laying pipes for the supply of natural gas.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

Matthews, Ont., Nov. 11.—Lake Temiskaming has had its tragedy, grim and terrible, and the wood Nature of St. Joseph Hospital are to-day tenderly caring for the victims who lie tortured, with scalded bodies, in the wards of that excellent institution.

Twenty-five people were on the boat yesterday, including the crew. When about four miles from her destination about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, while running about full speed, a sudden explosion shook the vessel, and the boiler was immediately enveloped in a cloud of hissing steam.

A terrible scene followed. Cries of injured people and those fearing and expecting the most unfortunate groping through the dense, steam-laden atmosphere to the upper decks will never be forgotten by those on board. Twenty-five tons of coal piled up behind the boilers were scattered all over the lower deck, but the weight saved them from suffering, and prevented even a worse catastrophe from flying pieces of metal.

Tigers and Ottawa Will Play at Kingston Saturday Afternoon

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 11.—The Hamilton Tigers and Ottawa will play off the game to break the tie of the Inter-Provincial Rugby Union at Kingston next Saturday afternoon.

The Ottawa bunch held out for Montreal, while the Tigers stuck to Toronto. The executive was evenly divided and the casting vote was up to Mr. Percy Molson, the President of the Union. This afternoon he decided in favor of Kingston. The Tigers are disappointed that Toronto was not chosen, but they like Kingston better than Montreal.

A special train for the team's return will probably be run, leaving Hamilton Saturday morning and returning the same night. The team will be practically the same as met the Rough Riders in Ottawa. The only change is that Cox will be out of the game, but Lottus will take his place. Marriott will play, although he has a broken nose. The Tigers cannot draw on the intermediate team, as they have their work cut out for them in the game with Dundas, with whom they are also tied.

Eczema and Piles Cured

Magistrate and School Commissioner Healed by Zam-Buk

Zam-Buk by its healing power has earned the praise of men and women in the highest stations of life. One of the latest prominent gentlemen to speak highly in Zam-Buk's favor is Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N. S. Mr. Weston is a Justice of the Peace for the county, and a member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also deacon of the Baptist Church in Berwick. Indeed, throughout the county it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected.

Some time back he had occasion to test Zam-Buk, and here is his opinion of this great balm. He says: "I had a patch of eczema on my ankle, which had been there for over twenty years! Sometimes also the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had taken solution of arsenic, had applied various ointments, and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but in vain. Zam-Buk, unlike all else I tried, proved highly satisfactory, and cured the ailment.

"I have also used Zam-Buk for itching piles, and it has cured them completely also. I take comfort in helping my brother man, and if my opinion of my experience of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it, I would be glad. For the cure of piles or skin diseases, I know of nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk also cures burns, cuts, ulcers, blood poisoning, ringworm, scalp sores, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. Rubbed well on to the chest in cases of cold it relieves the tightness and aching. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 2 boxes for $1.25.

Low Water Reveals Logs Long Buried

Somebody is getting a lot of cheap fire wood this year by hauling the sunken logs from the river. The lumber is still in dispute as it is customary for some to pull the logs out on the river at this time of the year. The interesting part to that section of the timber being taken out has not been any land for probably twenty years or more. This is due to the very low water in the river, which has not reached its present level since the waterworks dam was built. Among the logs are some pieces of oak, pine, basswood and ash, and they bear marks of ancient date. For instance, on one piece were the letters "S. D.," which belonged to the time when the late Samuel Dobson was in the timber business. Other marks are "3," "E. Z." and "P. L." Some of the pieces are in a good state of preservation, and if there is much oak lying in the bottom of the river it would pay some one to gather it up.

Will Bryan Become an Evangelist and Rival The Apostle Paul?

(Special to the Times.)

Burlington, Ka., Nov. 11.—Rev. F. E. Oliver, who is holding evangelical meetings here, has issued an open letter to W. J. Bryan, the Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, urging the Nebraskan to become an evangelist, and predicted that Bryan would be equal to the Apostle Paul. He says in his letter, "Who knows! Whether God has held the presidency from you so long in order that you may become to your country more than President. I am convinced that one evening list of Christ of your calibre would be worth more to the United States than 10,000 presidents."

Immigrants are worry to Chatham

(Special to the Times.)

Chatham, Nov. 11.—This city faces the serious problem of how to keep a hundred English immigrants and their families during the coming winter. They are now all out of work and none of them have any money.

ARE YOU WEAK AFTER SICKNESS?

Later on It Will be Harder to Get Strong than Today. What are You Doing to Get Well?

A case in point is well exemplified in the following letter from Mrs. N. J. Wilder, wife of a well known citizen of Pittsfield, who writes: "I had a serious attack that completely prostrated me. I couldn't sleep, and would lay and toss about all night, arising in the morning more tired than ever, head heavy, eyes dull, and every bone and muscle aching. I tried to get along without calling in a doctor, but was finally driven to it. He treated me for some time, but with no perceptible improvement in my health. Some one recommended Ferrozone. The change it effected in my system was noticeable almost instantly. I gradually took on flesh. The 'all-gone' feeling left me. In less than six weeks I was fully recovered from what looked to me like an everlasting sickness. I will always recommend Ferrozone feeling with sincerity that it is an honest, powerful, health-giving tonic."

Try Ferrozone today!

The nourishment and vital energy it supplies is wonderful.

Ferrozone makes you feel better at once, it's good for men, for women, for children—just the thing for everybody seeking better health. Sold by all dealers 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50

Stole Mail Bag 'was Arrested

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 11.—Robt. Grimblett, a driver for a transfer company, was arrested here to-day on a charge of stealing a mail bag. It is alleged that on Nov. 6th he got three mail bags from the T., H. & B. train and delivered only two to the post office. The missing bag was found on the G. T. R. tracks near the Bay street bridge. The letters had been opened, and the police say Grimblett has made a confession.

Laying Out Town Site of Prince Rupert

(Special to the Times.)

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 11.—Rapid progress is being made towards the completion of the survey of the town site for Prince Rupert. One hundred and twenty men are now staking out lots, and with continued fine weather it is expected the work on the main town site will be finished by the end of December. The Provincial auction sale of lots, it is expected, will be on May 1st next. Plans are now being prepared for the planking of streets and the laying of sidewalks. The Provincial Government will soon call for tenders for carrying out its share of the work, which will amount to $200,000.

Wedding Bells

O'TOOLE—DORIS.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at St. John's Catholic Church, Keene, on Monday, (Nov. 9th, when Miss Agnes Doris, of Keene, was united in marriage to Mr. William O'Toole, of Kingston, formerly of Peterborough. The wedding took place at 9 o'clock a. m., and Rev. Father Galvin performed the marriage ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a travelling gown and blue broadcloth and wore a white hat. She was given away by her brother, Mr. Richard Doris, and Miss Evelyn Doris was bridesmaid. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Jas. O'Toole. The wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's father, and the happy couple left on the afternoon G. T. R. train for Kingston, where they will reside. The bride was the recipient of numerous handsome and costly presents.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE KAISER'S PLAIN TALK

In the Balkans the word of wisdom from the great chancelleries of Europe is now as always—"Sit on the safety-valve. Every great nation is bent upon suppression. War is possible only as the result of some burst of passion in one of the smaller states cheated of its rights.

What the bubbling pressure under the weighted safety-valve may mean we get daily hints. The other day it was a riot of the Young Czechs in Prague in sympathy with their "Servian brothers" in Bosnia; for the Slavic element which Austria-Hungary is trying to assimilate is found in the north as well as in the northeast, east and south and on the coast. The trouble will presumably "blow over." Servia and Montenegro may or not be placated by trifling concessions. Murder as a means of electioneering for the rival nationalities may presently be resumed in Macedonia. The "promised constitutional government" for Bosnia-Herzegovina will be something after the fashion of the coming Hungarian Francolas Reform bill foreshadowed by the London Time's Vienna correspondent — one vote for every ten men who cannot read or write; two votes for every man who has passed four standards of secondary school and pays $4 in direct taxes, and so on. Power will remain with the Mohammedan landowners and the town carpe-baggers.

The only ray of light in the situation seems to come not from any of the great Christian powers of educated and prosperous Western Europe. It apparently shines on the standard of freedom raised in decrepit Turkey itself. The hope of the Balkan reform evidently rests upon reform in Constantinople.

mains of early civilization to be buried thus under many feet of water. The government has foreseen this dissatisfaction and has appropriated several hundred thousand dollars for the investigation and conservation of the ancient remains to be endangered or destroyed, particularly the early cemeteries which will be flooded.

The beautiful temple of Isis on the Island of Philae, already sadly injured by the invading waters, which at present rise almost to the capitals of the columns, will, after the raising of the dam, be completely submerged, with the possible exception of the very summits of the tall pylon towers. Such submerged year by year must, of course, result in the slow disintegration of the stone, and the ultimate complete destruction of what has been the loveliest building in Egypt. The loss to the modern visitor is but the beginning; for the numerous records and inscriptions on the walls have never been properly copied and published. The same is true of the other Ptolemaic temples, forming a group extending along the river for 40 miles above the Assuan dam.

THESAFETY-VALVE

The first thought of the appreciative reader of the interview with Emperor William which "The London Daily Telegraph" has published will be tinctured with envy of the unnamed gentleman who was privileged at first hand to hear that remarkable outpouring of the imperial mind. The second will probably be a recognition of the indubitable authenticity of the report. It would surpass, we should say, the ability of the most ingenious counterfeiter to concoct an interview so accurately embodying the peculiar characteristics of the Emperor, and we must congratulate the unknown reporter upon the skill with which he retained in memory and has now recalled and repeated those nervous and virile utterances.

The most important thought, however, is that concerning the essential truth of the Emperor's statements. We mean, of course, his citation of historic facts and his profession of friendly regard for Great Britain. His unconventional exclamation that the English are as mad as March hares may be bracketed, as a figurative extravaganza, by the side of other like expressions from both German and British sources. Nor it will be observed, does he claim for himself invariably irreproachable impeccability in his attitude toward Great Britain. We have always supposed that he himself classed his famous dispatch to "Oom Paul" as one of those things—in Mr. Punch's phrase—which one would rather have left unsaid, or at any rate would rather have said differently. But as we have hitherto suggested, that abrupt ebullition was handsomely atoned for by the later conduct of the Emperor toward Mr. Krueger and the Boer envoys which is referred to in this interview.

It must, of course, be borne in mind that Germany is one of the greatest empires in the world, that it is rapidly growing in commercial and other interests, and that it is simply impossible for such an empire thus to grow without coming into contact, and perhaps now and then coming into friction with its neighbors. And, of course, too, such an empire or its sovereign and government must have regard first of all for its own welfare. Moreover, there is a familiar and truthful saying about the difficulty of agreement between two of a trade, and in several highly important particulars Great Britain and Germany are two of a trade. A certain degree of friction between them is probably inevitable, but there really would seem to be no excuse for its exaggeration into anything like unfriendliness. The trouble appears to be that some ill-considered incidents and some ill-devised conditions have "got on the nerves" of over-susceptible persons on both sides, so that there have arisen in both countries a suspicion and an animosity for which there is no just ground.

The two great nations of Europe which stand conspicuous for the fact that they never yet have been at war with each other are Great Britain and Germany. There are peculiarly strong reasons why they, of all nations here, should never be at war with each other; but there would be no good in trying to conceal or to ignore the obvious fact that for some years there has been more talk of war between them than between any other two nations. The Emperor's plain utterance should go far toward revealing the hollowness and the groundlessness of that talk, and we should hope that it would also go far toward putting an end to it.

NEW PALACE FOR KING EDWARD

An incident, which, in the opinion of "Ex-Attache", shows in a striking manner the popularity of King Edward is the very general expression of opinion that Buckingham Palace is not good enough for him, and that he should have a new official house. Not long ago it was announced that the exterior of the palace was to be cleaned and pointed, and beds of flowers put down where at present a vast expanse of gravel lies between the main entrance and the street railings. Some interior structural improvements were contemplated, in order to make it feasible for the palace to be thrown open to the public on certain days, and at the same time to preserve the privacy of the King and Queen.

AN UNSIGHTLY PALACE.

At once an outcry arose that it would be more sensible to have the unsightly block of buildings torn down at once, and a palace erected that would be more in keeping with the dignity of the ruler of the British Empire. Buckingham Palace, though it has an awesome sound, and though visitors may be impressed by what they presume to be its historical associations, is not admired by those who know it best. It is located where it fails to harmonize with the stately memorial to Queen Victoria, upon which, and its noble approaches, such vast sums of money have been spent. Were it possible to change the site of the palace, that surely would be done, for the mansion occupies low-lying ground. Its gardens are so beautiful and extensive, however, that the change is out of the question, especially since the erection of the Victoria Memorial. The proposed new palace will remain in Pimlico; and though the Social-Labor party may be expected to vehemently oppose the spending of several million pounds on a new residence for the Royal Family, there seems to be a general desire on the part of the public that ugly old Buckingham should be removed from the map.

TWO CENTURIES OLD.

Buckingham Palace, while far from venerable, in its sprightly youthful aspect being something more than two centuries old. It was erected in 1703 on the former site of Arlington House, in whose gardens was given the first tea party in England, as its name implies, the Duke of Buckingham built the palace—that Duke whose wife was the natural daughter of James II. The Duke did not occupy it long, and the next owner was George III., who paid $140,000 for the place, and settled it upon his consort. Here it was that all king George's children were born, except the eldest son. The insanity of the king, which made it necessary for him to be placed under restraint, deprived the palace of its royal inmate, and for years it remained unoccupied. When George IV. came to the throne the palace had become so neglected that the new king devised repairs and improvements on a truly Royal scale, the work was to have been carried out under the supervision of Nash, the architect, and had he been permitted to have his way he might have done something worth while, even with such unpromising raw material.

A SINK-HOLE FOR $3,000,000.

George IV., however, was continually insisting on an alteration of designs and when he died, in 1830, no less a sum than $3,000,000 had been spent on the palace, and it remained uncompleted, and almost uninhabitable, the original red brick building of Buckingham's time having been lost in a maze of new buildings of stone and marble. It is recalled that in 1838, when the Duke of Wellington, in the House of Lords, was explaining the uses to which a ne wappropriation was to be put, he declared that "notwithstanding all the expense that has been incurred in connection with the palace, there is no sovereign in Europe—I may add, perhaps, no private gentleman—who is so ill-lodged as the King of this country." When Queen Victoria came to the throne she chose Buckingham Palace, because so many tragedies were associated with St. James' Palace, and because she did not wish to continue under her mother's wing at Kensington.

MODERNIZING BUCKINGHAM.

So once more an army of carpenters, and masons, and decorators, swarmed over the Pimlico palace. In a few months its most glaring defects had been remedied, and the Queen took up her residence there, using St. James' Palace for all state functions. James' Palace for all state functions. From time to time additions were made to the palace, such as another storey, an east wing, and the conversion of a conservatory into a chapel. At the time of the Crimean war the state ball-room was added. The Prince Consort, who was a clever landscape gardener, designed many improvements in the grounds. On the death of the in the grounds. On the death of the Prince the Queen withdrew to Windsor, and for forty years Buckingham Palace remained closed. King Edward has spent some hundreds of thousands of pounds on the place, but it is a veritable sink-hole for money, and on the score of ultimate economy its destruction might be justified.

Nervous Prostrations

Of nervous prostration we hear much nowadays, and it is comforting to know that there are places specially equipped and located for combating this phase of modern life. On the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway System, at St. Catharines, Ontario, are located the curative saline Springs known as the "St. Catharines Well" Connected with the Springs is "The Welland", where treatments for nervous prostration, rheumatism, etc., are given by skilled attendants in charge of a resident physician.

Jeffries' Views of Coming Big Fight

Canadian is Game and Clever---Jeffries Pick him to beat Johnson

James J. Jeffries thus discusses the Burns-Johnson fight:—

Tommy Burns' scheduled Australian battle with big black Jack Johnson will be the first real fight that the present heavyweight champion has had in many a long month. If the meeting between Burns and the Texas negro is on the level, and I have no reason to believe otherwise, it will be practically the only time that Tommy has been called upon to extend himself since he has been recognized as the heavyweight champion of the world.

Burns' bout with Bill Squires, Jack Palmer, Jem Roche and the rest of those fellows were all in the nature of a joke. I don't believe that any champion was ever presented with one-fourth of the "easy" money that has been blown across Burns' path during the past year.

The hardest fight that Tommy Burns ever had was right here in this city and it was Jim Flynn, the fighting fireman, who gave it to him. Burns knocked out Flynn in 15 rounds before the Pacific Athletic Club, at Naud Junction, on the night of October 2, 1906, but Tommy did not conquer the tough Colorado man until he himself had been given an awful drubbing.

Burns was himself the first to acknowledge the corn after the bout was over. "The hardest and toughest battle that I ever ran up against," said Burns in his dressing room that night. "I wonder what this fellow Flynn is made of anyhow."

Tommy certainly looked his part. Both his eyes were badly swollen and his lips and nose were cut up. It took his handlers the better part of three days to doctor their man's features up so that he was presentable. When Tommy tried to smoke the next morning he was one of the most comical sights you ever laid your eyes upon.

This was Tommy's hardest and most desperate battle. Since then he has had the easiest kind of picking, but now it looks as though he had tackled the real fight of his career when he meets Jack Johnson.

Burns is staking his all on this one battle. He confided to Los Angeles friends before leaving for Europe that he intended fighting Johnson all right, but that he would take his own sweet time about signing articles. Tommy gave the impression that he would give the black giant a chance at the title only after he had cleaned up everything else in sight.

Burns probably considers that he has now swept the path clean with the exception of Johnson. Tommy is of a saving disposition. He has plenty of this world's goods stored away, and in the event of his being defeated by Johnson, he, in all probability, figures to retire and enjoy the remainder of his life on his fortune and its income. Should Burns whip Johnson then the field opens up anew to him, and there appears to be no limit to the scope of his financial possibilities. He can return to America and play the game out until every card in the pugilistic deck has been completely exhausted, to say nothing of the theatrical field.

Tommy is shrewd and far-seeing, and in my estimation has all the better of the conditions as they exist in connection with the approaching Australian engagement. In the first place, Johnson has been compelled to trail Burns half way around the world. To use a proper slang expression, Tommy has landed Johnson's "goat" by these taunting methods, and this ruffling of Johnson's temper is all in Tommy's favour.

Another thing, and one that is most important is the fact that Burns has been in Australia for many weeks. He has been thoroughly acclimated, and had time to build up his fences all around. Johnson, on the other hand, will have to start training immediately at the finish of a long and tiresome ocean voyage. Unquestionably Burns will have the better of Johnson so far as condition goes when they both crawl through the ropes.

It has frequently been said that Johnson carries around a yellow streak, which is located along his spinal column. Leave it to Burns to find the "canary". If such a thing exists, Tommy has studied Johnson and his methods until he knows them by heart. The Canadian has probbly long since determined upon his plan of action. He will strike at Johnson's weakest point, whatever it is, and from then on will put up a masterful battle.

Abe Attell once said: "If I am ever whipped it will be after such a desperate battle that the police will have to jump into the ring to prevent me being killed. I'll never give up." I believe it will be the same with Burns. Whatever else may be said of the Canuck's fighting ability it will have to be admitted that he is game to the core. He will put up a terrific fight when he knows that he is up against the fight of his life, and if Jack Johnson conquere the white man he will surely be deserving of all the credit in the world.

If there is any truth in the story that Johnson harbors even an ounce of yellow in his fighting make up, then heaven help him when he meets Burns. I look for Burns to fight desperately, and Johnson will be compelled to come through with everything he carries in stock in the way of fighting material.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

Write immediately for full particulars. Local agent wanted.

The tops of the willows were shaking. Presently they spread outward, and the "black bunch" lengthened. Then it emerged and was resolved into a blanketed Indian.

"Charley!" exclaimed the officer. As he spoke the outcast, shouldering a bundle of sticks, began to climb the cut.

The two men looked at each other and burst into a laugh.

"Fraser," said Lounsbury, "did you ever hear of the fellow that stalked a deer all day and then found it was a speck on his glasses?"

"That's one on me," admitted the lieutenant sheepishly. "I knew nobody had come out of that door—but you see we were in the stable awhile."

"Charley'—that squaw Indian they told me about, eh? Pretty good to them."

"Yes. From what I understand they're pretty good to him."

They followed leisurely and took up a stand in the cottonwoods above the landing to discuss the situation. At the very outset Lounsbury determined not to speak of the plan that included Mrs. Martin's aid, the rebuff he had suffered from the section boss having decided him against it.

"By George," he said regretfully, "I wish when I had Matthews covered that I'd just marched him up the coulee and on to Clark's!"

"Good idea. Too bad you didn't."

"But I'll tell you this: I'm not going to stay out here all night just to shoo him off. I've a good mind to happen in down there, sort him out and do the marching act anybow."

"Now, look here," remluded Fraser, "that wouldn't do. You don't want to kill Matthews, and you don't want to be killed. It 'd be one or the other if you poked your nose in there."

"What do you advise?"

"Lie low till you see a good opportunity. I think the chap'll come out."

"But suppose he doesn't?"

"You'll have to stay here, that's all. I'll divide the watch with you."

"Oh, I don't like to ask you to do that, old man. We ought to be able to think up some kind of a scheme."

The sun was fast declining. Soon it disappeared behind the river bluffs, when the boom of the evening gun swelled the last note of "retreat."

Fraser sighed. The trumpet had suggested a certain dire possibility.

"I don't care for the cold," he declared, "but—but"—ruefully—"do you suppose the K. O. 'll give me more than a month in quarters for this? There's that dance at the major's next week. I'd like awfully to go. If I'm under arrest I can't. And who'll feed my horse and my rattlesnakes?"

"Some sassy sergeant 'll shoot your fiend of a nag," said the storekeeper, "and the rattlers 'll be requested to devour one another. When that's over I'll break it gently to you (and you must be mum) that the K. O. is disciplining you simply to keep his face. He knows—suggested it himself—that I'm to be helped out by some of you fellows."

"Well, that's better," returned Fraser, relieved. And while they walked back and forth he launched into a defense of his pets.

"'Fiend of a nag,'" he quoted. "Why, Buckskin's a tactician. Knows what the trumpet says better than I do."

Night settled swiftly. Despite Lounsbury's prophecy the temperature was not unbearable. The wind died with the glow in the west, leaving the air so still that, to the watchers among the trees, sounds from Brannon mingled distinctly with the near laughter and talk of Shanty Town. No moon rose. Only a few stars burned their faint way through the quickly hidden rents of the sheltering cloud covering that, knitting here, breaking there, again overlapping in soft folds before an urgent sky breeze, swagged low above the ground.

With darkness the two left the grove for the ledge upon which was Shanty Town and stationed themselves where they could still see whoever went in or out of the Trooper's Delight. Matthews did not appear. Numerous men in uniform did. They made noisy exits and went brawling along to other shanties. They skulked out of the willows, flitted across the bit of snow crusted beach below the saloons and scrambled up to hurry in.

When two hours or more had gone by the storekeeper grew impatient. He walked back and halted in the inky shadow of the wall down which Nick Matthews had tobogganed. From there he pointed to a shaft of light that was running upon the north side of the second shanty in the street. It was from an uncurtained south opening in the first.

"You see that?" asked Lounsbury. "Well, I'm going over there to look in. How do we know he hasn't given us the slip some way?"

"Let's be careful," said the lieutenant. "A proper amount of caution isn't cowardice. If you're seen the whole pack'll set on you."

"I will be careful, but I'm not going to"—

"That's all very nice, only you must consider the stripe of man you're dealing with"—

"I can roll a gun, Fraser."

"But, Jupiter! This chap isn't going to fight you in the open. He'll use Indian tactics—fact is, he was raised among 'em."

"What's that?" asked Lounsbury.

"Raised among 'em, I said—with the Sioux."

"Speaks the tongue, then?" For some reason the storekeeper seemed strangely agitated.

"Why, yes."

At that Lounsbury was off, making straight for the entrance of the building they had been watching.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

Manner In Which the Law Treats It in Different Countries.

England is the best place, from the plaintiff's point of view, for a breach of promise action. All other countries seem to regard with grave suspicion any attempt to recover monetary compensation for the loss of a prospective husband, and unless the plaintiff has a very strong case indeed it is never worth her while to carry her grief into the law courts.

In France breach of promise cases are rare, for the simple reason that the law requires the plaintiff to prove that she has suffered pecuniary loss. Now, this is not an easy thing to do on the part of the lady, especially in a country where a girl without a dot—that is, a marriage portion—has a poor chance of finding a husband. Holland and Austria have adopted the French system, and the result has been about the same. Breach of promise actions are rare, the injured damsels or their relatives usually taking the law into their own hands.

Practical Germany, as might be expected, has perhaps the best method for solving this problem. When a young couple become engaged they have to go through a public betrothal ceremony that ought to knock all the shyness out of them. In the local town hall the pair declare their affection, willingness to marry, etc., ending by signing a collection of documents that apparently leave no loophole for escape. But if either party to the contract wishes to withdraw another journey is undertaken to the town hall and another collection of documents signed, witnessed and sealed. Then the authorities determine the question of compensation—should it be claimed. In this connection it may be said that the man can and often does claim a solatium for his wounded feelings. The usual award is one-fifth of the marriage dowry. It is easy to understand when all this is remembered how loath the young people of Germany are to break their betrothal oaths.

As the law of Italy affords little or no protection whatever to jilted damsels or swains, it is not surprising that the stiletto should be the favorite mode of deciding breach of promise cases. The Italian law demands that the person suing for the breach shal produce a written promise to marry from the defendant; otherwise the action cannot proceed. This difficulty is almost insurmountable, and the Italian judges are seldom troubled to adjudicate between one time lovers.

To bring an action for breach of promise of mariage against a reigning monarch is an achievement, but it has been done, and by an English lady. Miss Jenny Mighell sued the sultan of Johore, and as there was a doubt whether the dusky one was actually a reigning monarch the case was allowed to come into court, but the judge quickly disposed of the action by ruling it inadmissible for the reason referred to, and Miss Mighell was nonsuited.

It is remarkable that one of the two actions which have brought verdicts for £10,000 each to the plaintiffs should have had for its defendant the editor of a matrimonial paper. The second case was between a well known actress and the eldest son of an earl.—London Tit-Bits.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how many things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, also it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chances then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Tune For Tune.

Frederick the Great made generous presents to all musicians except flute players. He played the flute remarkably well himself. A famous flutist once asked permission to play to the king, hoping that Frederick would show his appreciation of his skill by some valuable gift. Frederick listened attentively while he played a difficult piece. "You play very well," he said, "and I will give you a proof of my satisfaction."

So saying he left the room. The musician waited, guessing at the probable nature of the proof. Presently the king returned with his own flute and played the same piece. Then he bade his visitor "Good day," saying, "I have had the pleasure of hearing you, and it was only fair that you should hear me."

Beyond His Aid.

A woman who had a telephone in her apartment called up the telephone company and asked that the service be discontinued. The man who took her message tried to be exceedingly polite.

"We are sorry to lose you," he said. "Are you dissatisfied with anything?"

"I am," said the woman emphatically.

"I am very sorry," said the man. "Perhaps we can help you. What is it you do not like?"

"Single blessedness," said the woman. "I am going to be married tomorrow."

"Ah," said the polite clerk, "you are past our aid. Goodby."

A Knotty Problem.

"It's no use," said the young man with heavy rimmed eyeglasses. "I can't get this political economy straight."

"What's the trouble?" asked the professor.

"I can't discover whether a lot of people go broke because we have hard times or whether we have hard times because a lot of people go broke."

A Painful Dilemma.

Willie—What's a dilemma?

Johnny—Well, it's when you can't sit down because your dad licked you for going swimming and you can't stand up because a crab bit your toe.—Illustrated Bits.

Says This Medicine Has Mystic Powers

Will Assist Anyone in Weak, Pale, Nervous Condition to Robust, Hearty, Health.

It's in the spring that health gives out—that looks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this state, read what J. W. Jerveis, well known in Marrstown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—at very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic power surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—some right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills which revitalize delicate glands, smarch out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Happy Discovery

Looking for Medicine, Found Food

In looking for a recommended remedy in a newspaper, a sick woman found the food which restored her to health. She writes:

"About three years ago a spell of sickness left me so weak that it was an exertion to move my hand.

"My appetite was gone and what little I did eat, distressed me so I had butter left it alone. The doctor saw I was getting weaker and advised me to take cod liver oil, but my stomach would not tolerate it.

"Then I was told to take strengthening stimulants to strengthen me, but that did not agree with me. I was getting discouraged, when a lady sent me a paper in which there was a medicine advertised which she thought might help me.

"In looking through the paper I saw an advt. telling how strengthening was Grape-Nuts food. Strength was what I was after, so I sent for a package of Grape-Nuts.

"I was so bad that the cream I used with this food, distressed me, so I took one teaspoonful of dry Grape-Nuts and ate it, using no liquid until I was through.

"To my surprise I felt no bad effect. The next time I took two teaspoonfuls with the same result. It was not long before I could eat three teaspoonfuls, with the result that I was gaining strength and my stomach was feeling much better.

"I knew it was owing to the Grape-Nuts because that was all I was eating. It was not long then, until I could eat cream with the Grape-Nuts and no distress. From then on all was well, and there are very few meals eaten at our table without Grape-Nuts."

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that born to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator . . . makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa; atonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa, suppressed or absent monthly periods, with pain from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and Anæmia (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no intelligent woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions . . . and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (dueling) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE J. GILES.

The many friends of the family will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. George J. Giles, which took place at the family residence, Frederick street, North Monaghan, on Wednesday. The deceased lady was the second daughter of Mrs. Grace Allen, of the seventh line of Smith. She had for the time of her death been married eighteen months and she leaves to mourn her loss a husband and infant son aged two weeks, as well as a mother, two sisters and two brothers. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence and proceed to Lakefield cemetery.

JAMES WEDLOCK.

The death occurred on Thursday morning at 5.30 o'clock of Mr. Jas. Wedlock, one of the best known residents of South Monaghan. Two weeks ago Mr. Wedlock was badly injured by falling from a telephone pole near his residence, and his injuries proved the cause of his death. He was widely known and correspondingly respected, and the intelligence of his death will be received with much regret. He had been a resident of the township all his life and his handsome residence on the bank of the Otonabee River was known by everyone who had occasion to be on the stream.

He is survived by his wife and four children, Louis, Stirling, Belle and Edwina, all living at home. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Tag! Tag you'll look odd without a Tag on the 20th.

GIFFORD EXTENSION MINES, LIMITED

(NO PERSONAL LIABILITY)

Recognizing that the public to-day anxiously looks for opportunities to invest in legitimate mining enterprises.

Having carefully watched the growth and development of the Cobalt Camp from its beginning and having seen mere prospects become great Shipping Mines, sending out to the Smelters of this continent Trainloads of the Richest Ore ever shipped.

More and more clearly has it been demonstrated that never were such opportunities offered to the Canadian Public as to-day.

RIGHT AT HOME, within 12 hours' ride by rail from Toronto, WEALTH is exposed both on the SURFACE and AT DEPTH that the ordinary mind can only vaguely comprehend.

Many Toronto Brokers visited Cobalt recently and so enthused did they become that the entire Toronto Mining Exchange goes to Cobalt this week to spend several days inspecting the Camp.

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW ALL ABOUT COBALT AND HAVE NOT BEEN THERE

ASK YOUR BROKER ABOUT IT

Remember That in the Cobalt Camp, Only 4 Years Old, There Are Today More Dividend-Paying Mines Than Are Listed on All Foreign Exchanges

Do you realize that millions have already been paid in dividends? And that even at present depth many more millions are now blocked out than have yet been shipped. Also that development on the wonderful Temiskaming veins means to every mine owner in that part of Cobalt many millions are yet to be mined at great depth. Is it possible that this great lode exists on the Temiskaming alone?

No! We are already aware that the GANS portion of the Temiskaming acreage shows a 12-inch vein running in a southerly direction, and this alone is worth the entire Temiskaming capitalization.

Does this vein stop on the GANS? No! No! This ore chute extends the whole length of the camp. Richer, of course, where it comes in contact with the diabase, and leaner in values when furthest from them.

Read our geologist's report. Observe the mention of these contacts or intrusions of diabase on the Gifford Extension. Go there and see for yourself. You do not need to be a geologist nor yet a mining man to make comparisons of surface indications.

You will easily detect the similarity of formations. Only twenty chains south of these great veins, and having an acreage with a width of over a quarter of a mile in which to pick them up, with indisputable surface evidences that WE HAVE THESE VEINS in the very centre of our property, we have no hesitation in urging the immediate purchase of this stock.

We have 50 acres. This is no mere prospect with surface indications, but a property with good veins, on which genuine development has already been done.

Shafts have already been sunk, which will be continued to greater depth. The main shaft is now down 86 feet, from which point we will immediately start diamond drilling and prove up our ore bodies.

A diamond drill has been purchased, to be delivered in two weeks, and progress will be faithfully reported to our shareholders.

Generous Offer Made to Farmers by the Natural Gas Explorers

Get Rental for Farm Until Developed, and $50 Per Acre Per Year After Gas Has Been Found

Natural gas is found by Mr. C. E. Dittman and his associates in sufficient quantities will be one of the greatest boons which has struck this city for a long time. That the gas will be found, if it exists at all, in this district, is certain, as the gentlemen who are undertaking the task of finding it possess a wide experience in this business. They are connected with one of the big natural gas companies in Waynesburg, Pa., and they know what they are about. They also have the money to finance the scheme, and are ready to expend as much as twenty thousand dollars in searching the bowels of the earth for the valuable fuel. The best part of the business is that already leases have been secured on large tracts of land in the vicinity of the city and additional acreage is being added daily. When the capitalists have secured all the land they need, which will be in a few days, then the drilling apparatus will be brought in and the real work of development commenced. According to their agreement with the city this must not be delayed longer than the first of January next, so that with reasonable success the citizens can expect to have natural gas for fuel and light even as soon as the spring.

All sections of the city will not be supplied so early as the contract of piping a city the size of Peterborough is no small matter, and Mr. Dittman is well aware of the fact. Still it is by no means necessary to pipe the whole city before connections can be made. A section at a time will be piped and the consumers furnished with the gas. The undertaking will run up to probably $1,500,000 or $2,000,000, and the money is all ready to prosecute the work. No aid is asked from anyone, although there will be no objection to anyone who so desires to purchase the stock.

As has been stated Mr. Dittman and Mr. R. H. Levey are engaged in securing leases from all the farmers in the neighborhood, and the basis which they are presenting to the farmers is a generous one for them. Some of the more important features are:- That no wells be drilled within 500 feet of the main buildings without their consent.

The lessor receives one-tenth of all petroleum and other minerals found on the premises, and also $50 per year for each gas well from which gas is marketed.

All gas lines will be buried below plough depth.

The lease pays all damages to crops and leaves the property in good shape.

A sum of 25 cents per acre per year is paid for the land held and not developed.

The lessor will also have free use of gas for one dwelling if a well is found on the premises.

Such conditions should not cause any farmer to hesitate a minute in signing the lease. It is all found money to him, and he does not lose a cent in any way whatever. If the gas is found the farmer is so much richer, if it is not found his financial standing remains the same.

Sheffield Choir was Greeted by an Immense Audience Last Night

The greatest event in the musical history of Peterborough up to the present time took place last night in the Grand Opera House. It was an event that one can hardly realize to be an accomplished fact, not only on account of the magnitude of the undertaking, but also of the still greater magnitude of the event itself. Dr. Henry Coward and his Sheffield musical union presented the concert last night, and they were greeted by one of the largest and most fashionable audiences that ever filled the Grand Opera House.

For some time past the chief topic among musicians and lovers of music has been the Sheffield choir festival, and the greatest of choral conductors, Dr. Henry Coward. When the date of the concert arrived everything was set aside and the visitors were given the greeting and welcome which they were rightly entitled to.

After capturing the laurel position in England they invaded France and Germany and won the admiration of all who heard them. Their invasion of those countries was a triumph that words are inadequate to express.

What Dr. Coward has done in England for the advancement of art in chorus singing no one can estimate. Although England has been the Mecca of choral singing from the time of Handel, yet the highest of artistic efficiency was never reached until Dr. Coward took the work in hand. This great man has a very unique and glorious history.

EDUCATED HIMSELF

Born in Liverpool in 1849. On the death of his father a few years after, he removed to Sheffield in the charge of his uncle. At the age of nine he was apprenticed to the cutlery trade, which he carried out for twelve years or more. He had no education to speak of, but he had an intellect that was dormant, and only required rousing up to place the man in his proper intellectual position. He devoted his spare hours to educating himself, and after 14 years of the cutlery trade started a period of school teaching. He held positions as head master of public schools for over ten years, after which he settled down to the study of music for the profession. He prepared himself for the degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford, and five years after took the Doctor's degree at the same university.

There is one event that is recorded in a recent number of the Musical Timess that is most interesting. "During the memorable visit of Queen Victoria to Sheffield on May 21, 1897, in her diamond jubilee year, Dr. Coward conducted upwards of 50,000 children in Norfolk Park. The great heart of our late revered Queen was thrilled as she gave vent to her heart-stirrings in tears of emotional joy. It was the just due of the skilled conductor of that huge choir that he should have had the honor of being presented to her Majesty, who expressed her deep gratification at the unique singing to which she had listened."

GREAT TECHNICAL HARMONY

Last evening their victory was far too complete and comprehensive for words to really convey. It is no light compliment to such a body, and their conductor, when two hundred voices can be brought into such technical harmony and unity of spirit that gave to both phrase and form a consistent and inspiring meaning, and without a suggestion of over-straining. Indeed, to offset the impression that the chorus of the Sheffield choir reached the ultimate possibilities of the "Elijah" will require a demonstration which at present is not in sight on this side of the Atlantic at least. Particularly in the passage of the text beginning "Thus saith the Lord; The Redeemer of Israel and His Holy One," etc., to the last words, "Be not afraid, for I, thy God, will strengthen thee," was hardened with an impressive spirit of comfort and trust. In no other passage did their fidelity to technique and power of suggestion receive more convincing evidence.

Individual Lookers for the Men

As the new Armouries are nearing completion there are features about the equipment which will be welcome news to the officers and men. Among these are new individual lockers for the men. They are an entirely new idea, having never been used up to the present, but the possibilities they present lead the local officers to believe that they will be adopted here. They were submitted to the officers at a recent meeting, and general satisfaction was expressed with their design. Each private will have a lock and key for his locker, which will be spacious enough for his entire uniform and arms. A seat is also provided, combining a feature which will appeal to the men. The large recreation room will be well fitted up and also the lecture hall, which is another new feature that will be of great value.

WORRIED TO DEATH

INDIGESTION, LOSS OF SLEEP HEART PALPITATION

A Case that Proves Prompt Action is Wise when Health is Poor.

"At night I would wake up with vague feelings of fear and numbness in my hands and other parts of the body," writes Mr. E. X. Smallon, of St. John's. "I had grown thin and pale, and at night it was very difficult to get enough warmth in my feet to get asleep. My digestion was poor, and appetite very uncertain. The form of nervousness that worried me most was starting at every little thing, which resulted in such violent heart action as sometimes frightened me. Finally I had to give up my work, which was in case office work, so languid, nervous and weak had I become. Through the intervention of a friend I was induced to use Ferrozone. My appetite improved at once, circulation also improved and Ferrozone accomplished the renewal of my blood and natural warmth seemed to come back to my limbs. At the same time Ferrozone built up my constitution. I became quite strong and resumed my occupation. In brief, I am well."

Ferrozone is the only remedy of its kind in the world—it makes you feel better at once; when you are tired, dull, dispirited—when you feel there is nothing in life for you, that's the time to take Ferrozone.

What a change Ferrozone makes! Your blood sings through your veins, carrying nourishment to every nook and corner of the body, you feel the exultant thrill of abundant nerve force, you learn the luxury and delight of being at your best—in perfect good health.

Just try Ferrozone and see how much better you feel; it's the one remedy in all the world that will get you bracing health at once. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Debt Grips the City of New York

New York, Nov. 12—Mayor McClellan's advisory commission on taxes and finance has made its final report through its chairman, Edgar J. Levey. Levey's communication is entitled "New York's Progress towards Bankruptcy." Especial attention is called to the vast differences in the increase in expenses compared with the increase of population. The present consolidated city, created in 1898, presented in that year budget appropriations for municipal purposes (deducting the amount to be raised for state taxes) amounting to $70,000,000. In 1908, the budget was $140,000,000, an increase of 100 per cent.—three times the ratio of increase in population.

The most significant utterances of Mr. Levey, and which students of municipal finance say may arouse suspicion as to the soundness of the city's credit in the future, is as follows:

Now, New York City, as at present constituted, has ever since its creation ten years ago, been steadily increasing its expenses faster than it has grown; the rate of such excessive increase has been startlingly large; the period during which these conditions have continued has already been long enough to plunge the city into serious financial embarrassment, and the conclusion becomes inevitable that unless this tendency is checked, New York will inevitably become a bankrupt municipality.

Ireland Welcomes Invasion of Big Concerns

London, Nov. 12—Ireland is anticipating an "American invasion", and in this particular case (of manufacturers who will be compelled under the new British patents act to set up works in the United Kingdom) extends to them a cordial welcome.

Missionary work along this line was done by John Redmond in his recent visit to the United States, where he reports he had opportunities to urge upon American manufacturers who contemplate continuing their trade in Great Britain the advantages of establishing their factories in Ireland. The Irish leader presented to them that land on his island is cheap and easily acquired, the water supply abundant and labor quick, intelligent and willing to work for a small wage.

Though parliament has planned to confine its fall attentions to English business the Irish party has compelled attention and expects to force some action on the ever-recurring Irish land question. To the failure of the land act under conditions of financial stress is added complaint of members of the Irish party that some amendments are needed in the interests of the tenants. Among the conditions demanding relief is the intolerable congestion in the poorest districts of west Ireland.

Important Decision by Judge Weller

His Honour Judge Weller gave a most important decision in the appeal heard before him Wednesday afternoon, in which it was asked that he should set aside an order made by Police Magistrate Dumble, dismissing a prosecution, made by License Inspector Stewart, in which a blacklisted man was charged with a violation of the Liquor License Act, in that he had been found drunk. When the case was heard before Magistrate Dumble in the police court his Worship dismissed it after hearing the evidence, construing the act to mean that a blacklisted man had to be found drunk upon the premises where he had obtained his liquor. Objection was taken to this holding on the part of the magistrate, but he refused to change his opinion and advised the prosecution to appeal against his decision.

Inspector Stewart consulted the Attorney General's Department and it was decided to enter an appeal.

The evidence heard in the police court was used in the hearing of the appeal yesterday, and at its conclusion Judge Weller reversed the judgment of the magistrate and held that it was sufficient that a blacklisted man should be found drunk to constitute a violation of the act and he decided that the defendant should have been fined. His Worship accordingly inflicted a fine of $10.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., and Mr. Bailey, of the Attorney General's Department, supported the appeal, while the police magistrate was heard on behalf of his own decision. The decision of Judge Weller is important inasmuch as the case was a test one, and that several other cases of the same kind have come up here.

Big Deficit in Postal Office Department in U. S.

(Special to the Times)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—United States Postmaster General Meyer's to-day announced the postal deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, which amounts to $16,910,270. The total receipts were $194,478,633, which is $7,893,657 greater than the previous year. The expenditures were $208,351,886, being the largest in the history of the post office department.

An analysis of the figures show that $9,891,521 represents the advance in the rate of compensation authorized by Congress to employees of the train mail service, the rural and city service and assistant postmasters and clerks in post offices.

The normal increase in revenues for several years has been 7 per cent., while for 1907 and 1908 it was only 4.28 per cent., due, it is claimed, to the depression last fall.

Kimball Gets Out on Bail

(Special to the Times)

Chatham, Nov. 12—Elliott Kimball, who is awaiting his second trial on the charge of killing Healey, of Tilbury, and whose trial comes up at the spring assizes, was to-day allowed out on $10,000 bail, $5,000 put up by himself and the remainder by Messrs. Mills & Irwin, of Tilbury.

Nose Severed from Face was Replaced by Surgeon

(Special to the Times)

Chatham, Nov. 12—Bert, the 8 year-old son of James Hastings, of Park street, today had his nose severed from his face by a playmate accidentally striking him with an axe. A surgeon replaced the nose and it will grow on to the face again without leaving any disfigurement.

The Election Act is a "Jumble of Patchwork"

Special to the Times.

Ottawa, Nov. 12—The election act comes in for some important criticism by P. J. Coffey, the returning officer for Ottawa city during the recent Federal election. He advises more pay for the deputy returning officers. In speaking of the act he says—"It is a jumble of patchwork, anomalies and contradictions, and in vain may one search in it for guidance on important points. A voter across the river from Ottawa may come to Ottawa and do what an Ottawa voter may only do if he is prepared to make an extended stay in the Kingston or Toronto penitentiaries."

Earthquake in Sta, Belgium

Special to the Times.

Sta, Belgium, Nov. 12—A violent earthquake of three minutes' duration occurred at 9:30 this morning and threw the people into a panic. They left their houses for the streets and many of the tiles were broken and pictures and bric-a-brac in the houses were carried to the floor. The shock was accompanied by a loud rumbling noise.

Presented with Parlour Suite

Warsaw, Nov. 11.—A large gathering of neighbours and friends called on Mr. and Mrs. David Madill, at their late residence, Hall's Glen, on Tuesday evening, on the eve of their departure from Hall's Glen, and presented them with a handsome parlour suite. They leave in the spring for the West. Mr. A. Darling made the presentation, after which the following address was ready by Miss Brown, teacher;

To Mr. and Mrs. D. Madill.—We, your neighbours and friends gathered here this evening to express our appreciation of your services in our neighbourhood and in the church work. You have always been good friends to us in time of trouble and ever willing to lend a helping hand to every emergency.

We ask you to accept this slight token of our esteem, having learned of your intended departure from our midst to other fields and wish you to possess something to remember us. Hoping that the hand of Providence may be your guide through life. Signed, Mrs. George Little and Mrs. H. Moore.

Mr. Madill made a suitable reply, wishing his successor prosperity in the community in which he himself had lived for 24 years. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and recitations.

Mr. Madill was a blacksmith, and also kept a store and post office for 16 years. He drove the stage between Hall's Glen and Lakefield for a number of years.

Hockey Players Getting Ready for Annual Meeting

Although the prospect of ice is still a month distant, hockey talk is on in earnest.

The big Ontario Hockey Association's annual meeting has been called off a week from Saturday, Nov. 21. Last Saturday the amendments to the town and hamlet in the Province as directly connected with it.

It is not likely, however, that the annual meeting will see much of a change. The O. H. A. executive has been made up of men well qualified to look after amateur hockey interests, and the announcement is quite in order that the same men will be at the helm for the season just beginning.

Already the matter is pretty well threshed out. The annual meeting will no doubt simply consent to the arrangement.

Dwight J. Turner, of Toronto, will be the next President. His one year of service has been satisfactory, and it is not felt that a change is in the interests of the association.

Louis Blake Duff, of Welland, was again be First Vice-President. Mr. Duff has been most active in amateur sport for a number of years, several of which have been spent on the O. H. A. executive.

The position of secretary is looked upon as a fixture, and the province has no better than William A. Hewitt, the present one. The satisfaction of hockey interests with Mr. Hewitt's energetic work has been amply brought out in the annual meeting filed to increase the secretary's honorarium.

The present officials of the O. H. A. are—

President—Dwight J. Turner, Toronto.

Past President—D. L. Dutton, of Calgary.

Life Member—J. Ross Robertson, Toronto.

C. A. A. U. Governor—Frances Nelson, Toronto.

First Vice-President—L. Blake Duff, Welland.

Second Vice-Pres.—H. E. Wettlaufer, Berlin.

Secretary—W. A. Hewitt, Toronto.

Treasurer—A. W. McPherson, Toronto.

Executive—J. C. Chowen, Stratford; A. M. Edwards, Galt; H. B. Housser, Paris, Dr. O. E. Gilfillan, J. L. Crossen, Cobourg; E. C. Gould, Midland.

Some changes will likely take place in these offices, but the positions of major importance will remain the same.—Toronto Star.

HUNDREDS OF COAL MINERS ARE DOOMED TO DESTRUCTION

Twenty-Seven Bodies Have Already Been Taken from German Coal Mine—150 of the 300 Still Under Ground

Hamm, West Prussia, Germany, Nov. 12—There was an explosion of fire damp in the Radbod mine this morning which probably will result in very heavy loss of life.

Already seventy-seven bodies have been brought to the surface and 300 men are still under ground in grave peril.

Four hundred miners were working in the pit at the time of the disaster. About seventy have been brought to the surface. Of these the majority are more or less injured, and nine have since died.

One hundred and fifty men are in shaft number two and it is believed that all are doomed.

Rescuers arrives from all directions, and the work of getting below was at once organized. These efforts, however, were unnecessarily slow and attended with extreme difficulty. One of the shafts, together with its elevator cage, has been completely burned out.

An improvised cage was sent down with a corps of rescuers, who made heroic efforts to reach their comrades.

At 1 o'clock the last report made was that the rescuers had to be called back to give way to the fire fighters, and the flames are still spreading.

The vicinity of the mine is surrounded by police, and the public is not permitted to approach.

Despairing scenes are being witnessed among the crowds of relatives who have gathered outside the police cordon.

THREE HUNDRED TO DIE

A total of thirty-five bodies have been brought to the surface up to four o'clock when attention Eighteen of the men, who got out alive, are badly injured. No hope is entertained for the three hundred men still below ground.

The violence of the explosion caused the walls of the galleries to fall in.

A salvage corps armed with apparatus to supply each man with oxygen, is now endeavoring to resuscitate the miners.

A HEROIC BAND

These are the same men who went over to Courrieres, France, in March of 1906, and rendered such valuable aid in the frightful mine disaster there.

Toronto Hospitals Get Large Grant

Special to the Times.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—The board of control yesterday recommended that a by-law for raising $200,000 for a grant to the larger hospitals in the city be submitted to the ratepayers in January. Those that will participate in the benefit are the General, St. Michael's, Grace and the Western, each receiving $50,000. Dr. Ferguson of the Western, stated that if the Western amalgamates with Grace they will take the two sums.

X-Ray Cancer Caused Death

Special to the Times.

New York, Nov. 12—That this death was caused by a curious and almost unknown malady, X ray cancer, was learned when John Bauer, one of the most expert manufacturers of roentgen ray tubes in this country, died to-day. His disease was contracted eight years ago, it being brought on by his failure to realize the intense penetrating powers of the rays. He was treated in several hospitals, but finally had to have his left arm amputated, and on Friday the fingers of his right hand went the same way, and this was followed by his death.

His partner is also ill at his home from the same cause.

Mrs. Camille Allowed to Go

Special to the Times.

Hamilton, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Camille, 180 Rebecca street, at whose house young Johnston murdered his sweetheart, Jessie Ormet, and then committed suicide last Thursday, pleaded guilty to-day to keeping a disorderly house. She was allowed to go on condition that she take herself out of the city.

William Mitchell was also allowed to go on suspended sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of bigamy. Wife No. 1 forgives him, as she wants him to support her.

RUGBY

There will be a game in the Junior City Rugby League on Saturday between the Collegiate Institute fourteen and the Junior T. A. S. A. C. The result of the game will have no effect upon the championship race, as the Rough Riders have a clear lead, but it should be a good game nevertheless. The Abstainers have been improving every game and last Saturday held the champions down to a score of 3—2. They hope to take Dr. McPherson's protegees into camp on Saturday, while the Collegians are anxious to finish up their season with a win.

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Rough Riders	6	0	0
P. C. I.	3	2	1
T. A. S. A. C.	2	3	1
*Y. M. C. A.	0	0	0

*Defaulted.

Leading Methodist Devine Passed Away

Special to the Times.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Rev. Dr. Withrow, of the Methodist Publishing Committee, died at his residence, 244 Jarvis street, to-night. He had been prostrated with paralysis since a week ago last Tuesday, although yesterday it was thought that he was returning to consciousness. On the day that he was stricken he had been most of the time as usual at the Wesley buildings, and while he supped he suddenly became unconscious and medical skill proved unavailing.

Amendents to O.H.A Rules

The amendments to go before the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, which will be held in the Temple Building, Saturday, Nov. 21, at nine o'clock, are all in. No radical changes are sought.

To the constitution Mr. J. Ross Robertson introduces a motion that says that no member of the executive shall serve on the executive when the club he represents is in question.

Frank Nelson wants to have junior and intermediate certificates that are used in the series above them marked on each occasion of such use by the referee. This will give evidence as to whether a player took part in one game which he may do in the series above his card or in two which he must not do unless willing to continue in the upper series.

W. A. Hewitt wishes to have the regulation enforced which calls for a forfeit of $25 on the loss of a protest. Sometimes a motion to have the money refunded in the case of such loss is brought up. Henceforth, if this carries, the executive will have no power to hand any such money back to clubs. It will tend to do away with trivial protests.

A. M. Edwards, of Galt, would make it a rule for all clubs to forward to the O. H. A. secretary on or before Dec. 15 a complete list of its membership. His idea is to cut off "paper" clubs. Most hockey clubs, however, have no membership until they get on the ice.

J. Ross Robertson wishes to simplify things in cities like Toronto, where all the teams are on home ice. He would settle the play-off ties and semi-finals by playing out any tie on the round in the second game of a home and home series, where both teams are on home ice. Hitherto a third game has been played.

W. A. Hewitt would clear up doubts. He asks that when a team defaults the games it has played stand as won or lost, and the ones left to play go as wins for the teams scheduled against them. One default would debar a club from their series as heretofore.

"Cor." Corbeau, the cover-point of the Toronto professional team, Ken Mallon, the left wing of the Montreals, and Jack Marion, his brothers who was with the Pittsburg Lyceums last season, left Toronto for Pittsburg on Sunday night.

"Newsy" Lanoden, Bruce Ridpath, and Walter Mercer, the Toronto forward will go down. The Toronto men will only stay until the Ontario pro. season opens. The Pittsburg season opens to-night. The Toronto men should be in good shape when they come back.—Toronto Star.

The Rough Riders have decided to place a team in the City Hockey League this season, and expect to turn out a line-up that will make any of the other sevens extend themselves to the utmost. The Riders have any amount of material, in fact enough for two teams, and they may have that number in the league. One at least is certain. The Rough Riders played great hockey last year, winning a large number of games. They lost by only one goal to the Keene Trent Valley League team on their own ice, and tied them here. The Rough Riders will no doubt be made greatly welcome to the City League ranks.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

LORD MILNER'S OPINION

In his address a few days ago before the British Empire League at Toronto, Lord Milner was very definite in his expressions regarding a change in the fiscal policy of Great Britain. He was more pronounced on the subject than he had been on any previous occasion where he had spoken about it and ventured on the prediction that "England was on the verge of adopting a policy of fiscal reform." Consequently he advised Canadians to "sit tight" on the question of Preference while the problem was being worked out. Coming from Lord Miner such an opinion will carry considerable weight, since he is conservative in his views, while his experience as a statesman and an official in high positions has made him fully cognisant of the responsibility attaching to such a statement as is credited to him. While it may be charged that as a member of the Unionist Party Lord Milner's views are likely to be prejudiced and have a bias in favor of Tariff Reform, it must be remembered on the other hand that he is in a position to know what is going on in political circles in Great Britain. In the different speeches he has made since he arrived in Canada, Lord Milner has been careful not to venture on the discussion of Canadian politics, That fact gives an added importance to his latest speech in which he comes out boldly in his advice that we should not abandon the policy of giving preferential treatment to the Mother Country. Significant in themselves as we consider Lord Milner's prediction and recommendation to be, they are likely to provoke considerable discussion on the other side of the Atlantic, and thereby elicit much valuable information in regard to the present position of the fiscal reform movement, and the hold it has on the leaders of the two great British political parties.

We are well aware that the preferential policy adopted by the Liberals has not been popular with many Conservatives and with a not unintluential section of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's own followers. While in regard to the former party bias may have something to do with the opposition, in the latter it is mostly based on the competition which the preference enables British manufacturers to engage in with their Canadian rivals. We ourselves have always held and see no reason to change that opinion—that the preferential tariff granted to the Mother Country was a wise policy in itself, and one that might lead to great and important developments in Imperial affairs. The fact that the establishment of the preference has checked the decline in trade with Great Britain and started it again on the up-grade, is a proof that it has been effective in its operation and that consumers have benefited thereby. The Canadian manufacturer has still a substantial protection against his British competitor, and in instances where this does not make it impossible for the latter to find a market for his wares in Canada, it is generally because there are certain circumstances connected either with the raw material or with peculiar local conditions surrounding the manufacture in Great Britain, which make the prodiction of similar goods in Canada somewhat of an exotic character. But even were it otherwise, the possibility that the step taken by Canada might prove to be the cause of a great Imperial trade arrangement, such as Lord Milner more than hints at, will certainly call forth a strong opposition to what many would call the retrograde step of withdrawing the preference from the Mother Country.

Another South End Grocery Store

Will be Opened in a Short Time by Mr. Bert Hunter

The new grocery store at the corner of Sherbrooke and Reid streets, which was built by Mr. H. J. McCannon, and which was recently purchased from him by Mr. Bert Hunter, will be opened to the public in the course of a week or ten days. This is the seventh building that Mr. McCannon has built on this block. On the opposite side of the street he erected six sandstone brick houses which by their design and finish have won many complimentary remarks.

In this store he has provided Mr. Hunter with a splendid place of business, equipped in a manner which affords plenty of room and ample opportunity of displaying the goods. The store faces Reid street, with two large windows looking out on that street and one on Sherbrooke street. The shelving, show cases, etc., are arranged in a pleasing style, and everything is bright and clean and businesslike.

Mr. Hunter has been in the employ of Mr. Peter Conrad & Son, and has gained a valuable experience in the handling of high grade groceries and provisions. He was also engaged in the grocery department of Simpson's, Toronto. Mr. Hunter will carry a complete line of fine groceries, provisions and confections. It will receive telephone orders and with a delivery wagon on the road will be able to guarantee prompt responses.

The upper stories of the building are built for living purposes and are likewise well equipped with modern improvements.

Wedding Bells

MORRISEY—FOX.

One of the prettiest and most attended weddings ever witnessed in Ennismore took place on Tuesday, Oct. 20th, when Miss Emma Fox, adopted daughter of Mr. Cornelius O'Connor, ex-Reeve of Ennismore, and James Morrisey, son of Timothy Morrisey, of King's Wharf, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, in the presence of a large number of friends and guests. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous dinner was served to over three hundred guests.

Among the guests from Ennismore were Mr. Samuel Killoran and wife, Reeve of Ennismore, who presented the bride with a handsome chinn tea set. Among the other guests were T. J. Scollard and wife, W. J. S. Scollard and wife, Michael Perdue and wife, John Young and wife, P. O'Connor and wife, of Toronto; J. Flood and wife, and a great number of other friends and relatives of the bride and groom from Downeyville; Mr. Joseph Lucas and mother, Mr. David Morrisey and wife, Mr. P. Crowley and wife, Mr. W. Flynn and sister, Mr. Bert Lucas, Thos. Lebane, John Hickey, of Lindsay. The presents received by the bride were numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the young couple were held by their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Morrisey will reside at King's Wharf.

CORRECT COURT DRESS

DRESS FOR ROYAL LEVEES RIGIDLY LAID DOWN.

Official Book on the Subject Has Been Issued to Secure Uniformity in Gorgeous Trappings of Those Who Surround His Majesty — Six Buttons Instead of Seven Is Now the Rule In Men's Coats.

Not the least important of the duties performed by the Lord Chamberlain's Department is that of instructing the ignorant as to the correct dress which should be worn by the different ranks and professions at the royal courts, levees, and state parties. So many different styles of dress are permissible, and such are the details to be attended to if one desires to be absolutely correct, that even the best court tailors are sometimes in doubt, and the result has been a want of uniformity which has often caused annoyance to His Majesty.

In consequence, an official book, entitled "Dress Worn at Court" has been published, which forms an authoritative guide for those attending His Majesty's court. From this book one learns, for instance, that there are two styles of court dress which may be worn by gentlemen who have no special uniform. In the coat of the new style one must be careful that it is of black silk velvet, single-breasted, and with stand collar. It must have plain gauntlet cuffs, with pocket flaps and three points on the waist seam. There must be two buttons at the waist behind and two buttons at the bottom of the tails, the body of the coat being lined with black silk, while the tails are lined with black.

There should be exactly six buttons and button-holes in the new style of coat, whereas the old style had seven. The latter also had three notched holes and buttons on the gauntlet cuffs, with six buttons behind instead of four, as in the new style. Often a civilian who has attended court has erroneously worn a coat combining features of the two styles.

Special attention must also be paid to the waistcoat that should be worn with both styles of velvet court dress, as these have hitherto often been of the wrong material. They should be of white satin or black silk velvet, not of white corded silk or black Marcella, these last two materials being only permissible with the cloth court dress.

Then, again, mayors often make mistakes in regard to their chains of office. These should never be worn with a military uniform; but a mayor who is also a clergyman may attend court in full canonicals, wearing his mayoral chain over his gown. With court suits, by the way, plain gold or pearl studs should be in the shirt front, and watch chains should not be worn. The black silk fob with seals, if worn, should hang from the fob pocket on the right side.

The ladies must observe the following rules amongst others: "Feathers should be worn so that they can be clearly seen on approaching the presence, with white veils or lappets. Colored feathers are inadmissible, but in deep mourning black feathers may be worn. White gloves only are to be worn, excepting in case of mourning, when black or grey gloves are admissible.

"The King has been pleased to permit that a high court dress, according to the following description, may be worn in future at Their Majesties' courts, and on other state occasions, by ladies to whom, from illness, infirmity, or advancing age the present low court dress is inappropriate—viz., bodices in front, cut square or heart shape, which may be filled in with white only, either transparent or lined; at the back, high, or cut down three-quarter height. Sleeves to elbow, either thick or transparent. Trains, gloves, and feathers as usual. It is necessary for ladies who wish to appear in 'high court dress' to obtain permission through the Lord Chamberlain, unless they have already received it."

"An Awfu' Lear."

Sir Archibald Geikie, the distinguished geologist, tells a good story against himself in his "Scottish Reminiscences." "I was quite sure you had been in our neighborhood," a friend said to Sir Archibald. "I met the old farmer of G——, who had a strange tale to tell me. 'Dod, Mr. Caithcart!' he began, 'I ran across the queerest body the ither day. As I was comin' by the head of the clough I thocht I heard a wheen thrashers quarrellin', but when I lookit doon there was just as wee a toot man. Whiles he was chappin' the rocks wi' a hammer, whiles he was writin' in a book, whiles fechtin' wi' the thorns, and misca'in' them for a' that was bad. When he came up frae the burn, him and me had a long confab. Dod! he tell't me a' about the stanes, and hoo they showed that Scotland was anes like Greenland, covered in A very entertaining story, Mr. Caithcart, but — an awfu', awfu' lear.'"

Small Postoffices.

Perhaps the smallest postoffice in Scotland is that of Berriedale, Caithness. The postoffice proper is so small that it only gives room for the operator and the machine. Notwithstanding its smallness, it is one of the most important in the north, as it is the receiving and despatching office for all the telegraphic communications of his Grace the Duke of Portland, whose famous Langwell mansion is only 200 yards away. Another small postoffice is Hartwood, which is only capable of accommodating two persons.

Corporation's Bad Investment.

For some years the Glasgow Corporation has held 300,000 square yards of unused lands, suitable for building, in the hope that the value might increase. The movement of people to outlying suburbs has now increased to such an extent and the holding has become so great a burden that a committee decided recently to recommend the corporation to put the land on the market.

BOY DETECTIVES.

Young Sleuths Find Money Stolen From Their School.

Smart detective work was carried out by three schoolboys at Newtownards, County Down, Ireland, recently. When the pupils assembled in the forenoon it was discovered that the schoolhouse, which is also used for Sunday services, had been broken into and that two linen bags, containing the offertories of the previous day, amounting to $30 odd, were missing. Three lads requested to be allowed to assist in the search for the thieves.

Permission was granted, and after a careful investigation of the school grounds the boys discovered a black-handled knife, the blade of which was open and pointing in the direction of the bank of a canal which run adjacent to the school. The dew on the grounds enabled the boys to trace footsteps to a wall, over which the thieves had apparently climbed.

Following this line to the canal bank the boys momentarily lost further indications, but looking around for a while they again found the track, which was indicated by some nettles being trampled down. Pursuing this clue they came to a corn field immediately to the south of the school and here the marks were clearly defined among the corn.

On entering the field and going as far as the trail indicated, the boys found a bottomless tin can, and imagined that they had got on the wrong track after all. They reported the result of their investigations to Mr. Orr, the principal, who suggested that they go back and examine the can. This they did, and they then noticed that the ground seemed to have been disturbed.

Lifting a sod, they discovered the two bags, which were apparently in the same condition as when taken away. On counting the money Mr. Orr found that it was a few shillings short.

ASLEEP UNDER WATER.

Dreadnought Man's Escapade Shows How Much Divers Are at Home.

Some months ago, while the great battleship Dreadnought was at Malta, one of the seamen divers went down to clear her propeller from some flotsam that had become entangled; and he failed to come up.

It chanced that the rest of the battleship's divers were ashore, and grave concern was felt on the ironclad for the missing worker. Signals by telephone and lifeline were sent below, without avail. In the launch above the throb, throb of the air-pump's cylinders went on, but the attendants looked at one another in dismay, fearing some strange tragedy deep down in those heaving green seas.

The worst was feared when some big brushes and other tools came floating to the surface, and thereupon the navigating lieutenant sent ashore an urgent message for one of the other divers. The man came on board, dressed immediately, and went below, only to come up full of indignation.

"Why, that fellow's been asleep all this time," he said, wrathfully.

It was true. The man had just had his lunch, and, finding the work much less serious than he had thought, he finised it in a few minutes, and then sat comfortably on one of the giant blades of the Dreadnought's propeller and went to sleep, with inquisitive fishes swarming around him, attracted by the dazzling searchlight at his breast. The officers were so amused at the occurrence that no punishment was inflicted on the lazy one.

"Oh, yes, sir!"

"How would you make a Venetian blind?"

The man scratched his head and thought deeply for a few seconds. "I should think, sir," he said finally, "about the best way would be to punch him in the eye."

The Cullinan Diamond

Amsterdam, November 12.—The cutting of the Cullinan diamond, which has cost £50,000, is now complete. The stone has been divided into seven parts, exclusive of a big one, which will go by the name of the Cullinan. Six of these small stones are being made into a necklace, with the seventh, which is somewhat larger, as a pendant, and will be presented by the King to Queen Alexandra, if possible, on his birthday.

The most extraordinary precautions have been taken by the firm which has had charge of the cutting of the stone, and the man entrusted with the polishing of the gems is said to have broken down completely in health as a result of his anxiety.

VULTURES IN LONDON.

Birds Escaped From Cage Defy Efforts to Capture Them.

With a strangely slow motion of their powerful wings and a see-saw movement of their ugly, featherless heads, six young vultures flew in wide circles over Wellclose Square, London, E., a few nights ago. Gazing up at this strange spectacle was an eager, excited crowd.

Originally eight in number, the vultures had been at liberty for some time as a result of a cage door in a menagerie belonging to a Mr. Hamlyn having been accidentally left open. It was a cruel jester who spread abroad a story that the birds were fierce and had been known to swoop down upon small children and bear them away in their claws. In consequence of this rumor many mothers in Wellclose Square kept their children within doors for days. It was also a lamentable lack of knowledge of the habits of vultures which led a German resident of the square to shoot one of the birds. The vulture in question, attracted by some pieces of meat in a back yard, suddenly swooped down toward them, when the German, greatly perturbed, fired at it with a gun at close range and shot it dead.

Two of Mr. Hamlyn's assistants accounted for another of the birds. Passing through a dimly lit warehouse loft they emerged upon a flat roof, and discreetly approached the vulture, which was perched—with its back toward them — upon a narrow coping. The bird appeared either to be dozing or to be lost in reflection. Then there was a sudden rush, the rapid flinging of a net and a frenzied flapping of wings. The watching crowd cheered as the vulture was borne away.

But the remaining six birds triumphantly evaded capture. Time after time the hunters scaled strategic points, only to see their quarry fly lazily off to an even more inaccessible and dizzy perch. After the hunt had been abandoned for the night one of the birds was seen perched, perfectly motionless, upon the roof of a church. Another one, by eccentric movements of its wings, was balancing itself upon the rim of a chimney pot.

A Valuable Cab.

From the White City, London, there rolls down every day to the banks of the West-end and the city a four-wheeler worth thousands of dollars. In about a hundred bags placed inside the vehicle is the gold, silver, and bronze money taken at the Exhibition on the previous evening. The amount dealt with naturally varies considerably, according to the weather and other conditions, but on an average day the cab carries bags containing $500 worth of pennies and halfpennies, about $7,500 worth of silver, and $25,000 to $30,000 worth of gold. On an ordinary day the load will amount to $50,000 or more.

In the Irish village, "Ballymaclinton," which has taken as much as $2,500 on a busy day, the money is placed in either end of a sack and slung across the back of a donkey, in the same way as Irish peasant women take their produce to the market. The donkey is escorted by two Irish "bhoys" mounted on similar steeds, and the procession attracts no little attention as it trots through the Exhibition to join the bullion cab.

Sir Edward Grey at Home.

The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has always been a believer in small holdings, and when the recent act was under discussion, his own estate at Falloden, Northumberland, might have been quoted as an instance where the principle had been most successfully carried out. Owning about 2,000 acres, he has leased most of the land in small farms to working men; and Lady Grey and he enjoy nothing better than riding round the farmsteads to find out whether they can do anything to promote the welfare of the tenants. Besides being a brilliant tennis-player, Sir Edward is a keen fly-fisherman, and it is told of him that he was once arrested for fishing in a forbidden trout-stream; but as he is the author of a recognized work on fly-fishing, we don't believe it.

Fraser went tearing after and not far from the door managed to stop him.

"For heaven's sake," he gasped, "what's struck you?"

"Fraser," said Lounsbury, "did you hear that the colonel wanted an interpreter?"

"Why—why—great Scott!"

"Exactly—great Scott!" The storekeeper set off again.

"Hold on!" Fraser caught his arm. "Your scheme's all right, but you can't impress the man. He's got to go of his own accord."

"H'm! That's so."

"What you suppose he'll say if you rush in there and ask him to please go away on this long trip and leave your friends serenely in possession of the land?"

"I wouldn't say 'please'—but you're right. Let's take a look through that window."

Fraser assented. Shoulder to shoulder they tiptoed forward and, keeping out of the shaft of light, viewed the scene within.

It was a busy one and well bore out the inviting legend of the shingle sign. Along the plank bar "the troopers" were thickly ranged, smacking their lips in "delight" over greasy glasses. Beyond them was a squint eyed man who trotted untiringly to and fro, mixing and pouring. Nearer was the stove, its angular barrel and wide-spread legs giving it the appearance of some horrid fire belching animal.

An unbroken circle of men surrounded it, hats on, rawhide bottomed chairs tilted back to an easy slant. From their pipes and cigars smoke rose steadily and hung, a blue mist, against the sloping rafters of the roof.

There was little talking in the circle. Two or three were asleep, their heads sagging on their necks with maudlin looseness. The others spoke infrequently, but often let down their chairs while they spat in the sand box under the stove or screwed about in the direction of the gaming table. Among these was old Michael. He sat nearest the door, a checker board balanced on his knees, his black stub pipe in its toothy vise. And when he was not feeding the stove's flaming maw with broken boxes, barrel staves and green wood his blowzy countenance was suspended over the pasteboards he was thumbing in a game of solitaire.

The two outside went under the shaft of light and peeped into the rear of the room. There was Matthews, one of five at a square table. A cigar box partly filled with coin and chips was before him. In front of the other players were other chip piles. About the five, hanging over them, almost pressing upon them, were a number of troopers. Two or three were idle onlookers. But the majority were following with excited interest every turn of the cards.

"Wretches being plucked of their good six months' pay," whispered Fraser.

"Looks like they're in for all night," Lounsbury returned.

But the officer was pinching him. "Sh! See there!"

A half drunken trooper was interrupting the game. He had reeled forward to the table and seemed to be addressing himself to Matthews, who, as he answered, glanced up indifferently. The trooper continued, emphasizing his words by raising a clinched fist and striking the board a blow.

The chip piles toppled. He turned to those about, gesticulating. A few surrounded him, evidently bent on leading him toward the door. Others appeared to be continuing the dispute with Matthews. But as the disturber was pushed out they gradually subsided.

"I've got an idea," announced the storekeeper. And he disappeared around a corner.

When he returned he was leading the trooper and talking low to him. All three retired to the shadow of the wall.

Here there was a colloquy. First Lounsbury held forth, next the trooper, protestingly. When the lieutenant broke in two phrases were frequently repeated "to the guardhouse" and "won't if you will."

At last the three went back to the window.

"Remember," cautioned the storekeeper, "we don't want all these shebangs stirred up."

"Needn't worry," said Fraser. "Just listen to that rumpus down the street."

The disjointed music of a wheezy accordion was rending the night. With it sounded the regular stamp of feet.

Now the trooper rounded the corner. A moment and through the window Lounsbury and the officer saw him enter the door.

He slipped down to a seat beside old Michael. There he stayed for awhile. Whenever a brother trooper looked his way he called him up by the crooking of a finger and whispered to him. Before long a knot of men had again surrounded him. But this time their attention was all for the table at the rear of the room.

There the game was going on. Matthews' chip pile showed where the winnings were gravitating. In the dim light there was a strained look on the faces of the players.

Deal after deal passed. Finally one of the five, having no more disks before him, pushed back his chair and got up.

As he stood, dazed and dismayed, the trooper who had been ejected appeared at his side, clapped him upon the back and spoke. At their elbows was the knot that had gathered at the stove.

The next moment the trooper turned to the table and snatched the pack of cards from Matthews' hand. He held up one, pointing at its back, slapped it down, pointed at a second, then scattered the pack in the air.

Lounsbury and Fraser whipped round the corner and in through the door.

An uproar greeted them. "Cheat!" "Clean him out!" "Do him like Soggy did!" Before them was a jostle of blue backs. Across these, on the farther side of the plank bar, they saw Matthews facing the crowd. His left hand held the cigar box against his chest, his right was up and empty.

"Hold on, boys!" It was Lounsbury.

As if he had caught a cue the foremost trooper—he who had been the disturbing element—repeated the cry and directed the eyes of his comrades to the door.

There was a sudden lull. The men in blue wavered. Here and there a revolver was covertly returned to place.

Lounsbury pushed forward to the stove, Fraser beside him. "Hold on, boys!" he said again and pointed at Matthews. "Hold on—I've got a message for that man."

The lull became a dead silence. To the troopers the sight of shoulder straps was discomfiting, for the officer at once became the personification of the guardroom—chilly, poorly bedded and worse provisioned, of all places.

Curious Church Vane.

One of the most curious vanes to be seen on a church is that at Great Gonerby, a parish adjoining Grantham. It is in the form of a fiddle and a bow, and is unusually large. Its history is a curious one. Many years ago a peasant resided in Great Gonerby, who eked out a modest livelihood by performing on an old violin, which was almost a part of his life. At last he decided to emigrate, and out in the Far West prospered and became a rich man. One day he sent to the clergyman at Great Gonerby a sum sufficient to build a church, and attached to the gift the curious condition that a metal replica of his old fiddle and bow should be on the summit of the edifice. The gift was accepted, and the vane may still be seen on the church.

A Narrow "Street."

The town of Great Yarmouth contains a street that well may be considered the narrowest built-up street in the world. The thoroughfare is known as "Kitty Witches" Row, and measurement gives its greatest width as 56 inches. The entrance would seriously inconvenience a stout person, as 29 inches is all that is spared from wall to wall. The town contains many such streets as "Kitty Witches."

How Machines Affect the Coinage.

The Deputy Minister of the British Mint, in his report for 1907, comments on the greatly-increased demand for bronze coins, for which automatic machines are in a large measure responsible. One of the largest companies owning these machines took from them in twelve months 33,964,671 pennies (about 316 tons), being an increase of £5,876 over the takings of the previous twelve months.

Marrying Late In Life.

The age of two couples who were married recently at Whithorn, Eng., were 67 and 84 and 78 and 80.

Gathering Roses.

I've gathered roses and the like in many glad and golden Junes, but now, as down the world I bike, my weary hands are filled with prunes. I've gathered roses o'er and o'er, and some were white and some were red, but when I took them to the store the grocer wanted eggs instead. I gathered roses long ago, in other days, in other scenes, and people said, "You ought to go and dig the weeds out of your beans." A million roses bloomed and died; a million more will die today. That man is wise who lets them slide and gathers up the bales of hay. —Emporia Gazette.

Setting It Right.

"In your paper this morning, sir, you called me a 'bum actor.' I want an explanation."

"I shall be happy to explain, young man. That word 'actor' was inserted by the proofreader, who thought I had omitted it accidentally. I shall take care that it doesn't happen again."

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break up head off those early colds. That's purely human. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy (Cold Cures). No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Pleasant for the children—and thoroughly safe for them. If you are wise, if you sneeze, if you notice cold sense, think of Preventics. Preventics may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child. If there is feverishness, restless sleep, Preventics probably has Preventics' greatest pleasure. Cold in the head for the pocket, also in the tissues of the Preventics. What Every Woman Requires for Headache Langour

Mrs. Mary Flanigan Gives Advice that is Sound, Useful and True.

Has your strength given out?
Do you feel languid and tired this spring?
Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework?
Thousands feel just the same,—feel the enervating influence of spring, whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness, but should do like Mrs. Flanigan of Emsdale Junction — here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring lifeless — never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,—Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."
Women who are continually pale, tired and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing down pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that sorely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c at all dealers.

At the Roller Rink

The last performance of Rickless Recklaw, the trick cyclist, and Miss Leight, the skating girl, was put on at the roller rink last night. There was a pretty fair attendance of both skaters and spectators, and the feats of the performers were generously applauded. To-night the regular band concert with 21 selections will be put on and no doubt there will be a big crowd.

Cargo of Turnips

A cargo of turnips is something which navigation men claim has never been brought to this city before and the steamer Monarch went down to the lake this week for a scowload of these vegetables which they will bring to the city to-day or Saturday. Potatoes, apples, grain in fact, almost everything grown, has found its way up by barge, but it is claimed that a cargo of turnips is a novelty.

No Time to Lose

Those who have not yet ordered The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal for next year should do so at once. It is said there is a bigger rush of subscriptions than ever this year, and the publishers are earnestly urging their present subscribers to renew at once before the December and January rush. A new series of short stories is to commence next week, and these alone are considered to be worth the whole year's subscription. At one dollar a year no better investment can be made than by ordering The Family Herald and Weekly Star for 1904.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

Obituary

GEORGE REDDING

Mr. George Redding, formerly of Peterborough, died last evening at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. James Wharton, 95 Elgin street. He was a member of L. O. L., No. 779, and was widely known and highly respected in this city and Peterborough. A service will be conducted at the house at 7.30 o'clock to-night and the remains will be sent via the C. P. R. to Peterborough.

Two sons, Alexander and Charles, and one daughter, Mrs. James Wharton, survive him.—Hamilton Times.

MRS. ROBERT ARMSTRONG

The death occurred on Wednesday evening of Ann Elizabeth Sandy, wife of Mr. Robert Armstrong, 295 Bethune street, at the age of 53 years. Deceased was born at Manvers and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sandy of that place. About a year ago she was married to Mr. Armstrong and has resided in Peterborough since that time. Besides her husband and parents she is mourned by two sisters, Mary at home, and Mrs. H. J. Byers, of Port Hope, and a brother, John, of Toronto.

The remains were conveyed from the family residence, Bethune st., yesterday morning at 7.30 o'clock, to the C. P. R. station, thence to Mr. Henry Sandy's residence, Manvers, where the funeral service will be held to-day at 2 p.m.

JOHN D. BRENNAN

After an illness extending over the past four months Mr. John D. Brennan passed away on Thursday morning at his residence, 589 Aylmer street. The deceased was 42 years of age, and was born at Frankford. He was married eight years ago and is survived by his wife and one child.

The late Mr. Brennan moved from Belleville to Peterborough six years ago, and during his residence there has made many friends. His parents are both deceased, but two brothers, William, of Cookstown, Ont., and Thomas, of Williams' Corners, are left to mourn his demise. The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 7 o'clock to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the G. T. R. station. The remains will be taken to Belleville on the 8.20 train for burial. The deceased was a member of the A. O. U. W.

Result of Competitions in Fields of Standing Grain

The following are the detailed results of competitions in standing fields of seed grain of farmers in this county and district, taken from the government report. The points possible are 100. It will be seen that in the three competing townships in this district, John Buckham, of Benstort, led with the unusually high score of 93 points out of 100. The highest score in Otonabee was made by Mr. W W Shearer, Lang, 86 out of 100, and the highest in East Peterborough was made by Mr. Lawrence Lonergan, of Norwood, 85 points out of 100. Worked a "Con." Game on Farmer

About six weeks ago a slick fake was worked through Northumberland and Peterborough Counties in this vicinity, and they are just now coming to light.

A man representing himself as an agent of the National Clothing Co. of Montreal, went through this district taking orders for ladies and gents' tailor-made clothing. He carried a grand bunch of samples and a grand bunch of talk, which took in several well known residents. He showed his samples, taking the customers' measures in more ways than one, and also accepted a deposit on the suits which were to be delivered in twenty days. The twenty days have gone, and enquiries at Montreal seem to bring one to the conclusion that the National Clothing Co. is a myth. It looks very much as though it pays to deal at home with those who have a reputation to sustain instead of with peddlers and green goods men.—Hastings Star.

Tell Facts About Caffeine in Tea and Coffee

"About twelve years ago I stopped coffee," writes a Colo. man, "and began Postum. As a result, instead of being a confirmed dyspeptic as I was for many years, I enjoy good health and fine digestion.

"I formerly weighed 118 lbs., now 140. My waist measure was 29, now 36 inches. Not only this but I enjoy Postum and my meals, while for years eating was an annoyance and often a torture.

"Like an old whiskey toper I always thought I had to have my coffee and then always felt its ill effects in my stomach and on my nerves.

"Now I have so completely lost my taste for coffee, that recently, when a cup was given me by mistake and I tasted it, I found it nauseated me. On the other hand I not only like the healthful effect of Postum, but the taste is peculiarly agreeable to me.

"I have tried other cereal drinks but always come back to Postum. Realizing as I do, the evil effects from the poisonous alkaloid in coffee, and being a Postum Pioneer, I am a very successful missionary.

"One man, a school superintendent, from my recommendation, has had quite as happy an experience with Postum as I have had. My wife has also found great benefit from Postum, as coffee was the only thing that disagreed with her stomach at table.

"Being a graduate in pharmacy I know the alkaloid—caffeine—in coffee is a poisonous drug. As there is no drug in Postum I naturally drink it and recommend it to others." "There's a Reason."

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the curative class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities to which only it is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glycerin extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Hoagland Accepts Wolf's Challenge

The Montreal Star says: In the issue of The Star of November 4th, a challenge appeared from Mr. F Wolff to walk Canada's best pedestrians. Already two answers have been received to this defy. One is from W A Hoagland, of Auburn, N.Y., who calls himself champion of America, while the other is from Mr. William Scutkeman, of Montreal.

Hoagland writing from Peterborough, Ont., dated Nov. 9th, says in part: "I have a walking contest in this city to-day against Mr. Jim Harrison, of this city. I allow him one mile in nine hours. I must return to my home at the conclusion of the race but would gladly return and walk Mr. Wolff in your city, and will make a match with him if he will post a forfeit for a race of any distance he may name, but the match must be for $250, or more. Mr. Wolff's address, he says, is 346 Lagauchetiere street west, Montreal. He can communicate with Mr. C G Graham, of Peterborough, who will attend to details for me. Trusting Mr. Wolff means business, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. A. HOAGLAND,
Auburn, N. Y.

Nervous Prostrations

Of nervous prostration we hear much nowadays, and it is comforting to know that there are places specially equipped and located for combating this phase of modern life. On the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway system, at St. Catharines, Ontario, are located the curative saline Springs known as the "St. Catharines Well" Connected with the Springs is "The Welland", where treatments for nervous prostration, rheumatism, etc., are given by skilled attendants in charge of a resident physician.

St. Catharines is the mildest point in Canada during the winter months. For further information and all particulars apply to Agents G. T. R. System.

Local Company will Appear in Lindsay

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder says: Mr. Irving Beers, a well known actor, was in town yesterday for a few hours and called on The Warder. Mr. Beers has been identified with the amateur production of "All the Comforts of Home," which was presented in Peterborough last week, by Peterborough talent. Mr. Beers is the manager of the company and instructs the actors as to their respective parts. He carries with him all the costumes worn in the play, which by the way, is a well written four-act comedy. It took well in Peterborough, and Mr. Beers visited Lindsay with the intention of organizing the Lindsay amateurs with a view to putting on the play or some other play, in Lindsay in about five weeks' time.

The production was presented in Peterborough under the auspices of the Peterborough Hockey Club, and if staged in Lindsay will likely be as a benefit for the Lindsay Rugby Club, which is deserving of the support of the citizens.

It is the intention of Mr. Beers to bring the Peterborough company to Lindsay about the end of the coming week, and then commences and work up the same play or a new play for the Lindsay amateurs.

Amateur productions have taken well in the past and no doubt Lindsay theatre goers will welcome the coming attraction.

Mr. Beers returned to Peterborough last evening and will return at the end of the week to make arrangements for the presentment of "All the Comforts of Home."

A good dramatic club would take well in Lindsay and this would probably result in the organization of the Lindsay Dramatic Club. Other towns and cities support such clubs, and even some of the small villages in this vicinity boast of dramatic clubs. Therefore the introduction of an amateur play at the present season of the year might lead to the organization of such a club.

Synopsis of Canadian North West Homestead Regulations

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet the requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

VOL. XXXV NO 259 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER, 14, 1908 PRICE TWO CENTS

Paid a Fakir $200 to Remove Wife's Suffering, Had Cancer for Years

Skin games of all kinds have been worked in the past and are being worked now. The farmer is very frequently chosen by the sporting boys to work upon and with a great measure of success. But one of the most hard-hearted rascals that has gone through these parts for many years, it is reported, visited a farming community not far away a short time ago.

He was a well dressed stranger who blew into the city and next day hied himself away to the lake district where he put up with a family on the pretense of being a summer boarder. He got real chummy with people of the house, to whom he revealed the fact that he had been a great specialist on cancers, but at the present time he was doing a little detective work on behalf of his brother in the Old country.

As soon as he mentioned the fact that he was a specialist on cancer the lady of the house informed him that Mrs. So-and-so had suffered for years from that complaint and could get no relief.

The young man one morning called at the woman's house, and the ring her husband in the yard, engaged him in a general conversation. In a short time the lady came out and the great doctor, after watching her for a time, said to the husband, "That lady suffers from cancer, does she not?"

"Yes," replied the farmer. "How do you know?"

"Oh, I could tell by her walk. I have been very successful with that disease, and as I am staying here for a time I believe I could cure your wife."

This caught the old man and he was at once interested. He asked the price, which was $400. Of course that sum was away too high, although he would do a great deal to have his wife cured. Finally it was decided that the specialist should accept $200. He went in and examined the patient and went away, returning shortly with a plaster, which he applied, giving instructions of other treatment.

He received $100 that day, and when he called the next afternoon to see how his patient was he was given the other $100. The plaster had made a very sore spot, but this the doctor said would get all right in a day or so, and another plaster was applied with instructions in how to use other stuff that was left in case that it would be necessary, but the second plaster was supposed to do the trick. In case it did not, however, the slick gent barred away and has not been heard of since. Neither has the $200.

Few Farmers Refuse to Lease Their Land

It is funny how some people persist in standing in their own light, and frequently by so doing to give an important proposition. Such is the case with two or three farmers in this locality. Mr. C. E. Dittman, who in company with Mr. R. H. Leary, has been endeavoring to lease land for the purpose of prospecting for gas or oil, left yesterday for his home in Waynesburg, Pa., and will remain there until the few farmers who have held out come to time. Mr. Dittman has secured leases on on some 6,500 acres in the neighborhood, and as soon as the couple of farmers who are left sign up the work will be started.

The machinery is all ready and can be shipped here at a moment's notice. The capitalist's contractor will meet Mr. Dittman in Buffalo and will come on to Peterborough to-night and he will see what can be done towards completing the lease. The whole thing depends entirely on a couple of farmers who have land inside the block the company has already taken over, and unless they agree to the lease or give Mr. Dittman the first opportunity to refuse the use of the land no work will be done. Therefore, those two or three are holding up the proposition.

The offer made to the farmers is a very reasonable and generous one. Mr. Dittman is a business man who realizes the great risk he is taking in looking for gas here, and while he has plenty of money he cannot afford to waste time and money fooling around with a few men who do not know a good thing when they see it.

If the land is all leased then the drilling operations will be commenced, and Mr. Leary will continue leasing property outside the present block until at least 15,000 acres have been covered.

Canoes Used in Place of Wheels

Hammondsport, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The aerial experiment bureau of Hammondsport, in which Prof. Alexander G. Bell and G. H. Curtiss are interested, is planning to undertake soon a novelty in aerial experiments. The Government is especially desirous of having a type of airship that will gain the necessary speed to soar in the air by gliding over the water. An experiments made by Mr. Curtis and his associates with the white wings, Red Wings, Junebug and other airships have gained this desired momentum by running over the ground on bicycle wheels until the huge wings expanded, giving the desired soar.

The experiment bureau will within a few days undertake experiments on Lake Keuka, where the airship will be propelled by its own motors over the surface of the water to get sufficient speed to expand its wings. The airship will be attached to light canvas canoes, which will be carried with the machine as it leaves the water to fly into the air.

A double feature of the experiments is that possibly the weight of the airship with its motor and other machinery may cause the canoes to draw so deeply in the water that the required speed cannot be obtained.

A Big Fire in Western City

Special to the Times.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—The fire which broke out at noon to-day completely destroyed the [illegible]-storey building, plant and offices of the Prairie City Oil Co. The total loss will amount to $50,000, with $15,000 insurance. Wm. McDonough, the caretaker, was severely burned, although not fatally, in an attempt to stop the progress of the flames, after he had given the alarm.

McGahey Boys Victims of Very Hard Luck

Lindsay, Nov. 13.—Edward McGahey, of the 12th con. of Emily, has little reason to look back upon Thanksgiving day as a joyful anniversary. On that day he was engaged patching a leaky roof, and while moving a plank on the platform he missed his footing and fell a distance of about fifteen feet, breaking his right arm above the wrist and fracturing three ribs. Dr. Brown was summoned to attend his injuries, which at first were thought to be even more serious than they turned out to be.

On Sunday his brother, William John McGahey, of con. 12, Emily, had the misfortune to lose a horse worth about $200 through an attack of inflammation. D. Cowan, of this town, treated the animal Saturday evening at his stable on York street, and advised Mr. McGahey to leave the horse with him for a few days in order to complete the cure, but the owner felt confident of his ability to finish the treatment. The horse was a Clyde, weighed 1,900 pounds, and was a grand specimen of the breed, being only six years old. During the last three years we are informed, Mr. McGahey has lost three horses and two colts by illness.

BRITAIN BUILDS NAVY AT A GREAT COST

Sum of $350,000,000 Needed for New Ships in the Next Few Years

Keeps Up Two-Power Scheme

London, Nov. 14.—The naval program of the British Admiralty is based upon the theory that, to maintain its supremacy upon the sea, the British fleet must be twice as strong as that of Germany and equal to that of Germany and France, or any other two nations combined. To carry out this program whenever Germany lays the keel of a battleship or a cruiser Great Britain lays the keel of two, and in doubling the construction plans of Germany will be involved in an expenditure of $150,000,000 or more for new ships during the next few years and an indefinite sum in addition to provide the stores, supplies and the men that this scheme of naval expansion will necessarily require. This is what the British admiralty calls the 'two-power standard,' and it means that the navy must be maintained of a size and strength that will enable it to conquer the next two strongest powers in the world combined.

All this seems stupendous folly when the nations involved pretend to be friends and are in daily communication by mail and telegraph, and especially when their sovereigns are exchanging visits and embracing each other in the presence of admiring throngs. But those who favor the two-power standard insist that it is the only way to prevent war; that no enemy will attack Great Britain so long as her fleets are invincible. They argue that it is much better for all concerned to spend several hundred millions in the purchase of materials in paying the labor of construction, giving employment and food to thousands of people, than it is to involve the country in bloodshed and strife. Perhaps there is something in this, but we are supposed to be living in an age of reason and not in an age of force, and one would think that the German kaiser, who is the bugaboo of Europe, who is blamed for all the alarm and apprehension of war, and is held responsible for the enormous expenditure upon the ships and armies of Europe, might be persuaded by his genial uncle to abandon his military pride and agree to a program of peace for at least a term of years. This would relieve the unbidden subjects of all the European governments of an awful burden, because German and British naval expansion involves so many other nations, including the United States, in similar expenditures.

In view of the fact that Germany has laid the keels or ordered the construction of ten armoured ships of the largest size and most powerful arament, the British government has under construction or has ordered twenty-four battle ships and cruisers of the Dreadnought and Indomitable classes, which all naval experts concede are the most formidable fighting machines that human genius has ever designed. On the 18th of September the eighth battleship of this class took to the water at Portsmouth. It was christened the St. Vincent, and two more, the Collingwood at Devonport, and the Vanguard at Barrow, almost exactly duplicates, will be launched during the next few weeks, making ten battleships of the Dreadnought type already afloat in British waters.

The keel of the Foudroyant was laid down on the stocks at Portsmouth as soon as the St. Vincent left them, and will be ready for launching in October, 1909. The St. Vincent will be ready for commission in about a year. It was a year and a day on the stocks.

The St. Vincent is considerably ahead of the Dreadnought, and the Foudroyant will be considerably in advance of the St. Vincent, having a greater displacement, a greater speed, more powerful turbine engines and a heavier armament.

Few Water Supplies are Above Suspicion

Toronto, Nov. 13.—In the twenty-sixth annual report of the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario, just issued, Dr. Charles K. Hodgetts, the chief health officer, asks that some means of turning the adverse public attitude toward vaccination be adopted, such as the issuing of posters in all parts of the Province, setting out the argument for the vaccine treatment.

Dr. Hodgetts says— "The continuance of smallpox during the past summer only emphasizes the fact that there is in this Province an unvaccinated population, and so long as this condition continues little hope can be held out that this disease will cease from our midst.

"The misstatements and distorted facts of a small coterie of those opposed to the practice of vaccination has lulled a small portion of the public into a hypnotic state from which they and the rest of the neglectful public will be rudely awakened by an outbreak of variola simulating in its virulence the Montreal outbreak of 1885-6.

Referring to the water supplies of the Province, Dr. Hodgetts says— "Personally I know of but few public water supplies in the Province that are above suspicion as to their constancy as potable waters.

"Next to quality comes quantity. How many cities and towns in Ontario to-day have any adequate supply at all seasons of the year for both domestic, manufacturing and fire purposes? The answer had better be given by the authorities themselves after careful consideration, and the true facts not withheld from the interested public. My investigations lead me to think there will be many cases of shortage, although this statement may seem strange when we remember that this Province abounds in rivers and lakes."

An interesting discussion is included in the report on the lumber camps of the Province. Complaints had reached the Department that the imposition of a monthly fee upon all lumber camp workers to cover the cost of medical attendance was the cause of much extra demand thereon. The report states that upon investigation the objection was found not to be against the payment of a health fee, but because the promised medical attendance did not materialize. It was also claimed that the employers received a large proportion of the men's doctor fees, often as much as 50 per cent., leaving the balance over to the physicians. Recently, however, some of the employers had undertaken to pay the fees themselves, and thereby secured the luck of employees.

Man Attacked Two Women with an Axe

Special to the Times.

Cobalt, Nov. 13.—Last night a Frenchman, known as J. Jouin, visited the home of Ethel Clifford and Carry Russell, about a mile north of here, and for some unknown reason he became suddenly enraged and viciously attacked the two women with a four-pound axe. They were badly cut about the head and legs before they made their escape, which they did in their night robes and succeeded in reaching a neighbor's house about half a mile away. They were forced to cover the distance with nothing on but their night dress, not even slippers, and through three inches of snow. Miss Russell is now at the Cobalt Hospital in a critical condition and with very little hopes of recovery. Miss Clifford received a couple of gashes on top of the head, but will likely recover. Chief of Police Calbeck is working on the case, but thus far has been unable to locate his man.

Enormous Grain Crop of Western Provinces

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.— The Northwest Grain Growers' association circular, issued in the past week, gives the following crop estimate for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta:—

Acreage in wheat, 6,056,600, yield, 16.4 bushels to the acre. Oats, 2,607,036 acres yield, 34.6 per acre. Barley, 835,656 acres, yield 24.4. The total estimate of wheat for 1908 is placed at 99,214,840 bushels; oats, 90,204,360 bushels, and barley, 20,877,000 bushels. Up to Nov. 1, there has been inspected at Winnipeg, 25,453,000 bushels of this year's crop, allowing for seed and for home milling purposes, 36,000,000 bushels, and that of 15,500,000 bushels in store at country points, leaves a balance held by farmers for export of about 23,000,000 bushels.

First Vice-President D. D. Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway, while in the city this week, stated that there has already been an increase of 150 per cent. in the grain deliveries of their road over that of 1906. Mr. Mann spoke very enthusiastically of the prosperity throughout western Canada, and stated that work on the new union station under construction at Winnipeg would be proceeded with vigorously throughout the winter, and that in the specified time of contract the terminal buildings would be completed.

300 Laymen will Sit at Banquet Table on Dec. 8th

A very large meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night in the interests of the men's missionary movement. Representatives were present from the city churches as follows— Methodist—George St., Charlotte St. and Mark St. Baptist—Murray St. and Park St. Church of England—St. John's, St. Luke's and All Saints'. Presbyterian—St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Knox. Bethany Tabernacle and the Gospel Hall.

Mr. D. W. Dunlop was elected Chairman and Mr. Wilson, of All Saints', Secretary. He was afterwards made the permanent secretary. The representatives who attended the immense banquet in Toronto made their report and the meeting last night decided that it would be in the interests of the local movement to hold such a function here. There was considerable discussion in regard to the form of the gathering, but it was finally decided to hold a laymen's missionary banquet on or about Tuesday, Dec. 8th. The speakers suggested for the occasion were H. Hoyles, K. C., Toronto; N. W. Rowell and S. J. Moore, President of the Dominion Bank, and President of the Carter-Crume Co. The committee will choose two of the three.

A strong committee composed of the following, were appointed to make all arrangements— J. J. Stock, Harry Long, D. W. Dunlop, James Connell, R. J. Reid and M. Wilson.

The place of meeting will be left entirely in the hands of the committee. Prizes will be proposed for those bringing guests, and these will be awarded among the church according to their membership.

Toronto Students will Assist Man who was Injured Hallowe'en Night

Special to the Times.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—The Executive of the Parliament of Undergraduates has issued the following appeal to the undergraduates' union of Toronto University: "On October 31, during a parade of students from the various faculties of the University of Toronto, an employee of the Toronto Street Railway Company, while in the discharge of his duty, received such severe injuries that he will be unable to engage in certain kinds of physical labor.

"We, the Executive of the Parliament of Undergraduates, feel that the injured employee should receive some substantial expression of our sympathy, and we hereby invite contributions from all undergraduates. The fund thus created will be managed as follows—

"No contribution shall be received less than 25 cents or more than $1. Representatives of each faculty of the colleges shall be the chief treasurer of his faculty, and he shall receive all funds. The total proceeds will be given to the injured man, whose accident we all deplore.

Murder of 25 Years Ago was Cleared Up by Double Murder in South America

Special to the Times.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—A wire from Sherbrooke, Que., says— Chief of Police Davidson has received an extraordinary letter from Buenos Ayres, South America, which has direct bearing on a murder which occurred near Coaticooke over a quarter of a century ago, viz., the killing of Francis Daley by James Bowen.

The letter referred to states that Bowen had confessed to the murder of Daley and he escaped the gallows by breaking jail. The most remarkable part is that the confession was made just a few moments before the writer, a Spaniard, killed him and his (the writer's) wife, whom he discovered together alone at his home, his wife believing him to be away from the city. The writer, whose name Chief Davidson prefers to withhold for the present, goes on to say— "I stripped him of everything, and then in the presence of my wife I asked him if he wished to make any statement before he died. He told me that he once lived in a little village near Compton, Que., and during a quarrel, of which he was the cause, he killed the man. He then said he was arrested, tried and sentenced to die on the gallows. But one night his relatives took him away. He asked me to write you as to his friends in South America."

After the confession the writer shot and killed Bowen and the woman back to back. The law of this country cleared him before a court of justice. You will pardon me taking up your time. I have written you as requested by the man who wrecked my home.

"If you wish more information address a letter to the chief of police department. [illegible] you will get full particulars in regard to the matter. I will send you his photograph if you wish. A feature to attract attention was the very funny shape of his nose. He also informed me that he came from an old and respected family."

Prof. Lockie is New Librarian for Toronto

Special to the Times.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Prof. George Locke, Dean of McDonald College, and acting professor in arts in McGill, was to-day appointed chief librarian of Toronto's new Carnegie library, in succession to the late Dr. Bain, at a salary of $4,000 per annum. Prof. Locke is 54 years of age, and was born at Beamsville, Ont. It was the wish of the Library Board to secure an eminent Canadian of essential Canadian education, and they selected Prof. Locke after considering some seventy names, including several English and United States scholars. The new librarian received three degrees in the Toronto university, and prior to his connection with McDonald he was attached to the faculty of the University of Chicago.

Less Profits than Last Year

Special to the Times.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—The Bank of Montreal in its statement to-day for the year ending Oct. 31, 1908, shows net profits of $1,957,658 as against $1,986,138 in 1907. The bank added a million dollars to its rest account.

RHEUMATISM

A Very Bad Case that Was Cured By Persevering with an Old Time Remedy.

"Were it not that I had great patience and perseverence," writes Mr. Fritz Keller, well known in London," I would still be racked by chronic rheumatism, which was my unhappy lot for three years.

"I didn't have acute rheumatic fever as so many have—with me the pain and stiffness came on gradually. When I kept quiet, as on Sunday, I was free from pain—but being a working man I had to move about and the pain was simply awful, though after an hour's stating it would subside.

"I got the idea into my head that although the pain was in my joints, the rheumatic poison was in my blood. My druggist said "Ferrozone" was a wonderful blood tonic, and I began to use it. At first it didn't help at all, only change was a better appetite and more strength. Not being a doctor I didn't know that Ferrozone was all the time working at the root of the disease. I kept right on with Ferrozone and in three months was cured. There is no more stiffness, no pain, and I am as limber as forty years ago."

Every kind of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Nerve Pain and Blood Disorder is quickly cured by Ferrozone. Satisfaction guaranteed. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

HOW FRANCE BLOCKED GERMANY

Particularly timely is the publication of "France and the Alliances", by Andre Tadieu (Toronto, the Macmillan Co.), which deals thoroughly with many of the matters that are now occupying the minds of the statesmen of Europe. The work of an "Americanized" Frenchman, the book is moderate in tone, and must make a deep impression upon its English-speaking readers. It shows how Gemany has been steadily aiming to make France play the role of a conquered country that was imposed on her by Bismack and Moltke, and how France has quietly burst the bonds, regaining both self-respect and the respect of the outside world. But Germany's policy remains the same. It is that of the bullying schoolboy, who says, "Remembor, I licked you once, and I can lick you again." To which France smiles and points to her friends. But Germany still threatens, "Wait till I catch you alone,"

France might still be playing the role of a broken nation, existing by the patronizing good nature of her Teuton, neighbor, had not the alliance with Russia forged a weapon that Germany could not ignore. Subsequently, she formed understandings with Italy and Spain, and finaly with Great Britain. It is with the support of these alliances that she exists today. Were they to be withdrawn it is the opinion of the best-informed diplomats that within a year she would be called upon to resist a German invasion. Germany has not yet reconciled herself to the loss of the hegemony that Bismarck bequeathed to his political heirs. Her foreign policy continues to "kick against the pricks," and strives to place France once more in the political position she occupied in the seventies. If Germany now refuses to bow to the inevitable, it means war,

Mr. Tardieu thinks that the Moroccan episode exposes in the most striking manner this cruel, bullying, and at the same time deceitful policy of Germany. With Russia on the east, strong and ready to come to the help of her French ally, Germany dared not provoke a war with France. It is highly significant, however, that in 1905, a month after the Russian army, under Kuropatkin, had been defeated at Liao-Yang, the Kaiser landed at Tangier, His words to the representative of the Sultan of Morocco showed his indifference to the understanding that had been arrived at by France and Great Britain, and was practically an invitation for the Moors to look to Germany for a friend.

Great Britain, says Mr. Tardieu, would have given armed support to France in 1905, had her ally been willing to raise the Kaiser's gauntlet; but, as all the world knows, France backed down, and M. Delcasse, the Foreign Minister, resigned. The trouble with France was that never in half a generation had she been more unready for war. Had the enemy been some distant power, whose blow could not fall for months after the declaration of hostilities, France might have prepared herself in time. But, had the prepared herself in time. But had she flatly defied Germany, she would have been invaded in forty-eight hours. So Delcasse was let go, and France suffered the humiliation of receiving a visit from Prince Henckel, of Donnermarck, who, with almost drunken brutality, told France that her policy of forming alliances, in order to isolate Germany, must stop. France agreed to the Algeciras Conference, and the Emperor of Germany made Count von Buelow a Prince, as a result for the overthrow of Delcasse.

But having forced France to accept the conference instead of the alternative of war, which had been expected, Germany found herself unable to gain the slightest advantage so far as Morocco was concerned. Her diplomats tried to wear away France's supporters at Algeciras, but signally failed, and after months of threatening and conspiracy, the situation remained exactly as before the Kaiser's coup de theatre. It was then plain to all the world that Morocco had been a pretxt merely; but the chief surprise was to the Germans, who found the British heartily ready to live up to the entente.

Bismarck once said, "I am an Englishman in Egypt," because German policy was to keep alive questions at issue between France and Great Britain. At the Algeciras Conference Germany tried to break the entente by pointing out to Britain that she had already secured all the advantages possible from it, and could now afford to throw France over. Germany's recent effort to show herself Britain's friend—vide the Kaiser's interview—may be interpreted as a final attempt to destroy the agreement that now binds the two nations.

THE FOOD COMBINES

Every householder in Toronto can testify to the increase in the cost of living during the past decade. As a large part of the increase is in the price of milk, eggs, butter, apples, berries, tomatoes and meat, the householder is told that the increased price has gone to the farmer. He then either lays the blame on the farmer, or is pleased that the farmer is doing well and is getting his due share of the results of prosperity. But is it true that the increase has gone into the farmer's pocket and has helped to enhance the comfort of the farmer's life? In one of the Star's special articles on combines this matter was considered.

It was shown that consumers of tomatoes this year will pay 40 per cent. more than the value of the goods, not because the grower is getting more for his tomatoes, but because a combine has been formed among Canadian canners, under cover of a specific duty of one and a half cents a pound, which is equivalent to an ad valorem duty of 50 per cent.

An attempt was made to establish an independent canning factory in a town in Western Ontario. The combine got to work and was powerful enough to hamper the sale of goods from this independent factory to such an extent that the institution was obliged to close down in the middle of the past season. Growers found themselves with a crop, which it had cost $50 an acre to produce, left on their hands, and wholly valueless. One grower had 400 bushels of the very finest stock, and every tomato grown by him was left to rot on the ground.

In another case a group of growers in a certain district who co-operated in order to produce and prepare for the market goods of the very finest quality, could find no purchasers. Wholesalers did not dare touch the stuff because of the ironclad agreement under which they were bound to handle only trust-made goods; retail dealers were restrained by the compulsion to limit their buying to a certain combination of wholesalers.

These combines rob Canadians of the bounty of Providence and the result of their own energy. They counteract much of the good that is being done by scientists in improving agriculture. They get between the producer and the consumer and take toll from both. In the interest of both the combine ought to be destroyed, and one way to destroy it is to use the threat of removing the duty as a lever. This would smash the combine without hurting the farmer.

BARRISTER'S "FEE BOWL"

In Old Days Counsel Received Their Rewards In Huge Dish.

An interesting relic of old days in the legal profession, known as a "fee bowl," has just been presented to the Master and Benchers of the Inner Temple, and many people have been making a journey to the "Buttery" to have a look at it.

In the early days of last century it was still customary for learned counsel to receive their fees and refreshers in cash, which was received with ceremonious gravity in a capacious bowl, zealously kept for that special purpose by the lawyer's chief clerk, who usually bestowed it in some place where it could be conveniently reached when payments were made.

The fee bowl in question has been presented to the Inner Temple by Hon. Malcolm Macnaghten, son of Lord Macnaghten

It has a distinguished history, and has in its time been the intermediate recipient of many substantial fees. It was used by Sir Frederick Pollock, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and passed from him to the well-remembered Baron Martin, of the Court of the Exchequer, the son-in-law of the Chief Baron.

It afterwards belonged to Baron Pollock, by whom it was presented to Baron Martin's grandson, the present donor.

The bowl now reposes in the big safe in the chamber of Inner Temple Hall known as the "Buttery." In this safe are kept the silver-plate used at the banquets and "call" dinners and other treasures belonging to the Inner Temple.

It has been suggested that if some of the fees of leading K.C.'s of to-day were paid in cash the capacity of the bowl would be severely taxed, but a good many members of the junior Bar would be content to receive their professional earnings in the fee bowl, without being unduly distressed by the possibility of an overflow.

IN A ROBBERS' DEN.

Sir William Magnay Tells of Adventure on the Continent.

In the course of a more or less adventurous tour on the continent in the early seventies, which has given color to several of his novels, Sir William Magnay, whose popular story, "The Heiress of the Season," forms the latest addition to the Newnes' Sixpenny Famous Novel Series, met with several thrilling experiences. Once on a stormy evening he had taken shelter in the ruins of a mediaeval castle in the Abruzzi, and on presently groping his way out, preparatory to returning to his hotel in the town some few miles distant, he suddenly heard voices in the darkness. Then a match was struck and applied to a lantern, by the light of which he saw four of the most villainous-looking fellows he ever set eyes on. That they were robbers was apparent from their next proceeding, which was to produce and divide a quantity of jewelry, watches, and cash. The watcher's retreat was effectually cut off; to have betrayed his presence would have meant his almost certain murder. Presently a quarrel arose over the spoil, ending in a fight in which one of the men was stabbed, apparently to death. This happily caused the robbers to hurry their departure, and so released their unsuspected observer from his unpleasant situation. On his arrival at the town he gave information of what had happened, but when the police made a tardy visit to the spot the dead or wounded man was not to be seen. Only the bloodstains were left to corroborate his story.

Lady Channel-Swimmers.

Among the swimmers who will probably attempt to cross the Channel before the end of the year are two ladies, both of whom have placed some remarkable swimming feats to their credit. One of them is Mlle. Marthe Robert, a girl of twenty, who holds all the Swiss records for long and short distances; the other is Miss Lily Smith, the 18-year-old captain of the Tottenham Ladies' Swimming Club, who has just performed the remarkable feat of covering twenty miles in the sea in seven hours. Three years ago Miss Annette Kellerman, in on attempt to cross the Channel, covered more than twelve miles in six hours. Such performances as these are very remarkable; but it is doubtful whether any woman will ever develop the strength and stamina to perform a feat which only one man has yet accomplished.

Brothers In the Commons.

Among other pairs of brothers in the British House might be mentioned Sir David Brynmor Jones and Mr. Leif Jones, Capt. Craig and Mr. C. C. Craig, Mr. Herbert Samuel and Mr. Stuart Samuel, and Col. Ivor Philippe and Mr. Owen Phillipps, whose third M.P. brother was recently raised to the peerage. Mr. T. L. Corbett and Mr. Cameron Corbett, Mr. Cecil [illegible] and Mr. Leicester Harmsworth, Mr. Arthur Dewar and Sir John Dewar, and Sir Edward Tennant and Mr. H. J. Tennant complete the list, to which may be added two half-brothers, Mr. L. V. Harcourt and Mr. Robert Harcourt.

Railway Window Novelty.

Some of the modern North-Eastern Railway coaches in England have no wooden frames to the drop windows in the doors, the plate-glass being only rounded at the edges. For this unusual method the North-Eastern Railway claims that one of the advantages of having a window without frames is the saving effected in making and keeping in repair the frames; but the chief feature is that they prevent all rattling and noise which an ordinary window makes and for this reason are considered a great improvement on the windows fitted in frames.

Flying Machine Textbook.

Sir Hiram Maxim is writing a comprehensive book on the science of modern aeronautics. The work will be published toward the end of the year, and will embody the results of the efforts of all aerial scientists during the last twenty years.

Coco-nuts Make Good Fuel.

"Mine is rather a curious business," said a man who owns a small warehouse and shed down near the London docks. "I deal in coco-nut shells, and last year I sold more than 50,000 bags full of them as fuel.

"I buy thousands of coco-nut shells from stall-keepers all over London, from confectioners, from coco-nut oil extractors, from market-sweepers, and others. I won't tell you the usual price, but sometimes I get them for nothing—for carting them away, in fact. I sell them at 4d. a bag, most of my customers being poor people, who mix them, when broken up, with 'slack' coal. But in stores of hotels and large houses a quantity is bought to be mixed with coals as fire-lighters, for the immense amount of oil in coco-nut shells makes them take fire at once. Try it, and see.

"I have rivals in the business in other parts of London, and some of the makers of patent firelighters mix large quantities of the shells in their compositions."

Ethics of Republication.

A keen discussion is in progress in literary circles on the ethics of republication. A "notable new novel," as it is described by the publisher, has appeared under the title of "The Old Allegiance," the author's name being given as "Hubert Wales." It has been discovered that the same work was published as "Purple and Fine Linen" in 1899, when the author's name was William Pigott. The Spectator has drawn attention to the case, and called for an explanation. The publisher, Mr. John Long, admits that the two novels are one and the same. Under its previous title the book was not a success, but now that it has been re-issued in another name it is selling very well.

Short Skirt League.

A Ladies' Short Skirt League has been formed in London. The members bind themselves to wear dresses which will not sweep the floors and pavements, and so gather up dust and microbes. This is not a new idea. In America they have a similar organization called the Five Inch League. Every member is pledged to at least five inches of clear space between skirt and floor. The plan is commendable in many ways, for it is appalling the way in which some women sweep the pavements with their gowns. An Englishwoman has still much to learn in the art of holding up her skirt.

Tickling, tight coughs can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription Druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No Opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a hardy mountainous shrub, gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all druggists.

Same Old Way

While building a house Senator Platt of Connecticut had occasion to employ a carpenter. One of the applicants was a plain Connecticut Yankee, without any frills.

"You thoroughly understand carpentry?" asked the Senator.

"Yes, sir."

"You can make doors, windows and blinds?"

"Oh, yes, sir!"

"How would you make a Venetian blind?"

The man scratched his head and thought deeply for a few seconds. "I should think, sir," he said finally, "about the best way would be to punch him in the eye."

ADMIRAL OF THE FLEET

SOME STORIES OF SIR JOHN, OTHERWISE "JACKY" FISHER.

"Silence" and "Deeds, Not Words," Are His Two Mottoes—To Clean Out Portsmouth Dockyard Was His First Important Feat—Can Be Polite to Other Nations Despite His British Bull-Dog Tenacity.

"We have the biggest navy, we have the swiftest ships, we have the heaviest guns; what we want is more men of the stamp of Jacky Fisher." So declared a well-known politician the other day at a meeting of naval experts, and they one and all endorsed his words. This trust in the British Admiral of the Fleet can, perhaps, be explained by a little story which Sir John Fisher tells himself. It concerns his first ship, a small two-decker, in the "stick-and-string" days.

"When I first went on board," he says, "I saw engraved in great big gold letters the word 'Silence,' and underneath was another good motto, 'Deeds, not words.' I have tried to put that motto into every ship I have commanded since."

Jacky Fisher was appointed superintendent of Portsmouth dockyard; in the days of the sarcastic Punch joke: "Bill don't do no work now; 'e's got a job at the dockyard." It was in those days that Jacky, in taking one of his prowls round the yard, came upon two men standing about with their hands in their pockets, doing nothing. He pounced on them at once, and they explained that they had been sent on ahead to clear the road for some of their mates, who were carrying an oar across the yard. Jacky accepted the explanation for what it was worth and went on with his prowling. Soon he came on half-a-dozen men, also happily engaged in doing nothing. They explained that they were carrying an oar.

"But I see no oar," said the wrathful superintendent.

The men scratched their heads and looked at one another in amazement. Then up and spoke the foreman of the gang.

"I'm hanged if we ain't forgot the oar, sir," said he.

"A sense of conscious efficiency," is what Sir John Fisher wishes to see in every mind, the mind of every man in the navy, and no one knows better than he how widespread in the senior service this sense is. When he was commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean he went to inspect a small torpedo-boat of only some two hundred and fifty tons. The young lieutenant in command—he had the much swagger, he might have been in charge of a line-o'-battle ship—showed his superior round.

The little craft was in excellent order, but when Jacky reached the wheel he saw on it some most unofficial carving. It was an inscription, and it read, "Ut Veniant Omnes."

"Hullo," said the commander, "what the deuce is this?"

"'Let 'em all came,' sir" answered the "Lootenant," saluting.

Jacky Fisher is a staunch patriot, of course, and he would not dip a British flag or bend a British back to ship or man of any nation if he could help it. But occasionally courtesy demands these things, and then he is politeness itself.

For all that, there is a story told of years ago when relations between France and ourselves were not so friendly as they are now, which recalls the fact that Sir John might perhaps be "difficult" if the situation demanded it.

The French fleet were to visit a British port, and Jacky was talking to his Queen, her late Majesty, about it.

"We hope you will be very nice to Admiral Gervice," said the Queen, who knew how her bluff old sea-dog disliked being civil to those whom he then regarded as enemies.

"Madam," said Jacky, hiding a wry smile; "Madam, I will kiss him, if he wishes it."

the ore to be dressed in raw weather. To Matthews the interruption was welcome. His right hand slowly lowered to join its mate.

"I'm going to ask you to call your little differences with that gentleman off," continued Lounsbury.

Matthews fairly blinked. The storekeeper's voice was soft, confidential, ingratiating.

"Mr. Fraser and I have come to say that Mr. Matthews is wanted to serve as interpreter for Colonel Cummings."

"Interpreter?" queried Matthews.

A bullet head made itself visible from behind a barrel. "Don't let him bluff y', Nick," called a voice.

The other looked round. "Shut y' dj trap, Babe," he commanded.

"Thank you," said Lounsbury pleasantly, "interpreter is right. Two white women are held as captives in an Uncapapa camp somewhere west of here. It's been learned that you understand and speak the tongue. So we present Colonel Cummings' compliments. He would like very much to have a talk with you at Brannon."

It was a solution to Matthews. "Yes? Yes?" he said approvingly, then hesitated in suspicion as he measured the storekeeper.

"Oh, I guess I don't want to be no interpreter," he said.

Lounsbury smiled. "Just as you say, just as you say. Boys"—cheerily—"sorry if I cut in at the wrong time. Don't let us stop your fun. Mr. Fraser is not here officially."

A murmur ran around. The disturbing trooper advanced toward Matthews aggressively.

Up went Matthews' hand again. "Jus' a minute," he said.

The trooper quieted.

Matthews turned to Fraser, mustering an expression of importance.

"Lieutenant," he said, "you give me your word this is so—that there ain't no put up job about it?"

"Put up job?" Fraser reddened, keeping a straight face with difficulty. "I give my word," he said solemnly, "that you're wanted as interpreter and that I'll conduct you safely to headquarters."

Matthews put down the cigar box and saluted.

"Word of an officer," he said, "is different. And if I can do anythin'—long 's it 's ladies"—

He reached to a shelf for his hat.

CHAPTER XII.

THAT night, after Squaw Charley had come and gone, Dallas returned from the lean-to, where she had fed and bedded Simon and the team, to find Marylyn before the hearth, her face flushed and wet with tears. Instantly, all concern, the older girl knelt beside her.

"Marylyn," she begged, smoothing the soft, unbraided hair spread out upon the robe, "Marylyn, what's the matter?"

A long sob.

"Why, dear baby, don't you fret. We're going to be all right. Dad'll soon be back, Mr. Lounsbury's watching, and we won't lose the little home."

"Oh, it ain't that—it ain't that!" weeping harder than before. "I'm so unhappy!"

It was an answer that smote Dallas to the heart. Some trouble, heretofore concealed, was threatening her sister's peace of mind. And she had not discovered it in time, had not prevented it, had not shielded her as she ought.

"Marylyn, honey, tell me what's the matter."

The younger girl crept closer, screening her eyes.

Dallas lifted her into her arms. Her cheek was feverish, her hands were dry and hot.

Sudden terror seized the elder girl—the old terror that had fastened upon her through all the years of her mother's failing.

"Marylyn," she said huskily, "do you feel that—that you're not as well as you was? Are you afraid you'll be sick like—mother?"

There was an answering shake of the head.

Dallas pressed her close, murmuring her thankfulness, whispering broken endearments. "Oh, Dal's so glad! She couldn't stand it if her baby sister was to suffer. Oh, honey heart, honey heart!"

"Listen," bade Dallas. "In all your life have you ever asked me to do anything that I didn't do, or to give you anything that I didn't give if I could? And now something's fretting you. I can't think what it is. But you got to tell me, and I'll help you out."

"No, no!"

"I don't care what it is, I won't blame you. If it's something wrong—why, it couldn't be—I'll forgive you. You know that, Marylyn."

Again "No, no," but with less resistance.

"Tell me," said Dallas firmly.

Marylyn looked up. "You'll hate me if I do," she faltered.

The elder girl laughed fondly. "As if I could."

"You promise not to tell pa?"

"Course I promise."

"Oh, Dallas!" She buried her face in her hands. "It's—it's that I—I like him! I like him!"

A moment of perplexity. Then, gradually, it dawned upon the elder girl whom the other meant. In very surprise her arms loosened their hold.

"You do hate me," Marylyn said plaintively.

"No, honey, no—why should I hate you?" Her words were earnest. But her voice—something had changed it. And she felt a strange hurt, a vague hurt that seemed to have no cause.

Marylyn raised herself on an elbow. "He liked me—once," she said. "He showed it just as plain. It was right here—that day the cattle went by."

Dallas got up. She had begun to tremble visibly. Her breath was coming short, as if she had been running.

"But the younger girl did not notice. "He stayed away so long," she went on. "Then, today when he came—you remember, Dallas—he just said a word or two to me and laughed at me because I was afraid. And—and I saw that I was wrong, and I—I saw—he liked—you."

"Me!" Dallas turned. She felt the blood come driving into her face. She felt that strange hurt ease and go in a rush of joyful feeling. Then she understood the cause of it and why she had trembled—why that day had been the happiest of her life.

Of a sudden she became conscious that Marylyn's eyes were upon her with a look of pathetic reproach. She began to laugh.

"Nonsense, honey!" she said. "Don't be silly! Me! Why, he'd never like a great big gawk like me!"

"But—but"—

"Me, with my red hair—you know it is kinda red—and my face, sunburned as a' Indian—hands all calloused like—like a man's." She turned back to the dusk through the window. "Oh, no, not me!"

"But you looked so funny just now."

Tickling, tight coughs can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription Druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No Opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung healing mountainous shrub, gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all druggists.

Saving Work.

In the home of one woman where single beds are in general use the spreads are made of honeycomb material bought by the yard and hemmed. They are easy to wash and require no ironing. In the same home cream white madras is used for bedroom window draperies because of its good wearing qualities. It comes out of the wash with flying colors. She trims them with ball fringe and does not have them wrung very dry and wrung by hand, of course, as the wringer would flatten the little balls. She uses small rugs all through her house save the dining room, because they can be taken outdoors every week by the one maid of the establishment. Another woman saves work by having her luncheon brought to her sitting room on a tray, and another, belonging to a family that seems doomed to perpetual mourning attire, supplies her maid with very light cotton dresses in white and black because there is already too much gloom in the house.

A Photography Hint.

With a fixed focus camera the endeavor should be to get the principal objects in a good light and at such a distance from the camera that they will be nicely rendered without the necessity of stopping down the lens. The distance will take care of itself, and the foreground, too, unless there be any very prominent feature in it, when the picture is likely to suffer by unsightly diffusion or a want of sharpness.

With ordinary good fortune as regards weather and subjects, the amateur photographer who proceeds with intelligence can bring back a collection of excellent pictures, even though she has never used a camera before, and the pleasure to be derived by looking from time to time to these reminiscences of some weeks at a delightful country or seaside resort will be such that she will not readily go away in the future without an instrument which so readily records the chief incidents of a holiday.

Salt in Cooking.

If one portion of a vegetable is cooked in pure water, the other half in salted water, a decided difference is perceptible in the tenderness of the two. Those boiled in pure water are vastly inferior and in many cases will be almost tasteless. Salt brings out the delicate flavor of cauliflower, cabbage, potatoes, peas, beans and practically all vegetables. Onions cooked in water without salt can be rendered almost tasteless. As salt increases the temperature of boiling water, its cooking advantage is at once apparent. Salt in cold water is used to drive insects from vegetables growing above ground.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guard and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

In spite of all your careful baths safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. S. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had sores pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Freight Traffic Very Heavy

Freight traffic on this section of the C. P. R. is very heavy just now, and a gentleman recently in Havelock stated that one day this week over 400 cars were sent out of the railroad town. This added business of course means more money for the employees and as a consequence more money for the whole town. The yards are constantly congested and the trains are very busy handling them.

Big Increase in Lockages

With navigation practically closed for the present season, Mr. J. H. McWilliams, lockmaster at lock No. 1, on the Trent Canal at Lakefield, has prepared a statement of the number of lockages during the past summer, which shows that the increase over 1907 is exactly 303. Last year there were 547, this year 850 lockages. The articles carried were 4,000 cords of wood, 600 cords stone, 1,000,000 brick, 9,800 tile, 4 live stock and 15 pigs.

Young Lad Lost His Life, Gun Went Off

Coroner Dr. Gray yesterday received word from Young's Point that Roland Ayotte, a lad 10 years of age, had been shot and killed, in the township of Harvey, about 14 miles from the Point. Particulars as to how the shooting occurred were very hard to secure, but it is supposed the cause was purely accidental.

Ayotte and young Gordon were returning from school. Gordon had a shotgun, and while crossing a field the gun was discharged. Ayotte was killed. Gordon hurried for help but the lad was dead before it arrived.

Coroner Dr. Gray, of this city, was notified and upon hearing that the affair was accidental, ordered the body to be buried at Young's Point, which will be done to-day

The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Baptiste Ayotte, of Harvey, and a brother and sister also survive.

Whitty's Team Preparing for the Game

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Edmonton evidently intends to gather a crack team together today the Wanderers for the Stanley Cup.

At least that is what is to be inferred from a telegram received yesterday by Ald. Foran, Stanley Cup trustee. Mr. Foran received a wire from the managers of the Edmonton team, asking what restrictions were to be put on Edmonton in the coming series. To this he replied that only those who took part in the Stanley Cup matches last year would be ineligible. This means that Tom Phillips, Roxy Bernardo, S. Griffin, the Patrick brothers and others whom Edmonton have been after will be allowed to play should they sign with the Prairie champions. None of the Maple Leaf, Ottawa Victoria or Toronto players will be eligible, but the decision gives the challengers a pretty wide scope.

Ald. Foran, discussing the Edmonton enquiry, said that while it was difficult to keep the teams strictly within the rules owing to the manner in which players were being bought and sold, some restrictions had to be placed on challenging clubs. There was some talk of several of last year's Maple Leafs coming east with the Edmonton men, but they will not be allowed to play.

Edmonton is trying to arrange dates with the Wanderers, and will probably play for the cup early in January.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, of Indigestion, torpid liver, torpidness and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed for the purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

House of Refuge

Reeve Scott, Chairman of the House of Refuge Committee, states that an excellent crop has been harvested on the county farm. Both grain and roots have yielded well, and have been garnered in good condition. There are at present 35 inmates in the House of Refuge, it being the largest number that has ever been in the institution since it was opened. From all indications the winter will be the busiest yet experienced. Some improvements have been recently made to the premises. The fences have been improved in places and a new one has been constructed along the road, thereby adding greatly to the appearance of the property.

MRS. JOHN HENDERSON WAS SO RUN DOWN LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING.

A Few Bottles of Peruna Restored Me to Health.

Mrs. John Henderson, 3 Overdale Ave., Montreal, Can., writes:

"I was much distressed with neuralgia and was so run down that life was not worth living. I tried a great many remedies, but all to no effect.

"I met a friend of mine, and told her of my ailment. She advised me to try her remedy, Peruna.

"Although I had no faith in Peruna, I took her advice, and am pleased to state that the neuralgia has entirely left me, and have gained so in health that I feel just like my old self again.

"I am enjoying the best of health.

TIGERS WON CHAMPIONSHIP DEATH STRUGGLE AT KINGSTON

Hamilton's Supporters were Heavy Plungers on the Result of the Big Game

Peterboro' Boy Plays Great Game

Special to the Times.

Kingston, Nov. 14.—The Tigers are overwhelming favorites for to-day's game with Ottawa, and Hamilton people were unable to get any Ottawa money. A few backers of the Hamilton team who arrived in Kingston last night managed to get about $1,000 at even money. There is $5,000 of Hamilton money here not covered, and some enthusiastic Hamilton supporters offered the juicy odds of two to one. The special train from Hamilton brought down about 800 people, while Ottawa sent a delegation of 150. There is very little wind blowing Ottawa won the toss and kicked with the wind. The field is dry and the weather is ideal for rugby.

There was a large attendance and the sympathy of the Kingston people appeared to be with Ottawa. The general opinion here at the cities was that the Tigers would win, and as a result the odds were sported, some Kingston people betting 2 to 1 on the Tigers. The teams—

Ottawa.	Hamilton.
Full back.
Powell	Tope

Phillips	Wigle
Ryan	Lotten

Referee—Phil McKenzie, Montreal.
Umpire—W. McMaster, Montreal.

FIRST QUARTER

Ryan kicked off, and Biggs here returned a bounty to McCann. First down was on Ottawa territory. An offside took the ball to half-way and the next scrimmage followed the Tigers kilt matted a punt. The Tigers got ball in Ottawa territory. Simpson and Williams exchanged kicks. Hope didn't try. The ball was continued in Ottawa territory. Simpson and Tope combined for a nice 20-yards gain, and Kennedy was penalized for scuffling Simpson after he was down. Play has been hovering around center and neither side had much on the other. Powell gained around the end on a line plunge, and gained some more. Isbister got a penalty for taking a punch at Kennedy. Tiger halves made a nice gain, and Biggs dropped the ball when tackled, but Wigle regained. Biggs punted over, and Powell ran it out twenty yards. Kennedy ran back to catch the punt, but dropped it in the tackle. Simpson and Tope combined for a nice 20-yards gain. Williamson and Tope exchanged punts, and Kennedy was downed ten yards out. Biggs muffed at Ottawa 25-yard, but recovered. Isbister went on field and Barron was fenced. Moore downed at midfield, on Kennedy's boundary muff. Ottawa wings smothered a half-back run. Tigers got ten yards for Ottawa offside.

They were fighting hard. Simpson again fumbled, but recovered. Phillip got five minutes for struggling Simpson. Williams took a punt.

McCann punted into touch just beyond midfield, and Biggs punted. Ottawa broke through the line for five yards. Ottawa got ten yards off-side and threatened to get it, but the Tigers got the ball. Moore went around and, with Wigle, carried the ball to midfield. Got penalty for dirty work and then Ballard, Tope and Biggs combined and carried the ball into Ottawa's quarter. It was getting decidedly rough along the line, but officials were vigilant. Ottawa got ball on off-side and they bucked the line for five yards. Tigers got the ball on off-side, and Simpson kicked to Powell, who muffled, recovered and kicked to Tope. It was Tigers' ball on Ottawa's quarter. The ball was within striking distance when quarter time was called.

Score—Ottawa 0, Hamilton 0.

SECOND QUARTER

Powell kicked to Tope, who returned. Ottawa no yards. Moore got no yards on Williams' drop, and the Tigers got ball on their own quarter.

Ottawa smothered a crushing play. Moore fumbled Williams' long punt and Vaughan fell on the ball for a try. Vaughan was hurt. Score—Ottawa 5, Hamilton 0.

The try was not converted.

Ottawa backs even playing, a faultless game, whit the wind in their favor. Tope muffed, but he and Simpson, the ex-Peterborough player, and who played a wonderful game, got the ball to centre field.

Half-time score—Ottawa 5, Hamilton 5.

SECOND HALF

Tigers had now the wind, which was blowing about ten miles an hour. Ottawa kicked off to Moore, who ran it back to Hamilton's 40-yard line. Simpson punted to Powell. Loftus pulled him down at midfield. Biggs ran back. Wigle went off for roughness. Kennedy fumbled a punt, recovered and ran to midfield.

Ottawa's buck was frustrated and Simpson made a nice run of a pass to centre. Simpson kicked to Ottawa's quarter. Powell tried a run, but was nailed across the field for a small gain.

Simpson was playing a phenomenal game.

Simpson took the next kick and punted to the dead ball line for another point. Score—Tigers 1, Ottawa 5. Simpson got the kick-out and booted again to the dead ball line. Score—Tigers 2, Ottawa 5.

Three successive Tiger off-sides brought the ball to centre. Tope was downed at Tiger 15-yard line. The game over. Tigers 11, Ottawa 9

Died from Falling into His Hat

(By Hearst Special Wire.)

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 14.—"Fell into his hat and suffocated." This is the endorsement on the death certificate of Alfred Parlow, who was found dead by the roadside in North Bay yesterday afternoon by a neighbor.

It is supposed from the position of the man's body he was on his way home and tripped and fell.

As he fell his derby hat slipped over his eyes and his face was forced into it by the fall.

The man was evidently stunned and never recovered sufficiently to extricate himself, dying of suffocation.

Bush Fires Still Rage in the North Country

Mr. Fred Moore, an old Peterborough boy, but now of Guelph, has just returned from the north, and yesterday gave a Times reporter a very interesting description of the forest fires which are raging in the northern country. McDougall's chute was Mr. Moore's headquarters, and up till three weeks ago the fires had touched almost every settlement but this. On Sunday evening, Oct. 18th, the bush in the vicinity of the caute took fire and all the inhabitants turned out to try and save their little settlement. All their efforts seemed to be fruitless, and in two hours time the little place was all afire. The bush fires still continue, and Mr. Moore asserts that it will not be long before the whole northern country beyond Temagami is wiped out. Whilst at McDougall's chute Mr. Moore met Mr. R. V. O'Brien, another Peterborough boy, and says "Dick" is making lots fine in the "land of silver."

Commendable Form of Charity is Started

The foreign missionary movement is being taken up by a large number at present, but there are several ladies in the city who have undertaken a work which is of equal importance, and in the eyes of many far more so, viz., caring for the poor and needy at home. They have decided, and start this week to carry their scheme into effect. The ladies will collect from their friends old or discarded clothing, and after cleaning them will have sewing bees to put the garments into a state of good repair. These garments will then be given to those who are not in a position to supply themselves with proper protection from the cold and wind of winter.

That the work is a noble one no one will deny, and many people this thus winter will be given a measure of comfort which they otherwise would not have. This form of charity is indeed commendable. It is superior to contributions of food or money and cannot be abused to the same extent. Those who are willing to work will be able to furnish themselves with food and will be able to get through the winter if they do not have to buy clothes. Much credit is due the ladies, and it is to be hoped much good will result from their efforts.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Johnston Greer

A very sad and sudden death occurred on Saturday night, when Margaret Fisher, wife of Mr. Johnston Greer, passed away after a brief illness from quinsey. She was only 46 years of age, and leaves a sorrowing husband and four young daughters and one son to mourn her loss. Mrs. Greer was a member of the Presbyterian church and was well liked by her large circle of friends, who extend to the bereaved family sincere sympathy. The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2:30 from her late residence, 9 Hland street, and interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

David Flynn Met with Painful Accident

As a result of an accident at the new armouries on Saturday morning David Flynn, a local carpenter, was very painfully injured and is now in St. Joseph's hospital. His injuries are the result of a fall of some 14 feet to the ground. Mr. Flynn and another carpenter, Fred Guerin, were at work upon a trestle, when in some manner, it is said a plank slipped from the scaffold, throwing the two men to the ground. Guerin escaped unhurt with the exception of a shaking up, but his companion was not so lucky.

It was found that he was cut on the head and face, that one eye was hurt and that his left arm was broken. The Dan Spence ambulance was summoned and took the unfortunate men to St. Joseph's hospital, where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Morgan.

Meeting for Men in St. Andrew's Church

The men's missionary movement, which has taken such a strong hold upon the churches of America, and especially in Canada, is meeting with a very favorable reception in this city. A mass meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. on Friday night, when it was decided to hold a big banquet here early in December. The various churches will all be represented and in St. Andrew's church particular interest is being taken in the movement. A meeting for men will be held there on Wednesday night, when the aims and objects of the movement will be placed before those present.

The missionary movement among the men is being taken up in the smaller towns as well as in the cities and it promises to eventually become a mammoth proposition.

Man-Eating Lion on Table at Canadian Club Dinner

Special to the Times.

New York, Nov. 15.—A man-eating lion from Tsavo—at least so the menu said—was the centre piece at the dinner Friday night of the Canadian Club. Everything played up to to the lion and back again. Those who ate of the man-eater declared that the flavor was fine, but that the meat was tough. There were several opinions expressed that the beast had been too great an athlete in his day, and a less muscular specimen after several years of quiet and travel which a first-class circus would be preferable. This was the sixth annual dinner of the Canadian Club, and it was held at the Hotel Astor.

New Job for Goats

Farmers in the vicinity of Lawrenceburg, Ind., have found that a herd of goats will clear the underbrush from a farm in a few months, and do a good job at a moderate cost. For the last five years a herd of forty goats has been eating and working there, and in that time the animals have changed owners ten times. As soon as their owner discovers that there is nothing left on the farm for the goats to feed on but good grass they are lent or sold to another farmer for a similar purpose.

Three Months in Jail for Youthful Murderer

London, Nov. 14.—A remarkable sentence was passed by Justice Grantham.

Ernest Biggs, a boy of 12 years, was sent to prison for three months for shooting and killing Emily Cullum, aged 11, while scaring birds for a farmer at Ingrave.

The little girl went into a field to gather ears of wheat, and when she was within 11 feet of Biggs he fired at her.

Miss Elkins Not Engaged to Duke

Special to the Times.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—United States Senator Stephen Elkins tonight made the announcement that no engagement existed between Miss Katharine Elkins, his daughter, and Duke de Abruzzi, of the Italian navy. The statement was made with the knowledge of Miss Elkins.

John Milne Gets Big Fortune

Special to the Times.

Owen Sound, Nov. 15.—John Milne, a former resident of Sydenham township, and now of Stockton, Man., has been advised that he is one of the heirs to a wealthy Bernie estate in Aberdeenshire, Scotland. The Bernie estate is valued at $8,000,000. Milne's uncle died last spring without a will, and the estate will probably be divided between five brothers and sisters, and Mr. Milne is a son of one of Mr. Bernie's sisters, and will come in for his share, about $400,000

Kenora Hunter and Trapper Killed

Special to the Times.

Kenora, Nov. 15.—An unfortunate shooting accident with fatal results occurred on Friday, the victim being Wm. Prettie, 32 years of age, a married man, and a well known hunter and trapper of this district. A shooting party of Major Wm. Jefferson, Vereker, his nephew, Viscount Grot, with William Prettie and George Gilbert, a guide, left on Thursday to go moose hunting. While following a trail Viscount Grot slipped on a large rock and fell, the rifle going off and shooting Prettie through the right leg. He was brought to Jubilee Hospital here and died yesterday. Viscount Gort is the eldest son of Lord Gort and came to Canada a few weeks ago to visit his uncle and to hunt large game.

Kaiser Furnished Only Map of South Africa Which British Possessed

Special to the Times.

London, Eng., Nov. 15.—Although the majority of English newspapers having indulged in considerable unfriendly comment arising from the assertion of the Kaiser in the much talked of London Daily Telegraph interview, that the moment when the British army was sustaining reverse after revers in the Boer war, he had sent a private letter of warm sympathy to his grandmother, Queen Victoria, along with a memorandum of his views of how the defeats could be retrieved, yet it is a little known fact that England owes him a considerable debt of gratitude for a certain bit of very real assistance he furnished just at that time. When General Sir Redvers Buller in January of 1900 occupied Patgieters Drift on the Tugela on his way to Spion Kopje the remark was made by every newspaper that the former spot was not marked on any available map, although no large scale map was possessed by the English, or anything approaching thereto, yet the German War Department owned one which was the fruit of careful survey, exploration and investigation of Natal by German government officials. The map contained 70 sheets. This at the instance of the Kaiser and by his direction, was loaned the British government and sent to South Africa for the use of the commanding generals there, and was used during the remainder of the campaign. How handicapped the British had been all then is shown by the fact that the only map they had to depend on was that which was possessed by a well known English war correspondent who loaned it to the government.

It is a pity for the sake of the friendly relations between Great Britain and Germany, which are so important to the peace and prosperity of the world that the English Secretary of State for War, Mr. Haldane when he denied in the House of Commons that any trace existed in his department of the plan of campaign contained in the Kaiser's confidential letter to Queen Victoria, did not add to this fact which is familiar to all the English officers of the higher grades who were in the South African war, viz., that the only large scale map and topographical chart of the British territory in which they were fighting was the one loaned at the Kaiser's instance by the German War Department at Berlin.

Rural Parcel Post Delivery Suggested for States to Prevent Deficit

Special to the Times.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—In his annual report to Congress, Postmaster General Meyer will say that he is "firmly convinced that the establishment of a special local parcel delivery post confined to the rural routes would tend to wipe out the postal deficit and would finally make rural delivery self supporting, besides being a great convenience to the farmers and a boon to the retail country merchants. There are now in operation more than 39,000 rural routes serving a population of 18,000,000 people, and should an average of 55 pounds of merchandise be carried each trip throughout the year, it is estimated that $15,000,000 would be realized.

Want Increased Grant from the Government

Toronto, Nov. 12.—A plea for an increase in the grant from the Ontario Legislature from $8,000 to $12,000, to aid the Horticultural Association in its work, was made by W. B. Burgoyne, of St. Catharines, at the meeting of the association this morning.

The meeting approved the idea.

A. H. Scott advised that renewed efforts be made to have the Department of Education insert selections in the readers dealing with agriculture, horticulture and farming generally.

"Our association next year will have 50 per cent. more branches connected with us than we have this year," said H. B. Cowan.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected by acclamation—

President—Major H. J. Snelgrove, Cobourg.

First Vice—Roderick Cameron, Toronto.

Secretary—J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto.

Treasurer—H. B. Cowan, Peterborough.

Deer Hunters Home from the North

After having spent a couple of weeks on the trail eating hard tack and salt pork, the hunters have returned feeling greatly improved physically, and ready to resume their regular occupations. The fall hunt as a feature in the lives of some that is looked forward to for a year with the greatest pleasure, and after, when there seems nothing else in life, the sports take heart and continue to exist until the 1st of November.

The various parties from Peterborough all had pretty good luck and a large number of deer were brought home. The sport this year was not so good as usual on account of the very dry weather. The dogs had great difficulty in following up a scent, but there are so many deer that the hunters can always get some.

One of the boys who was out states that there is great need of a more strict enforcement of the close season. He said that the settlers and others dispose of all the big deer before the season opens, and that only little fellows are left. As a matter of fact, deer are killed practically the year round in the back country. How it is going to be done is a proposition for the game wardens to figure out, and it should be done soon.

Whole Family Victims of Robbers

Cairo, Nov. 15.—A Greek family, consisting of a man, his wife and little daughter, living in a village in the neighborhood of Alexandria, disappeared some days ago. It is suspected that all three have been killed.

A band of about thirty robbers, with a place of concealment on a large estate belonging to a khedivial prince in upper Egypt, recently began robbing the passers-by and sending menacing letters to wealthy persons. The authorities have arrested twenty-three of them, some of the culprits confessing their guilt and implicating others.

Man who Attempted to Kill F. J. Heney During the trial of Municipal Grafters

An Investigation is Being Made

Special to the Times.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Morris Haas, who on Friday attempted to assassinate F. J. Heney in the court room, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head with a pistol which he had concealed. Haas wore side garters of elastic, which made this possible. After he shot Mr. Heney he was searched twice. He went to bed Friday night with his shoes on. The opinion was night, and when asked why he did this he said he preferred to sleep with his shoes on. The opinion was expressed that the pistol was passed to him after he was taken into custody. His wife was at the jail yesterday and there are two stories told as to where the interview took place. One is that Mrs. Haas talked to him through the prison bars and the other is to the effect that they were permitted to go to another room. A rigid investigation is being made by the authorities as there is great excitement over the whole affair.

A monster mass meeting was held last night at which the Mayor presided. Speeches were made by several prominent citizens counselling moderation and observance of legal methods, asking that full support be given the prosecution in its conduct of the graft cases calmed by the assurance that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Heney, who was shot by Haas while in the performance of his duty, is expected to recover from the wound unless some unforseen conditions develop. public opinion to-day tended towards the formulation of concrete expressions of the determination of the trial of those indicted on charges of municipal corruption, in the prosecution of which Heney had been a dominate character. Several leading lawyers in the city have volunteered to take up Heney's work as a public duty. The trial of Abraham Ruef, which was interrupted on Friday by the dramatic shooting, will be resumed on Monday.

Twin Brothers Jailed for Fortieth Time

(Special to the Times.)

Paris, Nov. 14.—Twin brothers have been arrested and imprisoned for the fortieth time for vagabondage. The two men are 39 years of age, and they have never left one another since their earliest years. Neither of them has ever done more than two days' work at a time, and they have always taken care to be arrested simultaneously for the same offence.

Horrible Death at Sawing Bee

(Special to the Times.)

Chatham, Nov. 15.—Benson Stirling, aged 34 and married, met a horrible death while taking part in a sawing bee at Wm. Stevens' farm at Scotland yesterday. His coat came in contact with a revolving saw and his right arm was drawn in to the spinning circle and severed from the body. The saw made several nasty gashes in his hip and side. Mr. Stirling staggered around ten feet from the spot and collapsed and died. A widow and child survive.

Tag Day Netted Sum of $9,000

(Special to the Times.)

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The tag day girls on Saturday got $9,000. They wanted $25,000. There were 500 girls out canvassing, but it was expected that there would have been 1,500. A great many were discouraged from taking part by a lot of foolish women who said that it would not be right to sell tags for the Y. W. C. A.

On account of the rain, sleet and snow, and also insufficient canvassers, the ladies have been urged by scores of prominent business men to repeat the canvass next Saturday. It is likely this will be done. The average collection was $18, and the highest individual collection was $100.

Woman Beaten and Criminally Assaulted

About nine o'clock last night Mrs. R. Henson, of Kew Beach, was accosted by a man on Woodbine Avenue, slugged on the head and dragged across the road into a stable on the Woodbine grounds. There another man was waiting, and the two, muffling her face so her screams could not be heard, treated her in a most brutal manner, criminally assaulted her and robbed her of a sum of money and fled.

Staggering into the street, Mrs. Henson was picked up by some passers-by and carried into a nearby doctor's office.

Death or Insanity

NERVOUS, SLEEPLESS, WORN OUT.

Expected to Die or go Crazy With Nervousness.

"I could not sleep—I could not rest—was ready to cry on the least occasion—yet I was plump and fat. Can you imagine a more distressing condition than weakness of body and mind!" writes Mrs. Wamsley, of Halifax. "I lost myself in a sort of self pity because health seemed so shattered, and with the mental distress that grew with my bodily weakness I was a burden to myself and a great burden to my family.

"Though I sought and really needed help, I got very little, for I did not look so very sick, it was only my nerves that were sick, and anyone who has sick nerves knows too well how awful a sickness it is.

"Then the first Ferrozone strengthened my nerves, and it seemed to help them for I became stronger, more composed, slept more and grew more hopeful. When I had taken Ferrozone for about two months I lost that miserable sense of dread I never could tell what I was afraid of, but expected something dreadful was going to happen me. Ferrozone gave me the strength to throw aside all these fancies and made me well again."

Go at once to any druggist, get a few boxes of Ferrozone—start right on the road to health and vigor. Ferrozone will keep you there—will show you what it means to be healthy, vigorous, full of nerve energy. Once you're braced up and energized with Ferrozone you'll never again be content with ill-health.

All dealers sell Ferrozone, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

CANADA'S NATURAL WEALTH

Canadians have come of late to pride themselves upon and to boast of the great natural endowment which nature has bestowed upon this country. The glowing reports that come from Cobalt of our mineral resources, from the West of agricultural wealth and from other parts of our country of our vast wealth in other respects have perhaps caused us, as a people, to lose sight of the fact that there is in respect to timber a constant and rapid depreciation of our wealth.

The latest authentic statement regarding our timber resources was made by Dean Fernow of the Faculty of Forestry of the University of Toronto, who delivered an address at the Canadian Club in that city on Tuesday evening. "Canada is not, as the school geography says, rich in timber," said Dean Fernow, according to reports in the Toronto dailies. "Compared with its size or with the timber of the United States, it is rather poor, if by timber you mean trees that are thick and that may be cut into logs for lumber or otherwise shaped for use in the arts. Undoubtedly Canada is a woodland country; tree growth of some kind covers perhaps more than fifty per cent. of her territory; but if commercially valuable forest growth is considered, land covered with or capable of producing timber of sawmill size located in sufficient quantity and accessible for commercial exploitation, not ten per cent. will be found to be of that description."

The speaker illustrated his address by means of two maps, on which he pointed out there were but two real timber areas, one in the east and one in the west. Various conditions influenced the kinds of trees that would grow within these regions. "The fine British Columbia timber, of which the world has heard so much," he said, "occupies only about 9,000,000 acres. The region on the Pacific coast lies within an area of probably 75,000 square miles, and that on the Atlantic is within an area of 240,000 square miles south of the height of land, or altogether 200,000,000 acres. The actual area of commercial saw-timber is not known but probably does not exceed 80,000,000 acres in British Columbia with a "stand" which may be reasonably estimated at 300,000,000,000 feet. A like amount may possibly still be found in the east. This estimated "stand" of 600,000,000,000 feet represents not more than from fifteen to twenty years' requirements of coniferous material for the United States, although Great Britain's requirements would be met by this amount for about four times this length of time. A large amount of pulpwood remains, but much of it is not at all available under the present conditions of transportation and development. This is undoubtedly the most valuable portion of the eastern forests, and it is to be hoped that a wiser management than has been had in the disposing of the timber may be inaugurated. Forest fires that destroy the young growth of the trees and the underbrush of old forests mean doom to the timber. These fires are the disgrace of a nation that, despite the expenditure that is made, fails to cope with the danger. Ignorance is at the bottom of much of it. Carelessness that is morally criminal accounts for the rest. Every citizen should feel it his own interest and duty to bring about laws that will put an end to such fires."

Dean Fernow's address should have the effect of arousing Canadians to the true condition of affairs in this regard, for he has presented to his hearers in concise form indisputable facts. It is hoped that a strong public sentiment will endorse and back up the steps being taken and yet to be taken by the authorities to remedy this condition.

THE GEORGIAN BAY CANAL

There is much talk just now about the Georgian Bay Ship Canal, and, while it is not all favorable to the project, the interest that grand scheme arouses is certainly very general. In the Georgian Bay region one finds maps hung in public places upon which the route is marked out, and a little consideration of any good map of Ontario in connection with a few facts and figures will show as much as is expected of the undertaking.

From the upper part of the bay the canal would run by way of the French River, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa River to Montreal. As it is intended that the water way shall be 24 feet deep and that the locks shall be 600 feet long by 65 feet wide, great lake freighters could be accommodated. Not only are these boats barred at present, but the canal would mean a great saving of time and expense. It is less by nearly 700 miles than the present Canadian route. Comparing the carriage from Lake Superior ports to Montreal by the new route with that by way of the Erie Canal to New York, there is a difference of more than 400 miles in favor of the former, and on a shipment from Duluth or Chicago to Liverpool there would be a total saving of about 800 miles.

It will be seen, therefore, that the improvement might have a marked effect upon the commerce of this country, and naturally it should appeal both to the pride and to the business instincts of the Canadians. The people, however, are inclined to count the cost of great public works, and the estimates on the canal run close to $100,000,000. People who distrusted the Liberal government and who accused it of graft and extravagance discussed all its great plans for internal improvements with pronounced cynicism before the elections, and are doing so yet. They would balk at one hundred million of fifty million. They would have with them every private interest that might be injuriously affected by a new and dangerous competition. But the Liberals won the elections, and the premier hopes that the work may be undertaken when the transcontinental railway is completed. It is among the possibilities, though it is likely to arouse a very determined opposition.

SOCIALISM

Just as they polled more votes in the Presidential election of 1904 than they polled in 1900, so the Socialists of the United States in the contest that has just passed polled more than in 1904. "A million for Debs!" was the cry, and now the people of the United States are invited to ponder the fact that the Socialists of the country can cast from a million to a million and a half of votes. That is to say, there are in the United States a million or a million and a half of men, most of them young and able-bodied, most of them better read and better endowed mentally than the average man, who are waiting and working for the time when the present system of government can Debs installed in lieu stead. Still far in the minority, the Socialists are growing faster than any other political party, and if they will not soon be able to elect a President of their own, they are already numerous enough to be treated with respect by the old line politician, and to make deals and coalitions with either of the old parties, just as in England the Socialist-Labor party was strong enough to dictate important pieces of legislation to the Liberal Government.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

WITCHCRAFT IN 1908.

Superstition Still Remains In Some Parts of Rural England.

That the belief in witches and witchcraft is not yet dead in parts of rural England was made strikingly plain the other day by the hearing of an assault case in Essex.

Curiously enough, that county has long share with Norfolk and Cambridge the doubtful distinction of being the principal home of this weird superstition.

In the latter shire, the "witch's bottle" is still made by the village blacksmith. It is really a hollow iron bomb, hermetically sealed and filled with water instead of gunpowder or dynamite.

Its effect, however, when placed in a fire, is much the same; for the heat converts the water into steam, which, finding no outlet, presently rends in pieces its metal envelope with explosive violence. The fragments are, of course, scattered in all directions, though more in some than in others, and, wherever they are most numerous, there or thereabouts live the witch.

It was a Cambridgeshire farmer, too, that, a little while back, earned for himself a sentence of three months' imprisonment by administering to a horse that had the glanders—but which, he believed, to have been bewitched—a "witch's potion," the principal ingredients of which appear to have been iron nails and bent pins.

Suspected persons have even been put to death in England for alleged witchcraft within comparatively recent years. At Castle Hedingham, Essex, for instance, in 1863, a poor old paralyzed Frenchman was drowned as a wizard by a mob of villagers.

But by far the worst case of the kind happened in Ireland, where, so recently as 1826, a young married woman named Bridget Cleary was burnt alive by a crowd of credulous peasants. She had been accused of witchcraft by her husband, who stood by at her "execution," a consenting party. He got twenty years' penal servitude, and five others of those implicated also went to gaol for lengthy periods.

Great Britain's Finest Shot.

Lord Walsingham, who has just celebrated his 66th birthday, has the reputation of being the finest shot in Great Britain. He holds the record, amongst many others, for the largest individual bag of grouse in a single day—421 brace to his own gun or guns. He is also an enthusiastic entomologist, as well as sportsman and agriculturist. His collection of moths and butterflies is the finest in the world. A large part of it is in the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, and it is a curious and little-known fact that ladies' fashions are directly indebted to Lord Walsingham and his collection. Dressmakers and designers of court gowns often go to the drawers and cases of butterflies and moths to study new combinations and contrasts in color. How many people, by the way, are aware of the curious fact that Merton Hall, Lord Walsingham's place near Thetford, Norfolk, is supposed to have been the scene of the immortal story of "The Babes in the Wood"? The wood where they laid down and died is—they say—still haunted by their ghosts. Anyhow, it is a fact that for many years a stuffed robin was given to every visitor to Merton in memory of the episode, legend or tradition.

Lucky Tenants.

How people lived in Hornsey premises for years without paying rent, and sublet at ordinary rates to other people, was described at Clerkenwell, Eng., when the judge dealt with claims against several residents in Turnpike Lane for possession of premises and mesne profits. One tenant, a wardrobe dealer, who was asked, "How long since you paid any rent?" replied, "Three and a half years." Another tenant, a blacksmith, who admitted not having paid any rent for several years, said no one had made any application to him for it. He was receiving 10s. per week from a barber and 8s. 6d. per week from other tenants. The solicitor remarking that a third tenant had been there over four years without paying rent, the latter retorted, "I expect you would do the same." In making orders for plaintiff, his honor remarked, "I am very sorry I have to awaken you all from this sweet dream, but this period of no-rent happiness must come to an end."

Cost of Grouse Shooting.

The large prices that are being paid this year in England for moors promise to make the luxury of grouse-shooting most costly than usual—and at its lowest it is sufficiently expensive. According to Mr. Teasdale-Buckell, £1 is a fair average cost of a brace of grouse; although the cost may, in a bad year, run as high as five times this sum. To illustrate the range of coolness, Mr. Buckell says that he has known £20 paid for [illegible] acres in Yorkshire, the last 150 brace, which took four guns a month to get; while £150 has secured a moor of 2,000 acres, on which 100 brace could easily have been killed by one good gun in a day. It is interesting to note that grouse-driving in the North of England is much cheaper than grouse-shooting north of the Tweed. In Yorkshire and Durham 10s. a brace is near the mark—roughly, half the cost of birds in Scotland—and 7s. 6d. a brace is by no means uncommon.

Veterans In the Commons.

Mr. Samuel Young, the Irish Nationalist member for East Cavan, who recently made the proud boast that he was the oldest man in the House of Commons, was born in 1823, and has accordingly entered on his eighty-seventh year. He is not, however, the only octogenarian in that assembly. Sir Francis Powell, Bart., the Unionist member for Wigan, was born in 1827, and Sir Robert Puller, the Liberal member for Perth, was born in 1828, and entered Parliament for the first time last year, at the age of seventy-nine, thereby, it is believed, breaking the record in Parliamentary annals.

IN A ROBBERS' DEN.

Sir William Magney Tells of Adventure on the Continent.

In the course of a more or less adventurous tour on the continent in the early 'seventies, which has given color to several of his novels, Sir William Magnay, whose popular story, "The Heiress of the Season," forms the latest addition to the Newnes' Sixpenny Famous Novel Series, met with several thrilling experiences. Once on a stormy evening he had taken shelter in the ruins of a mediaeval castle in the Abruzzi, and on presently groping his way out, preparatory to returning to his hotel in the town some few miles distant, he suddenly heard voices in the darkness. Then a match was struck and applied to a lantern, by the light of which he saw four of the most villainous-looking fellows he ever set eyes on. That they were robbers was apparent from their next proceeding, which was to produce and divide a quantity of jewelry, watches, and cash. The watcher's retreat was effectually cut off; to have betrayed his presence would have meant his almost certain murder. Presently a quarrel arose over the spoil, ending in a fight in which one of the men was stabbed, apparently to death. This happily caused the robbers to hurry their departure, and so released their unsuspected observer from his unpleasant situation. On his arrival at the town he gave information of what had happened, but when the police made a tardy visit to the spot the dead or wounded man was not to be seen. Only the bloodstains were left to corroborate his story.

Lady Channel-Swimmers.

Among the swimmers who will probably attempt to cross the Channel before the end of the year are two ladies, both of whom have placed some remarkable swimming feats to their credit. One of them is Mlle. Marthe Robert, a girl of twenty, who holds all the Swiss records for long and short distances; the other is Miss Lily Smith, the 18-year-old captain of the Tottenham Ladies' Swimming Club, who has just performed the remarkable feat of covering twenty miles in the sea in seven hours. Three years ago Miss Annette Kellerman, in on attempt to cross the Channel, covered more than twelve miles in six hours. Such performances as these are very remarkable; but it is doubtful whether any woman will ever develop the strength and stamina to perform a feat which only one man has yet accomplished.

Cousin of King of Italy in Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Marquis de Longaldo Pastoris, a cousin of the present King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, is at present in Canada on an important mission for the Italian Government, namely, the acquisition of a large tract of land in the West for the purpose of establishing a colony of Italians. The Marquis, who is attended by a secretary, left yesterday for Vancouver, which city he intends to make his headquarters during his enquiries and tours of inspection over the country. He will remain in British Columbia for some time, looking over the land, and will endeavour to reach some agreement with the Government regarding the purchase of a section of the country suitable for his purpose.

With regard to the contemplated colony, it is understood that colonists of the better agricultural and industrial classes will be sent out.

HORSES FOR THE FARM.

There are several types of horses that are excellent types for farm use. We are not going to undertake to say which is the very best type because we don't know, says a writer in Farmers Advocate. If some one else thinks he knows we have no quarrel with him. With some the so called general purpose horse is the favorite farm horse, while others reject this type with scorn. There is no agreement as to what is the general purpose horse.

The writer is familiar with a certain community in Illinois where the French coach horse is bred and sold by farmers. Horse buyers go there from Chicago and other cities to buy these horses for the city markets as carriage horses. We know of a gelding from this community which was a first prize winner at the New York horse show. This fellow had been sold for $3,000 to go to New York. The farmers in that community have a right to be proud of their coach horses. And you couldn't convince them that the French coach horses are not general purpose horses. They are used for all farm purposes and fall in none. They weigh from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds. They are heavy enough to pull the plow in the field or a load of hay or grain to town. And, when it comes to hitching to the buggy or carriage to drive to town on any day of the week, surely no better horse can be found. Moreover, these horses are usually docile and breed unusually true to type. Who can dispute their title to being classed as general purpose horses? But that is far from saying that they are the best general purpose horses or the best farm horses. We have no quarrel with the man who is partial to them.

As for heavier horses, the Belgian, we are glad to say, is becoming increasingly common in this country. He is the extreme type of draft horse. He cannot be called a general purpose horse. There are some things he cannot do to the best advantage, but for the purposes to which he is adapted he is a very valuable horse. Even in draft horses there are several types. The Percheron is the most popular draft horse in this country, and he deserves about all that can be said in his favor. He is not quite so upstanding, has not always quite so impressive a "way of going" as the best Shires have. Neither, on the other hand, is he so massive, so wide, so close to the ground, not always so strongly muscled as the Belgian, but the Percheron is, of course, a true draft horse and deserves all his popularity and more. The Shires are attracting more and more attention at our great fairs and live stock shows, and their popularity is certain to increase.

It pays to raise the draft horse on the farm. But every man to his trade. Some men can handle one kind of horse and some another kind. Much depends on the kind of horse one has been trained to handle, and much depends also on one's taste in horseflesh. If you don't like the heavy horse, let him alone.

"Did I? Did I?" Dallas stammered out her reason: "Well—well, that was because—because I thought you was going to say it was a soldier." She laughed nervously. "But it was Mr. Lounsbury you meant, honey, wasn't it?"

The suspicion that had troubled the mind of the younger girl was allayed. "Why, Dallas, how could you think such a thing about me! Like a soldier? My, no! It was Mr. Lounsbury—but he don't like me."

She got up and went to the foot of her father's bunk. When she reappeared she was carrying the soap box that held her belongings. On the robe once more, she took out and held up to the light of the fire two books and a strip of beaded cloth.

The elder left the window and stood beside her.

"These are what he gave me," went on Marylyn, putting forward the books. "And this"—she showed the bead work—"he asked me to make for him. But today," mournfully, "he didn't even speak of it."

Dallas leaned down and touched her lips to the other's hair. "Baby sister, what did you expect him to do? Hold up a man with one hand and—and reach out for a present with the other?"

Marylyn put away the box. "Anyway he don't like me."

"Like you? Why, he couldn't help it. There isn't a sweeter, prettier girl on the prairie than my little housekeeper."

"He called me the prairie princess," declared Marylyn, but with lingering doubt.

"Now, that shows," said the elder girl. "Don't you worry another second. When he comes again you'll see."

So Dallas soothed and comforted her until she fell asleep, when she lifted her to her father's bed and covered her carefully. Then she drew aside a swinging blanket to let the firelight shine through—and saw that there were still tears on her sister's face.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE medicine lodge of the Indians stood just within the sliding panel of the stockade. Thirty poles, their tops lashed together so as to leave a smoke hole, their bases spread to form a generous circle, supported a covering of tanned buffalo hides seamed with buckskin thongs. Here, barely an hour after Matthews' arrival at Fort Brannon, Squaw Charley entered hastily and thrust some red coals under a stick pile at the center of the lodge. And at once, by the flickering light of his fire, the warriors of the band entered the low entrance and seated themselves in a semicircle.

When Colonel Cummings learned that an interpreter had been found he promptly ordered the completion of preparations for the Jamieson expedition and the calling of a council, unsatisfactory but necessary. The redskins jailed in the stockade must know both the object of the trip and his terms, so that they, realizing their peril, would reveal the whereabouts of the winter camp of the hostiles.

His interview with Matthews threatened a change in his plans. The latter, having listened to the story of the captured women and to the scheme for their rescue, astonished the commanding officer by declining absolutely to take the proposed journey.

"I'd like t' be obligin'," he said, "but I can't go. I didn't know there was goin' t' be any travelin'. There's business that'll keep me here."

"Why, man," cried the colonel, "I've made you a good offer!"

"I ain't a-sayin' y' didn't," was the curt answer.

Colonel Cummings knew to what "business" he referred, but realized that a discussion of it would not aid in bringing the desired consent. He pretended to guess at reasons for the refusal.

"There's scarcely a possibility of trouble during the journey," he said. "Indians don't like to fight in the snow, especially when their families are with them and their war ponies are feeding on cottonwood bark. Besides, their head chief will be sharp enough to see that he'll have to treat and not fight if he wants to save the necks of his favorites. Then, as far as the safety and comfort of my men are concerned, everything is being done. Better reconsider, Matthews."

"Can't do it."

Colonel Cummings left his library, where he had been talking, and sought Lounsbury's advice. The two held a short whispered conversation in the entry.

"Let me have a few words with him," said the storekeeper. Matthews' balking was not altogether a surprise. Nevertheless it was a keen disappointment. He had hoped to be able to send Squaw Charley across the river soon with good news. "Let me see him. Maybe I can bring him around."

They entered the library.

"Matthews," began Lounsbury, "you might as well go along. If you stay you can't get a hold o' that claim." He looked at the colonel's clock. "It's midnight. Your six months are up. If you did have a chance it's gone. Possession 's nine points in law, and Lancaster 's up at Bismarck nailing the tenth."

If the storekeeper's blunt assertions were of any particular interest to the other he failed to show it. He occupied himself with finding a cigar, cutting it carefully and lighting it at the stove. Then he turned about to Colonel Cummings, his glance as it traveled utterly ignoring Lounsbury.

"Not to mention the risks you run with the boys," added the storekeeper easily, amused by the play of indifference.

"Oh, I guess Shanty Town can take keer of itself," observed Matthews, sending up smoke rings.

Lounsbury walked out.

There was but one thing left for Colonel Cummings to do: Ask this man to interpret in the medicine lodge, that at least the Indians might learn their position. Knowing it, they might be prevailed upon to select one of their own number to accompany the expedition and repeat the terms. The commanding officer, rather provoked at Lounsbury, who, he thought, had harmed and not helped his cause, immediately suggested this course to Matthews.

"I can parleyvoo for you there, all right," agreed Matthews patronizingly. "But how you goin'?"

"You and I alone."

Matthews stared. "Carry any guns?" he asked.

"Not when I go into the stockade. The Indians are without weapons. And I like to show them that I trust them."

The other laughed. "You go t' tell some redskins that they 'a goin' t' be strung up and y' don't take no gun. Well, not for me, colonel!"

"Then we'll have a guard."

Lindsay Man Talks of Gatling Gun Inventor

(Lindsay Free Press.)

It will be news to most Lindsay citizens to learn that there is a gentleman in this town, who was more or less connected with the now famous Gatling gun invention. Mr. L. H. Terrill, however, claims this distinction. He knew Mr. John Gatlin, the inventor of the Gatling gun, when the inventor was living near Marmora, Ontario. Gatling at that time was very poor and he and his wife often were without the real necessities of life, says Mr. Terrill. This was about years ago, when Mr. Terrill was a young man. He was quite intimate with Gatling, who then lived a little southeast and within [illegible] about four miles east of Marmora, where the famous Gatling mines are now located.

STRUGGLE AGAINST POVERTY.

Mr. Terrill tells an interesting story of the struggle against poverty and discouragement made by Mr. Gatling. Gatling had great faith in his gun but had to come through great privations before he was able to complete the invention.

OTTAWA LAUGHS.

At last a perfect working model was secured and Mr. Gatlin journeyed to Ottawa with his invention. At Ottawa, however, the Government simply laughed at him, and he came back heartbroken and completely discouraged. "I was one of his special friends at that time," said Mr. Terrill to the Free Press, "and I know that he was completely disheartened and on the verge of a breakdown."

BOUGHT BY YANKEES.

Just about this time an American firm heard of the new gun and became interested. They sent representatives across to Marmora to see the invention and they saw its strong points at once. Mr. Terrill was one of the friends who assisted Gatlin in coming to a satisfactory bargain with the purchasers.

KEPT FROM THE BRITISH NATION.

The American firm dealt quite generously with Gatlin in the way of money, and he on his part put few conditions of sale before them. One thing, however, he insisted on, and that was, that no British nation should ever be sold any of the guns. Mr. Gatling felt that his own country had used him so badly that he was justified in keeping his invention from their use.

USED IN THE NORTHWEST REBELLION.

As a result of this Canada had to pay $33,000 for a few hours' use of the Gatling gun in the Northwest some years ago. When this gun was being returned Mr. Terrill saw it at Peterborough and had the pleasure of operating it, much to the surprise, he says, of the officer in charge, who acknowledged that he did not know as much about the gun as Mr. Terrill did.

GATLIN WENT TO THE U. S.

Gatling, after disposing of his invention, moved across to the United States. He studied medicine and became a doctor and a very successful one at that. He wrote many times trying to induce his friend to join him, but Mr. Terrill always found something in the way. Gatling died in very comfortable circumstances some years ago.

William R. Hardy of Hamilton local manager of the F. W. Bird & Sons Co., died suddenly.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn boys prowler back to flesh again. That is impossible! But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with any pain. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Col. Merritt's Retirement

Col. Merritt's retirement as commanding officer of the Governor-General's Body Guard marks the withdrawal from activity in local military circles of a very popular and widely known officer. It is doubtful if ever any Canadian officer received so signal a mark of confidence from the British War Office as was bestowed on Col. Merritt in the course of the Boer War. He was invited to raise a troop of Canadians, to be known as the Canadian Rangers, and to choose the officers himself, the British Government to foot the bill and otherwise stand sponsor for the ability of Col. Merritt in choosing and handling men. Unfortunately some politicians at Ottawa objected to the arrangement, and Col. Merritt was not given permission to recruit his regiment until the Government had made its own selection of officers. Then the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles were raised and went to the front to be in time for one of the most important engagements of the war—the fight at Hart's River.

It spoke well of Col. Merritt's patriotism that, when the Canadian Government gave to another the command of the regiment which he had been instrumental in raising, he consented to go with it as second in command, and to work with the utmost enthusiasm in doing it for active service. Unfortunately, an accident, soon after arriving in South Africa, kept Col. Merritt out of active service, for he had previously been in service, for as soon as war broke out he had gone to the front, and had been appointed squadron commander in a regiment of Lumsden's Horse, Later on he was made second in command of the same regiment, and was subsequently aide-de-camp to Gen. Graham, and to his successors, Cols. Dagely and Cumins. With Graham Col. Merritt took part in more than a dozen engagements in Cape Colony, the Orange Free State, the Transvaal, and the chase after the Boers. For these services he received the Queen's medal with four clasps.

IN THE NORTH-WEST.

Long before the Boer War Col. Merritt had been on active service, for in the North-West Rebellion of 1885 he was acting adjutant of the Body Guard. In this campaign he distinguished himself by capturing the Sioux chief Whitecap. He has entered the Body Guard only the year before as corporal and held the rank of lieutenant when Riel took to the warpath. Ever since he has been with the regiment, rising, one after another, every rank of grade, and having been for four years commanding officer. Although these activities in times like the present, constitute a military career to be proud of, Col. Merritt will be better known to the military men of the next generation for his enthusiastic advocacy of the Swiss military system for Canada. No officer in the Dominion, regular or volunteer, is better posted than Col. Merritt on the military systems of other countries, and the military needs of our own. It seems in the highest degree probable that Canada will yet adopt the Swiss method in whole or in part, and in that way Colonel Merritt's eloquent advocacy will not be forgotten.

CANADA'S FIRST CAVALRY.

The change in the Body Guard calls attention to the very respectable antiquity of this organization. It is almost a hundred years old, for it was in 1812 that Capt. Button received a commission from Gen. Sir Isaac Brock to raise a troop of cavalry. It was the first body of cavalry to be raised in Canada, and still survives as "D" squadron of the Body Guard. It is curious to note that the first engagement in which members of the new corps took part was an operation with the Niagara Dragoons, under Major Thomas Merritt. This was the attack on Detroit in 1812. After the war, the troop was disbanded, and Capt. Button was gazetted major of the 34th; but in 1837 Capt. Francis Button raised a troop and brought it down to Toronto to help suppress the Mackenzie rising. Many of his men were clad in the same old uniforms they had worn twenty-five years earlier. On arriving in this city, the troop was joined to the Denison troop. It is worth noting that one of the troopers in 1837 was Lt.-Col. W. M. Button, who died in his 93rd year at Locust Hill last January.

THE DENISON TROOP.

"A" Squadron of the Body Guard was raised in 1813 by Capt. George T. Denison, of Toronto. Until the Rebellion of 1837 the troop provided its own uniform and drilled without arms. When Mackenzie graduated from the class of nuisance into that of peril, the Government armed the Denison troop, and under the name of the "Queen's Light Dragoons" it took the field. After the storm had passed, the Government called in the arms, whereupon the gallant officers, at their own expense, provided swords for themselves, and these remained their only protection until 1855. Arms and ammunition are now provided by the Government. This squadron has been known also as the "First Toronto Independent Troop of Cavalry," and the "First York Light Dragoons." It was in 1866 that the name of Governor-General's Body Guard was finally fastened on it.

A STRONG MOUNTED FORCE.

"C" Squadron was formed in 1852 by Lieut.-Col. Norman T. McLeod, and had the honor of serving with the Denison troop in escort duty to the Prince of Wales on his visit to Canada in 1860. It was recruited in the neighborhood of the Oak Ridges and Markham. "C" Squadron was the last unit to be added to the Body Guard. The present strength of the regiment is 527 officers and men. It has been fortunate in attracting such military enthusiasts as the Merritts and the Denisons, whose names are to be found associated with the history of the squadron from its beginning down to the present time.

Population of Peterboro County Increased 1,127

The annual report of the Bureau of Industries for the Province of Ontario for the year 1907 has just been issued, giving the municipal statistics of all the counties. Those referring to Peterboro' contain a few facts that may be of interest to readers who like to know things.

The total population of the county for 1907 is given as 56,708, an increase of 1,127 over the preceding year. The Total assessed values is quoted at $15,691,771.00 and is $493,877.00 greater than in 1906. The total of taxes imposed for all purposes including schools is for 1907, $252,856, which is 16,859 more than in 1906.

The township of Otonabee-South is recorded as having in 1907 a population of 2,800, thereby leading all others. Smith is next with 2,600. Otonabee's total assessment was $2,012,985.00, and Smith, $1,587,840.00, the former paid taxes amounting to $21,101.00. The townships do not include the city of Peterborough nor the villages of Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the most critical scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Bancroft Marble Famous

Bancroft Times: Speaking at the Masonic banquet at the Queen's hotel on Wednesday evening of last week, Mr. J. W. Stuart, of Belleville, who, by the way, says that if Mary Stuart had not been beheaded he might now be King of England, paid a high tribute to the quality of the marble to be found in the quarries owned by Messrs. Riddell and Morrison, south of this village. He claimed that it was equal to the best Italian marble and as this was required was money to open it up, both the quantity and quality are there. Mr. Stuart was one of a party of Belleville gentlemen who inspected the quarry this summer, and so pleased was he with what he saw that he asked and received permission from the Minister of Militia to have two men less made from Bancroft marble placed in the new drill shed at Belleville, for the building of which he has the contract from the Government. The slabs are now being prepared by The James Robertson Co., of Toronto, and will be placed in position in about a month.

Three Hundred Dollars for the Children's Aid

As a result of the visit of the Sheffield choir to Peterborough the very tidy sum of $316 34 has been handed to the Children's Aid Society for the benefit of its work. The treasurer of the society has given out a financial statement, which will be of much interest. To the committee which undertook to bring the choir here at such a great expense is entitled a great deal of credit, and that they met with such success speaks well for their good management, and of the musical taste of the local people. The financial statement is as follows—

Visit of Sheffield Choir

Ald. Bradburn stated to the committee of the whole council last night that recently the city had been honored by a visit of the Sheffield Choir, and in his opinion the council might pass the following resolution in acknowledgement of the visit—

Moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Johnston, That this Council of the City of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, take this the earliest opportunity, to emphatically express on behalf of the citizens, its appreciation of the honor from the great choir of the Sheffield Musical Union, which presented a musical programme of the highest possible character of excellence, aroused a new interest in, and created a new conception of the possibilities of concerted music, gave a new impetus to musical culture, and at the same time, by personal contact and intercourse, strengthened the bonds of loyal devotion and attachment to the centre of the Empire of which it is our pride as well as privilege to form a part.

Citizens are Encroaching Upon City Property

Ald. Bradburn, as Chairman of the Property Committee, stated to the committee of the whole council that the city owned parts of two lots near the septic tank in the fifth Ward, and all of lot 23, according to the original plans of the village. The lots are now being used by parties, and he suggested that the city fence the lots in or take some steps to protect the city from the parties taking the property by right of possession. The lots are 100 and 101, and are being used for garden purposes. The matter was left in the hands of the Property Committee to look after.

While the above was under discussion the notice of the council was also drawn to the fact that in many parts of the city the people had encroached upon the streets. On charlotte street dwellings are over the street line. On George street for a whole block it was stated that the buildings were four or five feet over the street line. In other sections the citizens have also made use of the streets.

As it requires only sixty years possession to entitle a party to the ownership of property, and as some of the buildings referred to have been erected for over half that time, the Property Committee was instructed to go into the whole question. It is therefore likely that not a few persons will shortly receive a letter from the City Solicitor.

Her Skin was Blotchy

Scaley like pimples covered her face and ruined complexion.

A SPEEDY CURE.

"When my skin had always been so clear and ruddy, I found it very mortifying to see pasty and pimply patches coming over my face," writes Mrs. S. T. Ungerer, a well-known resident of Wheeling. "Great red blotches came on my chin, grew dry and scaled off. I think my stomach was at fault. Certainly my blood was poor because my lips were white and I had unpleasant fullness and ringing in the ears.

"Noticing in the papers such strong recommendations for Ferrozone as a blood and strengthening medicine, I decided to use. From the first tablet I took there was an improvement. I felt better and had such a good appetite, improved in color and the old rosy flush slowly returned to my cheeks. Finally the blotches began to leave and he skin grew soft and smooth. I have gained some in weight, look the picture of health and feel as if I had never been ill."

There is no nourishing tonic so sure to build up and strengthen as Ferrozone. It contains concentrated vegetable extracts that supply every weak nerved system with the element it lacks. Health, vigor, happiness—these are the direct results of using Ferrozone regularly.

Charity Board Winter Season Opened

The winter season for the Charity Board has opened, and the first semi-monthly meeting was held last night when Relief Agent Miller made his report of the several persons who had been assisted. One case of particular interest is that of a woman whose children are suffering from typhoid fever. First one of the older daughters acted as nurse. Now she has been taken down, and the family is in a bad way, as the lady herself has to go out to work in order to support her family. It was suggested that a nurse be sent to the woman's home, but the Board decided to leave the matter in hte lands of the Relief Officer.

WINTER'S BOARD.

The Mayor received and read a letter from Mr. W A. Anderson, offering to sell the Charity Board 100 cords of first-class cordwood at $3.50 per cord. The board got the wood last year from Mr. Anderson at $3.30 per cord and it proved to be very satisfactory. The price quoted this year is a little higher, but it is doubtful if the board will be able to get wood any cheaper this year. However, the Mayor and Ald Buller will look around and see if they can get wood any cheaper.

HORSE WANTED.

Relief Agentt Miller took the opportunity of notifying hte several aldermen present that all summer he has been unable to secure the use of the city teams, as had been hte custom previously. The cost the past month for teaming hardwood

ROGERS' WATER FRONT CLAIM IS SETTLED

Special Meeting of Committee of the Whole Council Cleared the Matter Up--House of Providence Wants City Aid

A special session of the committee of the whole council was held last night, when considerable business was put through, the most important probably being the final settlement of the claim Mr Rogers, of the Peterborough Canoe Co. had against the city for damages to his property caused by the city filling in that low land on the west side of the river between the Hunter street bridge and the C P R railway bridge. It will be remembered that Mr Rogers was entitled to water front privileges, and by filling in the city's land it stopped the flow of water past his premises. He therefore put in a demand for a large pipe to be put through the city property from the C P R. north trestle south to the property, so that the water might continue to flow. The estimated cost of this was $1,200, to be borne by the city, the C P R. and the Peterborough Cereal Co. These three interested parties agreed upon the sums they were to pay, and decided to offer Mr. Rogers the cash instead of putting in the drain. The matter has been hanging fire for two years and has now finally been settled.

Mr. R E. Wood was present, and on him was asked to state what he desired of the council. He said that there was one point in connection with settling the water front matter with Mr. Rogers, viz., the fencing in the embankment. It was proposed to pay Mr. Rogers the money in cash what it would cost to fence the ground with and $150 extra for damages. This Mr. Rogers agreed to. But since that has been done in reference to filling in the embankment. To-day the earth from the Government excavation could be used. Mr. Rogers will look after the earth after it is placed there. Then if there is not enough earth from the government work the city is to fill up the rest. The filling desired is between the C.P.R. tracks and the neck of land thrown up by the government works a few feet east of the railway.

The aldermen stated that this was the first time they had heard of this proposition and did not understand it. It was understood that when the city paid Mr. Rogers $1,600 and $150 as damages that would clear them of all further expense.

Mr. Wood explained that it would cost the city nothing. All that was wanted was for the city to ask the government to fill in that land after the city's own land had been all filled up. This met with the favor of the aldermen, and a motion was passed to the effect that the city ask the government to do as Mr. Rogers requests.

It was moved by Ald McIntyre and Elliott that the city now carry out the settlement with Mr. Rogers for $1,750.—Carried.

The city will pay $875. The C P R will contribute $525, and the Peterborough Cereal Co $350. The arrangement is very satisfactory to all parties concerned, and to have the thing got rid of is a big thing and a great relief to the aldermen. When a release is given by Mr. Rogers the city treasurer has been authorized to issue a cheque.

WANT A GRANT.

The Mayor read a letter from the House of Providence asking that the city make a grant to them. They are now caring for a large number of the poor of the city, for whom they receive no recompense. In other cities it is customary for the council to make substantial grants to such institutions, and they hoped that this would meet with a favorable consideration.

The House of Providence is now caring for fourteen adults and five children, and from the city of Peterborough. The city pays $1.50 per week per inmate for inmates from the city in the Protestant Home, and the House of Providence thought they should receive a similar consideration. As far as the water rates are concerned the council could not interfere with it.

Ald. Johnston, in expressing his views, stated that the Charity Board should be given charge of the whole thing, and that any sent to the House of Providence be paid for the same as those that go to the Protestant Home.

Moved by Ald Buller and McIntyre, that Ald. Phelan, Bradburn, Morgan and McIntyre, with the Mayor, be a committee to wait upon Rev. Father McColl as to how much they would wish from the city up to the present date, and to report back to the council.—Carried.

Buffalo Merchant's Wife Ran Away

(Special to the Times)

Hamilton, Nov. 16.—B. L. Phillip, a retired merchant of Buffalo, is in the city looking for his runaway wife. Phillip lives at 450 South West Avenue, Buffalo, and he reported to the local police that his wife had left him and he suspected that she had run away with a former lover. Mr. Phillip admitted to the police that it was through the influence of her parents that he had been able to marry her, he being considered enough to be her father. She once told him that she would have married Jas. Connell, a young merchant in Buffalo.

"All the Comforts of Home."

The date of the third production of "All the Comforts of Home," has been set for next Friday night, the 20th inst., and those who had not the privilege of hearing it last week may see it then. All who witnessed this performance pronounced it by far the best amateur production ever given here, which is saying a great deal, and many spoke of it as being infinitely superior to the majority of the professional attractions who come on a par with the best. The play in itself is one of the clever sort, funniest and most interesting ever written, and all the members of the caste are artists and fit their parts to a nicety.

Liquor Law Being Enforced

(Special to the Times)

Orillia, Nov. 16.—N. B. Irish, proprietor of the Simcoe House, was fined $20 and costs for allowing liquor to be kept on his premises. He had cider which contained more than 4 per cent. alcohol. John Butterfield, of the Victoria House, for a similar offence was fined $10 and costs, and Charles Harring, at Wasage, was fined $100 and costs for supplying liquer to an Indian who was afterwards drowned.

New President of Royal Bank

(Special to the Times)

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Mr. H S Holt was to-day elected President of the Royal Bank of Canada. It was decided also that owing to the brilliant service as manager, and later as general manager, that the vice-president should be Mr. E. C. Pease. This won the unanimous approval of the board.

Upward Start

After Changing from Tea and Coffee to Postum

Many a talented person is kept back because of the interference of tea and coffee with the nourishment of the body.

This is especially so with those whose nerves are very sensitive, as is often the case with talented persons. There is a simple, easy way to get rid of tea and coffee evils and a Penn. lady's experience along these lines is worth considering. She says:

"Almost from the beginning of the use of coffee it hurt my stomach. By the time I was fifteen I was almost a nervous wreck, nerves all unstrung, no strength to endure the most trivial thing either work or fun.

"There was scarcely anything I could eat that would agree with me. The little I did eat seemed to give me more trouble than it was worth. I finally quit coffee and drank hot water, but there was so little food I could digest, I was literally starving; was so weak I could not sit up long at a time.

"It was then a friend brought me a hot cup of Postum. I drank part of it and after an hour I felt as though I had had something to eat—felt strengthened. That was about five years ago and, after continuing Postum in place of coffee and gradually getting stronger, to-day I can eat and digest anything I want, walk as much as I want. My nerves are steady.

"I believe the first thing that did me any good and gave me an upward start, was Postum, and I use it altogether now instead of coffee." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Court Clerk Killed and Judge Seriously Wounded

(Special to the Times)

Leipsig, Germany, Nov 16.—A defeated litigant in the supreme tribunal here to-day drew a revolver and opened fire on Herr Maenner, the presiding Judge, and the court clerk. The clerk was shot dead and the Judge was dangerously wounded. The assassin, known as Grasser, succeeded in firing ten shots before he was overpowered. He was the plaintiff in a suit contesting the validity of a will, and the decision of Judge Maenner was for the defendant.

Financial Statement

City Treasurer F. Adams presented a financial statement to the Council last night up to October 31, 1908. The total appropriations for the year were $163,795 95, and the total expenditure to date were $141,281.20. The estimates for the year were $20,613.00, while the actual receipts to Oct. 31st have been $17,777 06. The details of the statement will appear in to-morrow's issue.

Two Women Fighting Over Estate of G. Warnock

Special to the Times.

Brockville, Nov. 16.—One of the most [illegible] which opened here this afternoon, and the one creating the most interest is the disputed [illegible] tlement of James Gibson Warnock, the former well known hermogen of Ottawa, who died here on Jan. 11th last. It is being contested by his first wife, Annie Warnock, and the executors are being called upon to establish the document signed on woman claims was made by the deceased after undue influence had been brought to bear upon him by his second wife, Mrs. Eva Warnock and her relatives. It is also alleged that the deceased was incapable of making the will which bears the date of Jan. 11th, the day of his death.

James Gibson Warnock had a checkered career. Up to September, 1907, he lived and carried on business in Ottawa, and lived there with wife number one, by whom he had four daughters. He became interested with a girl in the city named McCallum, and finally parted with his first wife, who received $2,000 and her four children. Warnock claimed that he never was married to her, although on one occasion he produced a certificate to that effect. Miss Annie Wilson had been engaged and married in Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1891.

At the trial his drinking habits were called into question, and the nurse who attended him during his last illness testified that he had been on alcoholic patient, which brought on palsy, which caused his death. The solicitor who drew the will says that the testator was of sound mind. He provided that $5,000 should go to each of his four daughters by his first wife, and the remainder of the estate, which amounted to some $ 9,000, was to go to his wife number two, Mrs. Eva Warnock. Both the wives also gave testimony.

The witnesses will be examined to-morrow morning, when court resumes, when it is understood the genuineness of the marriage certificate will be vigorously contested by counsel for Mrs. Eva Warnock.

'Shiny' Fat Folks

One of the fat woman's chief greets in her is an oily, greasy skin. If it be pimply besides, as it probably is, or may be, her cup of anguish is full. Powder and cosmetics simply hide those horrors for a season—a very short season. They are not a cure for them. There isn't any cure for them except getting rid of the grease beneath. When she does that she finds her complexion improves.

In this way only can I account for the clear, natural complexion acquired by those who use the Marmola receipt— One-half ounce Marmola 0-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water. By causing the excess flesh to be absorbed it clears the blood of the globules of fat which physicians say, cause the greasy, oily skin of the over fat.

This simple receipt makes a mixture both pleasant and harmless. It causes neither wrinkles nor stomach disturbances. It is also quite inexpensive. Make it a point to try some, take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime for a week or two, and see if your oily skin does not quickly disappear. As you lose fat your complexion should progressively improve, and after a month or so, when you have lost 25 or 30 pounds of flesh, it should be nearly perfect.

Tag! Tag you'll look odd without a Tagon the 20th.

Frank Naden Fatally Stabbed by a Boarder

Special to the Times.

Lyton, Sask., Nov. 16.—Frank Naden, a French-Canadian, was fatally stabbed shortly after midnight last night by A. Tieteault, another Frenchman, who came here about a fortnight ago from Bridgeport, Neb. and built a house and took Naden into his employ. Tieteault's story is that for the past week Naden had been coming in after midnight and last night he was denied admittance, saying that he was too late. Finally Mrs. Naden let him in and he attacked him (Tieteault) with a butcher's knife.

Government will Take Over Bridge

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The Quebec Bridge Company will cease to exist next December and the Dominion government will assume full charge of the construction of the bridge. The directors of the company have received official notice to this effect and the federal government will take over the assets of the company, assume the responsibility for its liabilities at the same time and refund to the shareholders of the company the amount of their investment. This means that the Quebec bridge will be constructed under the direct supervision of the government and that the work of reconstruction will be commenced as soon as possible after the expert engineers have completed their report on the reconstruction and the best means to achieve that end. The plans being prepared, it is said, provide for the use of much lighter metal than that formerly used. The approaches to the bridge are now almost completed and they alone have involved a large expenditure.

William Mercer, of London, drove his grocery wagon over a twenty-foot embankment, and neither man nor horse was hurt.

It is stated that parliament will likely be called for January 8 and among those who are mentioned for the speakership of the Senate are Hon. Sen Kerr and Hon. Archie Campbell. Charles Marcil will no doubt be selected as speaker of the House of Commons.

At Port Arthur A. Tetlock was found guilty of criminal assault, and A. Higgs of shooting with intent, at a rival who was out walking with his sweetheart.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon, as it prepares the system for baby's coming and renders the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistantly Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

Report of French Police Commission at Casablanca

(Special to the Times.)

Paris France, Nov. 16.—The report of M Dorde, the French police commissioner at Casablanca, on the differences between French and German authorities over the desertion from the Legation of the French army of a number of German subjects has been published. This incident has been referred to the Hague Tribunal for settlement. It is said that it was the report of M. Dorde that influenced Germany to withdraw from the position she had taken on the question. It proves the establishment in February last of a regular deserter's agency at Casablanca by a German named Sevans.

Six deserters from the Foreign Legation took refuge in a German house in Casablanca, and were given disguises and passports by the German Consul, M. Ludiritz, and who were conducted to the shore of the bay by M. Just, Chancellor of the German Consulate, and Consular Dragoman. As they embarked in a small boat some French sailors recognized them as deserters. M. Just, in a rage, struck a French ensign, but finally he cooled down when the official drew a revolver.

Pat and O'Meagher Caused Trouble

Special to the Times.

London, Eng., Nov. 16.—The approaching visit of Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World of New York, and O'Meagher Condon was the occasion of an extraordinary attack in the House of Commons this afternoon. Jas. Greig, the Unionist member for Down, opened the fight by asking Premier Asquith if he was aware that Ford, who had been declared by three judges to be a free advocate of the use of dynamite, and that Mr. Condon, who had been sentenced to death for the murder of a British police constable, were intending to visit England. Mr. Greig also asked whether they had a license permitting them to do so. If not, what action did the Executive intend taking.

Earl Winterton, a Conservative, followed this up with a request for the finding of the Parnell Commission, and asked whether any steps had been taken to prevent these well known agitators coming to this country.

Home Secretary Gladstone replied. It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes about it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the heart or Kidneys is worse than wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. "Every diseased organ has its controlling or "middle nerve". When these nerves fail then those organs must surely fail." This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few drops at first will surely tell! Sold by druggists.

John Redmond deliberately jumped to his feet and hotly appealed to the Speaker, who he informed that one of the persons referred to was an official of the American Government, and it was incredible that such epithets should be applied to high officials who had served the United States for twenty years.

Mr. Greig offered to send Redmond proofs of the statement in his question.

Mr. Gladstone, recognizing the insufficiency of his reply, supplemented it with— "Mr. Ford, so far as I know, has not been convicted of any crime in this country. As regards Mr. Condon, a royal pardon under the great seal was given him in 1878.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,000.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pin-apples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price,

CANADIAN COMPETITION

It is interesting to note that in a recent conference between representatives of the exporting firms in New York, and of the railway companies, the latter stated that the transfer of the grain trade from that place to Montreal was caused by the inability of the railways to compete with water transport from the West via the Lakes and the St. Lawrence. The railway managers asserted that any improvement of the Erie Canal would not be effective and any expenditure for that purpose would be a waste of money. They went on to say that the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal was such an obvious necessity that, sooner or later, the Dominion Government would undertake it. Forming a direct line of water transport, it would render railway competition south of the lakes practically impossible. It had two elements in its favor the reduction of the distance to be traversed and the avoidance of the cost of transhipment.

Such testimony by rivals is valuable and must assure Canadians that money expended in the development of our great natural arteries of transportation, such as the Trent Canal, will be a good investment. The future commercial eminence of Montreal is assured, while the possible economies in the carriage of the products of our great prairie section imply advantages to our agriculturists of the greatest value. More and more are the fortunate conditions found in Canada coming to be realized.

LABOR AS A PARTNER IN SHIP-BUILDING

Some time ago we called attention to the remarkable proposal of the British shipbuilding firm of Furness, Withy & Co. to its thousands of employes. Weary of strikes and uncertainty, uncertainty, unable to make contracts of a definite nature, the firm told the men that it might be forced to go out of business unless they agreed to become partners in it and as such joined with it in efforts to eliminate strife and loss. Alternative suggestions were submitted by the firm at the same time, but it was plain that the partnership and profit-sharing solution was the most practical. A conference was held with the employes, and they promised to take the matter up with their unions and leaders. A prompt decision was asked, but an even prompter one given. The delegates of the trade unions concerned indorsed the partnership proposal and referred it to the executive officers. These have also approved it, and the scheme is to be tried experimentally for one year.

The firm is much pleased with the decision of its employes and their unions. The British press hopes that the results of the first year may justify the permanent acceptance of the scheme, and that other disturbed industries may follow the example set by the great shipbuilding company. Profit sharing, it is believed by the heads of the firm, will do away with waste, inefficiency and distrust, with [illegible] and dispose all [illegible] prosperity for capital as well as labor. The plan provides for the scheme [illegible] paying a certain rate of interest. About 5 per cent. of the wages is to be deducted to pay for the shares taken by the men. There are other interesting details, but the general idea is to give the employes a definite "common" interest in the business of the firm and a powerful motive for maintaining and striving after the highest efficiency.

SOCIALISM'S DEMANDS

It has often been said here, and elsewhere, that it is impossible to define Socialism, and difficult to get two Socialists to agree on a definition of their own. At the same time, what it is is less important than what it wants, and the demands of the American Socialists who voted for Debs have been formulated by the New York Call. They are worth glancing at, for, vague as they are on some points, it cannot be said that they are not as precise as some of the planks in the respective platforms of Messrs. Taft and Bryan. Here is the demand, as printed in the Detroit News Tribune:—

The earth for all the people. That is the demand.

The machinery of production and distribution for all the people. That is the demand.

The collective ownership and control of industry and its development in the interests of all the people. That is the demand.

The elimination of rent, interest and profit, and the production of to-day's [illegible] wants of all the people. That is the demand.

Co-operative industry in which all work together in harmony for the benefit of a new social order, a higher civilization, a real republic. That is the demand.

The end of class struggle and class rule, of master and slave, of ignorance and vice, of poverty and crime, of cruelty and crime—the birth of freedom, the dawn of brotherhood, the blossoming of man. That is the demand.

EXPROPRIATING THE LAND.

Examining these planks one by one, the News remarks that no one has yet been bold enough to tell us how the land is to be secured, whether by simple expropriation or by national purchase. There is likely to be unfairness of opinion on this point, but it is said is to be bought by the people for the people, no one will be very much alarmed. Indeed, the real estate agents may rejoice; but as the Socialists argue that since every modern title rests upon force in the first instance, there can be no logical objection to a readjustment by the same means, especially as everyone is to benefit thereby.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF ALL.

The second proposition is justified in much the same way. Being interpreted, it means Government ownership of everything, a steady job at good wages for everyone. Therefore, it is a very attractive plank, especially to the hundreds of thousands of American wage-earners who can never tell a week ahead how long they will be provided with work. The Socialists promise that they will give everybody the privilege of working, and that everybody shall receive all the profits of his labor. The people will be both owners and employees. Having, by the third demand, been freed from the anxieties of paying rent or interest, and not being required to work hard enough to make a profit for anybody, they can be happy. They can cultivate their "self-hood", entertain higher ideals, and take a broader outlook. As the News says, the programme appeals to man—to the business man driven to the wall by unfair competition; to the wage-earner never sure of a job; to the lazy hoping for something that will require less exertion with greater pay; to the philanthropist, and to the sentimental, who see the struggle going on in the world, but who fail to see that this struggle is necessary for the advancement of humanity.

Tobacco Thrives in Ireland

What promises to become a [illegible] by important and valuable [illegible] is the growing of tobacco. Reports are to hand of the experiments that have been carried on more widely than ever in the past year, and taking them in conjunction with other experiments of recent years, and bearing in mind the earlier history of tobacco growing in Ireland, the conclusion is reached that some of the best grades of leaf in commercial quantities can be successfully produced on Irish soil. As tobacco is one of the most valuable plants grown anywhere, the possibilities of the increased value of land in Ireland is apparent, especially since some of the land upon which tobacco can be raised had hitherto been regarded as almost useless.

EARLY IRISH TOBACCO

Everybody knows how the potatoes discovered by Sir Walter Raleigh on the American Continent were planted in Ireland, where for centuries they have been the mainstay of the people. But it has been generally forgotten that Sir Walter also introduced, not only the habit of smoking, but the industry of tobacco-growing [illegible] Ireland. Both in England and Ireland tobacco was [illegible] cultivation in the [illegible] Town [illegible] It was [illegible] passed [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

A MAGISTRATE'S EVIDENCE IN FAVOR OF ZAM-BUK

Zam-Buk wins favor where ever tried! The Magistrate whose words are quoted below tried it thoroughly and now tells the result. If you suffer from any skin disease or injury mark well his words!

The Pavilion, Gold Fields, B.C.

After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. It cured me of a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I do certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their homes. It truly does more than you claim for it. Yours very truly,

ROGER F. PERRY, Justice of Peace for B.C.

Chronic Sore Quite Healed.

Mrs. M. A. Harris of 69 Chestnut St., St. Thomas, Ont., says:—"My husband had a running sore on his ankle for about two months. Zam-Buk showed satisfactory results from the first application (although other salves had failed), cleaning and healing the open wound. We have also found Zam-Buk unequalled for Cuts, Burns, Sores, etc., and have great confidence in recommending it to others."

ZAM-BUK CURES eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, ulcers, chronic sores or open wounds, barber's rash, blood-poisoning, old sores, cracked hands, cuts, scalds, salt rheum and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a sure cure for piles.

Of all stores and druggists 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price 3 boxes $1.25.

A short session of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night after the committee of the whole adjourned and disposed of a number of applications for lights.

Lumber Mills Closed

The Peterborough Lumber Company have suspended operations at Point St. Charles until the spring. The same mills have run steadily since early last spring, and the cut for the season will measure nearly eight million feet.

End of Season

The end of the camp life of the C. E. Anglers was reached Sunday night, when a party of them locked the door for the last time and the balmy breeze rippled the surface of the lake and came in fun in the young grass. The party, who had Mr. Fred Marsden, of New York, along as a guide, went down on Saturday and closed up the camp. They had a most enjoyable time, and took a good supply of prisoners with them. They had a very jolly time

Clever Thief

"The impossible happened yesterday," says the Vienna Fremdenblatt, "when a clever thief stole and got away in bright daylight with two hats of the gigantic class from a milinary establishment. To steal last year's production or two of the moderate size of the year before might be conceivable, but a theft of a collection of feathers, silk and spangles, two metres in circumference, so put together that concealment would be impossible, seems to come under the head of impossibilities. The thief, if detected, should, in punishment, be compelled to wear the hats."

Weary, Worn Out, Tired—

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, health surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton, of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr Hamilton's Pills Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr Hamilton's Pills regularly

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr Hamilton's Pills. 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Chief Roszel Makes an Explanation

Chief Roszel desires to make the following explanation of the complaint against the police made by "Ratepayer" in a letter in last night's Review—

The Chief said—"Mr Murphy, of Charlotte street, called at the police station Sunday and reported that a young lad, giving his name, had stolen a fountain pen from his store on Saturday, and that the lad also owed him 60c. He wanted the police to recover the pen, and said if they did he would not want to prosecute.

"The policeman on duty told him, as I would have told him had I been there, that they were not a collecting agency. The duty of the police is not to collect stolen articles and return them to the owner without a prosecution. If the police are required to make a prosecution they will do so, and also do their utmost to recover the goods.

township in the person of Mr. Christopher Lowes passed away Sunday morning at his home, lot 21, concession 7. He was 74 years of age and had been in failing health for some time. Two years ago he underwent an operation and never fully recovered from the effects of it.

The late Mr. Lowes was born in Emily township a short distance from the farm where he died. He was a man of sterling character, which had won for him a large number of friends throughout the district. He was well known in Peterborough, and his death will be heard of here with sincere regret.

He was postmaster of Frankhill postoffice for the past twenty years and in this connection became acquainted with a large number of people.

The late Mr. Lowes is survived by his wife two sons, Joseph, of Ennismore, and John, of Emily, on the homestead. Four sisters and two brothers also survive, Mrs. Switzer, of Brock township; Mrs. Mills, of Winnipeg; Mrs. Walton, of Dakota, and Mrs. Jacob Lowes, of Emily; Mr. Julian Lowes, of Emily, and Mr. Joseph Lowes, of Moosomin, Sask. An adopted niece resides in Peterborough.

Mr. Lowes was a member of Bethel Methodist Church, and a consistent Christian. He was a life-long Conservative.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock from his late residence to Emily cemetery.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, headiness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. We invite all the afflicted to consult us confidentially and free of charge. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic. I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE

In the BARGAIN ANNEX Sat'y Nov. 21

We Celebrate the 156th Annex Event on Saturday

156 Weekly Annex Events---And not a Single Failure

Three years ago, Wednesday, Nov. 18th, a new feature was inaugurated, in the form of an Exclusive Bargain Department: A department in which nothing but goods of rare value was to be offered for sale. Prices were to prevail in this section lower than in any other part of the store or any other store in the city. The idea was to make Wednesday the city people's SATURDAY and also to draw outside people to the mid-week market and thus equalize business throughout the week. The success of this department, "Cressman's Bargain Annex," was phenomenal from the start Then the ANNEX was comparatively small. Today it is the carried on in any city in Canada of anything like the size of Peterborough. It has its own organization, BUYERS and SALESPEOPLE. Hundreds of customers visit the ANNEX each Wednesday and are given perfect satisfaction, we insist on as efficient service here as in the other departments, We guarantee satisfaction and try to uphold our claim that ours is the STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS.

Bargain Annex Facts

1. The "Bargain Annex" is a purely Bargain Department
2. The "Bargain Annex" is open one day each week Wednesday
3. The "Bargain Annex" is covered by Government Patent
4. The "Bargain Annex" this week celebrates Its Third Anniversary
5. The "Bargain Annex" has Never had a Failure

Mat Industry Wants to Enlarge Its Premises--To go to Hilliard Farm

The manufacture of door mats is developing into a more or less important industry in this city. A few years ago Mr. Weatherston left Cobourg, where he had been engaged in a similar business, and came to Peterborough, where he started the manufacture of door mats in the building at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets. Each year has seen a steady increase, and now there are employed six or seven hands, including Mr. Weatherston's four sons. The business has increased to such an extent that the present building will no longer accommodate the industry, and the proprietor is seeking for a new location.

Mr. Weatherston applied to the city for the privilege of purchasing an acre of land at a reasonable price for the purpose of erecting a new factory, which at the start will be 30 by 101 feet, on storey high. The application was taken up by the manufacturers' committee yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Weatherston was present. In speaking to the request he stated that he did not want any fixed assessment or reduction in taxes or anything of that kind. All he wanted was to purchase at a reasonable figure, about an acre of land. He said that he had been looking at the Hilliard farm and would like to get a location on Hilliard street or the site of the old grist mill on the northend of Water street would be satisfactory.

The manufacturers' committee looked favorably upon the proposition, and while they did not definitely decide to grant the acre of land, they will meet Mr. Weatherston this morning and look over a couple of sites, and in all probability arrangements will be made.

It is Mr. Weatherston's intention to get busy on the new factory at once, and to have it completed and ready for occupancy this year. He is at the present time particularly busy, and if he had the room he could soon treble the output.

Adam's Third Son was Among First Astronomers

A very fair sized audience gathered in the lecture hall of the Collegiate Institute last night to welcome Dr. Stratton, who was in the city to address the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Astronomical Society. It was the first meeting the society has held in the Collegiate and all expressed their appreciation of the Board of Education's kindness in allowing them the use of the building.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, the president, in opening the meeting, referred to the recent observations he had made, as did also Messrs. Fisk and Collier, who reported favorably upon their observations of Saturn.

Rev. Mr. Emslie, of Napanee, was unanimously elected a member of the Canadian Astronomical Society. He has become an enthusiast through the influence of Dr. Stratton, who is quite an expert in astronomical lore.

Rev. Dr. Marsh introduced Dr. Stratton, who expressed his pleasure at being invited to address a Peterborough society, and related his interesting experience at Greenwich, Eng., the place where the time was given to the world. The speaker also expressed his delight at the treatment he had received at the hands of Prof. Maunder, of the Greenwich Observatory. "Astronomy has been recognized as a science since primitive times," said Dr. Stratton, who clearly demonstrated that observations of the celestial bodies were made by 35th, the third son of Adam. Also in India the observations by the Hindoos has already been established. To the Chinese we owe the earliest results of astronomical research, the first students dating as afr back as 2,000 B. C. The Chaldeans dated their observations back to nine centuries before the time of Alexander the Great. They were also expert in astronomical science.

The more modern epochs were circled around Ptolemy, Copernicus, Des Cartes and Newton, who was was born in 1642, a mathematician, and a natural philosopher and astronomer. The address throughout was very interesting and instructive.

At the close a vote of thanks was moved by Hon. J. R. Stratton and Rev. J. G. Potter, and tendered Dr. Stratton for his very able, interesting and instructive address.

A number of matters of business were disposed of by the society.

Murray Street Boys Go Into the Church League

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Murray Street Baptist Boys was held in the basement of the church last night, when it was decided to organize a young men's association. There were a large number present and all were anxious for the organization. Mr. R. J. Kidd was elected to the chair and the following officers were elected—

Hon. President—T. F. Matthews.
President—R. Harding.
Vice-President—Roy Scott.
Secretary—Kernaghan.
Treasurer—Harold Matthews.
Organist—Norman Wilson.

The boys decided to have a hockey team, as there is a lot of pretty good material among them, a team fast enough to win the Church league championship should be selected. This is the first time the Murray Street Baptist have had a hockey team, and there is no reason why they should not get off to a good start. The young men will also go in for other athletic games to be decided on later.

Another meeting will be held a week from Friday night to complete arrangements, and after that they will meet every Friday night.

Wives Continue Fight for Warnock Money

Special to the Times.

Brockville, Nov. 17.—When the Warnock will case was resumed in court this morning, George H. Watson, K.C., took up the cross-examination of Mrs. Agnes Warnock. She deposed that in 1891 the testator was 38 years of age and a large, healthy man. In September of 1905 she parted from Warnock. He was in fairly good health up to that time. He never drank until 1903, and was never known to call on a physician previous to that; he was a sharp, shrewd business man until he started to drink. She saw him outrage different Sundays intoxicated with one McCallum; when intoxicated he was not sullen or morose. On one occasion he had these bottles of intoxicants, which he placed under his bed, and she saw him consume them during the night. He drank at short intervals. There were two bottles of champagne and one of whiskey. He had liquor in bed every night that fall, and on one occasion he drank seven bottles during the night.

The witness said that she never touched intoxicants. In questioning Warnock about the liquor he replied it was "ginger wine." He was an extravagant man. She only spoke to him once after 1906. They would meet on the street but would not speak, the reason of which was that he was paying attention to Miss Eva McCallum and two other women.

WAS NEVER AT A WEDDING.

Before August, 1891, she did not know of him going with any other person. Her first child was born in June, 1893, the second was born in 1895, the third in 1896, and the youngest in 1901. Witness first kept a dress making shop in 1901. She was then 22 years of age and had never been at a wedding. She got a ring that was produced in court, and which she has worn every day since that marriage. Warnock told her it was purchased at John Leslie's, an Ottawa jeweller; the inscription was engraved upon it before she went to Ogdensburg for the ceremony. She could not remember the 10th of August, 1891, but was making a dress two days before her wedding.

They went by rail to Prescott and crossed on the boat. They were not personally intimate before that; met a man at Ogdensburg whom Warnock called Jack; he was introduced as John Smith, and was a tall, fair man; she never had tried to get information about him. She thought the minister, Rev. Mr. Greaves, was about 60 at the time.

Returning to the settlement between witness and Warnock, a cheque for $3,000 was produced. Each had lawyers at the time. She could not remember of having been told that Warnock had stated that he had never been married to her. Mr. Fripp, an Ottawa lawyer, told her in 1906 that Warnock had stated the trouble was owing to the witness being jealous.

FILED THE AGREEMENT

The agreement with Warnock and the witness when they separated was filed as an exhibit, also an affidavit made by Warnock. She described the house where the marriage is thought to have taken place. Mr. Smith introduced the couple to Rev. Mr. Greaves after the marriage. They went to a restaurant, had dinner, but no intoxicants. Reaching Ottawa on the return, they stopped about an hour at the residence of witness. He came back and stayed that night. A certificate was produced of the marriage, which the witness said was the original certificate. She saw the witnesses go to the table, but could not say if they signed the document. She saw Rev. Greaves writing. Warnock laughed at the writing when on the train going back to Ottawa; she never learned that it was a false document, nor never thought that it was such. She was never in Ogdensburg since; it was Warnock's request to keep the marriage secret, it was done until 1892. She never heard of a license; she could not say if it were a hotel or not in which they were married; could not remember the dates when Warnock had it inserted in newspapers against parties getting credit on his name.

Another Family to be Deported

This week the city will bid farewell to the fourth family of emigrants who came out here from England with the idea that the streets were paved with gold dollars and the skyes rained diamonds. They discovered their mistake soon after their arrival and in order to punish someone, they were not particular who, the man of the house positively refused to work. Giving him the benefit of any doubt that might exist, he could not adapt himself to the conditions and customs of this land of sunshine and consequently he and his family have always been in need of the necessities of life. The family arrived here in May, 1907, and all last winter were supported by the charity board and that same institution was also called upon to help them keep body and soul together during the past summer. It was a clear case of a continued expense during the coming winter, so the authorities took the necessary steps to have the man, his wife and four children shipped back to their native land.

Mr. Miller, the relief agent for the charity board, yesterday received word that the family could ship on the steamer Champlain, which sails from Montreal on Friday. The immigrants were accordingly notified and on Thursday will once more become emigrants. The Champlain is the last ocean liner which will leave Montreal this year.

Professional Beggar with $20,000 was Refused Entrance to the States

(Special to the Times.)

Detroit, Nov. 17.—On information that Nikol George, an Italian who formerly resided in Chicago, had accumulated a fortune of $20,000 by professional begging, the United States immigration officers barred his entrance to this country on the grounds of his being undesirable. George was attempting to return to the States after having resided in Ottawa for the past two years. He was also refused admission at Niagara Falls. He and his wife and seven children are now living at Windsor in the hope that they can get across later on.

LOST HIS NERVE

A REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

"Until three years ago I was the picture of health—then I became what people call Neurasthenic. I grew sleepless, worried, lacked will power, felt great physical fatigue, experienced fears and felt always in danger of something unknown. All the time I grew thinner and weaker, felt so nervous that I felt the end must be near. No medicine helped, each one seemed a new disappointment. Then my doctor suggested "Ferrozone"—it was a fortunate choice because I improved at once. I gained weight, enjoyed my meals, got a better color, forgot my nervous fears. The way Ferrozone built me up is surprising—it made a new man of me and now I look good for twenty years to come."

J. Y. WAGHORNE (Merchant)
Wilmington.

Ferrozone is a nourishing tonic that strengthens, fattens, builds up, restores weak sickly people to health. If you feel poorly let Ferrozone help you get well. 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Human Skeleton Found in Woods Near North Bay Recalls Rumor of Murder

(Special to the Times)

North Bay, Nov. 17.—Farmers engaged in clearing land near Callendar made the gruesome discovery of a human skeleton, and incidents that have come to light, including the identity of the remains, strongly point to murder. The body was found in a bush where fire had passed over. Among the articles found were a watch and chain, a lady's ring, a small sum of silver, knife, corkscrew and a bunch of keys, as well as an aluminum trinket with the following inscription—"Lizzie Dalpin, as a souvenir from your friend, Jos. Ryan, 1906."

Among the items was found a piece of lead [illegible] pellet.

A man named [illegible] engaged in clearing a right of way for the [illegible] where the body was found, about a year ago. The dead man's brother, an employee of Cook & Armstrong's livery stable, remembered hiring a rig to his brother to drive to Callendar in 1907. He was accompanied by his chum, who had been with him for some time. The dead man had been in North Bay for a short time and had about $1,200 with him. He was never seen or heard of since that night, but it is reported that he frequently absented himself for long periods without notifying his relatives of his whereabouts, so [illegible] aroused.

The [illegible] about a [illegible] morning, and [illegible] saw who brought it back.

There would [illegible] from the red light district about that time, that a man had been murdered in that district for his money, but as it was said to have originated from a woman in one of the dives, after the first excitement it soon died out.

The chum who came with Ryan is known and an effort is being made to locate him.

Wm. Ellen Charged with Manslaughter

Special to the Times.

Vancouver, Nov. 17.—A charge of manslaughter was this afternoon preferred against William Ellis, whose carelessness was contributory to the cause of the accident fatal accident on the British Columbia Electric Railway a week ago last Saturday night.

Temperance in Hamilton a Lively Topic

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 17.—The Temperance Federation, made up of the temperance societies and of several churches, met here to-night and mapped out a lively campaign for the purpose of securing a reduction of liquor licenses. Just how they will attempt to accomplish that will not be decided until next Saturday evening. In the meantime, however, arrangements were made for a series of meetings to be conducted in the different churches to start Monday night. It has not yet been decided whether to ask for a plebiscite on a reduction of liquor licenses or to try to elect a temperance council.

Negative Won in Debate at St. Andrew's

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild was held last night and proved to be most interesting and entertaining. It took the form of a debate, the subject being, Resolved, That the country is better by the return of the Laurier Administration?" The affirmative was taken by Messrs. W. S. Campbell and Peter A. Kerr, while the negative was upheld by Messrs. William Langford and Robert McCullough.

The debate was very interesting and was carried on in a very friendly manner. Both sides did well and showed research among the local papers. Mr. Potter acted as critic and advised that in future debates the arguments be not based so much on the party press.

The judges returned their verdict in favor of the negative. It was suggested that Sir Wilfrid Laurier be notified of this fact, but as he is now on his way to California for a well earned rest, the message will be delayed until he has regained his strength.

Refreshments were served by the executive committee at the close of the meeting, adjourned until Tuesday, Dec. 16th, when it is expected that the Astronomical Society will be the guests of the Guild.

Invest in Timber and Make Money

In another part of this issue will be found the announcement of Willow River Timber Company, Limited, which has an authorized capital of $250,000. This company has a limited number of shares for sale at par value of $100. The limits of this firm are located in the Willow River District and lies close to water which is very suitable for logging and is covered mostly with white spruce of a superior quality. The trees average thirty inches in diameter and from ninety to one hundred and twenty feet in height. British Columbia white spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. While spruce is universally acknowledged to be the best material in the world for fine paper making.

The limits are in the hands of first-class men, who thoroughly understand their business. Anyone who invests in any stock of the Willow River Timber Co., Limited, will make a first-class investment, as the timber limits were purchased at a ridiculously low figure of 25c per thousand feet, and is worth now $7 to $9 per 1,000 on the stamp in Ontario. For full information see the page advertisement in another part of this paper, or write to John W. Gordon, Secretary, 17 Queen street, St. Catharines, Ont.

The men of St. Andrew's Church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the men's missionary movement. All men are welcome to attend.

Miss Margaret Brooks Has Graduated from Homeopathic Hospital

The many friends of Miss Margaret Brooks will be glad to learn that she has been successful in taking her graduating examinations in the Homeopathic Hospital in Syracuse. Before returning home Miss Brooks will visit with friends in Vermont, Schenectady, N. Y., Albany and Troy for a few weeks. A Syracuse paper contained the following item, which will be of local interest—

The graduation exercises of the Nurses' Training School of the Homeopathic Hospital was held last evening at the Kanatenah. The graduates were Miss Mary Frances Hall, Miss Margaret Brooks and Miss Katherine Harrar. The Rev. W. R. Ferris made the opening prayer and the address of the evening was made by William Nottingham. President William Kent, of the Board of Trustees, conferred the diplomas. George W. Ballard sang a solo and the university orchestra played during the evening. The report of the training school was made by Mrs. William Geer.

A reception followed the exercises. The dining room decorations were Hallowe'en in character, the table being centered by a large lighted jack o'lantern, surrounded by autumn fruits, while autumn vines trailed prettily across the cloth. Mrs. H. Herbert Irish was the chairman of the entertainment committee and was assisted by Miss Josephine Brayton. Presiding in the dining room were Mrs. James Willis Candee and Mrs. Clinton T. Rose.

Car Men Ask McVety to Resign

(Special to the Times.)

Vancouver, Nov. 17.—The local branch of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, at a meeting held last night, passed a resolution calling upon J. A. McVety, Secretary-Treasurer of the Amalgamated Railway Union, which was affected last spring, to resign. This action on the part of the carmen followed the stormy meeting of last Friday evening of all the men interested in the recent strike in the shops in Vancouver.

Legislature will Not Meet Early

Special to the Times.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Premier Whitney stated yesterday that there was no basis for the idea that the Legislature would be called earlier than usual. It will be two months yet before the new Legislature will assemble. The books of the province do not close until Dec. 31st, and the Legislature cannot meet until the public accounts are ready. "There is," said Sir James, "some talk of changing the date of the end of the fiscal year so that the books could be closed earlier."

Obituary

JOSEPHINE ELLIOTT.

A very sad death occurred at the Nochelis Hospital last night when Josephine Elliott, aged 15 years, passed away after an illness from appendicitis. She had undergone an operation, but was unable to overthe effects, and has been lingering between life and death for the past week. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Thin Blood Made Strong

FIREDNESS AND WEAKNESS OVERCOME.

A Joyous Letter.

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that for nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. Hiram, of Beauport. "At first I felt sort of flat in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remember my sleep was disturbed, that dreamy, restless sleep, from which you finally awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin, lost my color, got nervous and fearful about nothing, and kept thinking about myself all the time, and was irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if I had not taken Ferrozone, I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and in a little while, less than three months, no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere. I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advantage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance, it's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men, women and children use Ferrozone every day and all say it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers.

Emperor William was Forced to Bow to the Will of the People

(Special to the Times)

Berlin Germany, Nov. 17.—Forced by the angry tide of popular feeling that swept over the empire from end to end, Emperor William to-day yielded the nation and promised to henceforth confine himself to the constitutional methods of conducting the policy of Germany. The climax to the public utterances of the Emperor was reached in his interview given to an Englishman and published in the London Daily Telegraph on Oct. 28th last. As the outcome the whole country was aroused. The Reichstag endorsed the attitude of many of the most prominent members when they denounced the Sovereign and Imperial Chancellor Von Buelow, while he attempted to smooth over the affair, he undertook to communicate to His Majesty a straightforward and unvarnished statement of how the German people viewed his intervention in the affairs of State.

The interview between the Emperor and Prince Von Buelow took place in the new palace at Potsdam, and as a conclusion the Emperor made a formal promise to the people that in future he would only act through the Chancellor and his associate ministers. This was made public in the Reichsanziger, the official gazette of the empire. It was in the form of a note and appeared on the front page where decrees, texts of treaties and new laws appear.

During to-day's audience to the Imperial Chancellor His Majesty the Emperor and King listened for several hours to the report of Prince Von Buelow on the feelings and causes among the German people in regard to the interview in the Daily Telegraph. He also impressed upon His Majesty the position he had taken in the course of debate and his interpretation on this subject in the Reichstag.

The Emperor received the statement with great earnestness and expressed his will as follows—Regardless of the agitation of public criticism which are regarded by him as incorrect, His Majesty perceived that his principal Imperial task is to insure the stability of the policies of the country under the guardianship of constitutional responsibility. In conformity therewith His Majesty the Emperor approves the Reichstag and assured Prince Von Buelow of his continued confidence

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought after by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE TYRANNOUS COMBINE

It has been demonstrated on abundant evidence that combinations for the restraint of trade exist in Canada as they exist in the United States. And in spite of our often professed superiority to the people of the States in all such matters, it is not at all certain that our laws against combines are any more effective than are those on the other side of the line or that such as they are, they are better enforced. The exposures of the methods of the Canadian combines during the past few years, however, may have the effect eventually of persuading governments that the evil is big enough to be tackled soon and tackled hard.

The combine cuts both ways, says the Ottawa Journal. It not only increases the prices which the consumer must pay, but it humiliates the individual trader, robs him of the fruits of his initiative and his energy. The theory in former days was that the merchant was at liberty to buy where he pleased, wherever he could get the best goods at the smallest price. He could take his choice as between producers and sell at any price upon which he and his customers might agree. The combine deprives him of these rights. He is no longer at liberty to buy where he pleases, he is no longer at liberty to sell at prices agreed upon by his customer and himself. He has become simply the selling agent of the manufacturer or of the guild of middlemen in collusion with the manufacturer for the marketing of the manufacturer's product. He is in plain terms servant of the combine.

It has been shown that the combines exercise powers similar to those exercised by parliament and lower courts. They impose fines upon dealers for breach of the combine rules and upon repetition of the offence, they drive them out of business. In thus exercising the functions of courts the combines are guilty of an act which is in gross violation of public policy. In practice they are making laws, superseding laws and in the last resort visiting capital punishment upon individual enterprise.

It is plainly a matter which public opinion should continue to force upon the attention of the law-makers. The grievance has never been firmly grappled in Canada. The old law against combines was of course admittedly useless since it laid upon the complainant the onus of proof that the alleged combine was operating "unduly" in restraint of trade. The present tariff arrangement under which the governor-in-council may upon proof of combination reduce or remove the duty upon the article in question might be effective if it were applied in all cases where a combine were found to exist. If the evidence showed combination among the dealers in a given article, it might be assumed that their combination would be impossible except with the consent if not at the institution of the manufacturers. The suspension of a few of the protective schedules would bring the manufacturers to time and in respect of the particular articles in question combination would cease.

When the Dominion Parliament sits again it would be well occupied in devising legislation to make the prevention of combines sure. Meantime the lower authorities to whom is committed the enforcement of the law are to be commended whenever they show activity in the prosecution of enquiry in which all the people are interested.

BRITAIN'S SECOND LINE

It is frequently forgotten when discussing British naval affairs that Britain always has another shot in her locker after her naval supremacy is menaced. That other shot is a great army. There is no reason, physical or financial, why the British people should not go in for universal military service after the fashion of their Continental neighbors, if the pressure of necessity came. They will not do so while they can avoid it. As the London Spectator put it the other day—"Let it never be forgotten that our naval supremacy is the price we pay for our voluntary army." But if the naval supremacy of the Empire is menaced, her enemis need not calculate upon an easy victory. Britain and her Colonies can create a great army which would fight on the defensive with rare effect.

Europe has probably not forgotten how Lord Beaconsfield, at the height of the Berlin Treaty crisis; moved Indian troops to Egypt, thereby intimating to the powers that Berlin had a military reserve upon which to call outside of her island home. Let us suppose that Britain saw herself threatened with a fight for her life, is it not conceivable that she would recruit with her ample financial resources some very effective army corps in India which could turn the scale on many a hard-fought field. The only provision necessary to make in advance would be to transport these troops to he be to traneport these troops to the scene of action before the navy was crippled.

Of course, if any other power or combination of powers obtain a naval supremacy as decided as that now held by Britain, then the British people would be compelled to depend upon their own men. They could not get help from any other part of the Empire. But such supremacy would also imply a b blockade of the British Isles, which would soon starve them into submission in any case. What we are supposing is that some power should create a fleet which would give it a fighting chance, and that Britain were to see itself menaced by possible military raids or even serious attempts at invasion. Then she could prepare an army to line her shores so that a temporary defeat at sea would not necessarily imply the fall of London. But the more we consider such an eventuality, the clearer it becomes that the British Empire must keep overwhelming comman do the sea. If the Mother Country feels the presence of Mother Country feels the pressure of competition, the Colonies must come to her assistance. The exposure of the heart of the Empire to a deadly blow would be too great a risk for us to take. Destroy British prestige; and where will Australia's safety against possible Asiatic land-hunger lie? Certainly not in her own very creditable but by no means first class fleet. Where will Canada's backing in negotiations with either Japan or the United States come from? If we cannot put the one against the other, we shall have to take what we can get. The Empire is a string of pearls let loose

Mexican School Children Smoke

New York, Nov. 16.—Mexican schoolmasters show their appreciation of a pupil's efforts in a curious manner. The diligent student is allowed to smoke a cigar during the lesson. When the whole class has given satisfaction, permission is given for a general smoke, and even the little Mexicans are allowed to light a cigarette for the occasion. Needless to say, the schoolmaster himself smokes a cigar of a size and quality proportionate to his superior position. But the scholars are not allowed to drink, this privilege being accorded to the master only. On his desk he always keeps a bottle of liquor, which, when empty occasions much dispute among the parents of his scholars, as it is considered an honor to be able to fill the schoolmasters' bottle.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utllized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

Luck of the Mann Boys

Latchford, Ont., Nov. 13.—Cobalt's crop of overnight-made millionaires is comparatively an old story, so quickly does a mining camp grow up and assume the garb of maturity, but the unwritten history of the trials, disappointments, and victories of those who have "made good" or of those to whom fortune is still the fickle jade, blushing behind the star of hope which points the way to new and distant fields, would certainly make interesting reading if the characters in the fortune-hunting drama could be induced to give up their secrets. Cobalt, built on the side of a rugged hill, picturesque by reason of its lack of architecture, method, or plan, and suggestive only of the expediency of hurry and jackknife carpentry, with foundation of rich silver veins and background of towering smokestack and mine buildings, is headquarters for many men whose wealth came suddenly and is increasing rapidly. The prospector, however, wastes little time now on the area immediately adjacent to Cobalt, but goes far afield in search of the pot at the end of the rainbow, returning to Cobalt at intervals only to market his claims.

THE LURE OF THE SILVER.

The lure of the silver now leads to the Montreal River, with its many branches and toilsome portages. In the army of prospectors who invaded the Montreal River district were the two Mann brothers, with two companions, all young workingmen with very limited resources. The young men toiled over the portages, delved into the earth wherever they thought fortune might be lurking, and, leaving a trail of barren holes and ugly trenches in their wake, pressed on even further into the wilderness, cheerfully regaling themselves with the bacon and bannocks of bush life, while their dreams were radiant with rich silver veins which some day might feast their eyes. Day after day for many weary weeks the prospectors continued the weary grind, hope and despair alternating in rapid succession, while the stock of supplies diminished and the dread spectre of failure sat at the camp fire and rations were doled out sparingly to postpone as long as possible the inevitable return to civilization, where food was plenty. The last stand was made on the shores of Gow Ganda Lake, many miles from Latchford, where the railroad handed over the treasure hunter to the strenuous labor of paddle and portage.

KICKING THE SILVER NUGGETS.

Stumbling among the rocky ravines on the rugged banks of lonely Gow Canada, the Mann boys found themselves one day in a boulder-strewn valley, and idly kicking the smaller stones from their path encountered some which resisted foot pressure more than an ordinary stone should. Examination soon showed that the prospectors had stumbled on a rich find, the ground being literally covered with nuggets of almost solid silver, and further search revealed a large vein in the side of a cliff which was easily traced for 25 feet. Rushing back to the camp with arms full of nuggets, the lake in the wilderness resounded with the cheers of the treasure hunters, whose weariness vanished in the hour of victory, and gathering up all the bags lying around, now empty of the supplies packed in to keep soul and body together, the return trip was speedily under way with canoes heavily laden with rich samples of their find, while the stakes proclaimed to all who might pass that way that the two Mann brothers had found, "mineral in place", and would have no difficulty demonstrating that the goods were here. Arriving in Latchfort the claims were recorded, and the eight bags of nuggets poured out on the floor of the mining recorder's office to startle the inhabitants and set the little town agog with excitement and start another rush of treasure hunters for the new field.

CASHING IN

Hardly had the claims been recorded before the Mann boys were considering offers for their finds which would make them rich men. Since then they have disposed of two claims for $250,000, which divided among four makes a good foundation for larger fortunes to come, as the quartet still hold two claims in the Gow Ganda district made famous by their perseverance.

This then, is the story of Gow Ganda, the lake in the wilderness, with its silver-lined banks, and the luck of the Mann boys from the little village of Killaloe in Renfrew County. Not the whole story, by any means, for Gow Ganda, is now the centre of activity, with tents and shacks dotting the landscape, and a store doing a thriving business with the hardy prospectors, who have staked many claims, while the ubiquitous "Wildcatter" is already maturing his plans.

Nothing is surer than the fact now recognized in the north, that the Montreal River is an Eldorado of mining wealth, which will surprise the world as much as Cobalt has.

Smoke Aids Long Life, Woman Dies at 103

New York, Nov. 11.—There was gloom throughout the St. Francis Home at 606 Fifth street to-day, when it became known among the aged inmates that Julia O'Brien, the oldest and most popular member of the little colony, had died during the first hour of the morning. Julia O'Brien was 103 years and eight months old.

To the fact that she had smoked at least five pipefuls of tobacco a day, for the last twenty-five years she attributed her perfect nerves and placid temperament. Since entering the institution ten years ago, Mrs. O'Brien had made it a practice of taking a smoke just before retiring at 6 o'clock and another immediately upon rising at 7 next morning.

She was able to read the newspapers without glasses to the last, and took keen delight in discussing current matters with the sisters and the doctors.

Bow Rudder for Steamboats

A bow rudder for steamboats has been designed for the purpose of giving greater steering power for river steamboats and other vessels of light draft when going astern. It does not interfere with the shape or construction of the hull, and it can be put in position for use very readily or removed when the vessel is ready to move ahead. The rudder slides on a vertical post or guide, which is fitted permanently just in front of the stem post or bow, and this forms the pivot or shaft of the rudder. The rudder is raised or lowered on this shaft by means of tackle carried by an arm above the bow. When raised it is swung back so that it lies flat against the side of the hull, above the water. When lowered a steering tiller is fitted to the head of the pivot shaft.

This device is the invention of Alfred F. Yarrow, of the English shipbuilding firm of Yarrow and Co., Glasgow, Scotland.

The steamboats of American rivers are fitted very frequently with three or four balanced rudders at the stern, all operated as one unit. The blades extend both forward and aft of the shaft. This management gives better manoeuvring facilities than the ordinary form of rudder, but these facilities may be increased materially by a rudder at the bow when the vessel is moving astern first.

Committed on Charge of Criminal Libel

Hamilton, Nov. 16.—Melvin M. Robinson, sporting editor of the Spectator, was committed for trial by Magistrate Jelfs to-day on a charge of criminal libel preferred by F. C. Mills, sporting editor of the Times.

The paragraph complained of referred to Mills' work in connection with a boxing bout in Brantford, and insinuated that he had a prior arrangement to give Daly the decision.

Mills swore he was not in Brantford for a year, and said he informed Robinson the day the match took place that he had telegraphed he could not officiate.

Robinson, he said, saw him a few seats behind him in a theatre the same night and knew he was not in Brantford.

The young plaintiff admitted criticising Robinson for his work as secretary of the Junior Inter-Provincial Football League. He said Robinson had been ridiculing him in the Spectator for months.

Robinson's bail was fixed at $1,000.

CANADIAN HARD AT WORK.

New York, Nov. 13.—Reports from Australia say that Tommy Burns has already begun training for his coming fight with Jack Johnson, the elongated Ethiopian, who is bent on wresting the title of heavyweight champion from Thomas. Perhaps that is the reason Burns has neglected to send along his regular press notices of himself and his doings in the land of the bushwhacker. Burns is scheduled to fight Johnson at Sidney on Dec. 20th.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak Kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organs itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

HOW TO FEEL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore,—that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droops.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharps twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles and joints, lack of appetite and loss of sleep. Reach the cause, Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands 25c at all dealers.

Employed 9,000 Men

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Nearly three-quarters of a million dollars were spent by the Province of Ontario during the year now coming to a close for colonization, roads, bridges, etc., in the northern territories known as the colonization road district. The exact figures were $509,485 for roads and $212,031 for bridges and such improvements. These sums expended on the development of the greater Ontario were almost twice as great as those of any previous year.

The works, with the exception of a few, are completed. They gave employment to in all about 9,000 men. Most of the labor was done by settlers and no foreign laborers were employed.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong; Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Wedding Bells

SAYLES—DOXSEE

A very quiet, though pleasant, event took place on Monday evening, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Doxsee, 283 Townsend street, when her daughter Edith was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. G. W. Sales, of Millbrook, by the Rev. W. H. Manning, pastor of the St. James' Methodist Church, South City.

The bride was attired in a travelling suit of navy blue chiffon broadcloth, and was given away by her brother, Mr. W. E. Doxsee. The bride and groom were unattended.

A very dainty lunch was served after the ceremony to a few of their most intimate friends and relatives.

The happy couple left on the 11.45 G. T. R. train to-day for their home in Millbrook. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, among them being some cheques.

HOLLIHAN—ANGLESEY

The wedding was quietly solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral Tuesday morning of Miss Mary Loretta Anglesey, daughter of Mr. Richard Anglesey, Rubidge street, to Mr. Thomas F. Hollihan, of this city. Reverend mass was said by Rev. Dr. O'Brien in the presence of a number of friends. Miss Nora Anglesey, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while Mr. James Hollihan, the groom's brother, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Hollihan left on the 11.45 G. T. R. train for Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburg and other points. They will reside in Peterborough. Both parties are well known in the city and their many friends will wish them every success.

Arranging for Formal Opening of Collegiate

Just a week from next Friday the formal opening of the new Collegiate Institute will take place, and this event will go down in history as the mark of another step forward taken by Peterborough in the educational line, and will advance the city another notch towards the goal sought by those who are most interested in the welfare of the people, viz., to place Peterborough in the front ranks of the educational centres of Canada. To prepare for the important occasion which takes place on the 27th of this month and which will be graced by the presence of Hon. Dr Payne, Minister of Education for Ontario, the special committee which has charge of the affair, held a meeting last night in the board room of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. and spent some time in completing the arrangements. There was nothing definite for publication, as the committee were considering the nature of the programme. It is the intention, however, to hold a function which will be worthy of the institution and of Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and gives it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

"The Blood is The Life."

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

INTERESTS OF ALL PROTECTED IN NEW LAKEFIELD WHARF

Work on the new wharf at Lakefield is being energetically prosecuted, under direction of Superintendent McClellan. The wharf is being built of concrete and will be 318 feet in length, and will be built in three stages or levels, to accommodate different classes of vessels and varying water levels. One stage will be 151 feet in length and will be four feet above low water level, thus enabling waggons to be driven upon barges for delivery and receiving of freight. The second stage will be 151 feet in length and will be two and one-half feet above low water level, and will accommodate the steamboat traffic. The third stage will be 103 feet in length and will be one and half feet above low water level, and is designed for the accommodation of gasoline launches and small craft.

Originally it was intended to have the wharf all on one level, but representations to the government secured an alteration of the plans as above, by means of which the utility of the structure will be greatly increased, and the convenience and benefit of the various interests concerned, consulted to the best advantage. The government is to be congratulated upon its readiness to consult the local requirements in this case, as in others, and the wharf will be a boon to all interested in river navigation.

Regarding the above last evening's Examiner has the following:—

APPROVED BY RIVER INTERESTS.

A representative of the Examiner today called at the office of the Otonabee Navigation Company, at 141 Hunter street to enquire how the wharf arrangement at Lakefield would answer the purposes of the company, and the general interests of navigation.

W. H. Robertson, president of the company, said; "I am exceedingly pleased to learn that the plan of construction you have described is to be carried into effect. In fact it was the only method by which the new structure could be made of practical utility to all the interests involved, partly by reason of the variation in the size of the river craft, and partly on account of the wide difference of the water levels at different seasons of the year. Our company made representations both to the department and to Hon. Mr. Stratton, when the announcement of a one level was made, and not only we, but all those practically interested in the navigation of the river, feel deeply indebted to Hon. Mr. Stratton for his energetic and effectual representations which have secured just what the needs of all parties concerned demanded. The Government may be sure that by this case they have consulted both the wishes and interests of the people of this section, and Mr. Stratton has given another and a gratifying proof of his capacity for doing things."

VIEWED AT YOUNG'S POINT.

Mr. Pat Young, of the Stony Lake Navigation Company, who asked over the 'phone for his opinion of the new arrangement being carried out in the Lakefield wharf, said:—

"The three-level arrangement will meet the requirements of all the different river craft, as well as provide for different water levels. It will be of great advantage, not only to river navigation, but to all who have to do with it, and will be a benefit to the public as well as to those directly interested in navigation. And we all feel very grateful to Hon. Mr. Stratton for his energetic efforts to have this structure built upon a plan that will best serve the interests that are concerned. We felt that he would succeed because we have never known him to fail when he went after a public improvement that was to benefit his constituents. When I called Mr. J. R. Stratton up by telephone a couple of weeks ago, he said he would look after it, and I knew he would do so. A mistake had been made in the first plans. Now that the error has been made right all interests will feel satisfied."

Simpson Injured In Saturday's Game

Kingston, Nov. 16.—Ben Simpson, the star half-back of the Hamilton Tigers, was pretty badly used up in Saturday's game. One kick he received was in the chest, and, after the game, it caused much worry. Three doctors examined Simpson, and were of opinion that the chest bone was splintered. If this is so, Simpson will have to cease playing for the rest of the season.

There is no doubt the better team won. Both sides made a few mistakes, but on the whole Hamilton deserved the victory, even though the game was close. The contest resolved itself into a battle of the back divisions, and Hamilton proved superior. The wing lines and scrimmages were equal. They learned a week ago in Ottawa that to break through each other was well nigh impossible. Hence, from the outset the back divisions invariably kicked from the first scrimmage. End runs were sometimes successful, and the speedy ones got away for fair runs at times.

For the winners the most conspicuous figure was Simpson, the ex-Queen's player, who practically kicked Hamilton to victory. He is the Tigers' greatest asset. Williams and ach were much in evidence in following up.

New Orange Party In Australia Politics

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 16.—Representative Orangemen all over the Commonwealth are arranging for the formation of an Independent Protestant party, as a new factor in federal politics. In this way, it is believed, and in this way only, Protestantism can become a real force in national affairs. The new party will be launched with a great demonstration at Sydney.

According to suggestions now being made, the platform of the new party will be radical, including probably such items as old age pensions, graduated land tax, citizens' defence force, an Australian navy, preferential voting,

Delegates Report on Big Laymen's Banquet in Interests of Missions

A most interesting meeting in connection with the laymen's missionary movement was held in St. Andrew's Church last night. A representative attendance was present and were greatly pleased with the addresses that were delivered. In fact the information was of somuch value and was so well given out that it was decided to have the two laymen give their talks from the pulpit some Sunday morning in the near future, whenall the men of the church will be expected to turn out.

After the devotional exercises, which were led by Rev. Mr. Potter, the chair was taken by Dr. McKinnon, who, in opening, expressed himself as greatly interested in the present movement. He felt that the great cause of the lack of interest in missions by the men in the past was owing to the fact that no sufficient information was furnished, and the scheme was considered more of a vision than a reality. Now, however, the business men of the churches had taken up the work and were conducting it in a businesslike way, and it was bound to be a success.

Mr. William Lees, public school inspector for the county, was one of the delegates who attended the laymen's banquet in Toronto recently, and he was called upon to give his report of that function. Mr. Lees dwelt upon the largness of the movement and the importances of it. He related several very interesting facts in connection with the convention and pointed out the necessity of every man doing his duty. It is proposed, in order to carry the undertaking into effect, to raise annually $4,500,000, and of this about $1,500,000 would be devoted to Christianizing the foreign population, which has been flocking pacifically to Canada during the past few years. With the presence of that degenerate class the Canadian people must either go down to their level or they must be raised to the Canadian standard, and the only way to accomplish this was to meet them upon arrival with the Bible and convert them early to the Canadian religion. To render the laymen's missionary movement successful it has been decided that every communicant in every Protestant church must contribute $5 a year, or 10 cents a week, which is indeed a small matter when considered in that light.

Mr. Clifford was also a delegate to the banquet, and in his report he took the view that the people should consider it their greatest privilege to support missions, as it was the Lord's last command, viz., "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." Mr Clifford gave a very interesting definition of mission work. In speaking to Hebrides the Lord said, "Now I am leaving you It is necessary for me to go to my Father's house, where I will prepare a banquet for you. I have purchased tickets for everyone, and I want you to go throughout the world and distribute those tickets and extend an invitation to all to come. You must live right, love one another, not that it alone will gain you admission to the banquet, but that you maybe happier on earth, and that you may enjoy the hereafter better. When I have everything ready on earth I will come again and escort you all to my Father's house. "As yes," said Mr. Clifford, "but one-third of the world has received the gospel, but to-day means of communication are so easy and the heathen people are so much more ready to receive the gospel, that a tremendous work should be accomplished during the next five years.

Will Hang on February 11th

(Special to the Times)

Brampton, Nov. 18.—The jury in the trial of Steven Suzyda for the death of Olecka Lesiuck, the young Austrian found dead in the bush last spring, returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Riddell sentenced the prisoner to be hung on February 11th.

Through the Northwest

Interesting Experiences of Two Canada Life Officials

There is a fascination about the Canadian Northwest owing to the adventures with Indians which characterized the life of the early settlers and later the exploits of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, whose record of success in the maintaining of law and order has spread far beyond the limits of Canada.

Life Echoes, the bright little paper of the Canada Life Assurance Company, devotes its current issue to the journeyings of two of its officials through the Northwest, treating very fully the exploits of the N.W.M.P. and also giving a graphic description of a great Indian procession held at Calgary last summer. This parade included representatives of every tribe belonging to Alberta, and it is said that in point of numbers and historical interest this procession will never be duplicated in the history of this country.

The paper is profusely illustrated and contains several views of the Indian procession and of the Northwest Mounted Police, as well as a great number of capital views of prairie scenes.

The number is beautifully printed on coated paper and the narrative, while written in racey style which commands the attention of the reader from first to last, contains, incidentally, a great deal of useful information as to the Northwest which would not ordinarily come under the eye of the average reader. It will perhaps come as a surprise to many to learn that the Canada Life has over $6,560,000 in western mortgages and debentures.

Taken altogether the paper is highly creditable to the great Company which has issued it, and we understand that the demand for the paper is very great.

Canada Life agents are busily distributing it amongst their clients, and a post card request to the Head Office of the Canada Life at Toronto will bring a copy by return mail.

He married a Toronto girl, who survives him, along with a 3-year-old daughter.

Infant Emperor Named Hsuan-Tung, Unrest in the Country

(Special to the Times)

Pekin, Nov. 18.—An edict was issued to-day declaring that the son of Tuyi, the infant Emperor of China, shall be named Hsuan Tung (proclaimed successor). This characteristic interpretation is taken as signifying the unification of the nation upon the reformed program of the throne.

Another edict was ordered by the Posthums for Kuang-Hsu in recognition of his merits. It enlarges upon the reformed program, to which the valedictory of the Emperor committed to the throne, and thus again commits the Government to the details as set forth in the program.

The Regent has set aside May 23 for the members of the foreign diplomatic corps in Pekin to appear in the forbidden city to express the condolence of their respective Governments in the death of the Empress and Emperor. Three members of each Legation will be received at 9 o'clock in the morning, and they will bow three times before the dead monarch's coffin and once before Prince Chung the Regent.

The Dowager Empress Yehenarh acting upon a memorial presented by the Princess has issued an edict reducing the number of days of mourning for the court to 100 days and that of the people to 70 days.

There is much dissatisfaction among the Chinese over the action of Prince Chung, who is handling the arrangements for the royal funeral. His career has just about come to an end.

The fourteen native banks which suspended payment a few days ago have started paying out money again from funds supplied by the Government to tide over the panic.

The city is under military control, and no outrages are expected. Ten thousand foreign drilled troops are detailed for duty.

Anglican Synod Holds Stormy Session--No Votes for Women

Special to the Times.

Victoria, B. C. Nov. 18.—The Anglican Synod which is in session here decided to-day not to grant votes to women in the vestry meetings. The Government was also petitioned to enforce the Lord's Day Act, and strongly complained against the moral conditions prevailing. Rev. Stanley Ard, rector of St. James, told of the conditions in the opium [illegible] Rev. Mr. Hall then [illegible] Chinaman, and [illegible] which drive them [illegible] The police say they are powerless. They say they should severely and fine the newspapers to expose the guilty ones. Capt. Oliver Willey expressed the opinion at this point that the newspapers should be reformed before correction of the politicians [illegible]

Family of Settlers Massacred at Santos

(Special to the Times)

Victoria, B. C. Nov. 18.—In a massacre on the Island of Santos in the New Hebrides, Peter C. Gried, aged 51 years, and his two daughters, Ada and Elizabeth, were murdered by a mob of natives, according to news brought here by the steamer Mamoe. Santos has been regarded as a Christian centre, and white settlers were believed to be safe there. The massacre took place a short distance from the mission station, to which place the 11-year-old son, the only survivor of the family, fled for safety. The settlers were surprised and tomahawked. His Majesty's ship Prometheus has been sent to the scene.

Patronage Lists to be Investigated

(Special to the Times)

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—It is stated that when all the departments of the governments are thrown open to a royal commission of investigation the newspaper patronage lists will also be brought into the limelight. This patronage, it is claimed, has been carried to a most absurd extent. Not only advertisements, but also news items affecting the country are retained for Liberal papers only.

Late Manager of Trader's Bank at Lakefield will be Interred in Toronto

Lakefield, Nov. 17—The remains of the late R. P. Davidson will be removed to Toronto to-morrow afternoon and interment will take place there on Friday. The deceased's father and brother arrived from Toronto to-day and are greatly grieved over the affair. It is understood that the bank officials who are here on the books stated to-day that so far as the bank was concerned everything was all right and they can see no reason for the late manager's act. The general opinion in the village is that business worries preyed upon him to such an extent that he could stand it no longer. There is general and sincere regret expressed for Mrs. Davidson, who is prostrated with grief.

Lakefield, Nov. 18.—a. m.—The tragic death of Mr. Davidson, manager of the Traders Bank here, has created a sensation in Lakefield and the surrounding country. He was looked upon as an ideal bank manager, he was almost over cautious in his management of the branchthat was entrusted to his care.

Mr. Davidson shot himself through the temple with a revolver about 6 o'clock last evening. The tragic affair took place in one of the outbuildings at the rear of the bank. He was unconscious when found and remained so until death came at 2.30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Harry Simpson, teller of the bank had an appointment with his manager, Mr. Davidson, for 6.30 o'clock. On returning to the bank he was unable to find the managers, and went out to the back of the building to see if he was there.

A terrible sight greeted the young man.

Mr. Davidson was lying on the floor with blood streaming from a bullet hole in his head. The revolver was lying on the floor.

The injured man's pulse was still beating, and Mr. Simpson at once spread the alarm. Dr. Baker and Dr. Fraser were summoned at once and the unconscious form of the manager was removed to his residence over the bank.

His wife and three-year-old daughter were in their home at the time and the shock to the wife was a terrible one. She is prostrated with grief.

The doctors were unable to do much for the victim of the tragic affair, and his pulse stopped beating shortly after 2.30 o'clock.

No one appears to have heard the shot, and nothing was known of the terrible affair until Mr. Simpson made the discovery.

The late Mr Davidson was 33 years of age and was a native of Toronto, where his parents now reside. He came to Lakefield as manager of the Traders' Bank when the branch was opened here in 1902. Five years ago

INSPECTOR THERE

An inspector of the Traders' Bank, Mr. Sherris, of Toronto, arrived in Lakefield yesterday morning and was working on the books of the bank. He would state nothing to-day as to the condition in which he finds the affairs of the bank. The superintendent of agencies of the Traders' Bank is expected here to-day.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—"It must have been an accident," said Mr. Strathy, general manager of the Traders Bank in Toronto, this morning. "The poor fellow had the brightest of prospects with our bank, and I understand his home relations were very happy indeed. It must surely have been an accident."

"Is there any suspicion of a shortage in his accounts?" was asked.

"None, whatever," replied Mr. Strathy, emphatically. "His accounts were perfectly straight and his financial standing exceedingly good. We know of no reason why he should have taken his own life."

Indian Runs 200 Miles a week

The woods a-full of Indian wonderal

Fred Whiteroft, the Peterbrough hockey player, now of Edmonton, who was one of the men behind Fred Simpson when he first jumped into the running game, has another Indian in view for the Hamilton Herald race next fall.

He is Fred Fraser, an Arctic Circ Indian, who does 200 miles a week, week in and week out, the year around, with a dog team carrying the mails north from Fort Chippewan Islands.

"Fraser is a big fellow like Fred Simpson, but better built," said Mr. Whiteriff this morning on his way through Toronto with the nucleus of the Edmonton hockey team for the Stanley Cup series. "He won the only two races he ever entered. In the first he did ten miles in 61 minutes, running in moccasins. I saw him do five miles over a sandy track in 28 minutes. He is a natural runner with a grand stride, and he is tireless. He is 21 years of age, and should be right for this Hamilton race next fall. We'll win that Herald cup yet for the west."

Whiteroft does not know much about Acoos, the other Western Indian wonder.—Toronto Star.

Japanese Shot his Wife

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—A Japanese rancher named Nagao was shooting rats under his house in North Vancouver this morning when his wife suddenly appeared in the back doorway. A bullet which went wide passed through her heart, killing her instantly.

Obstinate Face Sores

REFUSED TO CLOSE FOR 4 YEARS

Zam-Buk Healed them Inside Two Weeks.

Have you some eruption, or sore, or ulcer, or wound, on any part of your body which has hitherto refused to close, no matter how treated? If so, that is a case for Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm. The herbal saps and essences in this balm are so powerful that they can heal the worst cases of chronic sores, ulcers, blood poison and skin diseases. Here are proofs of this:

Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of North Bay, Ont, says: "I had a scaly spot as big as a ten cent piece on my face. I had it for four years, and hardly a night during that time went by but what I applied cold cream, or some ointment or other, but it would always be there. I recently applied Zam-Buk, and in little over a week's time the spot had disappeared completely."

Mrs S. J Hotsen, of 343 West Hannan St., Hamilton, says: "My little girl had a running sore on her leg which defied all treatment. I applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time the wound was closed. I have found Zam-Buk just as good for other skin troubles and injuries."

Mr. J. H. Hamilton, of Thornbury, says: "A friend of mine had an obstinate sore on her temple. It had been treated once or twice by a doctor, and would heal up for a short time, but would break out again. Zam-Buk healed it permanently, and it shows no sign whatever of returning."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin diseases and injuries, such as cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, psoriasis, ulcers, scalp sores, cold sores, chapped hands, itch, rashes, tetter, face sores, etc. It is also an unequalled embrocation, and rubbed well into parts affected cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, cold on chest, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto, upon receipt of price.

"All the Comforts of Home"

To-morrow night at the Grand Opera House "All the Comforts of Home" and the prizes for the winners of the Examiner road race will be presented. It is a long time since the local theatre-goers have seen anything that has tickled them so much as this delightful four-act comedy, and travellers who arrived in town on the evening of the last performance and who witnessed it did not know that it was an amateur show until they were told after the performance, and a peculiar coincidence was that nine-tenths of the people saw it both nights. The competitors of the road race will occupy the boxes free of charge, and the pupils of the Normal School and Collegiate Institute will occupy the best seats at one-half the regular price, and a bumper house may be expected. Miss Hullighan, Peterborough's favorite soprano, Miss Pearl Morgan and Messrs. A. B. Cutting and Mort Johnston will sing throughout the play. No one should miss it.

Italian Press Angry with American Press

(Special to the Times)

Rome, Italy, Nov. 18.—The Italian press is daily growing more resentful against the American press for their comment on the private affairs of the Duke of Abruzzi and Miss Kathleen Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins. The latest Italian comment appears in Italy Abroad, a review edited by Sig. Pelli former Secretary to former Premier Zanardelli. It is written by Sig. Montegazza, a staunch monarch supporter, and who is supposed to be the mouthpiece of the court. He says the Duke of Abruzzi was all ready to marry Miss Elkins without giving her the rank of royal highness, if she had been satisfied to become his wife only. This, however, she refused, not understanding that a girl in her position in Europe would have been glad to do. The Americans are confident that their dollars will buy even relationship to one of the oldest and most influential families of Europe.

Burridge and Fitzpatrick Bout Tuesday

When Harry Burridge and Ned Fitzpatrick look up next Tuesday night at the roller rink local wrestling fans will see one of the best exhibitions of the game that has been given in Peterborough in a long time. The boys are evenly matched as far as can be judged from their records and the form they have shown in their training, and it will be a battle that will bring the crowd to its feet all the way. Each man has a large following and there is considerable excitement among the sporting fraternity over the bout. Each is well scienced and fast, and there is no doubt that they will make it lively for each other throughout. That the bout is regarded as an even up proposition is shown by the fact that there is no betting so far over the contest.

Young Hackenschmidt's challenge to the local wrestlers that he will throw any five Peterborough grapplers in ten minutes is arousing much interest, and a number of local men who have been seen in action before will go on against the clever New Yorker, as no one outside of Gene Hurtubise is barred it begins to look as if Hack might have troubles of his own before he puts the bunch away.

A six-round boxing bout is also a likely preliminary. It will be a fine bill and should ensure a great night's sport. The rink will be heated and seating accommodation is being looked after.

Banquet in the George Street S. S.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the big banquet to be given in the interests of the laymen's missionary movement, when it was decided to hold the banquet in the basement of the George Street Methodist Church. That edifice is central and will accommodate as many if not more than any other place in the city which could be secured. Just who the speakers will be is not known. The committee are in communication with some but an answer has not yet been received. The banquet is to be held on Dec. 8th.

Dropped Dead in a Stratford Hotel

(Special to the Times)

Stratford, Nov. 18.—Standing at the bar in the Hotel Shakespeare gaily talking with some companions Jacob Arnold, son of Lawrence Arnold, expired very suddenly. The room was very warm and it was thought that he had only fainted, and he was carried out to the air. But when he did not recover a doctor was sent for and declared him dead. A coroner's inquest will be opened and the circumstances looked into.

Shrubb Coming to Peterborough

The announcement that Alfred Shrubb, the kingpin of all runners, is to appear at the Auditorium Roller Rink here on the evenings of Dec. 1, 2 and 3, has created intense interest in Peterborough, and no doubt a big crowd will avail itself of the opportunity to see the great little Englishman in action. So far no local runners have come forward in reply to the request that they should offer to go up against Shrubb in a relay race. None of the local amateurs wish to professionalize themselves to meet him, but Prof. Genno has not given up hope of inducing a number of speedy runners to take on the visitor from across the sea. The intention is to have relay races of from one to five miles. In the event of there being no runners to contest with Shrubb he will go on against a squad of roller skaters

Green Sickness

A DISEASE OF YOUNG GIRLS.

Interesting and Suggestive Advice that All should Read.

Many mothers will echo the conclusion expressed in a very interesting and suggestive letter written by Mrs. Zacharia Pollard, of Grand Bay. "It is one of the illusions of motherhood that once the diseases of childhood have been successfully passed a smooth road lies before their dear ones. Boys bruise themselves, or perhaps break a limb, but the physical history of the young girl, is subject to so many dangers, it is only when some great one has been successfully overcome that we realize how many dangers there are. My eldest child, a daughter, just as she had entered upon the sixteenth year, suddenly developed weakness, her color faded, some unpleasant heart symptoms indicated a lowered vitality of that organ, but strange to say she appeared plump. The bodily functions were obstructed, and a waxy or pallid, or yellowish skin gave her a ghastly look. The doctor's tonic failed to improve the symptoms, we decided to try Ferrozone so highly recommended in the newspapers. It was probably three weeks before any manifest change was noticeable, but once that Ferrozone checked the running-down process the upward advance was rapid. I suppose if I had neglected to give her Ferrozone she would have fallen into permanent ill-health, as it is I am deeply thankful that Ferrozone has completely restored my daughter to vigorous robust health."

No tonic so nourishing, as strengthgiving, as Ferrozone. It gives you a grand appetite, brings fine color, a healthy glow to the cheeks. If thin, you gain in weight. Think it over, Ferrozone is just what every person in poor health requires. Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Try Ferrozone today.

Marathon Racing Occupies Minds of Canada's Greatest Athletes

Marathon races were undreamed of a couple of years ago. To be sure, the Hamilton Herald was a pioneer in the field and for nearly half a dozen years its road race around Burlington Bay has been a feature each successive Thanksgiving Day. It was these races which brought forth Caffery Sherring and other good runners.

But when Sherring captured the Marathon in the land of its birth. This was the signal for the inauguration of near Marathons all over the fair Dominion. The big cities set the example. In Toronto the World race and in Montreal the Star contest operated to make the Marathon famous. The smaller cities and the towns soon followed suit, and to-day no cross roads village in the province is so insignificant as not to have its road-race for a prize offered by some prominent citizen, some enterprising local newspaper or some brewer in search of a free advertisement. During the summer just passed no church picnic was complete without the presence of Tom Longboat and a bunch of Tom Flanagan's other Irish-American-Indian-Scotch-Dutch runners. In the gathering dusk of the fall evenings the farmer driving on his homeward way has his steed frightened by the sudden apparation of a light-clad runner training with his attendant pace maker on a bicycle, while in the cities and towns the passengers jeer from the trolley platforms to shout a word of encouragement to the racers speeding along the pavement in their trial spins. Boys barely out of the nursery elude their mother's vigilence, strip off their coats and top shirts and start gamely off on five mile runs, while occasionally a father of a family remembers his prowess of former days and starts out to show his sons that he can still step out some. So far there have been no distance running races for girls, but there have been several big walking races in which the fair contestants have set marks that many a male pedestrian would find it difficult to equal.

Toronto, Hamilton, London, Guelph, Woodstock, Paris, Brantford, and Peterborough were a few of the many cities and towns where Marathon races were run on Thanksgiving day. Many interesting little incidents marked these races. In the Woodstock race, Law and Wade were running side by side in the lead, when Law noticed that Wade was in distress from thirst, as he had not been provided with any wet sponges. Law immediately handed one of his sponges to Wade. The two fought out the race gamely, but in the last furlong Law went ahead on a spurt and won by 20 yards.

The city of Brantford and the town of Paris are situated only 5 or 6 miles apart, with a fine road between. The Paris and Brantford races were both run over this road but in opposite directions the Paris racers starting from Paris and the Brantford runners from the Telephone City. In the Paris race the winner, Wood, of Brantford, was leading, when he met his fellow townsman Halle, who was trailing the Indians, Douglas and Harris, in the Brantford Marathon. Wood had a comfortable lead over his nearest opponent, and he wanted to stop and shake hands, but Lake had no time for friendly greetings. He pegged ahead and in the sprint at the finish passed the two red men and won by a short lead. Lake had let the Indians break the wind for him all the way through. He raced with his head as well as his feet, and adopted the tactics of the baseball coach, keeping up a running fire of chaff at his aboriginal competitors and telling them how he intended to beat the heads of them at the finish. It is probable that his success in winning was due in part to the manner in which he got the big fellows from the reserve rattled by his line of chatter. Henhawk, another Indian, was also entered but failed to show the speed appropriate to both his name and the traditions of his race.

In the Hamilton road race, the experts say that Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, would have won in another mile, as he was going very strong at the finish. Longboat had picked Holmer as the winner, and is said to have cleaned up a couple of hundred dollars on the eastern man's victory. The other Irish-Canadians had bet on their team mate, Lellan, but Longboat put form before sentiment in his wagering and had his reward.

In the five-mile race at London, a fourteen-year-old boy named Scott finished sixth in excellent time. Spectators who admired his gameness took up a collection and bought him a pair of running shoes.

The Canadian Amateur Athletic Union acted quickly and decisively in the case of Fred Meadows, the Guelph crack, who won the Quebec Telegraph road race under an assumed name. Immediately upon being satisfied of his guilt, the association cancelled his amateur standing. This action has been followed up by the suspension of nine London men who are accused of competing for coin at fall fairs and in other obscure races. President Merrick, who has just succeeded Deputy Police Chief Stark, as head of the C.A.A.U., is every bit as strict a stickler for absolute amateurism as was his predecessor, and any runners who depart from the straight and narrow path laid down by the C.A.A.U. will find themselves compelled to keep to the broad road of professionalism.

Meanwhile that stormy petrel of athletics, Tom Longboat, continues to keep the public, the sporting editors and his manager—or managers—guessing. In his own careless way, Tom signed up with two or three managers before he finally elected to let his old friend, philosopher and guide Tom Flanagan, steer him through the devious ways of professionalism, a task for which Flanagan is amply fitted by his experiences of the past couple of years in trying to keep the Indian in line in the Amateur ranks. Tom Claus, the Mohawk Indian with whom Longboat signed at first—threatens to attach the gate receipts of Longboat's first appearance as a professional in order to recoup himself for expenses to which

Montenegro Cuts Lines and Occupies Pass with Troops

Vienna, Nov. 18.—Advices received here from Cettinje, capital of Montenegro, declare that the telegraph line between Cettinje and Cattaro, a seaport of Austria, has been cut, and that Montenegro has mounted guns on the slopes dominating Cattaro, where Austrian warships have awaited developments.

Furthermore, Montenegro has occupied the Dug Pass leading into Herzegovina, with 8,000 troops.

Vienna, Nov. 18.—It is officially announced that in view of the increased necessity for protecting the frontier dwellers of Bosnia, who feel themselves threatened by the violent agitation in neighboring countries the Government has increased the strength of its troops in Bosnia by 6,000. Some newspapers think this number inadequate, in view of the hostile attitude of Servia, and the belief is general that this increase is only preliminary to further measures.

CHINA'S EMPEROR

Here is a pen picture of the late Emperor of China from one who saw him at the time of the Boxer outbreak:—

"His Majesty looks older than he really is. With sunken head and yellow face, he bowed shyly at the assembled diplomats, and his heavy eyes were lit up for the occasion by opium or morphia. A sorrowful, weary and rather childish smile played about his mouth. When his lips are parted his long, irregular yellow teeth appear, and there are great hollows in each cheek.

"His face is not entirely wanting in sympathy, but rather betoens indifference and from its features nothing of interest can be said. In fact, the impression me as being self-restrained, stolid, apathetic, wanting in capacity, worn out, and as though half dead. I felt that whatever passed before his eyes had not the slightest interest for him, and that it mattered not in the least to him whether he understood the meaning of the ceremony. I may, indeed, be wrong in my judgment, and it may be that the Emperor of China is a highly intelligent monarch, educated, well read, a keen student, and anxious for the welfare of his people. I may be entirely wrong, but I cannot believe that I am. A man who wears a look as if his life were a burden to him must surely be on the downward grade. I must be bold enough to reproduce the 'Son of Heaven' as I saw him and as he struck me, and not as others would wish me to picture him."

Whether the observer was correct in his estimate is never likely to be known for the Emperor had no real friends who would know him intimately, and his critics would see too little of him to have much information as to his character. None of earth's rulers is so far removed from the affairs of the world and the life outside as those who sit upon the throne in Pekin. The Emperor was a slave all the days of his life, both to the iron conservatism, of Chinese precedent, and to the will of his unscrupulous aunt, the Dowager. Nobility has a god" is a Chinese description of their Emperor, and there is no hope. When he was three years old, the sudden death of his cousin, the son of the redoubtable Dowager, left the way open for Tsai Tien, and a score of other baby princes. As the Dowager's hop had died without naming his successor, the right to nominate an Emperor fell to the Dowager, Tzu-Hsi, she whose Tsai-Hs., who was the child of her sister, also one of the numerous wives of Emperor Hien-Feng, who died in 1861.

The little prince was then about three years old, although some doubt exists as to the exact date of his birth. At once the young Emperor was put in training for ruling the vast Chinese Empire. He never played again. He was taught the Chinese language, and such other accomplishments as riding, fighting, the use of the bow, etc. The lessons began at 4.00 a.m. and continued intermittently until night. Under such a regime it is not surprising that the Emperor's growth was stunted, and that his physique never amounted to more than that of a frail child. In 1889, the Emperor being seventeen years old it was decided that the time had arrived for his marriage. At once a great number of "officers who enquire into heaven" were set to work to cast the horoscope of a couple of hundred of the likeliest candidates. After one sifting process had eliminated some of the unsuitable ones, the rest were sent over to be inspected by the Empress Dowager. They lived with her for some months, after which she chose Yeh-Hu-Na-Lan, and decreed her Empress.

The new Empress was a niece of the Dowager, and a cousin of the Emperor, and no doubt was selected because the wily old Tzu-Hsi felt that she would prove amenable to influence. There is no evidence to show that the Dowager made a mistake, but nevertheless, the Emperor, who had been as wax in her hands, inexpressibly shocked his aunt and startled the empire by symptoms of Westernism. It is related that as a child Western toys, such as miniature locomotives and battleships, had exerted a strong fascination for the little chap. Unknown to the Dowager, he made enquiries, and through devious channels there floated to him some of the ideas that were current in other countries. The result was that a remarkable series of edicts was issued in 1898. They included decrees for a national loan, a house and opium tax, army reform, foreign education, a bureau of agriculture, copyright and patent laws, schools and colleges.

In short, a programme that would have meant the sudden awakening of China was mapped out by the Emperor. The new regime would have ended once and for all the rule of the Dowager, it would have made short and many a head of state and backward, naturally the Dowager found plenty of powerful Chinese who were as much opposed to reform as she. Her methods of staying away the new ideas were crude. She simply ordered the assassination of those she suspected of sympathizing with progress, and made the Emperor himself a prisoner. Six the Emperor himself a prisoner. Six months later a new edict was issued abolishing the previous decrees. The Emperor had neither the energy nor the ability to battle with his aunt, and for the past ten years he was practically a prisoner, while the Dowager ruled China.

CHRISTMAS BUYING

A glance at the calendar will show you that there are only five Saturdays between now and Christmas. That means that there are less than six weeks in which the great volume of Christmas buying is to be done in this city. In a comparatively mild autumn most of us must have forgotten that the winter festival, the yearly season of gifts, is no more at hand.

A plea for early Christmas buying must be recognized as based in both humanity and common sense. If everyone is to put off his Christmas buying until the last week or even the last two weeks before Christmas, the men and women who serve behind the counters in all the commercial establishments, small and great, must be condemned to suffer an almost intolerable overwork and weariness on the eve o fthe great rejoicing. With everything at its best, there must be a certain amount of last day buying by persons whose means will not permit an earlier expenditure. But in the main the greater part of the Christmas buying will be done by people who might as easily begin now as four weeks hence.

In most, if not in all lines of goods the business establishments of Ottawa the business establishments of Peterborough, are ready to receive the Christmas purchasers. It would be a convenience not only to the merchants, but to their customers if the greater bulk of the purchasing were done before the last few days. Intending Christmas buyers would make no error if they began buying at once.

Will Make the Toronto-New York Run Again

New York, November 18.—McAughty, the Toronto Y.M.C.A. runner who made an effort to make a record between Toronto and New York last spring will shortly try again.

"On to New York!" is again the slogan of T. J. McAughey, the long-distance plugger, who last July ran from Toronto to New York by a route 617 miles long in 11 days and 20 hours. He will start next Monday, and travel afoot again, but will go it by a shorter route, and expects to cut a full day off the record. He will likely follow the Erie Canal towpath. William Potts of Toronto will start out with him on a wheel.

"What are you going down this time for?"

"Just to cut the record down," replied McAughey. "When I get there I will be in grand shape to take on Dorando, the Italian. I can get on any amount of races in New York. They take a big interest in this run in New York. I'm in great shape now. I weigh 138 pounds. I started out last time at 178, so you see I have seven pounds more to burn up on the run. I was down to 126 when I reached New York. At one time I was under 120 pounds. I was only eating one meal a day for several days. Say, if anybody wants to come along with me for any portion of the journey I will be delighted to have their company. City Hall."

I will start at 10 o'clock Monday from

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

From Across the Water

London, November 15.—The King is in trouble over his relatives. There have been agitated hurryings to and fro of the King's messengers between London and Hanover during the past few days, and the result of these excursions will assume the form of an official announcement soon to be made, cancelling the expected visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland to Windsor Castle. This august couple have not visited England together for many years, and they were looking expectantly to the contemplated trip. The King, however, has decided that the present time is not auspicious for Cumberland's visit, in view of the fact that the Duke is an open enemy of the Kaiser, and the latter's Daily Telegraph interview has intensified the situation.

London, November 17.—The whole country is in a mood for charity, at the moment. Queen Alexandra taking the lead by authorizing the publication in the form of a Christmas gift book of various photographs taken by herself, the profits to be devoted to specified charities.

This volume was published Thursday last, and on the same day an appeal to the well-to-do to render personal service among the London poor was issued by a committee of eight, including Mrs. Asquith, wife of the Premier; Gerald Balfour, Dorothy Gladstone, wife of the Home Secretary; the Duke of Norfolk, Mrs. Millicent Garett Fawcett, widow of Henry Fawcett; Mrs. Humphry Ward, and the Marquess of Salisbury.

A novel feature of the scheme is what may be name dthe expansion of the slumming idea.

"We ask earnestly for funds, and appeal for the names of men and women who will undertake throughout the winter to visit regularly one or more families in the poorer districts of London, and offer themselves as friends and helpers in any difficulties that arise."

For Custody of Children

Paris, November 18.—The attorneys for Princess de Sagan characterized as untrue the statement published in a local newspaper that the Princess had actually entered suit for separation from the Prince. It was said the Princess contemplated this step in the belief that it would increase her chances of success in her pending suit for the custody of her three children by Count Boni de Castellane. It is understood that a hitch has developed in the negotiations looking for a settlement of the custody suit. The case probably will come up for hearing on Wednesday.

ROCHESTER FLOODED

Rochester, N. Y., November 18.—With the end of the season of navigation only two weeks away, the worst freak in the Erie canal in this section this year occurred between locks 61 and 62 in the twenty-first ward yesterday afternoon. A large area of low land in the eastern part of the city was flooded with from two to four feet of water. Every cellar and basement within the district was flooded, sewer work in Park avenue was stopped, and the running of cars between Winton Road and Park avenue was suspended for the rest of the day.

.....The..... Plow Woman

By Eleanor Gates

"O. K. I'm with you."

A scout who understood the sign language was dispatched to the stockade. And by the time the braves were settled down before the blaze Colonel Cummings, Matthews and a detail of armed men were before the aperture of the medicine lodge.

The soldiers waited outside the big wigwam, where they made themselves comfortable by moving up and down. Their commanding officer and the interpreter went in. At their appearance the warriors rose gravely, shook hands and motioned the white men to take seats upon a robe placed at Lame Foot's left hand. The air in the place was already beginning to thicken with kinnikinick and fire smoke. The mingled smell of tobacco and skins made it nauseating. Colonel Cummings would gladly have hurried his errand. But Indian etiquette forbade haste. He was forced to contain himself and let the council proceed with customary and exasperating slowness.

The first step was the pipe. A young Sioux applied a burning splinter to a sandstone bowl and handed the long stem to the medicine man. His nostrils filled he gave the pipe to Colonel Cummings, from whom in turn it passed to Matthews, Standing Buffalo, Canada John and thence along the curving line of warriors. When all had smoked the bowl was once more filled and lighted, and once more it was sent from hand to hand. Not until this ceremony had been repeated many times did the council come to speech.

But neither the commanding officer nor his interpreter made the first address. Though the braves guessed that something unusual had brought about an assembly at this hour and though their curiosity on the subject was childishly live, they surpassed their captor in patience. Stolidly they looked on while Lame Foot rose to his feet.

The war priest was not the figure that had led the band south after the battle—not the haughty, stately brave that the sentimentalist loves to picture. He was feathered and streaked as before. A stone mallet hung from his belt. But he wore no string of bears' claws. They had gone the way of the sutler, which was a tasty way, strewn with bright labeled but aged canned goods. And as for his embroidered shirt, it was much soiled and worn, and he had so gained in weight—through plentiful food and lack of exercise—that he pranced out upon it deplorably with a bulging paunch.

He used few words, but they were forcible.

Pompously, but using no gestures of inflections, he began a rambling, lengthy account of his past deeds of valor. From these he finally swerved to the recital of his people's wrongs. He climaxed after an interminable amount of talking with a boast that awakened the hearty approbation of his stolven fellows. "We but wait for the winter to go," he said, "for in the spring we shall have freedom. Our brothers, who are sly as foxes and swift as hawks, will sweep down upon the pony soldiers and slay them."

He sat down amid a chorus of "Hi hoh!" The semicircle moved and bent and nodded. It was plain that he had expressed a common belief.

There was one Indian not of the council to whom his words meant more than freedom. That Indian was Square Charley. A moment after Colonel Cummings' arrival the pariah had crept noiselessly into the lodge and lain down in the shadows. From there, careful all the while to be quiet and to keep himself well screened, he

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all, unable cases of the heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wedges, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is never one real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with-out help. We will, and in confidence recommend

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tried her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well,, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Watmore, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headaches. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me., and for the past eight months my health has been perfect. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring, vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old, and guaranteed to bring renewed activity and strength to every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Timber vs. Mines

There is considerable difference between a timber proposition and a mining deal. A mining prospectus bubbles over with magnificent "surface indications" that it takes thousands of dollars to verify and hundreds of thousands to develop if it does turn out good, as occasionally does happen. In the timber deal the goods are all on the surface, open for inspection and ready for delivery. All that is necessary is a report from a reliable source as to quality, quantity and location, and if the timber is bought right there is a fortune in it for the lucky stockholders.

Finance Committee to Meet

The finance committee will meet in the city clerk's office this afternoon at 4 o'clock. All the members are requested to be present.

Last Trip

The steamer Monarch will leave to-morrow for Rice Lake, when she will tie up for the winter. On her down journey she will carry a cargo of wood for the Lake ports.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Canadian Club will be held in the council chamber this evening for the purpose of electing officers and transacting other business. Rev. Canon Davidson will give an address on his trip to Europe.

Shakespeare Class

Mr. Mowatt's Shakespeare Class, which is conducted under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., will meet this evening as usual. All young ladies are invited to join this class, as it is very interesting and instructive.

Runaway Horse

On Wednesday morning about 11.20 o'clock Dr. Leech's horse became frightened at a car near the corner of Dublin and George streets and ran away. The buggy struck an electric light pole and the wheels were badly smashed. The horse was re-captured further up George street.

Rheumatism promptly driven from the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. Don't waste time with common remedies. A test will surely tell. In tablet or liquid form. Sold by all druggists.

Masonic Lodge of Instruction

A lodge of instruction for the 20th district will be held in the Masonic Hall here on Wednesday, Nov. 25th. There will be an afternoon and evening session and it is expected that a number of brethren of the craft from lodges in the district will be in attendance.

Parnell St. Main

Mr. Jack Thirnbeck, in charge of 34 men, has begun work on the water main on Parnell street, which is being built from Park street, 500 feet along Parnell street. The mains on Rutherford avenue and Patterson street were concluded on Tuesday.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

Will Lecture

Bills are out for the wrestling bout between Burridge and Fitzpatrick in the roller rink on Monday next, Nov. 23rd. Besides the main bout, which will be a good one, there will be first-class preliminaries. The rink will be heated and found very comfortable, and the seating accommodation is very good.

After the Mink

A number of Indians from Hiawatha are encamped at a point about five miles east of the city, where they are engaged in trapping mink and any other animals that are in season. The men who have formerly had good catches at this point state that the Indians are getting all the game. Mink skins are worth something these days and the Indians will stay in their tepees until they have caught everything in sight.

Beaverton Man was Injured

By slipping and falling on the pavement on Charlotte street yesterday morning about 10.30 o'clock, Mr. George Woodward, a Beaverton traveller, had his face badly gashed and bruised, his worst injury being a deep cut over his left eye. He also sustained several other gashes and wounds. He was taken to his hotel, where his injuries were attended to by a physician. Mr. Woodward intends to leave for his home in Beaverton at once. He is much weakened after, had his face badly gashed and by his injuries and the shock of the fall.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

Unless you are an intelligent thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true honest medicine of known composition, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famous medicine is advised.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of, each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authoritative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Personal

Miss Dell Carey has returned home after visiting her parents in Omemee for a week.

Mr. George Cleary, of Gore's Landing, Rice Lake, is in the city for a day or two on business.

Mrs. R. F. McWilliams will not receive again this month owing to her absence from the city.

A clergyman writes: "Preventics, those little Cand Cold Cure Tablets are wonders in my parish." Preventics surely will check a cold, or the Grippe in a very few hours. And Preventics are so safe and painless. No Quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

The Times had a call from Dr. Alex. Bell, the genial and efficient clerk of Burleigh and Anstruther, who was in town on business on Wednesday. Dr. Bell was accompanied by Mr. Brown, of Apsley.

The report of an especial communication of the Grand Lodge, Saskatchewan, A. F. & A. M., is signed by John M. Shaw, Grand Secretary. Dr. Shaw, formerly of Keene, and at present at Regina, evidently takes as large an interest in matters Masonic as when he lived in this vicinity.

A marvellous trial reading of character by the well-known scientific phrenologist, Prof. McKellar, L. V., 21 Beaconsfield avenue, Toronto, whose public blindfold tests prove the reliability of phrenology. Send address and 10 cents silver. Enclose photo when possible. Will return with reading.

Tuesday evening at the George Street Methodist parsonage, the marriage took place of Miss Maude Brewer, of Peterborough, and Mr. Charles Williard Dallier, also of this city. Rev. E. A. Pearson performed the ceremony and the couple were unattended. The groom is a popular member of the tailoring staff of H. LeBrun & Co. Mr. and Mrs. Dallier will take up their residence at 260 Euclid avenue.

A very happy event took place recently at the home of Mr. Allen Eson, Otonabee, when his eldest daughter, Winnifrid, was united in marriage to Mr. C. B. Resor, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Keene, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Mrs. A. S. Morrison (nee Maud Breeze), formerly of Peterborough, but now of Chicago, Ill., gave a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kyle, who were appearing in the Chicago Opera House, Chicago, this week. Mrs. Morrison was assisted by her mother, Mrs. D. Breeze, who is spending the winter with her daughter at 3910 Erie avenue, South Chicago.

Annual Meeting of City Hockey League

Next Tuesday night will be an important occasion for all the city hockey enthusiasts. It will be the annual meeting of the City Hockey League, and it is expected that there will be a very large turn-out. The boys connected with all the clubs are enthusiastic, and the season promises to be a very prosperous one. There should be six or more teams entered this year, and the class of hockey will be greatly superior to former years. At Tuesday night's meeting the reports on last year's business will be read and the election of officers will take place.

Auburn Girls will Have a Reading Circle

A new feature in the social life of the girls living at Auburn was introduced by Miss McCalla, Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., last night. Miss McCalla invited the girls to meet at the Union Sunday School for the purpose of organizing a reading circle in connection with the Y. W. C. A. work. Needless to say a large number of girls were present and it is expected that the coming winter will witness many very pleasant and profitable gatherings in the Union Sunday School, and also that a much greater interest in the Y. W. C. A. work will result.

Mr. D. O'Connell was Elected President of the Canadian Club

Splendid Address by Rev. Canon Davidson "The Political Evolution in Great Britain."

Canada Wants National Ideas

A very successful annual meeting of the Peterborough Canadian Club was held in the city council chamber last night. The attendance was not as large as it should have been, but the meeting was a profitable one. Rev. Canon Davidson gave an excellent address on some phases of his trip to England, and furnished much valuable information.

Mr. D. O'Connell is the new president, and he is supported by a splendid lot of officers, so that the club gets under this year to a fine start and should be of a decided influence in the community.

The nominating committee appointed to choose the officers' executive committee reported as follows—

President—D. O'Connell.

First Vice—H. R. H. Renner.

Second Vice—D. Cameron.

Sec.-Treasurer—E. L. Goodwill.

Executive Committee—J. B. Larmouth, A. H. Stratton, Rev. J. Keith, T. F. Matthews, S. R. Armstrong, J. S. Hodgson, H. Le Brun, D. Hughes-Charles.

The report was adopted on motion of Mr. Montesambert and Mr. Morris.

President F. D. Kerr occupied the chair, and shortly after 8 o'clock he called the meeting to order and asked for the reading of the minutes, which were adopted.

Mr. Kerr stated that the club last year, although a limited number of meetings were held, the addresses here were of such a nature that the club plays an important part in this community. He thanked the club for their support the past year and bespoke for a similar support to the new president and officers.

Mr. O'Connell, the new president, upon taking the chair, expressed his pleasure at the honor conefrred upon him. He congratulated the retiring officers upon the success which they had achieved the first year in the history of the Peterborough Canadian Club. He stated that he would endeavor to do all in his power to make the next year as great a success and to advance it a step farther.

Rev. Canon Davidson was called upon to address the club upon his re-cent trip to England. He stated that to give an account of his trip would be impossible, but he would refer to a few features in the characteristics of the English. He made a special study on his trip of the people and while attending the conference he had the opportunity of seeing life there as would be impossible to the ordinary traveller. He said that the political condition of England was now undergoing a very radical change. The influence of labor upon the government never was so prominent. No other government had attempted such advanced legislation as has the present one. He referred to the very strong feeling of opposition to the government's licensing bill among the people.

Socialism is sweeping like a flood over northern England and part of the central portion. It was no wonder, either, when it is considered that the land is all owned by comparatively few people. He heard a socialistic lecture by Rev. R. J. Campbell, one of the great leaders of the Socialists. He used such strong arguments that he was able to convince the whole of the large audience present. That gentleman prophesied that the next Parliament would see about five times as many labor members as there are at present, and that the time is coming when England will go over to the side of socialism. He spoke of the English voter, who was easily influenced and could be induced to vote either one way or another.

Canon Davidson referred to the great chasm which existed between the upper and lower classes in England. On one side there was the very highest standard of honor, while another class seemed to despise everyone but himself. The average Englishman is thoroughly alive to his own importance, while the lower classes are as thoroughly (and willing to be so) dependent upon charity. They possess no desire whatever to work, while he is willing to accept payment for work he does not do. It is from this class that the vast majority of those coming to Canada come from.

Referring to the poor of England Canon Davidson stated that they lead happy, careless lives. They do their love making in the open streets in a most astonishing nature. They spend every available cent on drink and cheap amusements, while every man always has his pipe in his mouth. These men come to Canada. When the houses of refuge are being erected there should be every effort put forth to make the inmates work and develop a standard of self-respect.

Speaking of the woman's suffrage in England he stated that he saw the great procession of suffragettes, and he was surprised to find that it was composed of highly respectable women. They are determined to obtain the franchise, and the speaker was converted to a supporter of the movement. He gave a graphic description of the suffragettes' movement. In closing the speaker stated that an Englishman at the Archdeaconal Conference in Lindsay week had said that while he had been in Canada he had utterly failed to see that there was anything about the Canadian people which went to make up a nation. There was great talking about the vastness of the acreage and of the crops and the resources, but nothing of the higher qualities or great principles. While this was not pleasant, there was, nevertheless, considerable truth in it.

Mr. L. M. Hires moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Canon Davidson for his very learned and instructive address. The motion was seconded by Mr. P. Campbell and carried unanimously.

President D. O'Connell, in tendering the thanks of the club to Canon Davidson, emphasized the splendid lesson which the speaker of the evening had pointed out. There is one thing prominent among the people of Canada, and that is their continual bragging about the vastness of our material wealth, while we forget those great ideals of national character which make a man love his country and which possess him with a desire to assist in the uplifting of his fellow man. This was a duty especially for the Canadian Club, and it should be one of the main features of the club.

Mr. T. F. Matthews was to have given an address also, but he was called out of town at the last moment.

The meeting then adjourned.

Little Girl Killed by an Electric Car at Dundas

Special to the Times.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—An appalling accident occurred in Dundas to-night about 5 o'clock which resulted in the death of Violet Morten, a 12-year-old girl. She was crossing the electric railway crossing when her foot stuck between a rail and a plank and held her fast. When a car from the city approached she waived her hand at the motorman to stop, but he thought she wanted to get on, and continued his car until it was too late. When the car was about to strike her she threw her body over to the side, but the wheel crushed her leg up to the knee. She died at 10 o'clock to-night. The coroner will open an inquest.

Sovereign Bank Building Sold

Special to the Times.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—The Sovereign Bank building on St. James street, one of the most important buildings in the Montreal business district, has been sold to the Commercial Insurance Company for $300,000.

Crummer Charged with Perjury

Chatham, Nov. 19.—Ernie Crummer, a well known horse driver and trainer, against whom a charge of perjury was preferred by F. H. Briscoe, was sent up for trial by Judge Hurston. He was released on $500 bail. Crummer formerly drove Briscoe's horse, Golden Briscoe.

Tom L. Johnston is Bankrupt

(Special to the Times.)

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 19.—Mayor Tom C. Johnston, who has on several occasions been mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, and who was reported to be a millionaire several times over, to-day announced that his entire fortune had been lost. He would be compelled to give up his home on Euclid avenue and also dispose of his automobile. He added that a large portion of his fortune had been spent in the law courts in an effort to save the property which had been left by his brother, Albert Johnston.

By-Law to Raise $21-000 Will be Submitted to the People

$6,000 for Expenses on the Water Front and $15,000 for street Extensions Will be Voted on in January

Two by-laws were ordered to be prepared for submission to the ratepayers at the municipal election in January. These are in the form of money by-laws and were discussed by the finance committee yesterday afternoon. One is for $6,000 for the purpose of meeting the expenditure on the water front between Simcoe and King streets. Some two or three years ago that land was covered with water, but is now reclaimed and is an ideal place for manufactories, granaries, docks or railway sidings, and is worth many thousands of dollars to the city. The earth used in the filling was secured from the Department of Public Works when a bridge was erected in digging a channel from the C. P. R. bridge to the Quaker Oats Company's mills. The Government has deeded the property over the C.P.R. tracks free of any cost to the city. It was necessary, however, for the city to extend the streets, and this cost will be considerable money. A lot therefore is required, and it is to be obtained at the same time as the by-law is prepared to submit for $6,000 allows $1,000 for future expenditure. Thus to reclaim a property worth only $20,000 has cost only $5,000.

The other by-law is for $15,000 to cover the cost of street extensions, which include extending George street south, Aylmer street south, except through one park lot, Hunter street east to the Lift Lock, and grading all these streets, as well as some shorter pieces, also to provide for the opening of Wescott street across the park lot and continuing it to Lock street. The total of the two by-laws is $21,000.

The finance committee also authorized that a by-law be prepared extending the time for selling the land in arrears of taxes.

On motion it was recommended that 500 copies of the Industrial Edition of the Morning Times be purchased.

On motion Mrs. M. King was refunded $2 dog tax.

The chairman and Ald. Scrannen were appointed a committee to settle the taxes on lots 12 and 13, plan 26, part of which were taken for the extension of Aylmer street.

It was decided that the rate of interest on debentures this year be on the basis of 4 1-4 per cent. and on sinking fund on the basis of 3 1-2 per cent.

The city trust commissioners will be asked if any of the city's debentures are short of the sinking fund account.

Owing to existing circumstances it was decided that the previous intention to widen Louis street be abandoned and for the present no action will be taken.

Sensational Charges Against the Police and License Commissioners

Special to the Times.

Hamilton, Nov. 19.—Sensational charges were made at a public meeting held here to-night against the police, police commissioners and license commissioners for alleged lack of a proper administration of the law in regard to disorderly houses and liquor places.

George Rutherford presided in the absence of Sir Thomas Taylor. Peter Bartram got off a hot roast on the authorities in general. He said the case of William Burgess, recently disposed of by Judge Snyder, was only one of many such cases of which he had information. He drew attention to the factthat young girls are decoyed into the houses of fourteen, where they are subjected to all manner of immorality. He knew of at least twenty girls used in this way during the last two years, and he added that a number of girls had been removed from those houses since the Burgess case was in the limelight. There is good evidence that there is more work of this kind to be done. Mr. Burtram also made reference to the place where the murder and suicide took place recently and remarked that it had been tolerated until that deplorable crime was committed.

A Sensation Promised in Montreal

Montreal, November 19.—People who know say that the civic investigation which is bound to follow upon the charges made by Aldermen Robinson and Carter in regard to "graft" in connection with civic purchases will be one of the most sensational things that has happened in Montreal.

It is years since such an investigation has been held and possible grafters have had ample time to become careless. Some of the highest officials in the city government may be mixed up in this.

They are already excusing themselves on the ground that they have acted under "verbal" instructions of aldermen. The Montreal Star asks that Judge Cassels be appointed to make the investigation.

Wife Has Right to go Through Pockets

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—A woman has some rights, and they include the searching of her husband's pockets, according to a decision of Judge Mullowney, of the District of Columbia police court. "It shows the interest a woman has in you," the court held. "It shows that she loves you. A woman who does not go through the pockets of her husband does not love him. You have been married long enough to know a woman has some rights, Ridgway."

The defendant, George Ridgway, was arrested yesterday on his wife's complaint that he threatened to knock her head off, and he objected to his wife taking liberties with his pockets while he slept. The defendant said they "sometimes got along fine and sometimes scrapped."

"That is the way with all regulated families," declared the court. "Go buy your wife some chrysanthemums."

Ridgway was put under bond to keep the peace.

Conservative Club Hold Annual Meeting

A most enthusiastic and a very largely attended annual meeting of the Young Conservative Club was held in the rooms last night. As far as the attendance was concerned it was the largest that has ever been held. Besides the election of officers a lot of business was put through, including a decision to make several minor improvements to the club's quarters. It was also decided to restrict the club in future to members of the Conservative party only. Several expressed the opinion that the club should live up to its name. In the past the rooms have been open to all young men of any party.

The financial report was presented and showed the club to be in a flourishing condition. It is in better shape than ever before. The indebtedness is now very small, while there is a large stock on hand, so that the next year should be a very prosperous one.

The speeches delivered during the evening were hearty and very optimistic, and all were in favor of a continuance of the weekly smokers during the coming winter. This feature of the club in the past has proved to be very entertaining and profitable.

Ald. Fuller, who has been President during the past year, and upon whom has devolved a great deal of work, as there have been two general elections during his term of office, asked to be relieved of the presidency on account of a pressure of business. He recommended that Mr. J. H. Burnham, who has already had some experience as president, be elected.

The following officers were then elected—

Hon. President—James Kendry, re-elected.

Hon. Vice-President—T. E. Bradburn, re-elected.

President—J. H. Burnham.

Vice-President—C. N. Brown.

Financial Secretary—R. J. Martin.

Rec. Secretary—Peter Gardner.

Treasurer—James Lang.

The Executive Committee was also appointed.

Auditor—James Lang, who succeeds G. B. Van Blaricom, who has left the riding.

A motion of confidence in Hon. R. L. Borden and James Whitney were enthusiastically carried.

God Save the King.

A High Official was Suspendped

(Special to the Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—A. E. Burnett, of Montreal, Supreme Controller of the Union of St. Joseph's Society of Canada, has been suspended by President Seguin. Several other members have also been suspended, but their names are withheld. This action is the result of a suit brought by L. Decouer, a member of the society, to recover $60,000 from Burnett on the grounds that this money was paid over by the society improperly. Burnett is a Montreal broker and disposed of the debentures and mortgages of the organization.

U. S. Customs Officials Arrested a Canadian on Canadian Territory

(Special to the Times.)

Emerson, Man., Nov. 19.—Considerable indignation is felt to-day over what is termed the high-handed action of the United States immigration officials. Late last night Immigration Officer Smith went to James McQueen's house and forcibly ejected him and took him across the border and placed him under arrest. McQueen is wanted in Fergus Falls, Minn., and will be given a hearing at the assizes which open there to-morrow. For some time the U. S. officials have thought that they could arrest Canadians in Canada whenever it suited their experience. It appears now as if there will be trouble.

Lord Fairfax a Native of Virginia

London, November 19.—The committee on privileges of the House of Lords to-day declared the right of Albert Kirby Fairfax, who is a native of Virginia, and who has been described as the only American bearing an English title, to the rank and title of Lord Fairfax of Cameron in the Scottish peerage.

The committee heard evidence on this matter for two hours. J. A. Barrett, Lord Fairfax's attorney, presented the Fairfax family Bible and much documentary evidence to prove his client's descent. The Attorney-General for the Government and the Lord Advocate of Scotland declared themselves as satisfied regarding the validity of the claim and Lord Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice, pronounced the decision of the court.

This decision does not give Lord Fairfax a seat in the House of Lords. Only a limited number of Scottish peers, elected by the Lords, sit in the House.

HOCKEY

A meeting was held in the Examiner office last night with the intention of organizing a junior city league, but only two teams were represented, and consequently little could be accomplished. However, the representatives of the Chieftains and the Otonabee Athletic Club were anxious that the league be organized and as it is likely the T. A. S. will put a team in, and a big effort will be put forth to secure a fourth club. The proposition of a junior league is a good one and it would be in the interests of hockey to make it go. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday night, when the officers will be elected and the organization got under way.

Fear of Revolt in China is Growing

Pekin, Nov. 19.—China is beginning to realize that the Emperor and Empress Dowager are dead. The Chinese had been so accustomed to regard the Dowager as the person dominating all, that the announcement of her death caused at first little change in their unemotional natures, but to-day there is marked change. Prince Chun, the regent of the empire, in fear of the increasing excitement and revolutionary movements, has taken a firm grip on affairs, and has adopted stringent measures, which will result in the maintenance of peace, for a time at least.

At noon three thousand gendarmes guarded the streets, and other military forces were held in readiness for any emergency. Every precaution was taken to prevent a recurrence of the revolutionary tactics of last April and May, which were marked by widespread incendiarism. The foreign legations are under guard, special detachments of Chinese troops keeping watch at the approaches, and in some cases the regular legation guards have been reinforced from other places. Fifty Highlanders from Tientsin were added to the British forces to-day.

The statement was made, however, at the legations, that there was no fear that the Chinese government would be unable to afford ample protection, but those within the legations were more alert than usual and seemingly anxious to have set at rest the doubts arising from the swift occurrences of the last few days.

There are many incidents to add to the sinister aspect of affairs. Rumors were current for a time that the new Dowager Yei Ho-Na-La, and Yuan Shi Kai, the Grand Councillor and one of the most powerful men in the Empire had committed suicide. Though there was no truth in these reports, they went far towards disturbing the people and creating alarm among Chinese and foreigners alike, who realize how delicate the political balance is at the present moment.

STOMACH DERANGEMENT

Mrs. Scholes' Case like that of Thousands Cured by the Celebrated Tonic Ferrozone.

This is but one example of the weakness, the dull aching weariness that afflicts so many homes today.

Hundreds of women, single and married, will recognize in Mrs. Scholes' statement symptoms from which they suffer continually.

Almost instant in its wonderful results, better than any other tonic in the world is Ferrozone. All other medical discoveries seem as nought compared with the vital kissing health Ferrozone so surely brings.

PROOF OF CURE.

"People in ordinary circumstances find sickness the greatest burden of all," writes Mrs. W. S. Scholes, the wife of a well-known citizen in Russell. But the mother with young children must keep going whether sick or well. This was my plight just before my third child was weaned. I been in week and pale, and at night I was so weary that I ached all over. I slept poorly, suffered with indigestion and headaches that almost blinded me.

"At last, when thin, wrinkled and hollow-cheeked, I was urged to use Ferrozone. For the first time in years I enjoyed the dawn from headaches, my appetite picked up, I grew strong-er, I fit better and slept soundly. You can't imagine my joy in seeing my strength, color and spirits returning. Week by week I improved, gained eleven pounds and have been robust ever since."

Because Ferrozone invigorates—braces—builds up—because it will make you feel the exultant thrill of vitalizing blood and strong nerves—because it will give you comfort, energy, sound lasting health, these are a few of the reasons why you should use Ferrozone. Sold by all dealers. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Try Ferrozone. Do it today.

The Bishop of London's Remarkable Address on Socialism

The Bishop of London delivered a remarkable address at Christ Church, Mayfair, when the Rev. Eric M. Farrar was inducted as the new vicar of that church. The Bishop began by referring to the fact that the new vicar came to Mayfair from Hoxton.

"If you look around London", he said "you will scarcely find a poorer part than Hoxton or a richer part than Mayfair, and that faces us with this difficulty. Why should there be rich, and why should there be poor? Why is it that God, although he loves the child born in Hoxton as much as the child born in Mayfair, gives such an unequal lot to the children whom we are taught He equally loves? I left the Church Congress at Manchester discussing the great social problem, and it opened up the great question. What is the gospel to the rich? At the Pan-American Congress speeches were made declaring that the whole of the present system was wrong, and that society should be reconstructed—that land and the means of production should be owned not by individuals, but by the municipality and the people.

"Those who hold what are called socialistic views of the problem are perfectly justified in spreading their views if they can see a means of spreading the post office system to other industries. If they can change the present system without interfering with vested interests, and without robbing a single person of anything he rightfully possesses, then that solution is an economic solution which any Christian may hold if it commends itself to him. What I protest against is approaching the solution as the only one binding the Christian conscience. Before I can take on economic grounds that Socialistic solution of the problem, which is ever present to me as I try to work day by day among the rich and poor alike, I ask why it is that the old American colonies never succeeded on such lines. It was only when each man got something for his labor that those colonies became what they did. In Russia I find that one of the great causes of poverty and misery is that the villagers own land in common. I cannot as Bishop sanction the whole power of the church on behalf of an economic solution which may be wrong.

"If on economic grounds we reject that solution of the problem, what is the gospel for the rich? I believe there are five points about it. The first is justice. It was the Christian Church which by its insistence on justice abolished slavery in Rome. There should be justice for the poor who get 1s. 6d. for making an article sold for a guinea. The rich have great power in their hands, and in making their purchases do they inquire as to the conditions under which the articles they buy are produced? If they hurry on their orders, do they realize the extra work and hours they are giving to some poor seamstress? On the other hand, when a young employer is trying to keep his head above water against German competition it is unjust to him that his men should agree among themselves to turn out only a particular number of articles a day, and thus ruin their employer?

"The second great thing is equality of opportunity. It is impossible for there to be perfect equality in the world because of the differences between gifts and nobilities in different people, but there ought to be equality of opportunity. Third, in the gospel to the rich there must be emphasized the supremacy of righteousness. What does so much harm in the East End are the stories which reach them from West London. What the rich have to understand is that the only true aristocracy is the aristocracy of character. Every story of some disgraceful marriage from the West End undermines Christian work in the East End. Fourth, we have to preach the reality of religion. Twenty-five years ago it was hard for a young man, because the world of science told us that nothing was real that could not be seen but now it is very much the other way. Last there must be in the gospel to the rich more insistence laid on the great brotherhood of the Church. That means that every rich man shall look on his wealth in the light of his being a steward of it. It does not really belong to him, but he has it in trust for his poorer brothers. The rich need as much spiritual health as the poor, if not more."

Good Offer for Assets of York County Loan

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Shareholders of the York County Loan and Savings Company will be glad to hear that the liquidators have received an offer for the unsold real estate of the company which represents an increase in the value of that portion of the company's assets of nearly fifty per cent. of the original estimate.

At the date of liquidation the National Trust Company obtained a modest valuation of the real estate which was returned at $878,999. They have disposed of nearly $500,000 worth and have just refused an offer of $700,000 for the balance. The offer was made two weeks ago by the Assets Realization Company, of Chicago.

The National Trust Company consider the offer altogether too low as there are between 30,000 and 40,000 feet of frontage unsold. After careful computation they have concluded that they could not recommend the acceptance of an offer under one million dollars. The frontage already sold is about 6,000 feet only.

Mr. Putnam would not say that he would not negotiate further with the liquidators, though he considered he had made a liberal offer.

At the rate the liquidators had been acting, it would take fifteen years to sell the balance, and the probable increase in the dividend would perhaps be ten per cent. On the basis of his offer, he figured that the shareholders would receive over fifty per cent., which should be gratifying and better than six per cent. on fifteen years' time.

John A. Derbyshire was Committed for Trial

(Special to the Times.)

Brockville, Nov. 19.—Magistrate D. M. Deakin to-day committed for trial John A., son of Senator Dan Derbyshire, on a charge of bribery on election day, Oct. 26. Council for the defence pressed upon the magistrate that in his opinion that even if the evidence of the prosecution was absolutely correct, it was not sufficient to warrant a conviction. The magistrate, however, had made up his mind to commit at once, and bailed the accused over to appear at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

Derbyshire was an active worker in the interests of the Hon. G. P. Graham at the last election and on the morning of the election two men hidden at the home of John Etherington swore that they overheard Derbyshire offer to pay Etherington after the polls were closed if he voted for the Minister of Public Works. Etherington called that night, but Derbyshire had been proceeded against during the day, and no money actually changed hands. The Liberals claim they will retaliate by prosecuting several prominent Conservatives against whom they claim they have charges of bribery and corruption.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange. grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

ELECTION DATES

Some day we in Ontario may have time to consider the question as to whether or not we hold our municipal elections at the most convenient or generally suitable time of the year, says the Ottawa Journal. We know at any rate that elections on the first Monday in January mean a campaign in the holiday season, in the latter part of December and throughout Christmas week itself. The more interest the people take in the municipal affairs the more the campaign must interfere with the holiday processes, both in the way of business and in the way of pleasure. It is a good thing that people take an interest in municipal matters. The more interest they develop in that regard the better for the community. It has come to be of vast importance, however, that the Christmas trade should be extensive. It is the medium of an enormous and altogether wholesome circulation of money. It is an exhilarating business and the acceptance of the season as a season of rejoicing is universal, so that the attention of the public is bound to be subject to the element of distraction no matter how important may be the municipal issues offered for discussion by the people. A change of the time for municipal voting would leave the holiday season undisturbed, while on the other hand it would bring on the municipal elections at a time when there would be a more general inclination to the discussion of municipal matters.

Ontario seems to be pretty much alone in the practice of mid-winter elections. In Great Britain the elections for councillors take place on November 1st, and for Mayors and aldermen on November 9th. In the United States municipal elections for the most part are held either in November or March.

As to Canada it is to be observed that the municipal elections in Quebec are held on the third Monday in January; New Brunswick on the last Tuesday in October; Nova Scotia on the third Tuesday in November, Manitoba on the first Tuesday in December; in British Columbia on dates fixed by the different municipalities, and in Saskatchewan and Alberta on the second Monday in December. Everywhere but in Ontario the municipal elections are held either before or after the Christmas season, which season is of all the year perhaps the most inconvenient for such a purpose. The argument for the maintenance of the present system has never been made plain, while the arguments against it have always been obvious. It is a matter that the municipalities might properly urge upon the attention of the legislature.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of doping the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

FROM HOUSE DRUDGE TO CHINA'S EMPRESS

"How did a woman come to have the power of the Dowager Empress of China?" demands a correspondent who has always understood that in China women are treated as slaves and inferiors. "Because she was a wonder, is the shortest answer, but her career must be reviewed if further explanation is desired. As a diplomat the Dowager Empress Tsu-Hsi (or Tsian, as she was also called) must take rank with Abdul Hamid of Turkey. The problem each had to solve was the same—the preservation of an empire—and the woman at the end of all died the real ruler of her country while Abdul has been relegated to the position of figurehead. This was because the Empress knew when to yield whereas the Sultan never never learned that lesson until too late. Morally, there is not much to choose between the pair. The word 'morals' was in the vocabulary of neither.

To form a proper opinion of the Dowager Empress Tsu-Hsi, the standards of the West must not be applied to her. Unless she is judged according to the ethics of the East nothing at all admirable will be discerned in her wonderful rise from obscurity to world-wide fame, in an empire where careers such as hers are only recorded at intervals of a century apart. Her exact origin is in dispute. She herself claimed to be of Manchun blood, A claim that is natural, inasmuch as the Manchus are the aristocrats of China. Others say she was of extremly humble origin. It is known that her father, who represented himself to be a Manchu noble, and who had fallen into disgrace at Perkin, where he had held a sinecure, drifted into Canton in 1838, with his wife and little family. Whether Tsu-Hsi had good blood in her veins, or whether she was of common peasant stock, does not affect the fact that in 1838 her family sounded the depths of poverty.

Times were so bad with them that the father jumped at the chance of getting rid of his daughter to a Chinese merchant, whose household slave she became. Tsu was a pretty child, and was fortunate in her 'pocket parents'. They gave her considerable education, and finding her competent left household affairs in her hands. Tsu did all the buying of supplies, and thus early came into contact with the business world. So fond of her did her master and mistress become, and so proud of her beauty, that in 1848, when the Emperor Hsien-Feng issued his call for extra wives, they were persuaded to let Tsu go to Pekin. The Emperor didn't really need the wives having already the Empress, but according to Chinese law he was obliged to have a large establishment of them, all of Manchu descent, and all between the ages of 15 and 18. Candidates for the honor were required to repair to the Imperial Palace to be inspected, and thither some thousands of them journeyed in answer to the command.

We can imagine that Tsu-Hsi's claims to blue blood would be pretty thoroughly sifted by the court officials, and whether the girl discovered one with an itching palm, or whether she fairly proved her birth is a matter of speculation. She was pronounced perfect physically, and was given an enviable horoscope. It was her luck to be among the first ten successful applicants. So she was installed with a few hundred other girls in the harem, and was left free to plan her next step. Constitutionally her position was no better than that of any other slave; but it gave her a great opportunity. It was for the real Empress that she laid her snares; the other girls sought to fascinate the Emperor. They succeeded, one after the other, but Tsu-Hsi gradually came to be regarded by the Empress as her best friend, and it was she who finally recommended Tsu-Hsi to the attention of the Emperor. The other secondary wives she regarded as her rivals. Tsu-Hsi was her friend. Introduced thus favorably to Helen-Feng's notice, Tsu-Hsi ingratiated herself with him. By the time the Emperor fled from Pekin on the approach of the British and French, in 1860, Tsu had already borne him a son. The real Empress had not, but, out of friendship for Tsu-Hsi she made no objection to the child being made the favorite baby of the harem.

So when the Emperor died Tsu-Hsi's son was declared to be his successor. His mother and the Empress were declared to be his guardians, but as there is a Chinese law to the effect that no woman shall rule in China, a council was nominated to govern during the young Emperor's minority. Then, for the first time, Tsu-Hsi showed her hand. She influenced Prince Kung, the late Emperor's Brother, to have the council set aside in favor of the two Empresses, and himself to become the real regent. She also instaled him as her lover, and the Prince succumbed to the double temptation. A charge was trumped up against the members of the council, and they were beheaded. Prince Kung proved something of a plotter himself, and the Empress found him difficult to deal with in the later years of the regency. But when her son came of age, Kung was removed, and the path was once more cleared for her as her own child was completely under control.

His sudden death brought the Dowager the greatest problem of her career. Here legally and logically, all her influence vanished like smoke. But Tsu-Hsi took a bold course. In the name of the Emperor Helen-Feng, who had now been dead fourteen years, she adopte danother son, the child of her sister, and declared him the heir apparent. Her courage and audacity, and the care she had taken in the course of her son's minority to remove her enemies and place her friends in high places, carried off this coup, and thenceforward, for forty years, she was mistress of all China.

JAMES M. ANDERSON, Ex-Crown Timber Agent, West Sutton, Ont.
B. BROUGHTON, Mgr. Hamilton Stamp & Stencil Works, Hamilton

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utllized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Peril of Farm Life In Ontario

St. Thomas, Ont., November 19.—Police Magistrate Hunt sentenced Amos Taylor, a man brought out to this country from the slums of London by the Salvation Army to two years in Kingston penitentiary for an assault on the fourteen-year-old daughter of his employer. The magistrate said Taylor was only saved from lashes by the fact that his victim was a couple of weeks past fourteen years when the crime was committed.

Before passing sentence, His Worship made a striking reference to the danger of farmers hiring men whose antecedents are unknown. "They are taken into the family circle and treated as a member of the family. It is necessary in most cases for the farmer to make the hired man one of the family, but he should not be admitted to the family circle until it is learned what manner of man he is. In former years the peril of farm home was not so great when the hired man was raised in the neighborhood and under Canadian ideas of ethics and under the sense of an obligation not to bring disgrace on his parents and relatives who lived in the neighborhood. This was a guarantee for his behaviour which is lacking in many dumped into Canada for various reasons. Many of these people are honest and moral, but as is shown in this case all of them are not, and it would be better for the farmer to let his cows go unmilked and his crop rot in the field than have his sons' minds made into cesspools and his daughters debauched and blighted for life as in this case. The lesson to be learned by farmers is this: The man you take into your home may be vile and dangerous to your children. Do not give him your confidence or let him gain the confidence of your children till you find he is worthy of it."

Abruzzi's Ring Has Arrived

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 19.—What is presumed to be the engagement ring, with ruby setting from the Duke of Abruzzi to Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, lies in the vault of the Pittsburg Post Office awaiting appraisement to determine the amount of duty that must be paid before its delivery, as the sender neglected to provide for the settlement with the United States Treasury officials of the duty of sixty per cent. ad valorem on precious jewels coming from other lands.

The ring was received by registered mail at Elkins, W. Va., and from there sent to the Postmaster of Pittsburg, to be referred to the surveyor for the port. It arrived late yesterday and was immediately turned over to Surveyor Garland.

DIFFERENT VALUATIONS.

The first jeweler to whom it was shown thought it worth about $3,000. The second would make no estimate, but said because of the rare beauty of the ruby it might be worth $5,000. The ring will be shown to other jewelers to-day and if they agree upon a valuation it will be sent to Elkins, there to be held until duty is paid. If no appraisement is agreed on here it is said the ring will be sent to the Treasury Department at Washington.

The ring is a heavy gold band about one-eighth of an inch wide, and is set with a pigeon blod ruby, oval shaped, and weighing about six or seven karats. It is enclosed in a satin-lined white leather case.

DON'T ADMIT IT.

Post Office authorilities here do not admit that the Duke sent the ring, or in fact discuss the matter at all, but in view of all that has gone before, the presumption is that he sent the ring and that it is the engagement token.

Plow Woman

By Eleanor Gates

listened to Lame Foot. But when the chief came to his bragging conclusion Squaw Charley forgot his own degradation for a moment and forgot to feast discovery. Was a battle indeed coming? New hope all at once—the hope that he would have the opportunity, long desired of getting away from the squaws, old men and the mocking children and going with the warriors! Once with them, even in the role of cook or drudge, the chance might come to do a brave act, such an act as would reinstate him. Perhaps he could wound an enemy and count a coup upon him. Perhaps he could face bullets or arrows to rescue a brother.

His dull eyes glinted like cut beads. In very excitement he raised his bent, spare body.

Hearing the movement Lame Foot glared round, and his eyes fell upon the outcast.

"Woof!" he cried. "A squaw in the council lodge! Woof!"

There was a general turning, and those nearest the pariah made peremptory gestures.

A second Charley stood uncertainly. Then the look of one accused came into his face. He tottered backward through the lodge opening and out into the snow.

A dozen warriors followed the war priest in speechmaking. Each of these said no more than he. To Colonel Cummings' disgust each one said no less. Added to the tediousness of it all were Matthews' interpretations. Toward 3 o'clock, however, the prime object of the meeting was reached.

When the commanding officer at last rose he was in no mood to mince matters. He used few words, but they were forcible. He asked the interpreter to repeat them precisely.

They had their effect. While Matthews was doing this the colonel did not glance away from the council fire; yet he knew that in the semicircle there was genuine consternation. Grunts, startled, angry, threatening, ran up and down the line. Those warriors named for possible execution alone were silent.

Presently one of the others spoke. "If we tell you where to go, how do we know the white chief will not fall upon the winter camp of our brothers as Custer, 'the Long Hair,' fell upon Black Kettle's?"

"I am not going with the pony soldiers," Matthews hastened to say. "Across the Muddy Water, where the road passes, is a wide piece of land which has been stolen from me."

One of the four condemned glanced up. It was Lame Foot. "By the Plow Woman?" he asked.

"By her father. I shall stay until that land is mine again. One of you must ask your chief that he give up the paleface squaws."

Canada John answered him. "A brave can but take the words of the white chief. That is not well. One of a double tongue must go."

"The white chief has but one," said Matthews and tapped his own chest.

A silence followed.

"The journey begins when the sun is little," he added and sat down.

"Will not the white chief wait until spring?" asked Lame Foot, whose guile made up for his physical defect.

The others studied Colonel Cummings' face as the question was put to him. They saw the purpose—postponement, which might bring freedom for them and also a retention of the captive women.

The colonel's answer did not need interpreting. "No!" he said and struck his knees with his open palms.

"Why should two squaws matter?" asked Shoot-at-the-Tree. "Are there not many everywhere? We will give the white chief some of our ponies."

"Your ponies floated, belly up, down the river moons ago," said Matthews.

Twenty pairs of eyes sparkled with hate. That was news indeed!

Lame Foot spoke again. There was a mathematical phase of the terms which troubled him. "Why should four die for two?" he demanded. "Among the whites has a squaw the value of two soldiers?"

Matthews answered gravely that it was so. The brave snorted contemptuously.

Canada John shook his head. "Thus comes much evil because we shot the pinto buffalo."

At that point the hoof sheaths that trimmed a rope near the entrance rattled. The semicircle craned their necks. A plump hand was pulling aside the flap of the lodge. There through the low aperture and into the light of the fire stepped an Indian woman. She flung back a head shawl and faced red man and white. A murmur came from the braves. It was Brown Mink.

As with the men of the band, plentiful food and no exercise had worked wonders with her. She was less slender and more solid than formerly. Her full cheeks shone like the bulging

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have huge nerve controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first set out the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is to be directed to these great and wasting nerve centers. It builds (strengthens; it enters real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those nerves—restore them as nature, with

Says This Medicine Has Mystic Powers

Will Assist Anyone in Weak, Pale, Nervous Condition to Robust, Hearty, Health.

It's in the spring that health gives out—that leaves one to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this state, read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Merrstown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic power surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts.—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills which revitalize delicate glands, enrich out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficent aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Large Lynx Captured in the North Country

A huge lynx skin was brought into Peterborough yesterday morning by Mr. Paul Payne, of Dummer, which he shot while in te quest of wild game in the northern woods during the past two weeks. Mr. Payne and his party usually hunt for deer to the north of Stony Lake, and this year he was successful as usual. The lynx he shot was probably the largest which ever was killed in Peterborough county. From the tip of its nose to the end of its tail—and a lynx's tail is very short—it measures fifty inches. The skin was purchased by Wm. Lech & Son, and is hanging up in their display window, where it is being much admired by passers by.

The Payne party secured a variety of game, including lynx, pole cat, racoon and deer, and returned highly satisfied with their trip.

Obituary

MR. J. H. REYNOLDS.

On Saturday morning, Nov. 14th, there passed away in the person of John Herbert Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Reynolds, of Peterborough, one of the most highly respected young men of Millbrook, at the age of 23 years and 10 months. The deceased was born in the township of Ennismore on the sixth day of January, 1880, and eight years after came with his parents to Fraserville, and two years later they moved to the Steward farm in Cavan. Later Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds moved to Peterborough, having sold their farm. On the 19th of April, 1905, he was united in marriage to Miss Louisa McIvor, who with two infant children, survive him. Besides these he leaves to mourn his loss Mr. and Mrs A. Reynolds and three sisters, the Misses Matilda, Jane, Maggie and Millie, of Peterborough; also four brothers, Messrs. Albert and George, of Springville; Joseph, of Peterborough, and Roland, of Saskatoon, Sask.

Deceased went with the McBride party for the annual deer hunt, but was not feeling well when he went away, and was compelled to return before the others of the party, and took to his bed as soon as he got here, and notwithstanding that he had the best of medical attendance, and good nursing by a devoted wife and loving parents, he passed away on Saturday.

In religion he was a Presbyterian, and politically a Conservative.

The funeral on Monday under the auspices of the Orange Order was very largely attended.—Millbrook Mirror.

MRS. ROBERT WALSH.

The death occurred on Thursday morning of a lady well known in Peterborough in the person of Mrs. Robert Walsh, of the Falls line, township of Cavan. She was fifty years of age and had only been ill a few days, pneumonia being the cause of death.

JOHN HART.

After an illness of short duration John Hart, one of the oldest residents of this locality, passed away at his home, corner Bethune and London streets, last night about seven o'clock. The deceased was born in Manvers 79 years ago, and had resided in the city for a great many years, where he is very widely known and highly respected. He was a lifelong member of the Methodist Church and was a staunch Liberal. He is survived by a wife, three sons and two daughters. The sons are Dr. E. Hart, of Brantford; J. H. Hart, of Edmonton, and Jacob Hart, of Manvers. The daughters are Mrs. Robert Arnold, of this city, and Mrs. R. Grandy, of Pontypool.

The funeral service will be conducted at the late residence of the deceased on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, and will leave for the G. T. R. station to be transferred to Bethany station, and from there the remains will be taken to the St. Mary's cemetery for interment.

"There's a Reason"

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical writers, (though the M.D.'s on Materia Medica) who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From those endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Collegiate Institute Commencement Exercises

Commencement exercises, which will be held at the Collegiate Institute, probably on Dec. 18th, will afford the students one of those opportunities for gathering in a social manner as was promised with the opening of the new building. Complete details have not yet been arranged, but the principal, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, has instituted the idea and is giving it his hearty support. The affair will be held in the assembly hall in the evening, and friends and relatives of the students will have a chance of joining with them.

The scholarships won by the students at the midsummer examinations will be presented to those who were successful in winning them, diplomas, likewise, and the silver trophies, medals, badges and prizes won at the Field Day of Sports. Miss Gladys Crane, who won the Faculty of Education and Honor Matriculation scholarship, will read the valedictory. She is now attending St. Hilda's College, Toronto. Miss Kathleen Burnett won the junior matriculation and Mr. Arthur Rowboro, the Normal Entrance scholarship.

A concert will be given in addition to the above interesting programme, and the whole affair should be one of exceptional enjoyment in literary circles. Miss Crane's valedictory should be well worth hearing, and this with the other features will no doubt make the initial commencement an unqualified success.

From Across the Water

London, November 17.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Calcutta says:—Shortly before Lady Minto left India to attend the wedding of her daughter, Lady Ruby Elliott (now Viscountess Errington) a bag containing valuable jewelry was snatched from the hand of her maid, Miss Martin, at a railway station. These jewels have recently been recovered by the police at Ajmere, in the following circumstances:—Mr. George Richmond, a director of the Inter-Oceanic Engineering Company, was obliged to leave Bombay for Simla. On the journey upcountry Mr. Richmond was robbed of valuable jewelry, a dressing-case containing silver-mounted toilet requisites and £200. Mr. Richmond's butler noticed two men, one a particularly showy-dressed native, wearing a large gold lace turban and a watch-bracelet, who had repeatedly entered the compartment where the luggage had been placed. The police at once instituted a search for him and a native answering the description was found on the Ajmere platformThe police sepoy who found the man appears to have been intelligent above the ordinary. The man he suspected was lolling half-asleep on a station seat, and appeared to have been dringing. The sepoy sat beside him. "You appear to be a very rich man," he remarked. The latter admitted he owned a few rupees, and the sepoy, turning on him suddenly, said: "I know you have. You have £200 which you have stolen from Mr. George Richmond." The thief collapsed and offered the sepoy £35 to let him escape. The discussion ended in the thief taking the policeman to his bungalow. The pair were followed by other policemen, and the house was searched, and buried beneath the ground was discovered a quantity of jewelry and about £150. Amongst the jewelry so discovered were the jewels stolen from Lady Minto, and also those stolen from Mr. Richmond. The man was prosecuted at Ajmere, and a heavy sentence inflicted upon him.

Fortune in Grasp, but was Starved

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 18.—With a sales contract calling for $31,000 of business in his pocket, Peter L. Credon, of Peterborough, Ont, who has been living for a year at 961 Niagara Avenue, Niagara Falls, N. Y., was found dead in bed at the Burnett House this morning. Deputy Coroner Coe believes death resulted from starvation. Credon registered at the Burnett on Nov. 11, coming in response to a letter from Charles S. Burdsall and A. F. Hoover, lawyers, Lincoln Inn Court, urging his presence for the forming of a $75,000 company to manufacture bits and harden steel under processes for which Credon held letters patent.

Credon has been living in Niagara Falls while his son is attending college there.

The late Mr. Credon was well known here, having moved to this city about two years ago. He accepted the superintendency of the Rapid Tool Co. and installed all the machinery in that building. He later severed his connection with that company and was made superintendent of a new company organized here about a year ago and known as the Dominion Tool Company. The company consisted of local men, it being capitalized at $40,000. Owing to the financial depressions the company did not go ahead.

Last spring Mr. Credon with his wife and family left here for Niagara Falls. During the deceased's residence here he won a large number of friends who will learn with deep regret of his sad death.

Winnipeg Labor Market

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—Trains coming in from the west are bringing to the city many of the harvest hands and farm laborers who find that the work is now practically over in the country. A large number of homesteaders, who have been putting in the necessary six months residence on their free farm grants are also coming in, and many are leaving to pass the holiday season in their home counties in the east and south.

Construction work on the Grand Trunk Pacific, west of Winnipeg, is largely completed for this year. The new railway has had a share in the moving of a considerable portion of the 1908 wheat crop, which has required the use of over 5,000 new freight cars this season on the prairie section west. There has been great progress in the grading of new sidings along the line and several depots have been compelled at many of the more important terminal points between Winnipeg and Wainwright, Sask.

Splendid Timber Limit Investment

Interesting Facts Regarding the Willow River Timber Company

One of the most interesting investment propositions to Canadian capitalists is that now being issued by the Willow River Timber Company, Limited. This company, whose eastern offices are located in St. Catharines, and whose directorate are gentlemen of standing in that city and throughout Ontario, control 22 timber berths, aggregating 52 square miles, in British Columbia. This limit contains over 800,000,000 feet of the finest timber, bought by the company at the exceptionally low price of 20 cents per thousand feet.

A strong company has been formed, and stock is now being sold. At a conservative estimate the company claim that $359.42 will be realized from an investment of $100.

Mr. John W. Gordon, of St. Catharines, is the secretary-treasurer of the company, and he will be pleased to forward to any one interested prospectus and full information with regard to this very high-class proposition.

Curlers to Meet

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held in the Dominion Bank Chambers this evening. This is probably the most important period in the history of the local curlers, owing to the completion of the new rink, and it is desirous that all interested in the roarin' game be present tonight.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the County Judge of the County of Peterborough will hold a sitting in the City Clerk's Office in the City of Peterborough on Tuesday, December 1st, 1908, at 7.30 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of hearing the appeals from the decisions of the Court of Revision, respecting the assessment of the said city made in 1908 for 1909.

CONTRACTS FOR SNOW PLOWING AWARDED FOR EIGHT DISTRICTS

Board of Works Received New Proposition for Road Making from Mr. R. Sheehy. Bring Stones from Stony Lake.

Hunter St. Bridge is Replanked

The Board of Works last night received a new proposition for securing crushed stone for road work. It was made by Mr. R. Sheehy and was that he furnish crushed granite stone from the Stony Lake district. Everyone knows that granite is the very best stone that can be procured for road making, and while it costs a few cents more than lime stone it is so much superior that it really lasts longer. By using granite on the streets this city will never need to lay any pavement.

Those present were Ald. Phelan (Chairman), Mayor Rush, and Ald. Elliott, Buller, McIntyre and Bradburn.

Mr. Sheehy was present and addressed the council. He said he understood that the city was spending considerable money in making good roadbed. He said that he would like to make a suggestion, to supply the city with its crushed stone. He now has a boat and scow and is in good shape to bring the stone down. He would furnish granite stone crushed ready for the roads. There is lots of granite in and around Stony Lake, and while he had not yet got any stone there he would hustle around and get hold of a good granite quarry. He thought he could supply it for $1.50 per cubic yard, laid down on the dock, or in wagons, so long as the scow is there.

Granite stone will last easily twice as long on the roads as does the lime stone, which is mostly used here now.

City Engineer Hays said that a year ago he estimated that the stone cost the city, on the streets, and rolled, about $1.41 per yard. This included some 200 cords of stone the city took out of its own gravel pit. He stated, however, that if the city could get all granite stone at that price it would be much more satisfactory and far more superior for road purposes. The city ran out of stone the past year, but as it was over 3,500 cords were used, and had they not run short they would have used much more.

Mr. Sheehy said that he would be willing to take a chance upon investing his money in a plant. He would expect a contract from the city for at least five years. A stone crushing plant is expensive and at the price of $1.50 per cubic yard there is not very much margin. The city is also getting a bargain considering the material.

SNOW PLOUGH CONTRACT.

There were 28 tenders received for the snow ploughing in the city during the season of 1908-09. There are this year eight districts which cover practically the whole city. The tenders accepted were as follows—

District No. 1—City.
District No. 2—E. Flaherty, $187.
District No. 3—Jas. A. Reid, $150.
District No. 4—S. Harper, $125.
District No. 5—Robert Nicholls, $127.50.
District No. 6—M. Rischie, $110.
District No. 7—R. Mitchell, $111.
District No. 8—Ben Revoy, $100.

The contractors for snow ploughing this year will be compelled to carry out their contracts, and in case they fail to do so their sureties will be called upon to pay. No one will be given any bonus at the end of the season, as several have asked for in the past.

On motion it was decided that the bondsmen must be satisfactory to the Chairman.

City Engineer Hay notified the committee that when Mr. Fitzgerald was repairing the Hunter street bridge he found that it was so bad that the whole floor would have to be replanked. It will require 850 feet of elm plank, and as the work was very necessary the Chairman ordered the work to be done.

St. James' Church Tag Day will Produce Large Sum

Tag-Day in connection with St. James' Church is now a matter of history, and it will be a pleasant page for the members of that congregation to look back upon. The sale of tags in the city was very large, judging from the number of those seen wearing them. The actual results will not be known for several days, until all those who were selling make their returns. There were a large number of tags sent out of town. The total number issued was 3,400, and these were handled by members of George Street Church, Charlotte Street Church, Mark Street Church, the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A., besides the members and friends of St. James' Church. The price was 5 cents each, and very few could resist the invitation to buy. It is therefore expected that the sum to be raised will be two or three times that which is really needed for the heating of the auditorium of the new edifice. Tag-Day was for the purpose of raising funds for putting in the heating apparatus in the new church, which will cost about $400. The actual returns of the sale will be made known later.

Little Boy Found Bottle of Liquor and Drank It

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 20.—This afternoon just before dark John McKellar, aged nine years, son of J. McKellar, No. 8 West Burlington street, found a bottle floating in the bay, and he and his companions fished it out. Seeing that the bottle contained liquor he broke the neck and drank the contents. Scarcely had he done so than he began to stagger, and fell unconscious to the ground. His companions became frightened and ran away and left him. He was found soon after by a man who recognized him and took him home. Dr. Bates was called and ordered him to be sent to the City Hospital, where a stomach pump was used to draw the liquor off. Nearly a quart of liquid containing alcohol was drawn off and this will be analyzed. It is believed that this is one of the robberies of several cases of liquor which were stolen some days ago from one of the wharves.

The Evolution of the Far East

In reply to an address presented to him a short time ago by the British Chamber of Commerce, Sir Robert Hart, Bart, G.C.M.G., director of Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs, said:

Before reading my reply to the address I wish to thank you most sincerely for the very kind and flattering language in which your President has introduced this address which has been read by the Secretary. Gentlemen, I thank you very sincerely for the honor you have done me in making me an honorary member of the Belfast Chamber of Commerce, and in doing so I beg to congratulate you on the growth and prosperity of your great city. More than fifty years ago I was a student here, attending Queen's College, through which my original appointment to the British Consular Service in China came to me, and now that I return, after so many years absence—after so many years spent in the Chinese Government service—I am struck at every point by changes, and all for the better, improvements in former centres and extension of old boundaries. I have constantly heard about your industries and manufactures, the splendid linens your factories produce, and the wonderful ocean greyhounds your shipyards launch, and I also felt some pride in thinking that I, too, could hail from Belfast as a Belfast manufacture —(laughter and applause)— though a native of another county, and I feel this more deeply now, seeing that the city has adopted me, and your chamber has honored me with membership—a double event, which, with various other good things, light up my western sky with a pleasant radiance round the setting sun of my eastern career. (Applause). As illustrations of one half century's development, from a Chinese standpoint, I may tell you that whereas I went to China from Southampton in 1854 in a steamer that was two thousand tons, I returned in one of nine thousand tons and thought small; the first was under the British and the second under the German flag—a very significant fact. When I reached China in 1854 there were only five ports open to trade, and only one steamer on the coast; when I left a few weeks ago, there were ocean-going steamers sailing daily from thirty or forty open ports, and nearly a thousand small ones were plying on the inner waters. In the earlier days we had one mail a month and no telegrams, now there are mails arriving every few days by sea, and every day by land, and telegrams pouring in every minute. In 1854 I spent twenty-two days going from Hong Kong to Shanghai in an opium clipper; now it is done in two days by steam, and one can go from London to Peking in sixteen, and thence to Hankow, in the centre of China, by rail in thirty hours. In 1854 Japan was closed, now not only is she open, but she takes a front placed among the world powers, and I noted the other day a Japanese steamer ahead of us in the Suez Canal, well-handled, and in all points quite up to date, thus showing how the East is coming West, and competing with Occidental enterprise. Further, I recently was one of a luncheon party in London to meet the Japanese Ambassador, the able and cultivated Count Komura, and say good-bye to him on his return to Japan to resume the post of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Our host was the Chinese Minister, Lord Li, and the function illustrated the immense change from the past, in which doors were closed against intercourse, to a present which makes a bid for future greatness by doing all that other States do to foster and cultivate international relations.

Big Mass Meeting Sunday in the Opera House

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. are looking forward with much interest to the visit of Mr. R. A. Waite, jr., of New York, who will be here for three days—Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Mr. Waite is the religious secretary of the Boys' Department, and he is one of the most prominent figures in that department. As yet his programme has not been arranged, but he will address a series of meetings, the feature one being a mass meeting in the Grand Opera House on Sunday afternoon at 4.15, when he will deliver an address on "Par Values."

Mr. Waite is a son of R. A. Waite, of New York, a prominent architect, and the one who prepared the plans and specifications for the handsome Parliament buildings in Toronto. His visit to Peterborough, although he is an American, is therefore of more than ordinary interest to local citizens.

The meeting of the Otonabee A. A. C., which was called for the election of officers and other business which is usually taken up at an annual meeting, didnot materialize. There were not enough present and another meeting will shortly be called.

Brutal Carter Dragged Man by the Foot Along Road Until He Was Dead

(Special to the Times.)

Montreal Nov. 20—The alleged murder of Andrew Fox is the general talk of the town and the police authorities are after the carter who treated the man so brutally, if he did not cause his death. Some time after three this morning a St. Denis car was boarded at the corner of Inspector street by a couple of young men who remained on the rear platform and engaged in conversation with an elderly man who had got on the car some time before them. The conductor on the car was Forget, and he informed the police that the old man, whose name and address he did not ask, got off at St. Elizabeth street, some time after the young fellows got off. But before he left the car he told the conductor that they had told him they had seen a man thrown out of a delivery sleigh at the corner of Inspector and St. James streets. The carter driving the rig had smashed the man in the face and knocked him apparently unconscious to the ground. After that the carter got into the sleigh, and taking hold of the man's foot, started driving east down the street at a furious rate, and dragging the man behind. The young fellows said that they were so afraid of being mixed up in the trouble that they took the first car that came along, which happened to be the St. Denis car.

Conductor Forget said that he was astonished that he considered it was a made upstory and did not ask the old man where he lived. As for the boys, he knew nothing of them. After Forget came around on his return trip he was surprised to see the police on the street. There were Detective Charbonneau, Sergt. Lanegue and Constable Charland. He stopped the car and told the officers his story. There is plenty of evidence to corroborate the story, as the man when found was lying at full length upon the road between the car tracks and the curb, and his coat was also stretched at full length back of him and all splashed with mud.

Emperor William's Second Interview

More Bitter Against England than the First

Japan Fermenting Revolution in India Which May Break Out Within Six Months

(Special to the Times.)

London, Eng., Nov. 20.—Exactly what His Royal Highness Emperor William of Germany said on "the world's politics" to Dr. William Bayard Hale, a distinguished clergyman, traveller and writer, on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Persen, Norway, on July 19th, in that famous interview which was for a time suppressed, is now being given to the public.

The Emperor talked to Hale for several hours. He was very bitter against England and he was full of the yellow peril. He declared England was a traitor to the white man's cause and predicted that she would ultimately lose some off her colonies through her treaty with Japan.

The Emperor declared that Japan was fermenting a revolution in India. This might break out within the next six months.

"Germany and the United States," he said, "would ultimately find a solution to the eastern question. A complete understanding existed between the Emperor and President Roosevelt on this point. They intended to divide the east against itself by being the acknowledged friends of China."

Death of Chester Marks at Collingwood

The funeral of the late Chester Marks will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his uncle, Mr. Albert Duncan, No. 37 Bathurst street, when Rev. E. A. Pearson will conduct the services. The deceased is a son of William Marks, of Collingwood, but was for several years a resident of this city. The lad was only 16 years of age and was well liked by all his boy friends here, and had a large number of them, by whom the news of his death will be learned with regret. He died on Thursday after a brief illness, and the remains are to be brought here by the G. T. R. last night at 9 o'clock for interment. He is survived by a father and mother, one brother Earl, and one sister, Beatrice. Another sister, Stella, predeceased him just seven weeks. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

Peterborough Curling Club Has Organized for the Season

Officers All Re-Elected C.N. Brown is President— Will Make an Active Canvas for Members

$1,000 Required for Expenses

A great effort will be put forth during the next few weeks to secure a record membership to the curling club. The new rink, which is one of the very finest in Canada, is now nearly completed, and will soon be ready for ice. The loss of the old rink and all its contents was a heavy one, and consequently the club this year is under a big expense, hence the necessity to get a big membership, as that is the only source of revenue, while the sources of expenditure are numerous. There should be from 200 to 300 supporters of the roarin' game in this city who will be glad to subscribe to the sport, and who will turn out this winter and take advantage of the opportunity to curl on the best sheet of ice in Ontario. There will be lots of room for all. The membership fee for this season has been placed at $8, which is very reasonable when one considers the advantage to be obtained.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club was held in the Dominion Bank chambers last night, and a large number of curlers were present, and much enthusiasm was displayed. The President, Mr. C. N. Brown, occupied the chair, and after the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted the discussion drifted off into the general business to be taken up.

The financial statement was read, showing a balance to the club's credit on deposit of $ 30.36. The amount received from membership fees last year was $334.

Mr. R. Hicks read a statement of what the approximate expenditure of the club during the coming season would be. There will be a rental for the rink which will have to be paid to the Curling Rink Company—electric light, janitor, waterworks, etc., making a total of $980. At this rate the club should raise through membership fees $1,000.

It was decided that the Rink Company and the Curling Club should be conducted jointly. A certain sum will be paid the company for interest on their investment, etc., while the club will furnish all conveniences. This will continue for a year or two when it is likely the company will become an independent body and will charge a straight rental, and the curlers will have to pay for no conveniences.

It was announced that the Curling Club had placed an order for forty pair of new stones, which will cost $13.75, and all curlers who desire to purchase stones can do so by communicating with Mr. W. G. Ferguson.

The membership committee was elected as follows— Messrs. P. Lang, W. E. Talbot, Webb, D. Hall, R. M. Waddell, R. Neill, R. Hicks, D. Davidson, Harry Foote, Thomas Brightman and W. G. Ferguson.

OFFICERS

The officers of last year were re-elected as follows—

Hon. President—T. F. Matthews.
President—C. N. Brown.
Vice-President—R. M. Waddell.
Sec.-Treasurer—Harry Foote.
Representative Members — W. G. Ferguson and T. F. Matthews.
Chaplain—Rev. E. A. Pearson.
Executive Committee—R. Neill, W. G. Ferguson, J. H. Conrad, J. E. A. Fitzgerald and F. Rutherford.

Special to the Times.

Lacrosse, Wis., Nov. 20.—Alleged by relatives to have contracted the liquor habit at society functions at Newport, where he was pastor of a congregation to which members of the Vanderbilt family were connected, Rev. Confinement in the fashionable parish of Newport, where he formed the habit of drinking and other expensive indulgences, was the cause of his downfall.

Five Hundred Indians on Verge of Starvation

Special to the Times.

Vancouver, Nov. 20—Five hundred northern Indians are on the verge of starvation, according to information from Fort George. A tribe inhabiting a district some 300 miles east of the Fort George supply quarters had been out of supplies for fully three weeks, and were living on what they could beg from the white prospectors. The prospectors state the cause of the existing conditions is due to the country being overrun by wolves, which have been seen in packs of as many as forty. These roving animals have cleaned the country of practically all the game, and the Indians are unable to procure food.

"All the Comforts of Home."

For the third time a crowded house greeted Mr. Irving Beers and his troupe of amateurs in the presentation of "All the Comforts of Home" at the Grand last night. This mirth-provoking comedy was presented in a clever manner, and reflects credit not only upon Mr. Beers but also upon Mr. Lynch as manager, and the natural dramatic talent and splendid acting of the individual participants. To see the play for a second time was as enjoyable as the first.

Nurse Sent to Care for Scarlet Fever Patient

Relief Officer Miller of the Central Charity Board, has visited the local family which has been visited with scarlet fever, and he found them in a most unfortunate condition. The mother is a widow who works to support her family. First a little boy was taken down with the fever, and one of the older girls cared for him. Since then, however, four of the family have been attacked, including the two older girls, who are now sick. Consequently a nurse was sent to the house to look after the patients, as the mother was unable to do so.

Tampered with Danger

Finally Had to Give Up Tea and Coffee

Because the poisoning drug in tea and coffee does not kill outright, many persons do not think there is any poison there.

But there is. Caffeine, the drug in tea and coffee caused undue action of the heart which results in palpitation and weakness. These often cause chronic heart trouble which may shorten life.

Palpitation, nervousness, insomnia and other tea and coffee symptoms are the danger signals nature throws out to the tea and coffee drinker.

"While yet an infant on my mother's knee," writes a Penna. lady, "she gave me sips of coffee. As I grew older, my appetite for coffee was indulged until I did not enjoy a meal without it.

"By the time I grew to womanhood, I began to suffer the consequences. My stomach had become disordered, and often at night I could not sleep for hours on account of palpitation of the heart.

"I was induced to stop coffee, but as soon as I was better, I would again tamper with danger by going back to it. After several such experiences, I tried Postum.

"At first I did not like it. But I soon found by following directions on pkg. that it was easy to make good Postum and I now sit down to my meals with a cup of rich golden brown Postum by my plate and it makes the meal a feast fit for a king.

"Best of all, while I enjoy my tea: my health improves steadily. My sister, who used to have spells of acute indigestion from coffee, now enjoys real comfort from Postum, which we all have three times a day." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Cock Fighting in Oldest Court House in Kentucky

(Special to the Times.)

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 20.—In a pit built on the judges' rostrum in the courthouse here there will be several cockfights the first week in December to determine the best game cock in Kentucky. This is a new departure in judging cocks at a poultry exhibition, for heretofore it was beauty, size and style that won the blue ribbon. This year it will be the best and gamest scrappers. The fights will be conducted in the presence of men, women and children, whoever are there, and they will be given an opportunity of seeing probably for the first time in the lives of many of them, the principal pastime of the southerners. It is a felony to fight cocks in Kentucky, so that when the county officials are among the spectators the cocks will spar with gloves on, but when the authorities are not on guard there will be something doing in the oldest courthouse in Kentucky.

Snatched Satchel Containing Over $4,000

(Special to the Times.)

Montreal, Nov. 20.—One of the most barefaced hold-ups ever attempted in this city was tried this afternoon in a thickly populated section of St. Henry Ward. R. G. Tolmie, cashier of the Colonial Bleaching and Printing Company, on his way from the bank to the firm's premises, was carrying a satchel containing $4,000. He was suddenly stopped by a man who snatched the satchel, and before Tolmie could realize what had happened the thief pointed a revolver at him, exclaiming, "I'll shoot you if you follow." Then the hold-up wheeled and ran down Notre Dame street with the cashier hot after him. The thief seemed to have lost his nerve, for he dropped the satchel with its complete contents. The police have not yet located him.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

TIMBER VS INDUSTRIALS

In considering the advisability of investing your surplus in any manufacturing stock, the following facts must be reckoned with:—

A new company may be formed to manufacture any article, side by side with the concern you put your money into. Being new, they equip their factory with the most modern, improved machinery and latest inventions, and then your entire plant is antiquated. You must either drop out of the race or throw out your old machinery at enormous loss. Intensely keen competition reduces profits to a minimum. In hard times you cannot dispose of your manufactured goods, and it costs thousands of dollars to carry your stock over. In good times strikes and labor troubles put you in the hole, when you have an opportunity to make money. Tariff changes may occur at any moment that will put your goods in ruinous competition with cheap foreign labor from the sweat-shops of Europe. Goods manufactured in enormous quantities to supply a hundred million market cost only a fraction of the cost of manufacturing to supply a five-million market. To say nothing of the "dumping process" so often resorted to by the U. S. to relieve the congestion of their overstocked markets.

In investing in timber you know that the supply is so rapidly diminishing that leading authorities predict a complete famine in lumber in from nine to fifteen years. Unlike mushrooms, it takes half a century to re-forest the country. All the available timber is already located, and the unlocated timber farther north is rendered valueless by the rivers all running to the north. Before railways can be built, the famine will be here and the enormous cost of transportation will make the price almost prohibitive when the railroads are built. It is admitted beyond dispute that fire does not destroy fully matured timber if it is accessable to be cut within a reasonable period after the fire.

The only thing necessary is to make sure that the timber is in easy reach of good transportation facilities that it is of a merchantable quality bought at a right price in sufficient quantity to make it worth while handling.

Then assured and honest and capable directorate will give you an investment which cannot be equalled for security and large profit by any industrial or mechanical stock on the market.

More millionaires have been created in America to-day through timber than from all other sources combined, and there is no question before the public to-day commanding such universal attention from our legislators and our masters of political economy as that of our timber supply.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Peterboro Camera Club

The advantages offered for those who indulge in the making of photos are not considered by those who use the kodak and the folding hand camera, or there would not be room in many of the small assembly halls for those who would wish to attend their meetings.

Photography is essentially conducive to sociability, and it may be said with due regard to truth, that amateur photographers are among the most sociable people on earth, consequently constituting a class particularly available for club membership, and it is astonishing to note how small a percentage of the ever increasing Brotherhood of the Camera is to be found in the organizations devoted to their interest. This can only be explained by that the real advantages to be derived from our fraternal societies have not been fully appreciated by the uncounted thousands who press the button and leave the rest to fate. It is safe to assume that few beginners ever enter the photographic field without a hope of ultimately comprehending something of the higher phases of the art, or even if it is taken up only as a passing fad will sooner or later awaken a commendable ambition to know more of the allied mysteries.

Let such a beginner meet with fair success working as an independent unattached recruit of the great army of the camera, and it will not be long before he will reach a point where further advancement seems well nigh impossible to him, for without the association of others more proficient in the art, he will fall uncorrected into habits that only serve to confirm him on his faults, and render his picture an unchanging series of conventional and stereotyped views. Whereas if in the earlier days of his noviciate he is fortunate enough to join a camera club he will not only find associates ready and able to save him from many of his early failures, but will find encouragement and inspiration from the success of experts daily achieved and exhibited in the camera club. All this is only the personal side of the matter as effecting individual members, while the true and lasting motives for maintaining our photographic clubs should be found in a desire to advance the interests of the art, encourage experimentation, and raise the standard of photography to higher artistic and scientific planes. The majority of photographic clubs are so limited in membership and finances that their habitations partake of little more than work rooms, while in clubs founded upon other ideas, the social side is always placed well in front. The local club is endeavouring to bring together those interested, for social and mutual benefit to each other, and to the photographic art. They hope to have salons, and exhibitions, both private (to the members) and public, papers and addresses on subjects which will be a benefit to all, and demonstrations on the many finer phases of the art.

The club meets on Tuesday evening next in the Tate-Taylor Optical Co's parlors and hope to enlist as many as possible in the mutual benefit which may be derived by co-operation and association.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

No Sale of Islands

Paris November 20.—Advices received to-day at the Ministry of Colonies say there has been no renewal of the disturbances at St. Pierre, Miquelon, the French islands off the coast of Newfoundland, where there has been trouble for the past two or three days over the school question. The situation has been taken under consideration by the Ministry, but no steps yet have been decided upon.

The discontent in the islands is attributed principally to the disastrous operation of the Anglo-French treaty of 1904. Satisfaction is expressed here at the correct attitude maintained by the American Consul. This official refrained from appearing on the balcony of his Consulate in answer to the reiterated calls of the people during their demonstrations. The Government is not considering the suggestion made in London, that the islands be transferred to Great Britain in consideration of territory to be transferred elsewhere.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr H P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C. E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

Slave Chasing

A Man-O-War's Experience in the 50's

In the year 1858 I was an ordinary seaman on board H. M. S. Leopard, a paddle wheeled frigate commanded by Capt. H. F. B. Wainwright. We were cruising off the island of San Domingo in the West Indies looking for slaves. One afternoon we were just lazily creeping along under topsail and jib. There was very little wind. The sea was calm as a millpond. Our engines were disconnected from the paddle wheels and we were just quietly awaiting developments when a voice from the lookout at the foremasthead shouted "Sail ho!" "Where away?" Three points off the weather bow. All was excitement. Steam was ordered to be got (the fires were only banked), the engine and paddle wheels were connected and sails taken in and then the order given easy turn ahead and in a short time were going at half speed. The vessel we were approaching turned out to be a full rigged ship, a three-master with all sails set. She seemed at first to be trying to evade us, but seeing that we altered our course in order to intercept her, she came straight on towards us, and as soon as we were almost within hailing distance a blank cartridge from one of our bow guns was fired, commanding her to "heave to," which she did. Our engines were stopped and we lay abreast of each other. All hands were on deck, but were ordered to keep below the bulwark out of sight. The principal officers were on the bridge and starboard paddle box, and then the following conversation took place between our sailing master and the captain of the other vessel—

"Ship ahoy!"

"Aye, aye"

"What's your name?"

"The Cortes."

"Where from?"

"Mexico."

"Where are you bound?"

"Liverpool."

"What is your cargo?"

"General."

"What makes you so far out of your course?"

"Lost our main yard, had to put into port for another."

Then their captain shouted—

"Who are you?"

"Her Brittanic Majesty's ship Leopard."

"Good night."

"Good night."

Round went her main and topsail yard to the wind again, and we gave easy turn ahead and we parted from each other. There was the greatest dissatisfaction among the blue jackets. Some of the old salts said they could smell the slaves on board of her and grumbled aloud "Board her," but a peremptory order for "Silence" shut them up. The sequel will show the men were right. Three weeks after when we put in at Port Royal, Jamaica, there lay our vessel the Cortes, in Kingston harbor, painted yellow and dismantled of everything except her lower masts. She was captured by two little gunboats. The Jasper and the Jaseur a week after we parted from her. When we saw her she had seven hundred slaves on board—her decks full packed like sardines. When the gunboats captured her she had sold her slaves and had 2,000 Doubloons on board. All this prize money was divided between the officers and crews of the two gounboats. It was an awful disappointment for everyone on board the Leopard and our captain was frantic, stamping up and down the quarterdeck and swearing that he would board everything after that even to a fishing smack.

Perhaps amongst your readers there may be some old sailor who will remember the affair of fifty years ago.

cause of a copper color. Her face was little changed. She waited no invitation to speak. She paused for no words. In her earnestness she leaned forward a little.

"Brown Mink is young," she said. "She is but an unfledged crane walking in strange waters. But she speaks with the voice of her father, your mighty chief that was. Canada John talks straight. One of a double tongue must go. The white chief is very angry, so that he plucks the hairs from his hands. The squaws must be brought back or four braves will be choked by ropes. But who can make things smooth? Only the Double Tongue. Promise him much—promise to help him drive the thief from his land."

Matthews straightened up.

She put out one arm and measured a small length upon it. "When our warriors come thus short a space will it take to rid the land," she said. And was gone before any could answer.

There was a long "Ho-o-o!" of assent.

"What's this all about?" asked Colonel Cummings.

"She wants me t' go," said Matthews.

"Well, so do I."

The Indians conferred among themselves. Suddenly, as if they had reached a decision, they fell silent and settled back. Lame Foot spoke.

"In the moon of wild strawberries," he said, "the sun is warm and the grass is growing." He turned to the interpreter. "Ask our brothers to send the women, then, and follow them. We shall go free, and as we go we shall free the land."

"But if your brothers cannot come?" said Matthews.

Lame Foot answered. "The white chief will send us to Standing Rock agency. From there braves will go out to hunt—and arrows fly silently. There are some of two tips. These bite like the rattlesnake"—

Matthews rubbed his chin. He knew that what Lounsbury had told him in the colonel's library was true. All legal and moral claims to the valuable town site across the river were gone. He could secure the land only by underhand means. And here were those who would do what he dared not.

"They make a cunning wound," continued Lame Foot, "and no one finds the arrow."

Colonel Cummings was growing impatient. "Interpret, interpret," he ordered.

"They think it's all up with 'em if I don't go," said Matthews. He looked down thoughtfully. The trip would be a comparatively short one and offered good reward. Whatever happened, if the Indians kept their word with him, he would have both the pay and the land.

"Will they tell me where the camp is?" asked the colonel.

Matthews met his eye. "Ye-e-e-s," he answered, "if I go." He addressed the warriors: "If your promise is a promise"—

An old chief caught his arm. "We are not liars," he said.

"It is a task for a child," added Lame Foot.

"Enough," answered Matthews. To Colonel Cummings he said, "I'm your man, sir."

"Good!"

Then the interpreter and the Indians, with the commanding officer unwittingly taking a part, sealed their compact in a pipe of peace.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE green pung was ten miles or more beyond Clark's before the section boss recovered appreciably from his long sulk. "What d' y' s'pose Lounsbury reckoned could happen t' my gals?" he demanded of David Bond.

The evangelist shook the reins at Shadrach. "A storm, cold, want," he replied. "There are many evils that might befall two young women alone in a shanty on the prairie."

"Waal, nothin' 'a ever happened t' 'em before," declared Lancaster. But he whistled to stay a change in good fortune and rapped the wood of the wagon box with his bare knuckles.

David Bond busied himself with urging on his horse. "God will watch over them," he said devoutly. "'Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep.'"

The section boss sniffed. Sure of the safe trend of his affairs, he was in a mood to scoff at any religious allusion. Reverence with him was entirely a matter of urgent physical need. He

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden city little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have the same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is to be so directed to those weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

No Rugby Game

Brockville, Nov. 20.—Rather than travel such a distance the Brockville rugby team has defaulted the sudden death semi-final game with Lindsay, which was to have been played in Peterborough to-morrow afternoon. President Slee, of the O. R. F. U., has been notified of Brockville's decision.

First Tragic Death

Probably the first tragedy of the Lift Lock resulted in the death of two muskrats by jumping from the top of the lock to the pavement below. They were seen running along the walk at the top and without looking ahead of them they were over before they had the slightest chance of saving themselves. Their downward flight was perhaps the maddest of their career. If all the rats in the canal could be enticed to the edge of the top of the lock they would be easily exterminated.

Aldermen Talk City Business

A number of the aldermen met at the city hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of transacting business in connection with the finance committee, power committee and manufacturers' committee. There were not enough present, however, to do anything except in the finance committee. There was a quorum present and they passed a motion instructing that, in the case of the half dozen people whose sewer connections actually cost more than the Engineer's estimate, the extra cost be collected.

The aldermen then discussed the cost of cement and how much will be required next year. There has been a decrease in the price lately and it is a question with them whether it would not be advisable to contract for the supply now. The past year the city used nearly 5,000 barrels, and next year more will be needed on account of the new Smith street bridge, which it is contemplated to build of solid concrete. If the council can order now it will mean a saving of probably one thousand dollars.

There was also some discussion on power and manufacturers' questions.

High Praise for Cadets of Collegiate Institute

The Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute has received the following report on the inspection of the Peterborough Institute Cadet Corps from Lieut.-Col. Strange, of Kingston, who is acting for Lt.-Col. Hemming, who is absent on duty—

Kingston, Nov. 17, 1908.

To the Principal Peterborough Collegiate Institute, Peterborough, Ontario—

Annual inspection report, 1908, No 13, Cadet Corps, Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

Sir,—I am directed by the O. C. Eastern Ontario, to enclose herewith, for your information, copy of the Inspecting Officer's report upon his inspection for 1908 of the Cadet Corps marginally noted.

The excellent report submitted upon this corps has given much satisfaction to the Militia Council, and you will please convey to the officer commanding the corps the commendation of the Hon. the Minister and members of the Militai Council upon the good showing made at the inspection in question.

It is particularly gratifying to observe the ability shown by the company officers in handling their companies, as also the steadiness and silence of all ranks.

You will specially convey thanks to Lieut. J. E. Hodgson, 57th Regiment, for his good work as instructor.

Has this unit got a sub-target gun, if not, it is desired that one should be provided for this school, in view of their efficient condition and excellent inspection.

I am sir, Your obedient servant, F. STRANGE.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT WALSH

The death on Wednesday of Mrs. Robert Walsh, of the township of Cavan, is one very much regretted by those who knew her. She was 50 years of age, and had only been ill a few days, pneumonia being the cause of death.

The late Mrs. Walsh is survived by her husband and one son, Mr. Wilbert Walsh, who resides at home. Several relatives reside in Peterborough. She was a member of the Methodist Church and was held in the highest esteem by a large number of friends.

DOROTHY HAWES.

The death occurred on Thursday morning of Dorothy Hawes, the five-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Hawes, George street, after a short illness from croup. The many friends will extend to the sorrowing parents their heartfelt sympathy.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Hawes' mother, 578 Water street, to Little Lake cemetery.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, because of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have quickly removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Evolution of the Far East

(Applause). And in this connection I may add that when I took my first leave of absence, in 1906, I induced the Chinese Government to send a Chinese official and a few students with me to show that Chinese could come and go safely, and be well treated everywhere, and in that way prepare the ground for future representation abroad. Of those students one was Chinese Consul-General at Singapore three years ago and another was Chinese Minister in London, and it was a great satisfaction to myself to see that two of the lads I picked out for the experiment of foreign travel forty years ago had actually succeeded in that very line and on such high positions with myself still to the fore. (Applause.)

Evolution is busy in the Far East, and these few instances will serve to illustrate changes I have seen, and have had something to do with, in the East, while you have been on your side, achieving great things at home. The country I come from, China, has long been regarded, with perhaps too sanguine an expectation, as a possible consumer on a grand scale of European products of all kinds, and the service I have so long had the honor to be the head of has been in the closest contact with China's external trade. We collect duties, give certificates as required, publish statistics, and have been besides in touch with the doings of every kind entailed by foreign intercourse—railroads, telegraphs, manufactures, exhibitions, negotiations, lighthouses and other aids to navigating, education, military and naval doings, etc. Our tariff of duties is a fixed one, and it levies about five per cent. ad valorem, and by paying an additional half tariff charge foreign goods can be sent inland, and national produce brought to the ports for exportation, free from all of the local taxation. Forty years agoo the duties collected on the foreign trade did not amount to ten million taels annually; they have now reached almost forty millions. (Applause.) Forty years ago foreign tonnage was about seven millions, of which British was three millions; it is now about seventy-three millions, and of that the British is about thirty-six millions. Forty years ago opium, valued at thirty-two million taels, represented some forty-six per cent. of an important trade valued at seventy million taels; now, valued at thirty-four millions, it is only about seven and a half per cent. of an import trade, valued at over four hundred millions. (Applause.) Ten years ago the net value of foreign trade in and out was about four hundred million taels; last year it was about seven hundred millions, of which about four hundred millions stood for imports and three hundred millions for exports; and yet the balance of trade was not against China, the difference being made up by a number of invisible exports, such as the sums spent in China by garrisons and ships and the amounts sent back to their native land by those living and productive exports Chinese emigrants—coolie, merchant, and miner. The statistics which the Customs keep are based on the carrying flags father than on the whence and whither of imports and exports, and consequently it is not possible to say to what figure the trade of any given country actually rises. For general purposes—that is to say, to sum what China sells to and buys from all the rest of the world lumped together—the principle is good enough, but when one is asked what the special trade of any one state actually amounts to the answer is waning in exactness. For general comparison it suffices to say that the British share is about 50 per cent., and that while China herself has about 20 per cent. the remaining 30 per cent. is divided between Japan, Germany, France, America, and the other dozen Powers having treaties with China. There are about three thousand foreign firms established in China, and of those the majority are Japanese in respect of numbers, though perhaps not representing anything like the greater part of the capital invested. As regards the future of trade I consider it will go on growing, slowly perhaps, but steadily. Railways will gradually cover the whole of the empire, and every additional mile laid down means additional exits for Chinese produce and additional facilities for the introduction of foreign imports. But it must be remembered not only that China was originally self-contained and self-satisfying, but that she is now embarking on a manufacturing era. Thus, with her four million square miles, of territory, divided into over twenty provinces, each of which is a veritable kingdom in itself, the least having some ten millions and the greatest seventy millions of inhabitants, and with a total population of over four hundred millions, interprovincial trade is large enough in itself; foreign trade is a luxury and not a necessity, and even if it does continue and increase the Chinese themselves will acquire a large share in its direct manipulation, and will less and less depend on foreign middlemen at home or abroad. And not only will they do this, but Chinese manufacturers at some future day will compete with foreign goods not only in China itself, but elsewhere. Foreign trade apart, China's own interprovincial native trade is immense, but as yet statistics are not available.

NASAL CATARRH PRODUCES DEAFNESS RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA.

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Post-office of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peruna, see letter given below.

MR. R. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

Making Good Progress on the New Wharf

Very favorable progress is being made on the construction of the new Wolfe street wharf, and a large gang of men are employed. The cement work for the retaining wall is more than half done, and the cribs have all been placed. The water in the river and Little Lake has been lowered to such an extent that it does not interfere with the construction work. Mr. Angus McIntosh Engaged as Caretaker of the New Rink

The Best Ice Maker in Ontario will be on the Job Again Rink is Ready for the Cold Weather—Lighting Plant to be Installed this Week

maker in the province, will once more be in charge of the curling rink on Charlotte street. That is the good news announced by members of the special committee appointed by the curlers to select a caretaker for the new rink, after their meeting on Saturday night. Mr. McIntosh has made ice at the Charlotte street rink for nearly twenty years, and the Peterborough ice has a reputation outside of the city as being as good as any in the province. Visiting clubs have always remarked this, and the curling club did well in again securing his services. This year Peterborough will have the largest and best rink in the province, and the quality of the ice will not be surpassed by any.

Peterborough's new rink is now practically completed. It is all ready for the ice, and the first time there is a good sharp frost Angus will get busy with the hose and freeze the ground. The floor is in good shape, and it is expected that it will require only five or six days to build up a fine sheet of ice. The hot water heating has been installed in the club rooms and is one of the most up-to-date heating apparatus on the market.

LIGHTING PLANT.

The club will be independent as far as the lighting is concerned, as this week a gas generating plant is being installed. It is what is known as the Siche generator and makes its gas from a combination of coke and lime. The quality is superior to the electric light, natural gas or coal gas. It is very white and particularly easy on the eyes, while it is estimated that the amount of heat thrown out is much less than other lights. The plant will have a capacity of 120 lights, each with a strength equal to the 32-c.p. electric bulb. These lots will be distributed over the rink to furnish the most and brightest light possible, and with the minimum number of shadows.

PUBLIC IS WELCOME

The curling club wish the public generally to consider themselves at liberty to visit the rink. They are welcome to go in and look around and take their friends with them, and later on when the game is started anyone will be free to watch the sport. The handsome structure has already caused much admiration from citizens, while visitors here invariably stop and inquire what the building is for. It is the handsomest headquarters of the good old Scotch game that will be found in Ontario and it should be a source of pride for anyone to be able to say that they are connected with the Peterborough curlers.

This year, being the first in the new rink, the club are anxious to secure a large membership, although when a certain number have been secured the lists will be closed.

NEW STONES.

As has already been announced an order for forty pair of stones has been placed, and these were shipped from Scotland the last of October, so that they should arrive any day now. The curlers who desire to secure a new pair will be able to get these at wholesale prices and thus save $3 a pair. A hundred or more boxes will be built this week for the stones and each owner of stones will have a place to keep his toys.

Cold weather is what is wanted now and it cannot come too quickly. There is greater enthusiasm among the curlers this year than ever before, and there is no doubt but that many new players will be out.

Gas Explosion Kills 20 Men--were Buried in Sewer

New York, Nov. 20—More than twenty persons are believed to have lost their lives as a result of the explosion of a gas main in an excavation at Gold and Front streets, Brooklyn, to-day. The explosion tore the street to pieces for rods on either side, and twelve men who were working in an excavation for a big sewer pipe, were buried alive by the debris which fell in upon them and are believed to have been smothered or burned to death in the fire that followed.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR ANOTHER

Samuel Trout, who lived near the scene, lost his life in attempting to save a woman who was passing through Gold street at the time of the explosion, and fell into the trench. Trout was caught by the flames from the blazing gas main and was roasted alive. The woman was dragged out of the trench and saved by a boy.

The workmen were digging a trench through Gold street for the installation of a 36-inch sewer pipe. The excavation was to be nearly 40 feet deep, and as the laborers removed the earth the walls had been shored up by large timbers. With Charles Schiggmayer, a city inspector of sewers, overseeing the work this forenoon, the men were working at the bottom of the trench when an accumulation of gas from a main which had been accidentally broken during the course of the work, exploded with a tremendous force. The supporting timbers were ripped away, and the high board walls toppled over on Schiggmayer and his men. A large water main was broken by the force of the explosion and a perfect torrent of water began spurting up through the mass of wreckage. Almost side by side these spurting geysers roared the flames.

Firemen and workmen from the city water department and the Gas Company worked desperately together in an effort to check the flow of gas and water, and to relieve the men who had been imprisoned. There seemed little hope, however, that any of those who had been at work at the bottom of the trench could have escaped death. Nearly half an hour's work was required to reach the body of Trout, who had been burned to death on the surface of the street. The bodies are believed to be buried under tons of earth.

Girl Runs Up Stairs; Tight Lacing Causes Her Death

London, Nov. 21.—The death of Miss Alice Hoben, a cashier in the "A. B. C. shop at the corner of Fetter Lane and Holborn, was stated at a city inquest yesterday to have been indirectly due to tight lacing.

After business had ended on Saturday Miss Hoben ran upstairs to the fourth floor of the building for a book and an umbrella. When she reached the room she was out of breath and fell forward, dead, into the arms of the manageress.

Dr. Thomas S. Hole, house physician at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, said Miss Hoben was so tightly laced and had so many strings and tabs that he had to cut off her clothing.

"She was more tightly laced than is usually the case," he added, "and this, in conjunction with hurrying upstairs after a hearty meal, brought on heart failure and caused death."

"But small waists are not fashionable now," suggested a juror.

"I am afraid it would take a great deal to convince women of the dangers of tight lacing and high-heeled boots," remarked the coroner.

Thousands of Operators will be Thrown Out of Work by the Adoption of Telephones by Railways

(Special to the Times)

Chicago, Nov. 22.—The use of the telegraph for the dispatch and operation of trains on American lines will soon be obsolete as the result of the action of the Association of Railroads of America at their meeting here. After an experiment extending over nearly a year, it has been found that the telephone is not only equally as safe, but more efficient and economical than the telegraph. In consequence the railways will proceed immediately to substitute the new system for the telegraph. It was learned yesterday that the railways are planning to put the recommendation of the association, which will go into effect as soon as possible with the ultimate intention of entirely abandoning the use of the telegraph.

The proposed adoption of the telephone is the immediate result of the workings of the nine-hour day labor law. This made it necessary to employ three operators instead of two at many stations, and to employ 8,000 additional men, which increased the expenditure by over $10,000,000 annually. As the order of Railway Telegraphers has refused to allow their workers to instruct young operators, it was difficult in many cases to secure the new men, and the roads turned towards the telephone as a possible alternative.

A storm of opposition from the telegraphers is expected to result as thousands of men will be compelled eventually to seek other employment, or else accept positions as telephone operators at greatly reduced wages.

A new field of employment for women will be opened up as soon as the new system is extended. It will also give work to superannuated employees off the roads from other departments.

The railways running out of Chicago have already installed the telephone on over 3,000 miles of their lines, it was stated yesterday, and as a result of the decision of the association it will be rapidly extended.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement in Peterboro

There was a large congregation at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning and they were treated to addresses by Mr. William Lees and Mr. Clifford, two of the gentlemen who represented Peterborough at the big banquet and convention in Toronto recently in connection with the laymen's missionary movement. Their addresses were the same as were given on Wednesday night and were illustrated with charts. The congregation was much interested in the reports, and there is little doubt but that St. Andrew's congregation will be found in the first ranks in the way of contributions towards activity in the laymen's movement.

As was stated by some speakers at Toronto convention the present movement is the greatest revival that has ever been seen in North America. It is the awakening of the masses to a realization of their obligations; and a contemplation of the scheme to a successful climax will accomplish more towards the unification of all the Protestant churches and the distribution of the gospel to the unChristianized world than has been accomplished in the past two centuries. It will also broaden the thoughts of civilized humanity and will create a more comprehensive appreciation of the real mission of the Church, which in the past has, to an almost inconceivable extent, been laboring in a false light. The average man, the man who is considered the backbone of a nation, while he has gone forward in the material world has really had no conception of the greater mission which should be considered the privilege of all men, viz., the assisting of the uncivilized and unChristianized nations to a participation in the pleasures and gratifications of Christianity and civilization that are enjoyed by themselves.

The banquet to be given in the basement of the George Street Methodist Church is looked forward to with optimism by an energetic band of workers to bring about great results in the way of creating interest in the laymen's missionary movement.

Dr. A. W. McPherson's Services Appreciated by O.H.A.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Important amendments to the playing rules were adopted this morning at the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association in the Labor Temple. Chief among the changes is the decision regarding playing off a tie. If the two teams are in the same town or city the draw will be decided in the second game. A rule was passed preventing the executive from returning any forfeited deposit. All the old officers were re-elected except the treasurer. The president, Mr. D. J. Turner, occupied the chair, and after preliminaries delivered the annual address.

DR. McPHERSON'S RETIREMENT.

The following resolution was carried unanimously—Moved by William Blake Duff, seconded by J. Ross Robertson, "That the Ontario Hockey Association, in annual convention assembled, desires to place on record its high appreciation of the services of Dr. A. W. McPherson as treasurer of the association, and regrets that circumstances have rendered it advisable on his part to no longer accept office in this association. Mr. McPherson has been treasurer from 1903-04, until to-day, and his work has been of a most superior quality, and he has played his own part in creating the gratifying success of the O. H. A. The O. H. A. will never have a more careful, efficient and reliable treasurer than Dr. McPherson. And that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

There was a tie for fourth place on the Executive Committee between Mr. Hanley and Mr. Dyment, with 26 votes apiece. The three elected on the first ballot were Mr. Farquharson, Mr. Irving and Mr. Rule, with 30, 28 and 27 votes respectively. On another vote for fourth place Mr. Dyment was elected by one vote. The complete list of officers for the season 1908-09—

Mayor Tom Johnston Gets Many Offers of Help But Refuses All

Special to the Times.

Cleveland, Nov. 22.—Pathetic messages of sympathy and hundreds of offers of financial aid poured in yesterday upon Mayor Thomas L. Johnston, whose recent financial reverses will force him to give up his handsome home on Euclid avenue and go back to a cottage and start again to make another fortune. One characteristic message from Senator R. M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, is as follows—"Fight on, brave heart. The only man who wins final victories is the one who will not accept defeat."

Scores of men, rich and poor, many of whom had never seen the Mayor before, called at his office in the city buildings with proffers of aid. One brought a cheque for $2,000. Mayor Johnston, with tears of gratitude in his eyes, declined it, as he did all the others. He said, "I'll pull through. I'll get on my feet again without any help."

Man Died While Feeding Horses

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Chas. Wilkins, 214 East Picton street, was found dead in his stable on Saturday night. It was at first thought it was a case of suicide from poison, as a whiskey bottle was found not far away from him in the hay loft, but upon investigation it was found to contain only polluted water. Coroner Balfe was called and after an examination he decided death was due to natural causes.

Deceased had a butcher shop in the Central Market Hall and on Saturday afternoon went home on account of illness. About 8 o'clock he went out to feed his horses, and when he had not put in an appearance at 11 o'clock, his wife sent the hired man out to look for him and the body was found in the hay loft.

Straightening the Course of the Creek

Mr. Rehill, off the Rehill Ice Co., has several teams and men engaged on his property adjoining the creek between the C.P.R. tracks and McDonald's lumber yard. They are straightening out the channel of the waterway, and are using the material to raise the lot on the east side. The willow trees are all being cut down, and Mr. Rehill will fill up his property on the west side of the creek as fast as possible. The lot, however, is very low, and will require a lot of material and will take some time to complete it. When it is levelled off a new and modern ice-house will be erected on the site.

THE WEATHER.

Southerly winds; warmer and showery.

Had His Arm Fractured in an Explosion

(Special to The Times)

St. Catharines, Nov. 22.—William Bombay had his arm broken in an explosion in the Battle quarries at Thorold yesterday afternoon of 60 pounds of dynamite. Bombay was in the boiler house and could not get away in time.

Tigers Easily Defeated T. A. A. C. of Toronto

(Special to the Times.)

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Again the mighty Hamilton Tigers were victorious. On Saturday on their own grounds they easily defeated the Toronto A. A. C. by the score of 31 to 8. The game was the semi-final for the Canadian rugby championship, and was played before a small crowd considering the importance of the game. The weather conditions were fine, there being practically no wind. The field, however, was a little soft in some places, and very slippery, and caused many men to fall when they had an opportunity to make a good run.

The Tigers had by far the better of the playall through. The wing lines did exceptionally well, while the back division came through with their old time vigor and snap. Capt. Barrett had his team playing their running pass game as regular as clock work.

The Torontos scored the first points on a nice drop kick by Maxwell. Hamilton soon tied on a drop kick by Biggs. The first quarter ended, Hamilton 8, Toronto 5.

In the fourth quarter the ball was in Toronto grounds the greater part of the time, and Maxwell saved many times by long kicks from behind the line. On an attempted drop kick by Tope, whose kicking was a decided feature of the game, the ball went to the fence for a point for Hamilton. Just to wind the day up and to show that he possessed no mean ability as a runner, George Ballard got the ball in the middle of the field and started on a merry clip for Toronto's line. He passed several wing men and played the ball for the last touch of the day and gave Moore an opportunity to convert, which he did. Final score, Hamilton 31, Toronto 8.

Chief of Police was Nearly Asphyxiated

Special to the Times.

Belleville, Nov. 22.—Chief of Police Snyder, of Deseronto, and his family had a narrow escape from asphyxiation by coal gas from a stove. Mrs. Snyder was very low, but will recover.

Law Student in Ottawa Suicides

(Special to the Times)

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Chas. Moffatt, a law clerk, this afternoon committed suicide in one of the city offices by shooting himself in the head. He used an old-fashioned, long-barrel 44 calibre revolver. No reason is advanced for his rash act.

Miscarriage of a Letter United Long Lost Brothers

Special to the Times.

Marshall, Mich., Nov. 22.—Through the miscarriage of a letter Harold Orn, a Michigan Central engineer, of this city, has found and been reunited with his brother, Martin Orn, from whom he has been separated for 37 years. A letter addressed to Martin, but after traveling about from place to place finally came into the hands of Harold. From it he learned that his brother was in Sisternville, West Virginia, and the two brothers are now enjoying their reunion in the West Virginia town, where Martin is engaged in the oil business.

Were Selling Liquor All Day Sunday

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Inspector Hotell claims to have caught two hotels violating the liquor law to-day. The accusations are against the Belmont conducted by W. Condon, and the Bay View, in charge of W. Dillon.

London Fire Commission Places Ban on Fat Firemen

(Special to the Times)

London, Nov. 21.—The blow has fallen on "fat" firemen, and last night the members of the London Brigade, especially those opposed to offersh p, began to tighten their belts and meditate gloomily on a vegetable and non-alcohol regime.

In the course of the day Captain Hamilton, the chief officer, and for the two sub-officers, Etherdin and Eastman, whom he thought perhaps too fat to be made officers. It will be remembered that these men appealed to the committee against the decision. The chief officer now informed them that the Fire Brigade Committee had left the decision to him, and that he should not alter it.

Although there was nothing against them except that they were too fat—for they had excellent recommendations from their superintendents—he said he had to inform them finally that he could not recommend them for any further promotion, and that they could either give up their position (as probationary sub-officers) or he would have to take it from them.

Free Whiskey Stirs Ire--The Boys and Girls Imbibe Freely

Distribution of Whiskey Samples in Local Option Ravenswood Causes Rising Among Residents. Whose Doorsteps Become Buffets

Buffalo, Nov. 22.—The manufacturers of the "smoothest" whisky, whichever that is, have incurred the enmity of the residents of local option and prohibition districts in Chicago, and trouble for that particular concern is being planned.

A delegation of Ravenswood residents filed their complaint with Corporation Counsel Brundage yesterday morning. They asserted that samples of a certain brand of rye or bourbon, they didn't know which, were left on the doorstep of practically every resident of that prohibition district two days before election.

The result was that some of the sons of well-to-do parents collected the samples and had a high old time. Some of the little girls got a taste of samples, and altogether Ravenswood is much wrought up over the indiscriminate distribution of liquor.

The wanted the distributors arrested. Mr. Brundage was unable to find any ordinance under which a legal complaint could be made. That the protestors wanted an ordinance which would prohibit a recurrence of their experiences. That was promised by Mr. Brundage, and he at once gave Howard Hayes the task of getting an ordinance into shape for the meeting of the council Monday evening. Mr. Hayes was unable to get his half holiday yesterday afternoon because of the job assigned to him.

"I would have no objection to giving my humble opinion of the quality of the whisky if it had been delivered to me personally," said one of the objectors to Mr. Brundage. "But I do strenuously object to having the boys of the neighborhood testing every sample left and then giving some of the little girls a swallow or two. I have been told that the men who were distributing the samples gave a number of them to boys who followed the wagon around."

"The objectors do not want their names printed, but the abuse of which they complain should be stopped," said Mr. Brundage later. "We will have an ordinance ready for the meeting of the council Monday."

"It's a difficult proposition to put in ordinance form," explained Mr. Hayes. "There is no desire, as I understand it, to prohibit the giving away of samples to drinking adults or to prohibit Christmas presents of anybrand desired, but only to prohibit a distribution of samples in such manner that the children will get hold of them. Some of the older men are liable to charge that the parents are angry because they do not get the "wet goods, and may be inclined to poke fun at the ordinance —especially if it has any defects."

Steamer Got Wheel Tangled in Bridge

Special to the Times.

St. Catharines, Nov. 22.—The steam barge Iona, passing down the old Welland Canal above Lock No. 2 on Saturday afternoon, got her wheel entangled in the chain which belongs to the footway bridge that crosses the canal for the use of the Ridley College students. A diver was unable to get the chain until this afternoon, when the barge was backed into the upper reach and the water drawn off.

Fined $200 for Treating a Policeman

(Special to the Times)

Hamilton, Nov. 22.—Jacob Obermeser, of the Union Hotel, was fined $200 in the police court on Saturday for disposing of liquor on Sunday, Nov. 7th to Constable Thompson. This was by way of a treat. Two other charges of harboring constables and obstructing an officer were dropped. The obstruction charge was the result of Obermeser attempting to delay Sergt. Finch when he pounced in upon Thompson.

Unhealthy Women

Have Color, Constantly, Weary Look, Wrinkled, Hollow.

THEY ALL GET HEALTH—VITALITY—VIM, STRENGTH FROM FERROZONE.

Once you use this celebrated nerve vitalizer and tonic, Ferrozone — once you feel its magic powers, working through your weakened system — health you'll know for sure that health at last awaits you.

So much quicker and surer is Ferrozone to rebuild and restore that thousands use no other medicine.

"Because I am now well," writes Miss I. P. Sinclair, from Sault Ste Marie, "I feel it my duty to tell every young woman what benefit I got from Ferrozone. I grew very thin, and at twenty-five years old my face was hollow and wrinkled—my color was bad and I looked ten years beyond my age. I was nervous and hysterical, couldn't sleep, had no appetite, burst into tears at the least provocation. Then I worried, feared, would go into decline, and was so depressed every morning that life was no longer happy.

"I was astonished at the quick and thorough action of Ferrozone. It gave me permanent strength and vitality, nervous fears disappeared, indigestion and stomach weakness were cured. Sound sleep returned. I looked better and younger, had clear color. I gained in weight, felt happy, vigorous, strong.— It is a year since I first took Ferrozone. It has restored me to health I never knew before and I will continue to recommend it as the grandest tonic and strengthener on earth."

Very few girls and women are so abundant in health as to not require medicine. Nothing excels Ferrozone in supplying strength, blood and nerve power. Not a stimulant, but a nourishing tonic is Ferrozone, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Try Ferrozone. Do it to-day.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

Cut Throats Left Trail of Blood on Street

New York, November 23.—Members of the Humpty Jackson gang and Gas House gang went forth last night bent on murder and assault, and as a consequence one innocent man lies dead and twenty or more are in hospitals with their bones, some badly hurt.

The gangs broke loose as the police expected they would on election night. Humpty Jackson's started out to get Monday morning, when they shot down Jimmie Kelly, also a gang leader from Tammany Hall. The police feared an outbreak last night and extra police were stationed on the Lower East Side. A junction of Jackson's and Gas House thugs was arranged on Avenue A about midnight. Shortly before 12 o'clock the Jacksons marched down Lowery and crossed over on Avenue A. Every man who happened along was attacked. If he fought he was carved up with a razor or felled with a black-jack and left unconscious on the pavement. Up Avenue A the gang marched shouting accordingly, and curses. Women were dragged from doorways and upstairs and not a Gas House man in the Jackson band failed to get his share of the Gas House gang.

John Mosconi [illegible] standing on the corner of Avenue A and Manhattan street when the [illegible] opened upon him. Mosconi drew a gun and fired back, and was surprised when he began hearing from two men armed with a black-jack and an iron bar. Mosconi drew a second revolver in his left hand and fired. Two shots [illegible] the gang but [illegible] second [illegible] his heart through his stomach, [illegible] Mosconi with glee. They seemed to love murder, and the sight inspired them to more killing. Women looked from the windows of their homes only to be fired upon. Houses were peppered with bullets and window glass was shattered.

The police were called, but none came. When the reserves finally reached the scene the gangs had separated, but three thugs were caught. One of these had his skull cracked by a policeman. An hour later victims of the gangs began arriving at Bellevue Hospital. Rudolph Kelle had walked to the hospital with his throat cut from ear to ear and with a dozen other razor slashes about his arms and body. George Krumbein, [illegible] grocer, was stabbed. [illegible] Humble received cuts about the face and hands.

Valentine Schell was taken to Gouverneur Hospital in a serious condition with stabs and internal injuries. Theodore Goldberg and Joseph Lappin received cuts and other wounds. Patrick Cleary had his head fractured.

Tickling [illegible] coughs can be easily and quickly loosened with a few drops of Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Druggists are dispensing everywhere the Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is no wonder very different than common cough medicines. No Opium, no Chloroform absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless, long healing mountainous shrub, gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. These leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babe. Try it yourself and see. Sold by all dealers.

A NATIONAL MUSEUM

RESTING PLACE FOR CANADIAN RELICS PROPOSED.

Movers of New Institution Favor a Repository at Montreal In View of Demolition of Old Chateau Ramezay—Many Valuable Treasures Are Available For Preservation In Proper Building.

Now that the Chateau de Ramezay, at Montreal, is about to be demolished, and its historic collection transferred to the Monument Nationale, the auspicious time has arrived, it would seem, for establishing a National Museum. The proposal to build a national museum in Westmount Park has already been endorsed by one of the founders of the Chateau de Ramezay.

There are many historical treasures in the vicinity, at "Temple Grove," for instance, which should be taken over and cared for in a national museum. In the library of this wonderful old place, the residence of Mr. D. R. McCord, K.C., are cases and shelves full of old leather-bound volumes and precious historic documents, gathered as a labor of love from all parts. A letter of Nelson, giving his impressions of Quebec, together with the signature and official seal of Wellington. Also the signature of Dollard and three others of the sixteen heroes who saved the colony from the Iroquois in 1660; as well as those of nearly all the heroic band of Jesuits, who, with death staring them in the face on every hand, penetrated the forest wilderness, and carried the story of the cross to the Indians. Casot—the last of the Jesuits—is there (1783), along-side of the signatures of Frontenac and of Maisonneuve, the founder of Montreal, is that of Laval de Montmorenci, the first Catholic Bishop of Quebec, and of saintly Bishop Stewart. On the table is a Dollond telescope, which could tell many a tale of stirring scenes beheld from the slopes of Mount Royal in the early part of the nineteenth century. Then there is an Eolian harp, nearly one hundred years old; a fine old barometer, presented by the Royal Society of England to one of Mr. McCord's ancestors, the cross of old Bonsecours Church, an ancient arquebus, and other curious relics. In a closet are shelves loaded with portfolios of valuable drawings and engravings by the thousand, all representing celebrated scenes and incidents in the annals of Canada. One, a velvet mezzotint of the Marquis of Townshend, is a veritable work of art, and is only one of many such.

Here on the walls are swords, blunderbusses, guns, bayonets, daggers and other ancient weapons of war, in galore, the most interesting being the sword of Gen. Brock. Nearby is a glass case containing the war-bonnet of eagle feathers of Tecumseh, together with his bow and arrows. There is a fine example of the complete armor of a knight of the time of the War of the Roses, with marks of battle-axe cuts in the helmet. In another corner is a piece of the ash tree under which the first Superior of the Ursuline Sisters of Quebec taught the Indian children. On one part of the staircase walls are to be seen thirty-nine paintings in oils, representing historic scenes and places in Canada; interspersed with trophies of the warpath and the battlefield.

A Murderous Weapon.

Not content with the smaller knife affected by his less blood-thirsty countrymen, an Italian now in Parry Sound jail has exercised his ingenuity on making a "murderers' tool," out of a file, and he has done his work well, for when the knife, sent by a magistrate from that northern district, arrived at the Attorney-General's Department the Toronto detectives who viewed it said they had never seen its like.

This knife was made from a file 9 inches long, and 7-1-2 inches is utilised as a blade. It tapers from an inch in diameter to a needle point and carries a keen cutting edge on both edges. The shank is set in a piece of small maple branch, with the bark still on in some places to ensure a perfect grip.

In the hands of an assassin such a knife would go through a victim as easily as a bayonet on the end of a heavy rifle; and it is a good thing the knife was taken away from this sanguine native of sunny Italy before he had occasion to use it.

More Go Into Teaching.

Increases in teachers' salaries, says Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario, who has just returned from England, is responsible for the large increase in the number of entries for the Normal schools this year. There are 1,800 applications, which is more than double the average. The six Normal schools have accommodation for about 1,200 students.

The average increase in country school salaries has been from $402 in in 1904 to $458 in 1907 for males and from $296 to $379 for females. In town schools the increase is from $485 to $547 for males, and from $336 to $369 for females.

Hon. Dr. Pyne is reserving his conclusions from the observations he made on technical education in Great Britain.

Say Shows Are Immoral.

Complaint has been made to the department of moral reform of the Methodist Church about the class of theatrical production allowed to enter the Dominion from the United States and do business throughout Canada.

It is charged that in certain theatres in Toronto, Hamilton, and Montreal plays of vicious and immoral tendency are given.

Eaten by Wolves.

Mike McHugh of Vancouver, B.C., disappeared three years ago at Alberni, Vancouver Island. Recently the remains of the skeleton were found, indicating he had been killed and devoured by wolves or panthers.

Dipping Sheep.

All sheep are troubled with external parasites unless thoroughly dipped at shearing time and again shortly afterward. Besides ticks, sheep are often seriously injured with lice. On account of the wool and the small size of the lice, it is almost impossible to see them. Many sheep are worried to death with lice when the owner has not the slightest idea of what the trouble is.

It is easy to dip sheep, and it is perfectly safe in the summer time. If they are thoroughly cleansed in warm weather they are not likely to become badly infected during the winter unless they are permitted to run with other sheep that have not been treated.

Very often showing sheep at the fairs will lead to trouble unless the exhibition stock is very carefully guarded and taken care of before mixing again with the home flock. There are so many advantages from dipping that every farmer should build a tank, a small, cheap affair for a few sheep and a larger and more convenient arrangement for a larger flock.

Things Dairyman Should Know.

The cost of producing one gallon of milk.

The cost of producing one pound of butter fat.

The cost of feeding a cow one year.

The cost of labor in caring for one cow one year.

The number of pounds of milk each cow in the herd yields each year

The number of dollars each cow's milk brings each year.

Which is the most profitable cow in the herd, and why?

Which is the poorest cow in the herd, and why?

How many boarders there are in the herd.

Large Pile of Soft Coal is on Fire

The large pile of soft coal slack at the rear of the Quaker Oats Co's. plant on Hunter street has been causing a good deal of alarm since Monday. The immense heap of coal in many places is on fire, there being little blaze, but the smoke rising from it shows that there must be fire underneath. The fire is due to spontaneous combustion.

Yesterday in the centre of the pile for about ten feet square there was a big blaze. It has been burning since Monday and has had some watched day and night. Men are drawing the coal away a little north of where it originally was.

Water will not extinguish the coal fire, but rather makes it worse. The only thing that seems to put it out is the cold air. At noon to-day it was still smouldering, and a man is kept shoveling the coal about. In this way the air is allowed to get at the coal and the fire kept under control.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out his error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve". When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all druggists.

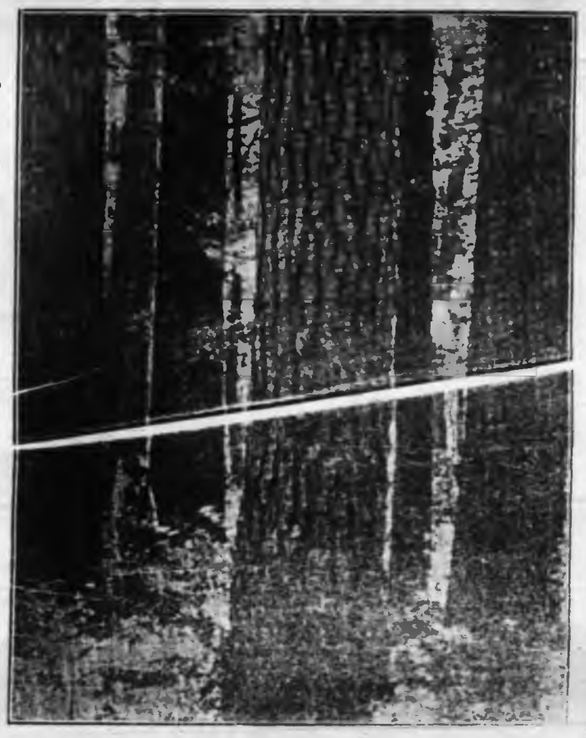
This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.



British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C. E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

Inthon Class

The second literary meeting of the season was held in the church parlor Friday night. The main feature of the evening was a spelling match. Two Normal School boys, Messrs. Clancy and Leary, acted as captains and they acquitted themselves admirably. Mr. George Robertson called the words and it seemed to be an especial delight for him to pick out the hardest words in the Practical Speller.

It was the cause of much humor and knowledge and some very queer combinations of letters were made up from comparatively easy words such as pizzaza, littice and furtill for piazza, lettuce and fertile.

Before the lineup for the spelling match, six fellows were called upon for impromptu speeches which were also the cause of much laughter.

A clergyman writes: "Preventics, those little Cand Cold Cure Tablets are wonders in my parish." Preventics surely will check a cold, or the Grippe in a very few hours. And Preventics are so safe and rameless. No Quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

Inquest Asked Peculiar Death

Hamilton, Nov. 20.—An inquest was ordered to-night into the death of Henry Weinstein, who died in the City Hospita lfrom tubercular mengitis. On Oct. 17th he and Samuel Goldberg were involved in a wordy quarrel over a girl, and it is alleged Goldberg struck the deceased. The assailant was tried in the police court for assault, but the case fell through, as it was deemed the evidence was not sufficiently strong. Three weeks later on Nov. 6th Weinstein was taken to the hospital and died to-night from menengitis. The father claims the disease was brought on bythe blow Goldberg struck, although one doctor disagrees with this, and he has demanded an inquest. It depends on the verdict of the doctors whether a charge of manslaughter will be preferred against Goldberg.

Held Party for Peterborough Young Lady

A very pleasant party and oyster supper was held at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Bick on Wednesday evening in honor of a niece, Miss Stinson, of Peterborough, who has been visiting relatives for the last few weeks. A very select company of about twenty of the leaders of the North and South Verulam Society were present and enjoyed themselves with music, games, etc. Miss Stinson and Miss Davidson were liberal with their musical selections and contributed very much to the pleasure of the evening. About 12 o'clock the oysters were served, and that was where Joe Anderson and Herb McGee came to the front and displayed a capacity for oyster stew that was good to see. The party broke up about 2 o'clock after a very pleasant time, all saying good-bye to Miss Stinson, who leaves for home Thursday morning.—North Verulam correspondence of Bobcaygeon Independent.

.....The..... Plow Woman

By Eleanor Gates

had called to his Maker but twice in his life—once when an ugly tempered peon threatened him with a spade, again when, falling from his swiftly moving flat car, he felt the heavy wheels grinding him flesh and bone.

"Storm kain't tech th' shack," he said proudly. "She's built like a ship, t' stan' any win'. She's warm, too, an' thet Injun he brings us plenty of wood. An' they 's grub 'nough t' last'."

The evangelist was politely attentive.

"They 's jes' one man thet might come botherin' 'em," Lancaster went on. "But 'tain't likely he'll see these parts before spring. An' Ah don' b'lieve he'll come then."

David Bond set his brows together. The previous night an unshaped thought had made him pause a second before leaving Dallas. Now that thought became a suspicion—a suspicion of the real truth. "A man?" he said questioningly. "A man?"

Being thus prompted on the subject of the claim, Lancaster was willing to proceed, for he had no feeling that he was obeying Dallas. "Ah'm speakin' of a man thet filed on my section in July," he said. "His six months is up t'day. So Ah reckon he'll hev t' work a new piece of track. For Ah inten' t' hang on t' thet quarter—its goin' t' be worth a pile."

The evangelist threw him a swift glance. "What is the name of that man?" he asked.

"Ah dunno. Ah clean gone an' f'got it. Ah ought t' wrote it down"—

"Would you know it if you heard it?"

"W'y, yes—'twas some ornery name."

"Was it—was it Matthews?"

Complete bewilderment spoke from Lancaster's wide open eyes and mouth. He whirled about upon the evangelist and seized the reins. Shadrach came to a squatting stop, his ears turning round to catch a command. "Thet's it! Thet's it!" cried the section boss. "An' how d' you know?"

The two men looked at each other in silence. Lancaster's face was dark with distrust; David Bond's pale with alarm.

"How?" exclaimed the latter, when his tongue at last answered his will. "How? Because Matthews came north with me yesterday."

If Shadrach possessed the sense his master claimed for him he must have concluded then and there that the human beings in the pung had gone stark mad. For after some excited shouting, the one to the other, they brought him square about and sent him scurrying back toward Brannon.

They did not retrace their way, but steered due south, thus saving the few miles that could take them again through Clark's. Shadrach approved the change in direction, which pointed to a snug corner beside the friendly bull calf, and fairly skimmed the hard snow. He had already gone forty long miles since morning. Yet, undaunted, he took up the return with good zest, holding a smart pace unwearily. He breathed deep, and his long Roman nose—thrust out on a line with his rocking back—smoked like an eager charger's.

One by one quivering fingers of light shot forth.

In the first half hour that followed the evangelist's disquieting admission he listened to a wild, profane tirade—against himself for having failed to speak of Matthews, against Dallas for being in such a tarnal hurry, against Lounsbury on general principles. The section boss found only one person wholly exempt from blame—himself. So he cursed, threatened, he wrung his hands, he grabbed a crutch and, leaning forward, poked the straining

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a milder, tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first reaches the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is to be trusted to quiet weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

CLEAN UP INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful baths safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B. Hangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the head, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a perfect spring medicine; they destroy germs and poisons of every description and strength whereby the system rallies and the patient quickly enjoys the blessings of Perfect Health. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills—to-day—25c at all dealers.

Bowling Alleys Pay

Great interest is being displayed in the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys, and the young fellows are patronizing the new sport remarkably well. Saturday was the biggest day yet, except Thanksgiving Day, when the alleys were going practically all the time from early morning until the building closed at 10 o'clock. There is no doubt that bowling is a good, clean sport, and if the present interest keeps up during the winter the alleys will prove to be a paying proposition.

Lectured in Boston, N. S.

It is learned from a Boston, N. S. journal that Mr. Walter H Cluxton last Wednesday delivered Tennyson's "Enoch Arden" before the students of Emerson College in the Chickering Hall. There was an audience of between four and five hundred present and appreciative attention and enthusiastic applause was given. At the conclusion of the reading several of the faculty sought the stage and warmly congratulated Mr. Cluxton on his clever performance. His many friends in Peterborough join felicitations.

Carpenters Meet

To-night's regular meeting of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America is of particular interest to the local members in that they will have an opportunity of casting their ballots for the election off the general officers. By the rules of the society the election must be held during the week commencing the third Sunday of November, on a special day set apart by the local union for that purpose. In Peterborough this will be held to-night and the officers desire a large attendance in order that the vote registered may be one representative of the local union. Speaking to one of the members it was learned that the feeling in this city is one of satisfaction that has been made, although there was a break last year in the prolonged activity. Mr. William D. Huber and Theo. M Guerin are the nominees for the presidency. The former has held the position during the past two years.

Personal

The friends of Dr. Neal will be pleased to learn that he is recovering from his recent illness.

Mrs. Capel Tilt, Hargrave street, gave a delightful reception from five to seven yesterday afternoon in honor of her niece, Miss Ida Mulholland, of Peterborough. The hostess, who was assisted in receiving by the young honor guest, wore a very handsome toilette of pale blue satin, relieved with old rose point. Miss Mulholland's gown was a simple and becoming one, fashioned in the princess lines of pale pink satin trimmed with filmy cream lace. In the dining room a very tempting buffet revealed its surface, graced with a venetian point centrepiece over billows of pale yellow tulle, a cut glass bowl brimming with golden-hued "mums" holding it in place. Here Mrs. W. Sanford Evans presided for the first hour, Mrs. George Carruthers doing the honor for the second.

Inthon Bible Class

The Inthons met as usual in George Street Church parlor, the fine day not doing much to keep the attendance very far below the average. Sixty fellows turned up among whom were Ald. Johnston and Dr. Marshall, who have time once in a while to come to class.

A good account of the lesson was given by the teacher, Rev. E. A. Pearson, and a good many arguments came up on the phases of the lesson.

After the lesson the regular business of the class was transacted, which included reports from different chairmen, the most important of which was the report from Dr. Marshall, Chairman of the Athletic Committee, an outline of which was the the forming of an Inthon hockey team. The list of fellows from which the team will be picked is one that will be in a fair way to land the O. H. A. championship.

Next Sunday being the international temperance Sunday, a talk on the effects of alcohol on the system will be given by Dr. Marshall after the regular lesson. So the fellows who don't think alcohol will hurt them want to be on deck and hear what the doctor has to say. You'll not have to sign any pledges.

Mr. E. G. Clark, Chairman of the Devotional Committee, is certainly looking after the spiritual welfare of the class. He is now forming a prayer circle and hopes to be ready very soon. He is also helping out the Sunday School Superintendent by asking for volunteer teachers to substitute in the absence of the regular teachers.

Don't fail to attend next Sunday, fellows.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Boys Play Ball and then Dine

A very interesting evening was spent in the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday, when two of the boys Bible classes tried conclusions at basket ball in the gymnasium. The game was hard fought and the boys had a lot of fun. Some of them expect to get a place on the big teams in a couple of years and to help bring glory to their city. After the play the two teams with some friends to the number of about twenty-five, adjourned to the banquet hall upstairs, where they partook of a luncheon and spent an hour very pleasantly.

New Life

After one suffers from acid dyspepsia, sour stomach, for months and then finds the remedy is in getting the right kind of food, it is something to speak out about.

N. Y. lady and her young son had such an experience and she wants others to know how to get relief, She writes:

"For about fifteen months my little boy and myself had suffered with sour stomach. We were unable to retain much of anything we ate.

"After suffering in this way for so long I decided to consult a specialist in stomach diseases. Instead of prescribing drugs he put us both on Grape-Nuts and we began to improve immediately.

"It was the key to a new life. I found we had been eating too much heavy food which we could not digest. In a few weeks after commencing Grape-Nuts I was able to do my house work. I wake in the morning with a clear head and feel rested and have no sour stomach. My boy sleeps well and wakes with a laugh.

"We have regained our lost weight and continue to eat Grape-Nuts for both the morning and evening meals. We are well and happy and we owe it to Grape-Nuts." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read. "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

Write immediately for full particulars. Local agent wanted.

Temperance Meeting Well Attended

The weekly temperance meeting in the Crystal Theatre last night was a most interesting one. The address was given by Rev. Mr. Webb, of the Murray Street Baptist Church. It was an earnest appeal to the workers, in which the speaker pictured the importance of the work and showed how that they were no longer spending time on the confirmed drunkards but were endeavoring the prevent drunkenness and to remove the temptation. The temperance workers were placed in a line with such personages as John B. Gough, Neal Dow, Mrs. Whitcombe, Francis R. Havergal and Lady Henry Summerset.

A duet was rendered by Mrs. Miller and Miss Hope Miller, of the Murray street choir, and Miss Pilling gave a solo. Next Sunday the meeting will be in charge of Rev. J. G. Potter.

Miss Alice Windsor, of Burleigh Falls, states there is no truth in the report of her engagement to Mr. H. C. Andrews, of Norwood. The published statement regarding the engagement was entirely without foundation.

Lockworks Defeated T.A.S. in First Game of Bowling Tournament

The first games in the ten pin tournament at the Peterborough Athletic Club's bowling alleys were played last night, when the Lock Works ten defeated the T. A. S. bowlers by 146 pins in the three games. The Lock Works boys won every game, although the final was very close. C. Lepplante made a fine score in the first game, running up 212. This will take some pretty good bowling to beat. The scores were as follows—

Greys—
J. E. Sully	168	110	101	389
G. C. Snyder	95	115	157	367
M. J. Clancy	114	165	156	435

Judgment Reserved in Case of Regan vs. Lawless

His Lordship Chief Justice Falconbridge held the fall assizes here yesterday afternoon. The court opened at 2:30 o'clock and finished the afternoon. There was only one case on the docket, that of Regan vs. Lawless, all the other cases having been settled out of court, including the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co. vs. Sykes.

The case of Regan vs. Langley, the receiver for the estate of J. A. Lawless, late of the National Hotel, was a suit to recover back salary from the estate. Mr. Regan was called, and he testified that Mr. Lawless agreed to employ him at the rate of $100 per month and board and that he also was to be promoted from clerk to manager. That was in April, 1907, and he remained in his employ until last July.

Mrs. Regan, mother of the plaintiff, also gave evidence in reference to the conversations between Mr. Lawless and Mr. Regan.

Mr. Lawless said that the agreement was made with the understanding that if the plaintiff made the business profitable he was to receive the above salary. But it had not been profitable and he did not think he should be held liable for the amount.

His Lordship reserved his decision.

His Nerves Weak

POOR MEMORY. LACKED VIGOR. LOST EMPLOYMENT.

Another Case Proving You Quickly get Bracing Health from Ferrozone.

There's a real reason why Ferrozone cures.

It's a true nerve tonic—not a stimulant—it feeds the nerves with nourishment—gives them vital actual activity.

No other tonic in the world like Ferrozone, nothing else is so quick and lasting in its effects on a run-down, nervous system. "I used enough medicine to appreciate an honest one," writes A. E. Beattie, from his home in Newcastle. "From babyhood I was not overly strong and was always nervous. I smoked a good deal, but on the whole my habits were good. My trouble first began with a shortening of the hours of sleep. I would awaken too early, my appetite was poor, and to whip it up I used highly spiced and sweet foods. First thing I knew I had palpitation on doing a little extra work, and then an awful tiredness came upon me, and a strange feeling of dread—almost of fear — made me think I was losing grip of myself. My power of memory weakened and I lost my position. Then I read about Ferrozone. Say, it's awfully good to get a medicine that helps you right off. I don't mind telling you I was badly scared, and every dose was almost like sunshine. At once I began to feel better, and permanently better I really was, for less than a dozen boxes made me a well man. Now I can do my work with any man and I am grateful to Ferrozone."

Ferrozone corrects all enfeebled conditions of the system, builds up and gives the body great resistive power against disease. To use Ferrozone assures lasting robust health. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Try Ferrozone, do it to-day.

Regina, Sask., Nov. 23.—The Liberals here have entered a protest against A. A. Wetmore, the Conservative member-elect for Milestone.

Woodmen Gave an At Home Last Night

A very pleasant At Home was held in the Sons of England hall on Simcoe St. last night by Spruce Forest Grove Woodmen of the World. It was an open meeting and a large number of Woodmen and their ladies and friends availed themselves of the opportunity to enjoy the evening and they did so to the fullest extent. A fine programme was presented, including progressive euchre as well as a number of vocal and instrumental solos, etc. Refreshments were served during the evening and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Collegiate Institute Opening Friday

The formal opening of the new Collegiate Institute will be held on Friday afternoon of this week at 3 o'clock. Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, will officiate and will be accompanied by other men well known from the positions they occupy in educational circles. They will be met at the station on their arrival and escorted to the Central for dinner, after which they will visit the Normal School and then the Collegiate Institute.

In the evening an orchestra will be present at the Institute, where a promenade will be held.

Put Ban on Autos

Lindsay, Nov. 23.—The County Council of Victoria county passed a resolution against automobiles. Mr. [illegible] explained that a resolution was passed [illegible] Government to have [illegible] on Sundays, and [illegible] Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham [illegible] counties will co-operate.

Famous Bank Robber Refuses to Cross Line

(Special to The Times)

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Geo. W. Monroe, alias "Portland Fatty," who is one of the most [illegible] bank robbers in America, refuses to come to Quebec to stand his trial on a charge of participating in the St. Raphael robbery, if he can help it. Though apparently down and out financially, he has been able to engage lawyers of note who are not looking for a few dimes or cheap advertising, but who are ready to take the job and get what it is worth, and that is a good deal. They are now at work and the end is looked forward to with great interest.

When Monroe was landed in New York it appeared then to be only a matter of a very short time when he would be brought to Montreal for trial, but events since then show that the Pinkertons have a line on more bank burglaries than the police have any idea of.

Wrestling Match at the Roller Rink

[illegible] and Fitzpatrick [illegible] Roller Rink to-night in a bout that will, no doubt, attract a good crowd. Both men are in fine shape and both are equally confident of winning. Goulding had his final work-out yesterday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A., and is fairly in the very best of shape. Fitz has been in the hands of Young Hackenschmidt who has given him invaluable assistance.

As the main preliminary Young Hackenschmidt will try to throw five men in ten minutes and the other [illegible] will be a six-round bout between Lee and Guerin.

Mat Factory will Go Ahead with Building

It is now practically assured that Mr. Weatherston will be allowed to purchase land from the city for the purpose of erecting a new mat factory. All that is necessary is to have the matter pass the committee and then the council, and Mr. Weatherston will be allowed to start the work at once. The city trust commission has, it is understood, given its consent to allow the sale of part of the Hilliard farm at $100 per acre. The manufacturers' committee was to have met yesterday afternoon, but there was not a quorum. However, the thing will be put through in time so that building operations can be started this year.

Alex Rose, Toronto Jail Breaker, in Brockville Visiting His Friends

(Special to The Times).

Brockville, Nov. 23.—It is the police [illegible] given the tip Alex Rose, one of the jail breakers who escaped with six others from Toronto last July, might today have been one more behind the prison bars. Yesterday broad day light, a week and a half from the police station, and on the main street, he stopped and conversed with a former acquaintance of his when a resident of this town. He exhibited very little anxiety over the possibility of being nabbed at any minute, and he displayed remarkable coolness. He was poorly dressed and no particular attention was paid to him, except that he wore a cowboy's hat.

At noon on King street his eye caught a young man he knew when living here, and to his friend he unveiled his identity by calling him across the street. He inquired if his friend knew him, and upon receiving a negative answer he requested that his presence here be kept a secret until he got out [illegible]. He wanted to be known as Jack [illegible] and said that he had [illegible] the province since his escape. He was thinking of skipping over into June, and inquired if the [illegible] to Morristown, N. Y., was [illegible] Sunday. He arrived [illegible] blind baggage [illegible] G. T. R. express from Ottawa. He complained of being hungry, having had [illegible] for two days.

"Don't you know you [illegible] seriously near [illegible] was asked.

"Why, no," was [illegible] the cells in the Opera House [illegible] several blocks away."

Upon being told of the [illegible] he showed some nervousness, and said "This is no place for me." He disappeared down a side street.

The police did not know [illegible] visit until this afternoon, and of course it was too late to find him, as he is supposed to have jumped an outgoing train.

Didn't Like Daughter's Suitor and Put Him Out of The House

Toronto, Nov. 23.—There were lively times at 37 Sutton avenue on Saturday night, consequent upon the return of Cornelius Wall to his former residence. He had been working in Lindsay for a long time, and when he got back to Toronto he found conditions were not as he wished.

The cause of the trouble was the strong attachment of his pretty daughter Hilda for a man named Daniel Duncan McDougall. She fell in love with him two years ago, and in the absence of her father took him to board, and he has lived happily there ever since. Some few days ago Hilda's father returned to Toronto and was annoyed.

His indignation got beyond control on Saturday night, and it is said, Wall armed himself with a rolling pin and put McDougall out into the dark.

The latter wasn't satisfied, however, and it is said he went and armed up his brother and a revolver.

"He came back here stamping his old revolver, and saying he'd shoot my father," said Miss Wall to The Star, "but I told him his revolver was like himself, full of hot air, because I saw it wasn't loaded."

Load or not, the revolver was too much for Mrs. Wall, who left hurriedly and informed Inspector Gregory that McDougall was on the war path threatening to blow out the brains of anybody who interfered. The inspector, in company with Patrolman Sergt. Beatty and Policeman Fairweather, made a hasty trip to Sutton avenue, and took both McDougall and his gun to No. 4 station. Pointing a revolver and threatening to shoot is the charge.

Up there he claimed that Father Wall had made motions at him with a butcher knife, and that the revolver had been pulled out only in self-defence.

"Perhaps your father would like you to marry McDougall?" inquired The Star cautiously to Miss Wall.

"Sure, I'll marry him if he gets out all right," said Miss Wall, who keenly resents the parental restraint imposed by her father.

McDougall appeared to-day before Magistrate Denison, charged with pointing a pistol at Cornelius Wall. Some witnesses whom he required were not on hand, and he was remanded till to-morrow without [illegible] ing or pleading.

Mr. C. Gorry was a business visitor to Lindsay yesterday.

Burglars Caught in Act, One was Shot Dead

(Special to the Times)

Rosethern, Sask., Nov. 23.—An attempt was made at 2 o'clock this morning to burglarize E. Ruttle's general store by two men, and as a result one of the men is dead. Ruttle had a burglar alarm connecting the store with his house, and when the alarm was given this morning he and his clerk, Ed. Tudie, went down to the store, the former taking a position at the back door and the latter at the front door. They saw a man run inside to warn his accomplice, and the two men made a rush to escape, at the same time firing at Tudie, and missing him. He in turn fired a shot and caught one of the men in the stomach, and he fell, dying.

Two men arrived in town on Saturday and registered at the Queen's as W. F. Saffrey and W. F. Ames. The man killed appears to be a foreigner. The police are now out after Saffrey, who escaped. An inquest will be held on the dead man, who appears to be Ames.

Hindoos Stay in Canada, Say Bribes were Offered

(Special to the Times)

Vancouver B. C. Nov. 23.—Following an impressive religious service in the Hindoo Temple yesterday afternoon, strong resolutions protesting the proposition of the Dominion Government to transport three thousand Hindoos resident in British Columbia to British Honduras were adopted. Copies were ordered to be immediately forwarded to Ottawa, London, and the Viceroy of India.

The report of two Hindoo delegates, who with a Dominion special commissioner visited British Honduras was presented. The report declared the Central American colony to be wholly unsuited to their countrymen for several reasons. The climate was unhealthy, mosquitoes abound, and the rate of pay offered and the contract system only amounts to $8 per month with rations equivalent to $4, making an average of $12 per month in a country where the cost of living is high.

The Hindoo committee decline to state whether the alleged inducements were offered by Honduras officials, the Canadian Commissioner, or colonial planters, but hinted that the entire affair might be divulged at a later date.

Halfbreed Made Rapid Exit

(Special to The Times)

Emmerson, Man., Nov. 23.—The police on both sides of the line, together with a posse of armed citizens, have been engaged since Saturday night in a hunt for Joseph Goselaw, a dad halfbreed, who fled after a desperate attempt at robbery. He is known to have two guns. Chief of Police Wilson says the fugitive has penetrated into the Two Lakes Country in North Dakota.

The halfbreed called at the home of Joseph Copeland on Saturday afternoon, just at the outskirts of the town, and pretended his rig was broken down, and asked for help. He lured the old man across to the bush and when once he had him out of sight he made a vicious attack upon him with a club, but Copeland beat him off with a big hunting knife. Copeland is known to usually have considerable money in the house, and robbery was the motive of the attack.

The Two Great Holloways At the Auditorium Rink

Skidoo night and the Two Great Holloways, who were the leading acrobats with Ringling Brothers' circus, were the two attractions which drew a large crowd to the roller rink last night, and that they took well with the crowd was evidenced by the enthusiastic applause given. The Holloways do a number of stunts that are truly wonderful and show great strength. They perform on ladders up near the roof, and do some great balancing features. These performers will be here all week except to-night, when the wrestling bout will be on. But on Wednesday night and every night for the rest of the week with a matinee Saturday afternoon, the Holloways will perform at their performance. Admission for ladies and children for the balance of the season will be. Everyone in the city should see the attraction this week.

Shop Lifting

Lindsay is getting more like New York every day. The latest metropolitan feature added to vaudeville is the shop lifter. One was caught in Walkey's store on Saturday and the papers said it was a well known town lady.

Mr. F. D. Moore of Lindsay, County Police Magistrate for Victoria, spent the week end with friends here.

Stirring Stories That Show How Ex-Convicts Become Good Citizens

Once a Crook Always a Crook Not Borne Out in Fact

Some Striking Examples of Reform Due To Prison Life

Is it worth while trying to reform criminals?

No, a few persons cling to the ancient saying "once a crook, always a crook," but are not such persons more harm to civilization. They are helping to encourage giving their consent to the existence of such criminals as are now pursuing evil vocations or waiting in prison for their release to again indulge in crime. Instead of endeavoring to lessen the number of criminals by converting them, these people are content to allow evildoers to continue malefactors and remain a menace to the community and a misery to themselves. Perhaps a glance at the following stories will show that a man who has spent a portion of his life behind steel bars is not beyond reclaim.

There are at present in this country some thousands of ex-convicts who are holding responsible business positions. Many of them are the most trusted men in the employ of their firms. Perhaps in the greatest majority of these cases the "paste" of these men are not known to their employers, but in many instances the knowledge that a man has served a prison sentence has not shorn his standing in the eyes of his employer for whom he toiled faithfully and honestly.

In a Chicago bank to-day is a clerk who spent five years in Sing Sing for forgery. He was released fifteen years ago, changed his name, grew a beard and started over again. He obtained a position as messenger in the bank. Close attention to business, punctuality, and a desire to do just a little more than was expected of him soon attracted the attention of the men above him. He became a bookkeeper, then assistant [illegible] and about three years ago was promoted to the position of teller. Since then thousands of dollars have passed through his hands in safety, but the bank has never missed a penny. The officials of this bank do not know the man's former career, but if they did it would make little difference. He has proved his right to rise above his past.

New York contains more than a score of ex-criminals who have made good. A man in the employ of a large gas company has a contract to collects hundreds of nickels every day. In the ten years he has been in the employ of the company he has been one of the few who have not been charged with "knocking down" fares. His reports have always been correct to the litre, yet he got his position six weeks after he left jail where he had been serving a sentence for grand larceny. His experience in a cell taught him a lesson he never forgot.

There is a gray-haired cashier in a San Francisco banking house who has been handling thousands of dollars belonging to the institution for years and who has a past darkened by a jail term for embezzlement. The man is the most trusted in the employ of his firm. He is the one person who shares the utmost confidence of his employers, and yet they know his story. Strange to say it is largely because they do know his story that they trust him absolutely.

The hundreds of customers who call him by his first name and have been doing so for years are ignorant of his past. Not one of them dreams that he ever saw the inside of a prison cell. Though most of those who have seen his kindly face across the counter for a dozen years, think that he is an old man; he is not. His gray hair is of the premature sort, and the deep lines about his eyes are not the marks of time. He is hardly 50, but ask any of those who know him by sight and they will hazard a guess that he is more than 70.

A SAN FRANCISCO CASHIER.

Thirty years ago this man began the fight for existence in a broker's office. He was thrifty, bright and rose rapidly. Faint at first, but ever growing in intensity, the lure of the market drew its fascination about him. He began speculating with the money he had saved. Unfortunately his success was the keynote of his undoing. The insidious undercurrent of speculation sucked him into the maelstrom of the pool. His winnings carried him away. While the goddess of fortune was with him he did not fail to do his duty to his employer. His ability first won him little by little pushed him forward into a position of the greatest responsibility, in which he had access to the funds of the company. And still fortune smiled.

Then the tide turned. To cover his losses he "borrowed" a small sum from the safe. He continued to lose and "borrow," always without the knowledge of the company, until one day he woke up to find not only every penny of his own capital swept away but a shortage of $20,000 of the firm's money staring him in the face.

He might be a thief, but he was not a coward, and he went to his employer's office.

"I have used $20,000 of the firm's money and cannot pay it back," he said it quietly.

His employer and friend turned to him calmly.

"I am glad to hear you say so," he replied unhesitatingly. "We know it. We found the shortage this morning."

What passed through the young defaulter's mind is not a matter of history but the shock of his friend's quiet rejoinder was not apparent in his face as he said.

"Please call a policeman and have me arrested."

The older man ignored his words.

"You know," he returned, "that the loss of this money will make it impossible for us to continue in business. I am more sorry for you than I am for myself. I am to blame for putting you in the path of temptation. I hope this will be a lesson to us both."

The face of the young man was ashen but his hand was firm as he pressed a button on the wall.

"Call a policeman," he said to the officer who answered the private office call. The defaulter turned to his employer.

"You will make the charge against me?" he asked.

The older man shook his head.

"Very well. I will plead guilty."

While that young man was beginning a term of five years in prison the employer died. Some said it was because of his failure in business. At any rate, he left two motherless children.

That five years behind the bars was a long time for the young embezzler. He emerged looking ten years older, and the first thing he did was to go to the banking house where he is now employed. Without reserve he told them who he was and said he would like a position. Something in the sad lines about his face, in the touch of weary sorrow in his manner softened the refusal they gave him. They verified his story, found nothing wrong in his life prior to his crime, learned that he didn't use liquor or tobacco, and sent for him.

"We will give you a job as porter," they told him.

He took it, hunted up the two children of his first employer, and the three went to live in a boarding house.

AMONG FEMALE CRIMINALS.

Little by little his new employers gained confidence in him. He was intrusted with small sums of money, proved faithful, and advanced to his present position. Meanwhile he supported his two self-chosen wards, put them through school, and strove to fill the place left vacant by their father.

He is a coward in but one thing. He has never told them of that day years ago when for the last time he confronted their dead parent in his private office.

The list of criminals who have made good are not confined to men. In New York, not far from where the tragedy of the Bowery Savings [illegible] sprinkle, in the heart of the district of [illegible] and evil odors is a tiny tenement room.

In this room lives a woman, a [illegible] with big wide eyes and [illegible] streaked with gray. She [illegible] pretty woman. The flush of youth is supplanted by a dab of [illegible] that comes from the corner drug [illegible] There are lines of suffering. Her hands are thin and red, but over all the marks of time and trouble stand forth almost offensively, an evident attempt at attractiveness, for this woman is still a coquette, waiting to the man she sent to his grave almost a score of years ago.

STORY OF "BOWERY KATE."

We will call her Bowery Kate. That isn't her name, but it will do. Twenty odd years ago Bowery Kate did her [illegible] on the Bowery. It is doubtful if she had ever seen it, for her eighteen years of life had been led among well-to-do people in a fashionable part of a Connecticut town. From her girlhood she had evinced all the traits of a flirt. Men and their admiration were the tonics on which she thrived.

Then came Tom. Tom has been dead a long time now and we do not know his last name, but it makes little difference, for to Kate he was and still is Tom—just Tom and nothing more.

He represented himself as the possessor of that essential—money. He was dashing, glib, attractive, and with the money he said was his, made a desirable combination. Bowery Kate liked him until they were married—then she fell in love with him.

After the ceremony they came to New York. Bowery Kate's family highly respectable persons, raised no objections to the match. They didn't know Tom. Neither did Kate. It was

A Mouse Frightened a Young Girl to Death

Florence, N. J., Nov. 23.—Having a horror of mice since early childhood, Miss Mary Isabel Mead, of this place, died of fright yesterday, when a mouse, pursued by the family cat, darted across the kitchen floor in her home.

Seeing the mouse, Miss Mead shrieked with fear, and was carried in a state of collapse to a lounge by her mother. Shortly afterwards she complained of a pain in her heart. Her mother hurried to a medicine chest to procure restoratives, but when she returned the young woman was dead. Valvular heart trouble, caused by fright, was the cause of death, said a physician who was summoned.

THE WEATHER.

Increasing easterly to south-easterly winds; mild and cloudy.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

UNIONISTS GAINS IN BRITAIN

The Unionists have gained heavily in Britain at the late municipal elections at the expense both of the Liberals and Socialists. This but repeats the success of a year ago; and is variously interpreted by the different party organs. The Unionists claim that it marks the flowing of the tide, while the Liberals argue that municipal politics are so divorced from national affairs that it may be due merely to local causes and the choice of candidates. It is strange, however, that these causes should work so steadily and so universally in one direction. A remarkable result is the defeat of the Socialists during a period of exceptionally hard times. This is explained as being due to the fact that Socialism does not get its supporters among the poorest people, but among those somewhat better off. The very poor think only of getting work and keeping it. Now hard times pushes the "somewhat better off" into the class of the out-of-works, and makes them think more of looking for employment than of schemes for social betterment. Here is where the Tariff Reformer comes in with his proposals to reopen the factories by tariff assistance and give jobs to all. Possibly they accounted for the great gain of the Unionists. They have a policy which promises more work for the workless — what they want most.

DOUBLY SECURED

Any person looking for a first-class investment cannot fail to be impressed by the many evidences of the value offered to them by the Willow River Timber Company. No one for a moment will doubt the value of timber as an investment and the above company has presented indisputable evidence of the fact of having in their possession one of the finest properties that has ever been placed on the market.

The high reputation of the timber who staked the timber is vouched for by some of Canada's best business men, which, coupled with the corroborating evidence of the Government Inspector, one of the highest authorities on the American continent, is such convincing proof, that even the most skeptical mind cannot fail to appreciate its value.

Just as important as the positive knowledge of the quality, quantity and splendid location of the timber, is the fact that four of the seven directors are well-known and highly reputable residents of Ontario who have had control from the very outset of its sale, are making absolutely sure that sufficient stock is sold in this province to insure the continuance of that control by themselves or some other reliable representatives in this part of our country.

By thus securing the company from the greedy control of "Big Fish," by refusing to sell more than a limited amount in any one district, the directors have made this stock perfectly secure and safe for the investor while the stock is at their disposal who might otherwise be afraid of being gobbled up or squeezed out by the "big fish" so often in evidence.

Twice already have good offers been refused, one from Hamilton and one from Buffalo for a controlling interest in the Company.

In view of the security thus afforded the sale of stock has been very large.

Tickling, tight coughs can be quickly and quickly loosened with a prescription druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless lung healing, mountainous shrub gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. These leaves have the power to calm the most distressing cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all druggists.

A Real Sea Monster Makes Its Escape

Providence, Nov. 21.—Charles Smith, watchman for the Narragansett Bay Oyster Company at Prudence Island, and Thomas Harty, a fisherman, tell a strange tale of a weird sea monster that is borne out by a score of reputable citizens, who say they have seen the beast.

The monster first made its appearance here about a week ago. Yesterday Smith and Harty spied it close to shore in shallow water. The creature is as big as an ox, is built like a kangaroo without legs, has a fluked tail, a long neck and a small head, with two horns. Smith emptied his rifle at the beast, but the bullets rattled off the hide. Then he and Harty chased it and managed to fasten it with a noose about the neck to a piling weighing a ton. The monster dragged the piling into the water as though it were a feather and swam off.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The old-fashioned way of doping the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is purely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error. "Due to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

For the benefit of those having friends at a distance, we have a good assortment of Xmas cards on exhibition.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perform the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well ocated is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each $100 invested today will bring a return of $859.42

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

STIRING STORIES

not until she did that she loved enough to make the sacrifices she did.

Two weeks after they were pronounced man and wife Tom disappeared, taking all of his wife's jewelry and what little money she had. It was a hard blow and it was unexpected, Kate didn't write to her family. Instead she packed up her effects, put them in storage and started out to look for Tom.

It was a year before she found him and during that time she had worked as a scrubwoman and did odd jobs about a factory. She ran across him on the street one night and the two went to a cheap hotel together.

There Tom confided that he had broken into a jewelry store and that the police were after him. That night morning they caught him and took him away. But Bowery Kate did not falter in her faith. That night she took $50 from a safe in the room in which she was employed and hired a lawyer to fight her husband's case. Tom got off, but Bowery Kate was appreciated disowned by her family and arrested for grand larceny.

It was two years before she got out of jail. In the meantime Tom had been caught red-handed in a burglary fracas and had gone back behind the bars. Kate didn't steal again. She got a job sweeping out an office building. For two years she labored, saving, scrimping, denying herself food and clothes, while her ill-fed body grew old and grew.

Then Tom was released. Kate met him, handed him her two years' savings, won at the cost of her flesh and blood and went with him to the cheap hotel. Then the first thing he did was to knock her down, accusing her of being unfaithful.

Kate loved him too much to stand the charge. Her hand, hard and sinewy from work, reached an iron bar that lay on the floor, and when her blow fell it snuffed out the life of her husband.

She gave herself up without a murmur. The trial was hurried through. Bowery Kate's lawyer put in a plea of self defence and she was acquitted.

THE CASE OF MRS. NACK.

The experience in the room the fatal night affected her mind. They could never make her believe that Tom was dead, and so she still waited for him to come back to her, with the wrinkles in her cheeks rouged and a pitiful bit of ribbon in her yellow hair, for when Tom came she must look beautiful for him. Her position is a humble one, but she is honest, and those who know her trust and pity her.

Mrs. Carlo Nack, who, with Mario Theone was convicted of Murdering William Guidenaupps, a bath rubber, back in the nineties, was liberated from Sing Sing last spring and is now leading a quiet life of retirement in New Jersey. These cases are only two of many in which women have committed crimes and then reformed.

Thomas Anderson, ensign of the Liberator Relief Department of the Salvation Army in New York is the man who knows more stories of those men who have risen from behind prison bars than any other. He is an encyclopedia of human interest tales and all his tales are all true. For years he has heard the stories of convicts recently liberated who have turned to the Salvation Army for aid in practicing positions, and Mr. Anderson's stock of unwritten history about most whose names, if he divulged them, would startle the business world, is well-nigh alarming. He can point to well-known clergymen, financiers, merchants by the dozen who under different names have served prison sentences in past years flanks of the white horse.

"Gentle, gentle," admonished David Bond. "He goes fastest who goes steadily. I have driven Shadrach ninety miles in twenty-two hours. And if we are patient with him now he will get us home by reveille."

But Lancaster only groaned ungratefully and continued to ply the crutch.

On they went. As the short day ended and darkness came they steered farther to the left, for there was a possible danger of pitching over the river bank. When they approached the coulee the same peril again met them. Shadrach, however, insured them against accident. He struck his own trail and knew it. At once he quickened his speed, pulling the reins taut. Behind him his master, though utterly wearied, kept awake to watch their course and commend him kindly. Not so the section boss. His anger finally spent, he put up his crutch and made himself comfortable. Then, swaying as the pung swayed, he slept.

Far away at Fort Brannon the council was at an end. Lanterns were whisking to and fro like giant lightning bugs about the long garrison granary and the quartermaster and commissary warehouse, where wagons were being loaded with tents, ammunition, rations and forage—enough for sixty days. The library window at headquarters was bright. Colonel Cummings and a surgeon were respectively commanding and persuading young Jamieson to await his mother and sister at the post. Nick Matthews, attended by a watchful sergeant, was having his hair cut by the citizen barber; while Lounsbury, too joyfully excited to sleep, was in the sutler's billiard room giving Fraser, who was about to depart with the expedition, a sympathetic history of the Lancasters—a history in which Marylyn was shrewdly made the dainty central figure.

At 5 o'clock, everything being in readiness, a livelier activity prevailed. The outgoing troop was routed from bed and fortified with a hot breakfast. By 6 "boots and saddles" had sounded. And soon the detachment—protected from the cold by blanket coats and with black cuffies burning down the whole length of its double line—was leading the wagon train at a good jog toward the west.

The men went gladly, accepting the long ride as a welcome relief to the stagnation of a garrison winter. To them the possible dangers of the trip were a mere matter of course, though Guy V. Henry's march of a twelvemonth before—a terrible march from Fort Robinson into the Black Hills—was fresh in their memory. Captain Oliver commanded, B troop being his own. He was a brave man, but one who let his heart influence his better judgment, who was neither as acute as a soldier should be nor as cautious. Yet his commanding officer selected him for the duty—the choice insured his remaining behind when the campaign of the coming summer opened, when there would arrive from the "states" a certain loyal little wife and her seven babies.

An hour after the cavalry clattered out of Brannon faithful Shadrach limped home. The approach of the pung did not frighten Dallas, for long before it crossed the coulee, as she walked noiselessly to and fro across the dirt floor, she heard her father's voice urging the white horse on. She did not understand the quick return, but prepared for it by building up the fire and swinging the coffee pail into place.

The old men heard her story before they stepped from the sleigh. The evangelist as he listened thanked his God for Lounsbury. The section boss, on the contrary, was made so angry by the recital of Matthews' attack that he called down every manner of punishment upon the latter and reveled in multiple plans for a sweet revenge.

"Jes' let thet scalawag call again," he cried, shaking a crutch toward Shanty Town. "Ah ain't much on my laigs these days, but Ah'm right good with my pistol arm!"

"Without his arm"— began David Bond.

A wondering cry from Dallas stopped him. He turned to see her pointing at the northern sky.

A strange, wild light was creeping up from the horizon and tinting the heavens. A filmy veil was mounting the zenith and swinging gently. Swiftly the glory grew. The veil became a curtain of rainbow coloring, edged with royal purple and faint red and lined here with orange, there with green, again with delicate pink.

Changes followed. Green, gold and blue lightning darted from plain to sky, trailing fainter colors that danced elfishly, and the sheet of living flame took form. It became a huge clinched fist, resting upright upon the lighted prairie. About it, in a sky made darker by contrast, gleamed the scattered

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal tonic treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, once sure to excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, brings to about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Why Is Fat

It is because one is born with the tendency? Or is it one of "life's trials" or is it just due to plain, hearty appetite? The doctors say not any one of these phrases the question correctly. They say fat is because the fat person's digestive organs are defective. Such organs, it seems, do not change the fatty foods eaten by stout persons into heat and energy, as they should. Instead, the food fats pass on into the system unconsumed. Hence, fat layers accumulate under the skin in most spots, such as the chin, abdomen, shoulder blades, etc.

Let that digestive defect be corrected, and the formerly fat person goes back to his or her original shape. You can prove this on yourself. Seventy-five cents will procure from your druggist one of the large cases of Marmola Prescription Tablets recently licensed for sale by the Marmola Company of Detroit, Mich. Take one of these tablets after each meal and at bed time and the demonstration starts right there. Very soon you will experience a new sense of digestive comfort and a delightful feeling of increased energy, which should be followed in due season by a gradual, uniform decrease of your fat.

During the demonstration period eat and drink as formerly, remember. The tablets need no help from either dieting or exercising, nevertheless the daily loss should approximate ten to sixteen ounces a day.

Now, why is it you get thin? Why is it the fat just seems to slip away, leaving your flesh smooth, firm and wrinkles? Simply because Marmola corrects that digestive defect, thereby stopping fat accumulation and enabling the body forces to harmlessly dissolve what has already gathered.

Lakehurst Boy Shot while Duck Hunting

Accidentally struck yesterday morning by several stray bullets from a shotgun fired by Mr. N. G. Bell, of Bridgenorth, George Coons, the 12-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Coons, who resides near Lakehurst, was driven to the city by his father and Mr. Bell, the 18 miles being covered in one hour and a half. The boy was taken to the office of Mr. Morgan, where one of the bullets was extracted, after which he was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where the other bullet was to be probed for. One of them entered his arm, the other located itself in the abdominal region. Both were rather painful, but were not considered very serious.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Mr. Bell and Mr. Coons explained the affair to a reporter yesterday afternoon.

It seems that George Coons was out along the shore of Pigeon Lake for ducks, in company with his uncle, Harold Coons. The latter told him to be behind a little mound, and if the birds came near to give a warning. He thus waited, when Mr. Bell appeared from the opposite direction and could not see him on account of the mound of earth. Mr. Bell was after a fox, and was probably one hundred yards away from the boy.

Suddenly the fox darted from the marsh and at the same instant Mr. Bell fired. Just how the shots struck the boy is something that could not be clearly explained. He was lying on his side and was completely sheltered by the rise in the ground. It is believed that they glanced from some object and the appearance of one of the shots taken from the hop seem to bear out this supposition. It seemed to have struck an object before it entered the ground, as it was flattened on one side.

Funeral of Late Mrs. Kent

Yesterday the funeral of the late Charlotte Kent, relict of the late Thomas Kent, took place from the C. P. R. station upon the arrival of the noon train, to Little Lake cemetery. The deceased died in Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 21st at the residence of her son, Mr. W. H. Foord, Superintendent of the Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The death of Mrs. Charlotte Kent, widow of Thomas Kent, occurred on Saturday at the residence of her son, W. H. Ford, superintendent of Mount Pleasant cemetery. A service was held last night, the remains taken to Peterborough this morning and interment will take place there this afternoon.

Mrs. Kent had been ailing for almost a year. She lived in Peterborough for years. There Mr. Kent died, and three years ago she came to Toronto to reside, making her home with her son.

Several sons and daughters survive. She was in her 76th year.—Toronto Star.

Fell Down Cellar

Mrs. John Fowler, wife of the proprietor of the well-known Grand Central restaurant, was the victim of a painful accident Saturday [illegible] most severe have been attended with many serious results. She was performing some meat in Alex Gordon's butcher shop in the Market Arcade, and while she was there one of the employees of the store had occasion to go down cellar, and, on returning, left the trap door open. Mrs. Fowler did not notice the opening and, on stepping away from the counter, fell down the stairs to the bottom, striking heavily with the result that she sustained several bad cuts upon her head. She is confined to her home to-day, although she is not yet able to be around.

Tragic Death of of Miss Mary Nicholls

The Misses Nicholls, McDonnel st., received a telegram Sunday, informing them of the tragic death of their niece, Miss Mary Nicholls, of Spokane, Wash. The unfortunate lady, in company with her sister and two brothers, was on the way to church in an automobile on Sunday, Nov. 15th. The chauffeur lost control of the machine and it went over a fifty-foot precipice. The five persons in the car were all injured, Miss Mary Nicholls being so badly injured that she died shortly afterwards. The telegram stated that the others would all recover.

Miss Nicholls was a daughter of Mr. W. D. Nicholls who left Peterborough about 20 years ago. The two sons who were in the automobile at the time of the accident, are prominent business men in Spokane.

WARDEN THOMPSON'S ADDRESS TO COUNTY COUNCIL YESTERDAY

Council Will Co-Operate with Other Counties In Petitioning the Legislature for an Amendment to the Good Roads Act

The last session of the County Council for 1908, unless something unforseen turns up in the meantime, was opened in the county council chamber yesterday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock, with Warden Thompson, M. P. P., in the chair.

County Clerk E. M. Elliott read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted. Those present were Warden Jas. Thompson, Havelock; Wm. Oakman, Hastings; Jas. Russell, Blairton; C. R. D. Booth, Apsley; D. Maloney, Warsaw; S. Killen, Enniamore; C. Coben, Kinmount; Jas. Ingram, Bobcaygeon; John Brown, Springville; J. H. Fife, Lang; W. J. Porter, R. N. Scott, T. H. Graham, Peterborough; F. H. Moore, Lakefield.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Warden Joseph Thompson, M. P. P., of Havelock, read the following address—

To the Council of the County of Peterborough, 1908, now, in so far as meeting in Council is concerned, drawing to a close—

Gentlemen,—It is very gratifying to me to look back from the present moment to the time I you elected me warden for 1908, from the fact that the business of the county has been transacted with the greatest of harmony existing between the council and myself, and it must be gratifying to you also, as the credit is due to you.

This has been probably, as anticipated, one of the busiest years in the history of the country in the matter of bridge construction.

Three steel bridges having been built, having steel abutments, at a cost of a little over $7,000, is a fact that will compare favorably with anything heretofore undertaken. Four other bridges having been built with cedar, with stone piers, at a cost of about $800.

Burleigh, Canal and Lakefield bridges have been renewed at a cost of about $1,200, which leaves them in a condition that they will need no further expenditure for years to come.

We are all, I am sure, pleased to note the fact that the rate struck by the Chairman of the Finance Committee will, when all assets are considered, probably cover all expenditures.

You will observe all the increase in the number of inmates in the House of Refuge, thereby straining the estimate provided for the maintenance of this institution.

A complete report of the House of Refuge will be brought in according to statute at the next session, and I will not deal with the matter further.

Your council will no doubt bring in reports of their several bridges, thereby giving all the information necessary along that line.

Other expenditure has had to be met such as county property repairs and improvements, administration of justice and school purposes.

Other expenditure has had to be met such as county property repairs and improvements, administration justice and school purposes.

That you will have seen in the monthly reports in the newspapers and the additional expenditure of the same will no doubt be set out in reports to the council from the several departments.

Some new matters will come up, and I feel sure will be dealt with in a manner characteristic of you as a body. You will join with me in again referring to the continued prosperity of the province in a spirit of gratitude.

In closing, permit me to thank you for the consideration and courteous way in which you have treated me during the year, and my earnest hope is that you will feel that I have done my best to merit the confidence you have placed in me.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES THOMPSON

On motion by Councillors C. Coben and James Ingram, a committee of five was appointed to report on the warden's address. The members of the committee are Messrs. C. R. D. Booth, D. Maloney, F. H. Fife, R. N. Scott, C. J. Darling.

GOOD ROADS.

A communication from the County of Grey asked for the co-operation of this county in a petition to the Legislature for an amendment in the good roads act so that townships may be enabled to adopt a good roads system and take advantage of the government's offer of assistance, instead of the county taking it up. It was pointed out that in a large county, such as Peterborough, it was very difficult for the county to carry the scheme as a county scheme and have it satisfactory to all the townships.

Moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. Moore, that this county council authorize the warden and clerk to sign the memorial as presented by the County of Grey.—Carried.

A communication from the superintendent and matron of the county House of Refuge at Lakefield, requesting that their salaries be increased $25 each per annum.

This was referred to the finance committee.

The council then adjourned and the chairmen of the various committees got busy on their reports.

Impersonation Charges Heard at Port Arthur

Special to the Times.

Port Arthur, Nov. 24.—The first of the three cases of impersonation at the Dexter poll on the Superior branch of the Transcontinental railway was called in the Assize Court here to-day. John Tomlinson was charged with impersonation.

Returning Officer Geo. Horgan testified that before voting he had heard that the Cooper and Archer mills had been closed down and that the men were all gone. For that reason he had on his own initiative changed the polling place, believing that he had done right.

Bert Newton swore that he had seen the poll books of the deputy poll clerk, on which several names were struck off as having voted, although he was positive that the men had not been there.

Thomas Monkhouse said that he and several others had been approached in Port Arthur and Fort William and were taken to Dexter with fares and all expenses paid. Tomlinson told him he had voted as one Montgomery.

Harry Hogarth, poll clerk, in his evidence said Tomlinson entered the polling booth a couple of times and voted under different names on each occasion. The defence made no effort to disprove impersonation or repeating. Counsel A. E. Cole, however, asked that the case be dismissed on the grounds of the poll not being a legal one, as it was held fifteen miles from the place set for in the proclamation. He thought if the poll was to be placed on the railway it might just as well have been brought to Port Arthur, and then men would not have had to go to Dexter.

Loaned Thousands to the Marine Department Agent Without Security

Special to the Times.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 24.—The fact that the borrowing of Harding, the agent for the Marine Department were not confined to one department was shown at this afternoon's session of Judge Cassels' investigation, when W. E. Vroom, coal broker, and John D. Moore, lumber merchant and tug boat owner, both admitted having advanced him large sums of money without any other security than Mr. Harding's note or cheque.

Charles McDonald was put on the effect that he loaned an amount totalling $5,000 per year to Harding for short periods during the past several years without interest. He admitted that his firm had practically a monopoly of the Government's work. He was allowed to stand down until to-morrow to give him time to ascertain how many loans Harding had received.

W. E. Vroom, of Vroom & Arnold, who had sold $20,000 worth of coal to the department, testified that he had a running account with Harding to record his loans, and he produced his books showing the accounts. He cashed Harding's cheques regularly once a month, taking only his cheque in exchange. He regarded his transactions as merely a matter of accommodation to a friend and did not charge him any interest. He declared he would do so if Harding was not the agent of the department, but admitted that it now placed Harding in a very awkward position.

The chief interest was centered in J. D. Moore's evidence. During the past four years he had supplied the department with lumber and hired his tugs to the department. He received $10 per hour for the boats orders all came through Harding. He had only had two contracts for Moore was out of town and his partlumber. The prices for all the other lumber orders were fixed between himself and Harding. Moore's books showed only one transaction, and the presence of this was explained by the fact that at the time it was made Hon. Jarvis Wilson, jr., knowing of the relations between Moore and Harding, had advanced $300 and entered the amount in the cash book. Moore said he never entered the others as they were only short term loans, he did not know whether he speculated in stocks or not. He affirmed that he would willingly lend a friend $2,500 without security, and counsel for the crown remarked that Halifax must be a very pleasant place in which to live, and predicted a big run on Moore in the morning.

Ten Pin Tournament, Two Games Yesterday

The postponed games in the ten-pin tournament at the P. A. C. alleys between the Examiner and Bankers trios was bowled yesterday afternoon with the result that the Bankers won by 162 pins. They also won all the games. The scores were as follows—

Bankers—
Ford	168	159	180	507
Ferguson	139	129	161	429
Baker	125	160	184	499
				1435
Examiner—
H. Lachur	150	108	154	421
Dr. A. Fosse	116	148	148	412
Huston	125	168	147	440
				1273

BELMONTS WON.

The Belmont's defeated Pete Lang's trio last night by the close margin of 53, and for this the losers can blame Joe Hay, who was off color and especially in the second game, when he only rolled 134. Joe should reach very near the 300 mark. Had he bowled up to his usual form Lang would have pulled out a victory, although Wesley only got 97 in the third game, which is a good 50 below his average. The scores are as follows—

Belmonts—
Pollard	184	143	190	517
Wesley	153	149	97	399
Wareham	191	178	157	526
				1442
Lang's Five—
Arbuckle	136	144	183	463
Homstead	162	173	162	497
Hay	164	134	161	459
				1389

Wareham has the record thus far for three games, having bowled 526. Leplante bowled 517 on Monday night, and this was equalled by Pollard last night. Leplante still holds the single game record of 212.

Annual Meeting of the Bible Society

There was a very large attendance at the annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society held in St. Paul's Church last night. The work of this society is pretty generally known, and it is one which receives the moral if not the financial support of all. During the past year the reports showed that $200 had been raised by the local society in aid of the work, which is very satisfactory. The chair last night was taken by Sheriff Hall.

Rev. Jesse Gibson, of Toronto, was present and gave a most interesting lecture, which was also very instructive, on "From Cape to Cairo." It was illustrated by limelight views.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows—

President—Sheriff Hall.

Vice-Presidents — All the ministers of the city.

Secretary—Mr. Morrison, of Knox Church.

Treasurer—Mr. John Crane.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE HAS FIVE TEAMS TO START SEASON WITH

Prospects Bright for Three More Chris. Graham was Elected President at the Annual Meeting

A Very Successful Year

The greatest [illegible] City League [illegible] Alice last night [illegible] Y. M. C. A. parlors. There [illegible] and best of all [illegible] represented and paid [illegible] fees. This is the [illegible] ever signed up the first night. Last year there were only five teams altogether, but there looks to be every prospect of at least eight clubs playing hockey under the City League banner this year.

Everything points to an exceptionally successful season. The different clubs are all organizing and getting their men into line ready for the first opportunity to get their skates on.

Mr. Chris. Graham, last year's First Vice-President, and one of the most popular sports in the city, was elected President, and the success of the league is a good guarantee that Mr. Fred A. Gray will not be allowed over the destinies of the organization so successfully for the past three years and to [illegible] service and capable [illegible] great credit is due, will retire from office and will work on the grounds.

President F. A. Gray called the meeting to order.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The teams represented were—

Strathconas — Weatherston and Wilson.

Rough Riders—Potter and Gorman.

T. A. S.—Deroche and Benard.

Chieftains, Y. M. C. A.—E. Fox.

West End—W. Butcher and McSorley.

SEC'Y-TREASURER'S REPORT.

Secretary Hurton read his report, which showed the year to have been the most successful in the history of the City Leagues. From a financial standpoint it was most successful. The gate receipts were $210.70. Money held in trust by the club, $310.70, which there was an expenditure of $154.50, leaving $156.20 to be divided among the five teams. The balance sheet counts show a total receipt of $1870, including the balance of $4.70 from the previous year, against which there was an expenditure of $12.10, leaving a balance on hand of $4.70.

The five teams last year were each paid $29.24, except the Strathconas, who won the championship and they received $39.24. There was also $40 paid for the annual banquet.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Hon. Vice-President—G. N. Graham.

President—C. G. Graham.

First Vice—N. McWilliams.

Second Vice—Dr. A. W. McPherson.

Sec. Treasurer—B. W. Hurton.

HONORARY PATRONS AND PATRONESSES.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kendry, Mayor Rush, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Morrill, Dr. and Mrs. Wightman, M. and Mrs. V. Eastwood.

Executive—The above officers and one representative from each team.

The Secretary was instructed to get out the tickets for the year's membership and that each team be given fifty tickets, and that the tickets be 75 cents each.

An amendment was moved that the tickets be sold for 50 cents.—Carried.

The Secretary was instructed to get out the necessary certificates for the players.

It was moved that the games this year be played on Thursday nights instead of Wednesday as was the case last year.

The other teams likely to join are Lakefield, the South End A's and Bridgenorth.

Boy Hunter Killed Lad Who Chaffed Him

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 24.—Clarence Little, ten years old, was shot and killed by Tom Wickes, aged 14, yesterday afternoon.

Young Little chaffed the Wickes boy on returning from a hunt without any game, and said "I would not be afraid to give you a shot at me."

"I'll take it," said Wickes, and fired a charge of buckshot into the boy's breast.

The coroner's jury held Wickes for first degree murder.

Dean Farthing Elected Bishop of Montreal

(Special to the Times.)

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Very Rev. Dean Farthing, of Kingston, was tonight elected Bishop of Montreal in the Diocesian Synod to succeed the late Bishop Carmichael. The vote was between Dean Farthing and Dean Evans. The former was supported by the lay delegates throughout and the latter by the clerical. On another ballot to-night Dean Farthing got a majority of both.

Kingston, Nov. 24.—Dean Farthing to-night intimated his intention of accepting the appointment as Bishop of Montreal.

Low Water in Ottawa River Is Very Serious

Special to the Times.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—The low water in the river is now so serious that the board of control this afternoon deputed the Mayor and City Engineer to demand that the power users at the Chaudiere either close down entirely or greatly reduce their consumption. If they refuse to do so the Minister of Public Works will be appealed to. If a fire were to break out now there would not be sufficient pressure to fight it with.

Chinese Mutiny Serious

Pekin, Nov. 24.—The situation at Nanking, where a mutiny on the part of the Chinese troops broke out Nov. 19th, is serious.

There has been fighting in the streets of the city, and a portion of the foreign residents have taken refuge on board a British gunboat.

Others of the foreigners preferred to remain on shore.

Women Took Liquor to Summer Resort

Special to the Times.

Hamilton, Nov. 24.—"I will vouch at to say that there are hundreds of re[illegible] women in Toronto who would not think of going to a summer resort without taking a flask of something strong." This is a statement made by Ald. James Hales, of Toronto, at the temperance meeting in St. Andrew's Church here to-night. He added that the women generally gave the excuse that they took the liquor in case of emergency. The speaker also referred to a cockfight recently held, in which a Toronto bird killed a Hamilton bird, and in which the police interfered. He wanted to know why the drink traffic should not be interfered with as well as cockfighting, gambling.

Barge Sank but Crew were Saved

Montreal, Nov. 24.—The Government barge Acetylene, with a crew of eleven men loaded with gas buoy machinery, sank off Vercheres right in the centre of the channel about 7 o'clock to-night. Capt. Beveau and his crew were rescued.

Does Your Heart Flutter?

Short Breath, Easily Fatigued, Rush of Blood.

IT'S IN THIS CONDITION THAT SUDDEN AND UNEXPECTED COMES.

The heart is an unfailing index of strength. Bodily vigor and a strong heart go hand in hand.

A slight fluttering and shortness of breath is a sign of failing strength, arising from weakened digestive power, or from weakness of the nervous system.

The organic and dangerous affections of the heart seldom manifest themselves until the climax is reached, when death usually supervenes.

Even a small variation in strength renders the heart susceptible on the emotional side, and a little fright, anxiety or haste will set it going at a frightful rate.

You ought to know that when your heart flutters easily, when your breath comes in gasps, when you tire quickly upon exertion, and rest does not recuperate, you have allowed yourself to run down.

It is under these conditions that Ferrozone acts like magic in its strength-giving power. Tens of thousands of Canadians can testify to the marvelous curative power of Ferrozone.

When it's remembered that Ferrozone has the power of making rich, red blood, of giving tone to the system, of vitalizing all the functional powers of the body, it will be easily seen in cases such as yours, in which these fluttering sensations are present, Ferrozone will speedily restore you to health.

Ferrozone makes you strong because it enables you to digest your food, because it makes rich, red blood—because it tones, strengthens, reinforces the whole system.

"I was so overcome with heart flutterings and acute indigestion I could scarcely walk upstairs without panting and catching for my breath," writes E. K. Young, a well known merchant in Augusta. "After using one box of Ferrozone I improved, and after two months I was cured and am sound and healthy as ever to-day."

The best proof of Ferrozone's merit is the enormous good it will do you in your own case; try it, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Pacific Cable Profitable Says Sir Sanfield Fleming

(Special to the Times.)

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—"The statements of Fred Ward, manager in England of the Commercial Cable Co., which was published in the Canadian press are devoid of accuracy and entirely misleading," said Sir Sanfield Fleming to-night. "Mr. Ward states for example that there is a loss of £65,000 or $320,000 annually on the Pacific Cable. I can give this an emphatic denial on the authority of the accounts laid before Parliament of the United Kingdom by the Pacific Cable Board. Each year the excess in the earnings is over the expenditure. This ranges from $125,000 to $278,000 a year. This surplus is regularly employed in reducing and paying off the original capital expenditure. Our own auditor general confirms the fact that this highly important work is in a prosperous condition.

"The proposed new state owned cable between Canada and England would receive a new class of client. Men ordinarily, to avoid the cost of one shilling a word, resort to the cable as little as possible or not at all. A state owned cable would at once reduce the charges by 50 per cent, and would shortly lead to a uniform rate on messages of not more than 5 cents a word between any post office in England, Ireland and Scotland, and any telegraph office in Canada. By such means hundreds and thousands would regularly communicate by cable who never now think of it, and the increase in personal, social and commercial telegrams would be much greater between the United Kingdom and Canada is evident.

Burridge Defeated Fitzpatrick in Two Straight Falls of 27 1-2 and 47 1-2 Mins.

The first fall in 27 1-2 minutes, and the second in 47 1-2, with Burridge getting both. That's the story in the concisest possible form, of the bout between Harry Burridge and Ned Fitzpatrick at the Auditorium Roller Rink last night. It was probably as warm a go as was ever seen in Peterborough. It shaded down to pretty nearly a question of pure strength with the required strength on the part of the winner. Fitzpatrick at that put up a wonderful resistance. Time and time again when he was all but down he got away, and although he was kept in dangerous positions for minutes at a time it was not without the greatest difficulty that Burridge managed to throw him. Both of the men were in great condition, and were strong at the finish considering the fact that they went through such a gruelling.

Fitz was on the defensive much more than his opponent, although for the first fall he wrested aggressively, and for a few minutes the chances of the pair looked pretty even. After fifteen minutes or so of work, however, Burridge commenced his forcing tactics, and his strength stood him in good stead. He worked very little on the lower part of Fitzpatrick's body, and confined his attention to Nelson and bar holds, gaining both falls with a bar arm hold and a necklock. Once or twice he essayed a crotch hold, but as it didn't come easy enough to him he changed his tactics. One very severe hold was the head scissors, and with his legs he held Fitz's head as in a vise, until it seemed that the latter would have to turn, but he stuck gamely to his work and hanted every inch of the way. From the manner in which both boys took all kinds of punishment, it was evident that they both were game to a degree, and that the man who won would have to do so by forcing his adversary's shoulders to the mat, as the employment of punishment holds could not force either man to quit. It was a hard and long struggle for the money and the crowd were on edge all the time.

Tickling, tight coughs can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No Opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless lung healing, mountainous shrub gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all druggists.

To the Citizens of Peterboro

Ladies and Gentlemen:—The formal opening of our new Collegiate Institute by the Hon. R. A. Pyne, M.D., Minister of Education, is to take place on Friday afternoon, 27th instant, at 3 o'clock. There will be addresses by the Minister of Education, the Mayor, Members of Parliament and others.

The citizens generally are invited to this function. This will be the first opportunity that you will have of inspecting our new building, which is considered one of the finest Institute buildings in the Province.

For those who cannot attend in the afternoon the building will be open in the evening. An orchestra will also be in attendance. Let everyone who can possibly attend either in the afternoon or in the evening do so.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

ROBERT FAIR,

Chairman Board of Education.

Licensing Bill Rejected by the House of Lords

London, Eng., Nov. 24.—By a large majority at a meeting of 200 members of the House of Lords this afternoon they decided in favor of rejecting the Licensing Bill when it came up for its second reading. As the Unionists are in a very strong majority in the Upper House, there will be no difficulty in throwing out any radical legislation that is distasteful to them.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE SUPPRESSED INTERVIEW

Something has been published which is said to be the gist of the suppressed interview between the Emperor William and Dr. William Bayard Hale. At the same time Reuter's agency sends out an official denial. The denial goes to the root of the matter, so it may be only diplomatic—made for reasons of State. It will do no harm to read and consider the alleged interview. I leave it an open question whether the views are the Emperor's or somebody else's.

The gist of the interview is that Great Britain, in helping Japan against Russia, was a traitor to the white man's cause and that Great Britain herself would suffer in India and elsewhere. The welcome given to the American fleet in New Zealand and Australia was intended to serve notice on Great Britain that these countries side with the white men, and not with the "renegade mother country." The Emperor of Japan is fomenting insurrection in India. The real solution of the Eastern question will be accomplished by Germany and the United States. "There is a complete understanding between Emperor William and President Roosevelt on this point. They intend to divide the East against itself by becoming the recognized friends of China. Negotiations have been progressing favorably for months. A very high Chinese official, the Emperor's uncle, would soon visit America and Germany. Terms will then be made known, guaranteeing the protection and integrity of China and the open door."

Whether the Emperor really said these things is less important than the merits of the question—question of the relations of the yellow races with the white, and of Asia with the rest of the world. What Great Britain really did in helping Japan was to minimize European interference in Asia. The prime policy ought to be pursued in regard to China, not to divide the East against itself, but to allow China to carry on its own work of development and progress without interference. If Germany and the United States have entered into an alliance for the protection of the integrity of China, they have done a very sensible thing, one in which they ought to be assisted by Great Britain. As to the "open door," that is China's own business. She has as good a right to shut out the products of the United States and Germany as they have to maintain prohibitive tariffs.

There is no need for a "yellow peril." If the yellow races were to unite for the conquest of the whites, they would be crushed by a combination of Europe and America. If they threaten to swamp America or Australia by migration, we have a right to restrict the migration. Only we must bear in mind that their rights are as sacred as ours.

The time has gone by when the people used to listen with unquestioning reverence to the words of the Emperor William or any other human being, no matter how exalted may be his station. The mystery that used to surround domestic and international statesmanship has departed. The questions that arise in these fields are questions of justice, morality and common sense, to be solved by reason and conscience, as the affairs of everyday life are solved. What is said in the alleged interview is to be judged upon its merits.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The old-fashioned way of dosing the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is purely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

Game Ended in a Free-for All Fight

Pittsburg, Nov. 23.—The hockey game at Duquesne Gardens on Saturday night between P. A. C. and Lyceum was more fight than hockey. The trouble began in the second half. Taylor and Sexsmith got into an argument and began beating each other with their sticks. Sexsmith went down with Taylor ontop, then Campbell jumped in and started to hit Sexsmith over the head with his stick. Macdonald came up and knocked down Campbell with a swing to the jaw. Then everybody joined in, and it took Referees Schooley and Lamb ten minutes to straighten out affairs. Campbell was banished for the rest of the game.

President Gumbert has summoned Players Garrett, Sexsmith, Fred Taylor, Lorne Campbell and Jack Macdonald to appear before him on Thursday.

The President was quoted yesterday as saying he would stop this sort of hockey even if he has to send every player in the league back to Canada.

Lyceum won the game, 5 to 2, seven men for each team being on the bench when the game ended. Teams—

P. A. C.—Richardson, goal; F. Taylor, point; Corbiain, cover; Campbell, centre; K. Mallen, rover; Lake, right wing; Kerr, left wing.

Referees—Schooley and Lamb.

Goal Judges—Davis and Riddle.

Goals—K. Mallen, Kerr, McDonald, T. Smith, 2. J. Mallen, Throop. Time of halves, 20 minutes.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will briug a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Gov't License fees

Montreal Has Many Daring Hold-Ups

Montreal, Nov. 21st.—The number of daring holdups that have occurred in Montreal during the past six months has convinced the city fathers that there are not enough policemen and detectives in Montreal to adequately patrol the city. The other day two hold ups occurred, one in broad daylight and the other shortly after 6 o'clock. The daylight holdup was when Cashier Colmo of the Colonial Bleaching Co. out at St. Henri was ordered, at the point of a revolver to hand over his pay satchel, containing $4,000. The robber, after running for some distance with his booty, evidently got afraid, and dropped the satchel.

In the evening Arthur Lemay, a driver for the Masterman Meat Co., on his way back with his returns, was held up on Notre Dame street west, and it was only after he had beaten off his assailants with his whip that he got away.

All during the summer a bad time seems to have been at work in Montreal, and from time to time bodies have been fished out of the river which gave indication of having been thrown in Lounsbury glanced at the girls. They were watching their father appealingly.

"I should say," went on Lounsbury, "that we have the interests of your daughters at heart." His hand reached for the latch.

"Mr. Lounsbury!" Dallas made a swift step toward him.

Now the section boss came about. Lounsbury was reminded of the day on the plowed strip, for he saw that Lancaster was all a-tremble and panting as if spent with a hard run. "M' gal!" he cried sternly.

Dallas stepped back and touched her father's arm. And her remonstrance was the remonstrance of that other day. "No, no, dad," she cautioned in a low voice; "no, no."

Lancaster's breast heaved. He swallowed with an effort and scowled from one to another of the four.

David Bond came forward, addressing Lounsbury. "Will you tell me your name?" he asked. "I want to remember you. You are not a soldier. Do you belong at Clark's"—

"Did y' size him up fer a cow punch?" broke in Lancaster. "Huh! Waal, Ah never did."

Lounsbury's face dyed to a deep scarlet. "No?" he said. "And why?"

Again the section boss gave a shrill, mocking laugh. "Too fat an' too mouthy," he answered.

For an instant Lounsbury wavered. In that instant the deep scarlet faded, his eyes opened, his nostrils spread.

"Pa! Pa!" It was Maryiyn, half weeping.

Lounsbury's cool voice cleared the air. "I'm a Bismarck man," he said to the evangelist. "I've got a store there. My name is John Lounsbury." He held out his hand to Dallas.

She advanced again and took it. "Oh, thank you, thank you," she breathed.

"'Bismarck man,'" It was Lancaster once more. "Waal, w'y the devil don' y' stay thar?"

Lounsbury took no notice of him. "I'll be hoofing it," he said to Dallas. "But if I can do anything, you understand," and went out.

David Bond's keen eyes studied the elder girl. He expected an outburst of anger and blame. He was surprised when, without speaking, she brought the benches to the fire and set about clearing the table. Lancaster seated himself and sucked moodily at his pipe. Maryiyn flitted behind him to disappear through the swinging blankets. The evangelist walked up and down.

It was not long before the silence told on the section boss and forced him to talk. "Ef you-all got anythin' t' say," he snarled presently, "y' might as well spit it out."

No one answered.

"Ah got jes' this t' say," he continued: "Ah ain't goin' t' hev no lubber o' a storekeeper slaverin' aroun' my gals!"

Again no one answered, but David Bond as he watched Dallas questioningly determined to be silent no longer. He paused in his walk. "My friend," he said solemnly, "you talk like a madman. For shame!"

Dallas stood stock still, her eyes warning him. But it was too late.

Her father snickered, drew on his pipe once or twice and then grinned up at the evangelist. "It's gittin' light outdoors," he said significantly. "Ah reckon y' could cross th' river."

And so David Bond and the white horse went the way of Lounsbury.

Nearly an hour passed before the section boss addressed Dallas. "Waal, waal, waal?"

She was wrapping up to do the morning chores. "Just as well, I guess, dad," she said wearily. "The meal and bacon's pretty low. I've been cooking out of the seed sacks lately."

"Th' meal an' bacon's gone t' last," he answered. "Use th' seed of y' want t', an' don' give 'uet Injun so much. We shan't ast tick o' no lallygaggin', do-grapevine-twist dandy."

Dallas sighed, found Maryiyn to kiss her and gratefully breasted the chill air beyond the door.

His dismissal from the shack brought no hardship upon David Bond. He found an old acquaintance in Colonel Cummings, who joyfully greeted him as interpreter in the absence of Matthews. He found familiar faces among the hostages, whose sullen reserve in his presence he laid to their imprisonment. At barracks the enlisted men chaffed him mischievously, christened him "Methuselah" and installed him as "official doom sealer" of the mess.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Ineffectiveharming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always. It's simply Common Sense.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from sunshine but like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, health surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton, of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Obituary

JOHN E. HOWDEN.

One of the most widely known and highly respected residents of Cavan passed away Monday evening at 6 o'clock in the person of Mr. John E. Howden. The deceased had been ill for the past sixteen months. He died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. James F. Staples, in Cavan.

He was 51 years of age and was born in Cavan, being a son of the late James Howden. He was a man of sterling qualities and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a Methodist in religion and in politics a staunch Conservative.

Two brothers and five sisters are left to mourn his loss. The brothers are Messrs. Robert, of Peterborough, and Richard, of Cavan. The sisters are Mrs. J. A. Storey, of this city, Mrs. Alex. Walsh, Perrytown; Mrs. Caleb Lowe, Drayton, and Mrs. Joe. F. Staples, Ida.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of his sister, Mrs. James F. Staples, Cavan, to the English Church cemetery.

BERNARD HEENAN.

The young friends of Bernard Heenan, who passed away Monday night at the early age of 17 years, will greatly regret to learn of his death. Until last year he had been in attendance at the Collegiate Institute, but his illness from stomach trouble since that time prevented him from continuing his studies. His death occurred at the residence of his uncle, Mr. James Bird, 1 Crescent street, where his mother, Mrs. W. M. Heenan, the only surviving member of the family, survives. Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE ATCHISON

A highly respected and much beloved resident of North Monaghan passed away when the death occurred of the wife of Mr. Geo. Atchison, of the above township, last Sunday. The late Mrs. Atchison had lived in the neighborhood in which her death occurred practically all her life and was held in the greatest regard by all who were acquainted with her. She was 49 years of age.

Deceased is survived by her husband, three daughters—Mrs. Fairburn, of Smith township, and Mary and Carrie at home—and two sons, William and Roland, both of whom resided with their mother. The late Mrs. Atchison was a member of the Presbyterian Church at Springville, and was a prominent and earnest worekr in the church. Interment took place in the Fraserville cemetery on Tuesday.

Decision Given in the Regan-Langley Case

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Chief Justice Falconbridge has found for the plaintiff in the case of M. Regan against J. P. Langley, assignee of John A. Lawless, proprietor of the National Hotel, Peterborough, which was tried at Peterborough. The claim of Regan, who was manager of the hotel, against Lawless, was for $1,573.91 for salary, and Langley contested the claim. The Chief Justice finds the plaintiff entitled to rank as a general creditor for $469.74, as to claim paid by him at the request of Lawless, and $758.34 for salary from May 1, 1907, to April 6, 1908, and deducts $295.80 received on account, also to $91.36 as a preferential claimant.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherry bark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, all through them. The whole system, thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Two Hundred Burned on British Liner in Malta Harbor--Terrible Panic

Many of the Passengers and Crew were Roasted to Death Scores Drowned

Recovered 70 Bodies

Valetta, Island of Malta, Nov. 25.—Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon 50 bodies had been brought ashore from the Sardinia.

Valetta, Island of Malta, Nov 26—Nearly two hundred persons, passengers and crew of the Ellerman Line steamer Sardinia, are believed to have perished to-day when the steamer was destroyed by fire just after she had sailed for Alexandria, Egypt.

The Sardinia was scarcely a mile off Grand Harbor when the first sign of fire appeared; but with a strong wind to fan the flames, the whole ship soon was ablaze and the passengers and crew had scarcely a chance for their lives.

A TERRIBLE PANIC

There was a wild panic on board as the rapidly spreading flames drove the passengers to the rails, and many not waiting for the boats to be lowered plunged into the sea.

Scores are believed to have been drowned.

Others, trapped by the fire, were literally roasted to death.

There were many craft in the harbor at the time of the disaster and a number of tugs and other swift small vessels rushed to the assistance of the imperilled liner.

The high sea and half gale which prevailed at the time, however, made it impossible for them even to approach the Sardinia, and they could do little in the way of aid.

LEFT LIVERPOOL NOV. 14

The Sardinia left Liverpool Nov. 14th with a cargo of general merchandise for Mediterranean ports.

Her crew numbered 44 and about 20 first-class and six second-class passengers embarked at Liverpool.

Most of her other passengers undoubtedly were Levantines, Maltese and Egyptians. Many of these people cross on the steamers of this line from Malta to Alexandria. It is their custom to pitch their tents on deck for shelter during the four days' trip.

DECKS CONGESTED.

The decks are cluttered, and this condition undoubtedly made the orderly clearing of the ship most difficult.

Many of these persons had evidently come to their end by drowning, though some had been burned to death.

SEVENTY WERE SAVED

The loss of life on board the Sardinia will reach about 123 persons. The dead include 100 Arabs, five European passengers and 18 members of the crew. Seventy persons have been saved. Among these are nine European passengers, 21 members of the crew and 40 Arabs.

The flames apparently originated in the forehold. The quantity of naphtha stored in her so fed the conflagration that it was impossible to save the vessel.

A NOBLE CREW.

From the beginning the captain and the crew stuck nobly to their posts. They served out life belts and did everything to help the panic-stricken passengers, most of whom were Arab pilgrims.

Rescuing parties were sent out from all the warships in the harbor, and pinnaces, launches and other small boats are continuously bringing in survivors and bodies of victims.

The European survivors among the passengers and crew have already been landed. They declare that the Arabs on board were thrown into a condition of uncontrollable panic when the situation became serious.

NAPHTHA EXPLODED

The burning vessel could not return to the mouth of the harbor owing to the danger to the other ships. She finally was driven ashore on the Reensoll rocks. Her grounding was followed by a succession of noises like eruptions indicating the explosion of the naphtha in her hold.

Have 100 Members on the Roll Now

The prediction of the Times to the effect that the Curling Club would have a very large membership is being fulfilled. The sports who are out with the membership books are meeting with great success. Up to yesterday afternoon one hundred had signed the books and will be on the ice with the stones and brooms as soon as there is a little ice. The list will be closed when the number reaches 150, and this should be in a few days now.

A first-class proposition was made by one of the enthusiastic curlers, and the club would do well to adopt it, viz., to issue junior curling tickets at $3 or $4 for the young fellows who have never yet curled. For instance, quite a number of the Collegiate Institute boys would be glad to join the club at the cheap rate, and it can be estimated that the majority of these will remain in the city after leaving school.

To make sure that the club will continue as popular as it is now new curlers will have to be introduced to take the places of those who drop out each year, and there is nothing like training the young in the way they should go.

The curlers are also considering a proposition to purchase 15 or 20 pair of stones for the club, so that anyone can use them instead of borrowing private stones.

Dark Horse for Mayoralty, Meeting Held Last Night

As the municipal election draws near and talk of candidates increases the general interest centres around the Mayoralty and everyone is wondering if there will be a contest. A little earlier it was thought that a couple of the aldermen had aspirations, but they have evidently withdrawn in favor of Mayor Rush, who has had only one term in the chair. It is customary, until last year, to give the Mayor two years with no contest the second year. Mayor Rush is entitled to this. He has proved to be a good Mayor at the head of the council and he is painstaking and capable. There was, however, up to last night, a very bright prospect for a dark horse being brought out. It was reported on good authority that a meeting of ratepayers was held last night for the purpose of selecting a candidate, as those interested in the gathering are not satisfied with some things the council has done this year. It was impossible to learn up to a late hour what the result of the conference was, but an announcement will be made shortly if a candidate is to be put into the field.

New Channel on East Side of River Nearing Completion

For some time past, under the direction of Mr. Quinn, inspector for the Public Works Department, dredging has been carried on in opening up a channel for navigation purposes on the east side of the Otonabee, north of the Hunter street bridge, and the work has now progressed to about 140 feet from the old Hazlitt dam, which is now being dismantled. A Times representative visited the work, which had been temporarily suspended, to-day, and found that the work being done was more difficult than had been anticipated, as evidenced by the character of the excavations thrown up at the sides of the channel. This consists of large stones and boulders, often embedded in hardpan as solid almost as rock.

The channel to the dam will be 20 feet wide by seven feet deep, and a way through the old dam will be effected by the use of dynamite. From this point around the curve formed by the Ashburnham shore to the dam of the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company a somewhat shallower continuation of the channel will be excavated.

The utility of this new channel of navigation will be found in the fact that as matters have been allowed to stand, the large volume of waste water from the Power Company's dam is distributed over a wide area of shallows between that dam and the old dam below, so that in low water there is not volume enough to be of any practical utility.

By means of this new channel in the river, which has been secured through the persistent representations of Hon. Mr. Stratton to the Ottawa authorities, all this waste water will be confined to a stream which, even at low water in June and July, will enable logs to be floated down the river and will also be available for any other commercial purpose.

As in other works along the river, the Government has shown a commendable disposition to accommodate the interests of local trade in the prosecution of river improvements. When these have been represented to the departments dealing with the matter in an intelligent and practical manner.

This work is to be at once prosecuted to completion, and its advantages will be available to all concerned with the opening of navigation in the spring.

Fred M. McKenzie Recommends a Scientific Treatment that Cured Him

New discoveries in the line of medical treatment have come before the profession of late years with almost alarming rapidity, but one that promises to outdistance all others in the treatment of stomach and digestive troubles is Ferrozone, which is a scientific combination of vegetable extracts and juices that soothes the stomach and improve digestion in a truly wonderful way.

So many are interested in finding a really good stomach medicine, that Mr. McKenzie, one of the most prominent citizens in Cambridge, tells of remedy he proved to be a "cure."

"Although my appetite was poor and I ate little, I always had the sensation of having eaten too much. I experienced weight and oppression an hour or two after eating. Often I had heartburn, risings of a bitter liquid, coated tongue and bad breath. There was a continual gnawing pain in my stomach, especially before meals.

BAD CASE CURED.

"No case of Catarrh of the stomach and digestive organs could be worse than mine. I suffered the limit of human endurance for two years I doctored but didn't find the real remedy until I got Ferrozone, what a blessing this preparation must be to all mankind. I took one Ferrozone tablet at the close of each meal and in one week improved. In a month, although not cured, the improvement was steady. I continued to use Ferrozone for three months and was restored to robust perfect health. I would urge every man to try Ferrozone—in many ways it will do good."

In all cases of Weak Stomach, Indigestion, Nervousness, Palpitation of the Heart, Insomnia, General Debility, Chronic Dyspepsia and all wasting diseases use Ferrozone, no remedy will so surely and quickly restore one to the full vigor of health and strength.

When you take Ferrozone everything you eat tastes good, and every bit of the nutriment that your food contains is assimilated and appropriated by the blood and tissues. Try Ferrozone, all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Get it today.

County Politics Are Attracting Attention

County politics are now occupying the minds of the ratepayers in the different municipalities, while the members of the county council are trimming their sails in preparation for the campaign, if such there should be, although it is doubtful if many of the Reeves or Deputies will have any opposition. The council the past year has run along so smoothly under Warden Thompson and so much good work has been accomplished that there is very little room for a kick from the ratepayers.

This year there have been seventeen members in the council, including the warden—one from each municipality, and two from the municipalities of Otonabee and Smith. It is understood among the councillors that of the seventeen, Councillors C. R. D. Booth, of Burleigh, and Anstruther, and Jaems Moore, of Lakefield, will not be candidates for similar honors in January.

In Dummer, where Reeve C. J. Darling has been elected by acclamation for three or four terms, there will probably be a contest. At least rumor says so, the name of J. L. Kidd, Cottesloe, being linked with it. Otonabee seems to be quiet just now, and whether there will be an election there is mere speculation, as no other names are mentioned except Mr. Fife and Mr. Porter. Reeve Scott, of Smith, expects to be a candidate should there be a contest, of which there is not much talk at present.

In Douro there is a possibility of some new men coming out for the council, including Messrs. Jay and Quinlan, but there has apparently so far been no report of a contest for the reeveship.

Mr. Joe Hay, of the P. A. C. Bowling Alleys, was in Toronto yesterday on business.

The fourth game in the P. A. C. bowling tournament will be played to-night.

Police taking Every Care to Protect Lord Minto

Calcutta, Nov. 25.—The situation in India has not shown such a menace of serious uprisings as it does to-day for many years past. Attacks and attempts on the lives of Englishmen, officials and civilians, are of almost daily occurrence.

Lord Minto, the Viceroy of India, returned here to-day from the North, cutting short his excursion to this territory for the purpose of considering measures to cope with the native disaffection, which the authorities have been forced to recognize as alarmingly on the increase.

BOMB THROWN LAST NIGHT

Last night a Bengali made an unsuccessful attempt to kill Public Prosecutor Hume with a bomb in a railroad carriage near Agurpara. There were three other Europeans in the carriage at the time. None was injured.

Last Monday District superintendent of Police Clough was murdered by a native at Lyallpur. The native approached the superintendent while he was asleep and cut open his head with a spade.

TEN YEARS IMPRISONMENT

The native named Chowdhury, who on Nov. 7 made an attempt to shoot upon the life of Sir Andrew Henderson Fraser, the Lieut.-Governor of Bengal, to-day pleaded guilty and was sentenced to imprisonment for ten years.

The police are taking remarkable precautions to safeguard Lord Minto, and this is regarded as most significant.

Block of Six Stores to be Erected

The old blacksmith shop formerly occupied by Mr. McColl on George street, south of the Grand Hotel, is being torn down to make room for a row of six stores that Mr. J. J. Lundy will build between Fanning's laundry and the hotel. The old bar will be taken out before the snow flies, but none of the construction work will be commenced until next spring. Everything will be ready then, and the row of buildings will be erected during the summer. The second storey will be divided into apartments like the Grand Central block and a third storey will also be used, but for what purpose has not been learned. Mr. McColl has opened up his shop on Water street, north of the Opera House.

The erection of this block of stores will be a great addition to the lower part of the business section of the main street, and will tend to bring the business limits further south.

Dorcas Society was Organized

Some time ago the Times referred to the charitableness of a number of ladies who decided to provide clothes for those in the city who needed them. The ladies have called upon their friends, and were very successful in securing a large amount of clothing which had been discarded, but which was still in good condition. These garments have been cleaned, repaired and pressed, and some of the adults clothing has been made over into new suits for little boys and girls. One afternoon this week the ladies invited several of their friends to join them in the work of repairing the clothes, and a dozen of willing workers met and got things well under way. It was decided at this meeting to call themselves the Dorcas Society, and any who know of needy families will do a favor by notifying Mrs. W. J. McCallum or Mrs. Rankin, Gilmour street, by 'phone, or by leaving the names at their residences.

Junior League Executive Meets Friday Night

The Executive of the Junior City Hockey League will meet Friday night in the Y. M. C. A. parlors for the purpose of drawing up a schedule and transacting other business in connection with the completion of the organization.

County Council In Committee

The county council devoted all day yesterday to committee, and when they adjourned last night there were no reports ready for presentation to the council. It is likely that this morning will also be taken up with committee work, and an effort will be made to get things ready for a session of the council this afternoon. All the members are present and business is running smoothly.

A Missionary Lecture in Knox Church Last Night

The Responsibility of Missions was the subject of a splendid address by Mrs. (Rev.) Burns, of Lakefield, given in Knox Church last night under the auspices of the W. F. M. S. The lecture was illustrated by limelight views and proved to be exceptionally interesting and instructive. There was a large number of the congregation accepted the invitation of the ladies, and were present. Other numbers on the programme were a vocal solo by Mrs. Howe, a Bible reading by Mrs. McPherson, and a vocal solo by Mr. Jas. Brown. The collection taken up resulted in a good sum being added to the W. F. M. S. treasury.

G.T.R. May Run Cars Over Auburn Siding In Future

Mr. W. R. Tiffin, superintendent of the northern division of the G.T.R., and Mr. W. G. Brownlee, general transportation agent, were in the city yesterday morning, arriving in their special car. They traveled over the line that runs up to Auburn and switches there down to the rear of the Quaker Oats Company. It is understood that arrangements are being considered whereby the company can relieve itself of the interswitching charges which they must pay the C. P. R. for all the G.T.R cars which are taken over the Spur line to the Quaker Oats Company's mill. This would mean that all the oat cars that are now brought from one line to the other for the mill would be taken around by Auburn and down the G.T.R. siding. It has not been learned what the result of the deliberations have been, but they have been under way for some time.

Freight Traffic Heavy, Thirty-Four Trains in Less than 24 Hours

There has been a great rush of freight on the main line of the C. P. R. through Peterborough lately. Double headers are nearly as common as single trains, and instead of the traffic getting lighter it is if anything heavier. Yesterday the large number of trains passing through the city caused a Times representative to make some inquiries last night. The constant whistling and ringing of bells is no false alarm. It is the real thing and every hour of the day sends its quota of freight trains which make up the grand total. It was learned that from 1 o'clock Wednesday morning until 11 o'clock Wednesday night—not 24 hours—34 trains, all freight, were handled on the line between Toronto and Montreal. This was all through freight, and no passenger trains are included in the number. Thus it will be seen that with passenger and freight trains the present rush is taxing the road, and it requires very careful management and a keen attention to business to handle the traffic successfully.

The freight yesterday included three trains of beef for export. The rest of the trains consisted mostly of mixed manufactured goods, etc. The rush has not only been for a few days, but early in the month the traffic became heavy and has been increasing.

It is gratifying to note also that the Peterborough factories are helping to swell the volume of freight. Whole train loads of grain and manufactured goods are brought in and shipped out. The general outlook is very bright, and if business continues to pick up it will not be long before there will be work for all.

A Junior City Hockey League was Organized

A Junior City Hockey League, with five teams to start with, was the result of the organization meeting called last night. The younger boys are just as keen to get on the ice and chase the puck as the older fellows. There were five teams represented, and when Fred. Craig, who handled the meeting, called the boys to order they settled down to business and soon had the Junior City League under way. The officers elected were as follows—

President—J. D. Clark.
Vice—Chas. E. Simson.
Vice—Bert Hewston.
Sec.-Treasurer—J. Dennard.
Executive—Officers and one representative of each team.

Three Brothers Hang, the Crowd Would Not Wait for the Court

(Special to The Times).

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 24.—Tiptonville, bordering on Reelfoot Lake, which recently has been the scene of many stirring incidents, to-day witnessed the "legalized" lynching of three brothers who were arrested this morning for murdering Special Deputy Sheriff Richard Burrus and wounding John Hall, a deputy sheriff, last Saturday.

The execution of the negroes received a semblance of legality by a hurried "trial" arranged with the understanding that the men would be condemned to death as soon as the trial was over.

The negroes lynched were brothers, Marshall, Edward and James Stinebeck. They created a disturbance at a religious meeting near Tiptonville Saturday night. When Burruss and Hall attempted to arrest them the negroes shot the officers and escaped. It was early daylight on Sunday morning before a posse of citizens from Tiptonville and surrounding towns were in pursuit of the negroes, but the two eluded the pursuers until this morning, when they were surrounded and captured in a swamp near Ridgley. The negroes, covered by a hundred guns, were quickly placed in jail at Tiptonville. When arrested they had two guns, but were out of ammunition.

The news of the capture spread rapidly, and in addition to the several hundred citizens, men began arriving by every road, from the jail was surrounded by a mob which had no hesitancy in threatening a lynching at once in broad daylight.

S. J. Caldwell and Sheriff Haynes went before Justice Lee Davis and explained the situation. Justice Davis at once agreed to open court at 5 o'clock, summon a jury and allow the negroes, after all available evidence" was heard, to be "duly sentenced to death."

Englishman in Jail Charged with Stealing Clocks

An Englishman, who up to early yesterday afternoon and last night in the police cells, will appear before His Worship this morning to explain his actions at the auction sale of jewelery at Sanderson & Co's. store. On Monday last one of those in the store noticed the prisoner acting in a suspicious manner, and after that kept an eye on him. The fellow went out of the store and did not show up on Tuesday, but on Wednesday he was on the job again and so were the police. The result of the meeting is as above. It is alleged that the Englishman was picking up fancy clocks in his pockets. It is said that he had succeeded at various times in securing quite a number of these time pieces, evidently the intention being to have an auction sale of his own at a later day.

Indoor Baseball League May be Formed Here

The proposal to play indoor baseball at the armories this winter is coming in for considerable discussion and it is practically a certainty the popular game will be played by the 57th regiment this winter. The talent in town it is understood is good and the public will have the opportunity of seeing some interesting sport should an indoor baseball league be organized here. Although the people of Peterborough are not familiar with the game, and to the large majority it is practically unknown, in fact, they are sure to like it, and it is held in much favor in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and other American and Canadian cities where it is played. This league, if formed, will probably be composed of eight teams, one from each company of the 57th, and perhaps more should the Dragoons and 57th Field Battery desire to be represented.

While most of the games would be local, matches could be arranged with outside teams. It is certain the game will gain a firm footing here if it is introduced.

Wedding Bells

HUTCHISON—WOOD.

At 5 o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 18th, between fifty and sixty guests were gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hutchison, South Monaghan, to witness the marriage of their youngest daughter, Annie, to Mr. Lewis R. Wood, of Cavan. The bride looked very sweet in a dainty gown of cream colienne trimmed with embroidered chiffon and cream satin. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums and smilax, and wore orange blossoms in her hair. Her only ornament was the gift of the groom, a pearl crescent brooch.

Little Helen Jackson, cousin of the bride, made a charming little flower girl. She was dressed in white embroidered muslin with pink ribbons and carried a lovely basket of pink and white carnations, lily of the valley and smilax. The groom's nephew, Master Harold Wood, filled the position of ring-bearer very well indeed. He wore a suit of white linen and carried a silver tray bearing the ring.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Wetherall, under an evergreen arch.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by her sister, Edith. After the congratulations a dainty repast was served in the dining room, which was decorated with evergreens.

The young couple were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents.

The groom's gift to the flower girl was a pearl and amethyst brooch and to the ring-bearer a gold scarf pin.

The bride's going-away gown was a navy blue suit and she wore with it a white hat having touches of blue. The happy couple departed amid showers of rice and confetti for Trenton and points east, and on their return will reside in Cavan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future happiness and prosperity.

The Revolution Movement Grows

Port-au-Prince, Hayti, Nov. 24.—The revolutionary movement against President Nord Alexis is spreading. The towns of Aquin and Jeremie have both declared against the government.

General Leconte, the Minister of the Interior, who went out at the head of a government force against the rebels, has been taken prisoner. The rumor is current here that he has been executed.

Late advices received here tend to confirm the execution of General Leconte. He was captured near Jeremie, together with his escort, after a short struggle. The town of Aquin, it is reported, has been gallanted by the revolutionary troops.

No news of the movements of Gen. Cyriaque, the Minister of War, who was sent out in addition to Gen. Leconte by President Nord Alexis to put down the uprising at Aux Cayes.

The gunboat Crevant, which has fallen into the hands of the rebels, encountered the gunboat Contenaire off Jeremie, and a number of shots were exchanged. The Crevant was disabled by an accident to her machinery, and the revolutionists took possession of her without any trouble.

The government is recruiting men here and elsewhere for its campaign against the rebels, and large quantities of ammunition are being shipped out of Port-au-Prince.

There has been no trouble, but if the insurgents triumph, a serious situation may arise.

Washington, Nov. 25.—J. N. Leger, the Haytian Minister, received a long cable despatch to-day from the President of Hayti, indicating that he will attempt to stamp out the revolution in that island without bloodshed. The President says that the direct cause of the revolution was that General Simon threatened the life of the administrator of the interior, which brought about his dismissal.

It is said the government troops are now at Aquin bearing down upon Simon who is now reported to be isolated. Simon has induced many of the country people to support his cause by promising them rewards from pillage of cities.

Special Preacher at St. Paul's Church

Lindsay, Nov. 25.—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's Church, Peterboro, will be the special preacher at St. Paul's on Sunday next, it being the 23rd anniversary of the opening of that church. There will be special music and an offering for the reduction of the debt. All friends are invited.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

TROUBLE IN INDIA

We continue to hear of unrest in India. On the recent occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's assumption of the sovereignty of India, the message of her successor King Edward, as delivered to the people of India, by the viceroy, Lord Minto, was inspired of tact and made substantial promises. After a review of the fifty years during which the sovereignty of India has been held under the British crown, the King thanked his Indian subjects for the unbroken internal peace of that time and congratulated them on the fulfilment of Queen Victoria's promise of the encouragement of the industries of India and the promotion of public works. In the same proclamation there was a distinct promise of the extension of representative government. It was stated that there were now being framed and would be speedily made public measures to give the more important classes a larger right of participation in legislation and administration. And finally a substantial reward to the Indian troops in recognition of their valor and loyalty and to take effect at the new year was promised.

It is disquieting to learn that a message so conciliatory in tone should not have had the effect of stilling discontent and quieting the rumors of disorder in several of the Indian provinces. It is reported that the viceroy, whose Canadian record was not that of a man who is inclined to shun the firing line, has been obliged for reasons of state, to abandon an official tour of the provinces and to have returned to his capital before the time set. He is quoted as saying also that it would be unwise to minimize the dangers of the present situation, though he of course, declined to admit the existence of an actual sedition. There is at any rate disorder in several provinces and a more or less open defiance of the existing local British authorities.

The British press is divided in the matter. Some of the leading newspapers attribute to the King's conciliatory message nothing but failure. Still others advocate stetner measures of repression. Lord Morley's view of Indian affairs when it first came to be known must have disappointed many of his Radical associates. Roughly speaking, he declares for the maintenance of British supremacy in India and lends little countenance to the proposition of an immediately autonomous dependency. Apart from the rather indefinite promise of larger political rights for the important classes of India there seems to be little possibility of change in that policy of Britain in India which has held since '58. It is a stern enough policy, but it seems to have been approved in a couple of generations of strenuous experience.

How far the native discontent is political; how far on the other hand it may be purely racial we who are so far away must find it difficult to determine; whether the Government of India faces a situation dangerous or merely difficult we cannot say, but in any event the Government at home and in India itself seems to have the matter well in hand.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The old-fashioned way of dosing the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error "Go to the weak or ailing nerve of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

AMERICAN TARIFF REVISION

The tariff of the United States is now being revised "by it friends," and it is quite likely that no great reductions will result. The situation offers a solemn warning against allowing the protected interests to obtain a grip on the country. It is so much easier to put the duties on than take them off. One duty serves as a pretext for the maintenance of another. One manufacturer will say that he has very little protection because his material is taxed either for revenue or for the purpose of protecting something else. The other fellow needs his protection and the Government needs the revenue—always will need as much revenue as is needed and a little more.

Thus protection is also artfully identified with the general financial system of the country. Tear out one brick and the whole structure of prosperity will fall to ruins. Take off or reduce the duty on a certain product, and the workingman's dinner pail will be empty and his little home made desolate. Even the farmer is roped into the combination and alarmed by visions of floods of foreign wheat, potatoes and corn devastating the land and turning the garden into a desert.

The other day the Washington Tariff commission took up the question of oranges and lemons. The Florida and California growers were out in full force, protesting that without high protection the industry would be ruined. One witness admitted that the duty on oranges was virtually prohibitive. Champ Clark asked whether the time would ever come when the fruit industry of California could stand on its own legs without the aid of a protective market. What you really want, continued Mr. Clark, is a prohibitive duty on lemons.

The thought that strikes one here is that under high protection it is actually a calamity instead of a benefit to the United States tha oranges and lemons can be grown in its southern regions. The bounty of nature is turned into a means of taxing the American people and discouraging the use of wholesome and refreshing food. On the other hand, as these tropical fruits cannot be produced in Canada, we are able to buy them freely in the markets of the world, and it is the cold truth that it is easier to buy good oranges and lemons in Toronto than good prunes.

Injured by Accidental Discharge of Revolver

For the second time Melville Hartley, a clerk employed by the Dominion Express Company, son of Mr. Wm. Hartley, 773 Water street, foreman for the Auburn Woollen Company, has been the victim of a painful accident, in which the discharge of a revolver was involved. On Monday afternoon a 44-calibre revolver which he carried in his pocket was discharged, the bullet striking him in the fleshy part of the calf of his right leg.

The unfortunate young man has been working at nights and has been accustomed to carry a revolver in his pocket to defend himself with if necessary. He was enjoying a nap yesterday afternoon, and on rising felt that the revolver was falling from the trousers pocket in which he carried it. He pushed the weapon back with a quick movement, and it was discharged through his pocket, the bullet hitting him in the right leg and lodging above the ankle. Drs. McClelland and Scott were summoned and extracted the bullet. The wound is not regarded as serious, and there will be no lasting effects unless unforseen conditions arise.

Over a year ago he was the victim of an accident that was similar in many particulars to the misfortune which overtook him yesterday. While cleaning the revolver which he carried in connection with his work in a bank at Inglington, Ont., the weapon was accidentally discharged and the bullet struck him in the knee. He had not entirely recovered from the effects of that accident.

Tickling, tight coughs can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so very, very different than common cough medicines. No Opium, no Chloroform, absolutely nothing harsh or unsafe. The tender leaves of a harmless lung healing, mountainous shrub gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babies. Test it yourself and see. Sold by all druggists.

A Title by Marriage

A traveller in Texas says that he was riding along a cattle trail near the New Mexico line, when he met a rather pompous looking native of the region, who introduced himself as Colonel Higgins of Devil's River.

"Were you a colonel in the Confederate army?" the traveller asked.

"No, sah."

"On the Union side, then?"

"No, sah; never was in no wah."

"Belong to the Texas Rangers?"

"No, sah; I do not."

"Ah, I see; you command one of the State militia regiments."

"No, sah, I don't. Don't know nothing about soldiering."

"Where, then, did you get the rank of colonel?"

"I'se a kunnel by marriage, sah."

"By marriage? How's that?"

"I married the widow of a kunnel, sah—Kunnel Thompson, of Waco."

JAMES M. ANDERSON, Ex-Crown Timber Agent, West Sutton, Ont.

B. BROUGHTON, Mgr. Hamilton Stamp & Stencil Works, Hamilton

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will briug a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Gov't License fees

EACH SHARE OF STOCK REPRESENTS 315,600 FEET OF TIMBER

A Limited Number of Shares is Now Offered at Its Par Value

Big Swindle Unearthed

Abilene, Texas, November 26—Visions of a stream of gold pouring into this part of Texas from British coffers of an empire directed by one man, and 600,000 acres set apart for tea culture and packing industries, faded with the departure of "Sir Thos. Lipton, Baronet, of Aberdeen, England." Subsequent investigations prove that one of the boldest impersonators laid wires for the biggest swindle in the history of the State. His plan was to buy up all the western part of Texas and colonize it with English yeomen. The deal involved $3,000,000.

"Sir Thomas," gave it out that he was backed in his plan by C. W. Post the millionaire manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich.

but when he passed them by to give every hour of his days and nights to young Jamieson—young Jamieson, battling with all his might against collapse—the men ceased chaffing and listened to him with respect. A crank on religion was one thing, a man with one eye on the Bible and his sleeves rolled up for hard duty was another. The troopers cared little for sermonizing, but they honored service. Then, it was Jamieson for whom the evangelist was caring. And Jamieson held the very heartstrings of the garrison.

As for Lounsbury, Brannon entertained him no less gladly. His was the rare good humor that enlivens every occasion. He practiced at target shooting with the enlisted men; he played billiards with the officers; he dined, made up sleigh rides, lent himself to theatricals, furnished a fourth at cards and at the frequent dances led out homely and pretty alike.

To David Bond it seemed as if the storekeeper were indifferent to his own dismissal from the shack. But one morning the evangelist accidentally came upon the younger man. He was watching the bend through a telescope, and his face was anxious and troubled.

"Lancaster hasn't started for the land office again," he said. Then, after a moment's silence, "I've just about decided to go Bismarck way myself today. When you can, will you let me know how they are over there?"

"Charles will keep me posted," answered the evangelist, "and I shall send you any news by the mail sleigh."

"Thank you," said Lounsbury simply. "Goodby." And at the noon mess he was missing.

At the shack the days were numbered slowly for all their scant hours of light. Sleep consumed most of the time. The rest was taken by the meals, the chores and the effort of keeping warm. The line of calico covered books helped to vary the monotony. So did the visits of Squaw Charley. But these were becoming more brief now. Not that Lancaster made them unpleasant—Charley was necessary to him—but that the Indian was always in a fever to be gone. Since the council his eyes were less downcast, his face was less stolid.

One day brought a totally unexpected visitor, whom Lancaster recognized with some misgivings as the United States land agent at Bismarck. The section boss was soon reassured, however. The agent said that, having business near Brannon and remembering that Lancaster wished to file an entry, on the bend when the first claimant's six months were up, he had come by. In the case of a man who was hurt, he said, the law allowed such a course. The section boss, thus saved the arduous trip, signed the necessary papers with a jubilant mark.

Then came old Michael for a time or two. It seemed at first as if he were to be a favorite. He could adapt himself with all the art of his race. And before Lancaster he was intensely southern in his views, whipping the north in many a brogue strife. Until—it befell through a slip of the tongue—a slip that sent him packing off, for he boasted how in '62 his freckled hands had helped in piloting the Federals to Island No. 10!

It was an outcome that gave Dallas little concern. Marylyn was her worry. The younger girl was listless, pale and moody. Now and then Dallas believed she saw a look of actual suffering in her eyes. Once, awakening in the night, she heard her sob.

Marylyn was unhappy, and the thought made the elder girl desperate. This led her to a plan: Lounsbury must be asked to forgive their father and come again—must be told of Marylyn's confession.

Soon afterward a second worry presented itself, one fully as serious. The provisions were dwindling, the seed sacks shrinking fast, and, estranged from Lounsbury, they had nowhere to ask credit but at the fort.

When Dallas spoke of it to her father, he chuckled. "Waal, we got Simon, ain't we?" he said.

That same night Marylyn put down her fork and stared across the table at her sister. "Why, Dallas, you don't eat!" she complained.

Dallas laughed. "I don't work, honey," she answered.

The question of fuel entered next and became a grave one. So far the weather had been fairly mild for the place and the season. Now it took a more rigorous turn. The bitter cold was intensified by a stiff wind. Snow began to fall, and the wind, growing, drove the flakes level, so that they cut the face like filings of steel. Charley's trips became uncertain, then impossible. The work of getting out hay for the stock was a desperate tax. It was so difficult that Dallas dared not spare a straw for the fireplace, and Ben and Betty's manger had to be drawn upon for wood. When this source of supply failed, the benches were sacrificed one by one, the cupboard was torn down.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your home. If your cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a nerve-paralyzing poison. It's strange how many things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Here for the very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chances then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney disease that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore,—that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville.

"Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles and joints, lack of appetite and loss of sleep. Reach the cause, Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c at all dealers.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

The trustees of the lodge are Miss L. E. Calder, Miss Hattie Lee and Miss Marie Hopkins.

The meeting was harmonious throughout and much interest was manifested by the ladies present. With such an efficient staff of officers the prosperity and success of the Association in Peterborough seems assured. Another meeting for instruction in the degree work will be held this evening.

Scalded by Boiling Fat

COULDN'T USE HAND FOR A MONTH.

ZAM-BUK GAVE INSTANT RELIEF

An accident in a Toronto home might have had very serious consequences had it not been for Zam-Buk. Miss Martha Green, 9 Claremont St., in taking a pan of boiling fat from the oven spilt it over her right hand. "The boiling fat ran into the palm of my hand," she says, "and over all my fingers. I was almost wild with the pain. The hand became swollen, and large blisters formed all over the palm and along the fingers. For over a month I was unable to use the hand at all. I tried several kinds of salves and liniments, but the wound seemed apparently no better. It was altogether too severe for these preparations to heal.

About this time I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I stopped using all other preparations and applied it instead. The very first application soothed my hand and seemed to draw out the fire and inflammation; and as I kept on using Zam-Buk the blisters gradually dried up and disappeared. In a very short time the scald was healed completely.

This is but one instance of the uses to which Zam-Buk can be so advantageously applied. It is equally effective for burns, cuts, bruises, abrasions, sprains and stiffness. It also cures eczema, ulcers, sores, blood poisoning, ringworm, blackheads, pimples, cold sores, chapped hands and all skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well on to the chest, in cases of cold, it relieves the aching and tightness, and applied as an embrocation, it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for receipt of price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

A Giant Grizzly Roaming 'Round

Bear That is Terrorizing the Squamish Valley Makes an 18-inch Track

Vancouver, Nov. 21—There is an extraordinarily large bear of the grizzly species roaming around the Squamish Valley. For years there have been many stories about the big brute, and of late these stories have been further supplemented by people who have actually seen the animal and who fully confirm all that has been said about its size.

That it is an extraordinarily large animal may be judged by the fact that there are half a dozen reputable residents of the Squamish Valley who have seen the animal's tracks and who are prepared to affirm that they were eighteen inches in length by actual measurement. A bear track is very much like the mark of a naked human foot, only broader across the toes. There are only four toes, too on the bear's foot as compared with five on the human biped. In the case of an ordinary-sized black bear a footprint measuring nine or ten inches is about the average, but when an animal that can make an 18-inch track goes roaming around it is little wonder that few Squamish residents do much traveling afoot and now without a rifle of heavy calibre.

PLENTY OF BEAR AND DEER

As a big game district the Squamish Valley is getting a reputation this fall and winter that bids fair to outclass even that of the Kootenay and Atlin districts — at least for bear and deer-shooting. To many people the fact that there are grizzly bears in the Squamish Valley will come as a surprise, but it is true nevertheless, and the hides of two grizzlies are in the city right now proof. Messrs. Hargie and Robinson, two well-known upper Squamish residents, secured the animals about two weeks ago. One was a cub bear that weighed over five hundred pounds, the other one of her cubs, and tipped the scales at 328 pounds. The cub's coat is in fine condition but there was a lot of long, unshed, last season's hair on the older bear. The rumrods who got these two intend organizing a party soon and going back to the same locality where it is believed several other grizzly cubs and the mate of the she bear may be secured.

OVER ONE HUNDRED BEAR SHOT

Since last fall considerably over one hundred black bear have been killed in the comparatively limited area of the lower Squamish Valley. This is no "bear story," but a statement that well-known Squamish residents say can be proved by actual figures.

Regarding the stories about the monster grizzly, a number of Squamish residents have actually seen the huge brute while out hunting armed with only shotguns and they were glad enough to get away without any attempt to start an argument with big Mister Bruin. Of the presence of particularly large bear of the grizzly species in the Squamish Valley Mr. Ford has not the slightest doubt as less than a week ago he personally measured bear tracks that totalled fourteen inches under the rule while he has seen a number of other tracks during the past month that measured twelve and thirteen inches.

Meanwhile the Squamish residents would be glad to hear that this big grizzly whose very mention is beginning to cause a shudder of fear on the part of the women of the Valley had at last been bagged by some lucky nimrod.

Peterboro Lumber Co. Supply Hemlock Timber for New Cobourg Wharf

The Peterborough Lumber Company have no need to worry about orders to start on next spring, as they have a million and a half feet of hemlock timber to cut for the new wharf at Cobourg being built by the Dominion Government. The company secured the contract to supply 2,000,000 feet of timber for the crib work, and if this amount a half million feet have been cut, and shipped to Cobourg, where a gang of men will be engaged during the winter making cribbing which will be placed in the water after the ice goes out in the spring. The Peterborough Lumber Company are cutting the balance of the timber in the woods this year and will float it down to the mills in the spring to be sawn. It is not every day that an order for 2,000,000 feet of timber is received, and it is a nice thing to get hold of.

Will Attend the Opening of the New Collegiate

Warden Thompson and the members of the County Council will attend the opening ceremonies at the new Collegiate Institute, at which Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education in Ontario, will deliver an address. The County Councillors are personally interested in this institution of education, and they are glad of the opportunity to attend the opening.

The Otonabee A.C. Hockey Section

A meeting of the Otonabee Athletic Club was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night, when the boys completed arrangements for their completed arrangements for their City League. The officers for the season were chosen and other business was transacted.

The officers are as follows—
Hon. President—J. J. Howden.
Hon. Vice-President—Jas. Rose.
President—W. Grady.
Vice-President—S. Shaughnessy.
Sec.-Treas.—Howard Anderson.
Manager—Bert Hewston.

Chimney Fire at Wm. Wm. McKinley's House

At ten minutes to 9 o'clock last night a telephone message of a fire at Wm. McKinty's residence, 297 Townsend street, was received at the fire hall. The brigade responded promptly and found a very bad chimney fire getting a splendid start. The application of a chemical and a couple of pails of water, however, put the flames out of business. Some bedclothes and the frame in the window caught fire, but the damage was very slight.

Tom Longboat Won in very Fast Time

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 26.—Running against two runners from Boston here last night, Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian runner, won by one and a half laps, in the remarkably fast time of 53 minutes. The race was run in the open air. This is the fastest time Longboat ever made at the distance. He will run another ten miles to-night in this city against two other professionals from Boston.

The first ten miles in the Dorando-Hayes race at New York last night were run in 1 hour 8 min. and 3-5 sec., so that the Indian's time shows up very favorably. Shrubb's ten-mile world's record is 50 min. 40 3-5 sec.

Twenty-Five Dollars Reward Offered--Fast Automobiling in Country Must be Stopped

County Council in Session Yesterday Dealt with Several Important Matters

Will Finish Up Business this Morning

County Councils throughout Ontario have long been endeavoring to devise some way of controlling the speed of automobiles in the country. The laws of the province are very good, and if they could be enforced would soon put a stop to the reckless driving. In some counties the councils are trying to have the Ontario Act amended, but the Peterborough Councillors realize the efficiency of the present law, and they admit certain rights to the owners of the motor vehicles, and they have decided to try and enforce the present law. They have therefore offered a reward of $25 to the person or persons furnishing information leading to the conviction of parties guilty of an infraction of the law relating to automobiles. By this means it is hoped that a few of the careless and independent drivers of cars will be prosecuted.

The council was in committee all yesterday morning and part of the afternoon, but late in the day they resolved themselves into an open session and put through considerable business, including the report of the Committee on the Wardens' Address.

The minutes of the two short sessions of Wednesday and Thursday according to the clerk's book are as follows—

WEDNESDAY.

Moved by Councillors Hales and Russell, that Mr. C. R. D. Booth, recently appointed Police Magistrate for part of the county, be paid for his services the sum of $200 per annum, and also all fees pertaining to the office.

The Council then adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

On motion the report of the Committee on Warden's Address was received and adopted.

On motion of Messrs. Fife and Russell, the by-law re auctioneer licenses was amended to read "That any license issued would expire one year from date of issue," and that the County Solicitor be authorized to prepare such by-law to receive its several readings during the session several readings during the session.

On motion of Messrs. Fife and Breault, the Council expressed its satisfaction with the Dickson Brothers (Campbellford) contracts with the Council during 1908. The contracts were as follows— North River bridge, Belmont; Victoria street bridge, Norwood; Armstrong bridge, Otonabee. The Council also expressed itself similarly with the sub-structure contractors, viz., Messrs. Smith & Aikens, North River bridge abutments; John Driscdale & Son, Armstrong bridge abutments.

On motion of Messrs. Russell and Fife the clerk was authorized to notify all county constables of their powers in regard to pack peddlers, referring to the section governing the same—Sec. 24, chap. 22, Ed. VII., page 100, 1904.

On Motion of Messrs. Graham and Moore, the by-law regulating fees of pack peddlers was amended to read "$25 per year to expire one year from date of issue."

On motion of Messrs. Scott and Killan a reward of $25 will be paid for information bringing about the conviction of any person or persons driving any motor vehicle in a manner contrary to by-law in this county.

The Council then adjourned. They will finish up their work at this morning's session.

Good System in Canada

London, Nov. 26.—In reference to the statement of the Premier of South Australia regarding the vacant Governorship of the State, namely, "There is no position of honor in South Australia which should be regarded as beyond the reach of our most distinguished citizens," the Earl of Crewe states that, if Australians desire to adopt the Canadian system, the Imperial Government would probably be disposed to agree.

Martin's Trio Won from M'Ilroy's Bunch

The games in the P. A. C. ten pin tournament last night changed the standing somewhat in the run for the prizes. The two trios which met were McIlroy's and Martin's and the latter won by forty pins. Martin takes the lead for the high game score and also for the high average. There was a large crowd of spectators present. The scores were—

McIlroy's—
McIlroy	114	191	180—488
Connors	171	167	107—445
Lillie	139	180	179—498

Crime to Shear Women's Hair--Cobourg Minister Condemns the Custom

A broad smile swept across the faces at the conference on charities and corrections this morning.

A minister was on his feet, Rev. Wm. Beattie, of Cobourg.

"I hope it is not true," he was saying, and turned to Col. McNaughton, county clerk and head of the house of refuge for the united counties of Durham and Northumberland.

The clerk nodded.

"Yes, it is the general rule that when a woman is admitted we cut off all her hair. It is done, as I said, as a matter of precaution."

Then Mr. Beattie's voice grew stern.

"A woman's most precious adornment is her hair, and it should not be taken away. It is her glory and to remove it is to bring her down to the level of the criminal. I'll have to attend to the colonel and his coteries when I go back. There must be some way known to medical men whereby this method will not be necessary."

Applause greeted the clergyman-director as he sat down, and Colonel McNaughton shivered for himself and his "coterie."

No superintendent thereafter ventured to refer to this method of removing a woman's glory, and the morning conference was closed with an announcement of the president, Dr. Bruce Smith, that as a result of the large attendance this year the conference would next year spend some time meeting in sections for a comparison of methods, such as the heads of houses of refuge, hospitals, jails, asylums, etc.

The nomination committee met at noon to-day and will report this afternoon. Mr. J. P. Downey, M. P. P., was mentioned for the presidency, but was unable to encourage his prospects, and a number of the committee favor Mr. J. R. McNeillie, of Lindsay, who has on several occasions contributed valuable suggestions already this year.—Toronto News.

One Divorce for Every Twelve Marriages in the United States

Washington, Nov. 26.—The advance sheets of Census Bulletin 90, covering the statistics of marriages and divorce for the last twenty years—1887-1906—show nearly twelve million marriages and one million marital failures for the period investigated. The exact number is 945,625, and is nearly three times in excess of the number reported for the preceding twenty years, 329,716. Increase in population has to be taken into consideration, but it is estimated that at the end of the forty-year period divorces were increasing three times as fast as the population, and the available data indicate that not fewer than one marriage in twelve is ultimately terminated by divorce. Divorce rates appear to be higher in the United States than in any of the other countries for which statistics have been obtained.

Wives obtain twice as many divorces as husbands, nearly two women out of every six for alimony, two out of every three for it.

The proportion of husbands asking for alimony was 2 per cent. and the proportion obtaining it was 1 per cent. The average duration of marriages terminated by divorce is ten years.

The marriage rate is quickly responsive to economic conditions. A decrease in 1892 reflects the panic of that year, and the abnormal conditions do not appear to have been cleared in the matrimonial market until 1899. As compared with the average annual increase in marriages during the five years ended with 1892 had continued for the next six years the number of marriages contracted in that period would have been 238,813 greater than it was. It is presumed that many persons in this number never married at all, which suggests a loss to the community hitherto little considered in connection with business depressions.—Tribune Bureau.

A Flying Knob Struck His Face

A painful accident happened to Mr. Cornelius Clancy, an employee at the locksworks, yesterday afternoon, which will lay him up for a few days. The unfortunate fellow was polishing a knob when it flew off and struck him between the eyes. The injury was of such a nature that he had to go to the doctor and have it sewn up, and—was then removed to his home at 69 Hunter street east.

Independent Order of Foresters' Concert

The Sons of England Hall was crowded last night with Foresters and their friends, who gathered to enjoy the programme furnished by Court Chemong, I. O. F. It was a splendid turnout, and very encouraging to the society. The large number of ladies was a particularly bright feature. In addition to the musical programme and the many speeches the programme included an excellent address by Supreme Ranger W. H. Lowrie, of Russell, who explained the many advantages a member of the I. O. F. has over the ordinary man. He took up the increase in the rates and stated just why this was done. He also extended a very hearty invitation to the ladies to join the society. Organizer Brown also gave a very interesting talk on the work of the I. O. F., and expressed the hope that the next year would see a large increase in the membership of Court Chemong.

The programme was as follows—
Dr. McKinnon, Chairman, gave a short address in opening.
Song—Mr. John Barr.
Reading—JJohn Allen.
Song—J. C. Morgan.
Address—W. H. Lowrie, Russell, High Chief Ranger, E. Ont.
Bagpipes—T. S. McKay.
Address—G. N. Brown, Organizer.
Recitation—J. R. Nunnett.
Address—J. C. Morgan.

LOSS OF APPETITE

NO AMBITION, LACK OF ENERGY, DYSPEPTIC LANGUID

Under the Beneficent Action of Ferrozone Cure is Quick and Certain.

How common these conditions are. They are the outcome of the fast life of our day, proving that waste is immensely greater than the power of our body to rebuild.

In order to cure, first construct the blood—change white cells to red ones, fill the blood with nourishment;—do this, and the result will be in your case just as it was with J. E. VanLuvan, a prominent citizen of South Alexandria.

"Four years ago my health became very poor. I grew thin and yellow. I wasn't strong, lacked energy, and slept poorly. At breakfast I ate very little. My physician said it was a bad case of indigestion. I grew worse and many said I would die. I tried everything and almost lost faith in medicine. My mother had been reading about Ferrozone and advised me to try it.

IMPROVED IN FOUR DAYS

"The change brought about by Ferrozone was marvellous. In four days I felt stronger and had better appetite. I enjoyed my meals and felt no more nausea. My digestion improved steadily and my general health continued better than ever. Ferrozone made a new man of me and I know of no tonic half so good."

FERROZONE CURES INDIGESTION.

When you take Ferrozone everything you eat that's good—all your food is converted into nourishment that supplies vigor and strength to blood, nerves, muscles and heart. Can't you see just why Ferrozone cures? Not a case of weak stomach, heart palpitation, indigestion, gas belching, headache or languor that Ferrozone won't cure. It agrees with men, women, children—old and young. Harmless and pleasant. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Try Ferrozone—do so today.

March of Unemployed at Hamilton Yesterday

Hamilton, Nov. 26.—A forecast of a very hard winter was a demonstration this morning by a small army of unemployed, who marched through the streets, carrying a large banner with these words—"City Council stopped work for 400 men."

On Monday last the Dominion Power and Transmission Company placed a hundred men at work on the site of the new car shops. Employment was promised 300 more men today. When the menwho had been working reported this morning they were informed that until the Council granted the company's request to connect the tracks of the different electric lines with the shops, the work could not go on. The men, carrying the banner, and with their dinner pails, marched to Mayor Stewart's office, and demanded work to prevent their families from starving. Many of them are new arrivals, and said they have had no work for six months. The Mayor promised that the matter would be dealt with at once, and an effort will be made to furnish 200 men with work on the mountain sewer.

"We are certainly going to have a tough winter," said the Mayor, thoughtfully, as the crowd marched away.

Grand Trunk Using Own Siding to Cereal Factory

The first load of grain that has ever passed over the G. T. R. line that extends from Auburn to the Quaker Oats Co. was that of eleven cars of oats which were taken down yesterday morning. It is understood this is the first train which has ever passed over the new dam that was built over the Otonabee at the time the power house at the foot of London street was erected some years ago. The rails were laid then and the line was cut through from the mill to Auburn and placed in good condition.

As stated in yesterday's issue the visits of the officials of the G.T.R. Company to the city in regard to this matter, were expected to culminate in such a step as this. It is understood that all the grain that arrives in the city for the Quaker Oats Co. over the G. T. R. lines will be delivered directly over their Auburn siding.

Up to the present they have been transferred to the C. P. R. line, and then delivered by that company. The inter-switching bill must have been extensive, as there was practically a train load of grain every day.

BLOOD DISEASES

Guaranteed Cured or No Pay.

If you ever had any contracted or hereditary blood disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been removed from the system. You may have had some disease years ago, but now and then some symptom alarms you. Some poison still lurks in your system. Can you afford to run the risk of more serious symptoms appearing as the poison multiplies? Beware of mercury or mineral drugs used indiscriminately—they may ruin the system. Twenty years experience in the treatment of these diseases enables us to prescribe specific remedies that will positively cure all blood diseases of the worst character, leaving no bad effects on the system. Our New Method Treatment will purify and enrich the blood, heal up all ulcers, clear the skin, remove bone pains, fallen out hair will grow in, and swollen glands will return to a normal condition, and the patient will feel and look like a different person. All cases we accept for treatment are guaranteed a complete cure if instructions are followed.

Reader if in doubt as to your condition, you can consult us FREE OF CHARGE. Beware of incompetent doctors who have no reputation or reliability. Drs. K. & K. have been established over 20 years. WE CURE Nervous Debility, Varicocele, Stricture, Blood and Secret Diseases, Kidney and Bladder Complaints. Consultation Free. If unable to call write for a Question List for Home Treatment.

Captain Died at Post

Valetta, Malta, Nov. 26.—Captain Charles Littler, commander of the Sardinia, which was burned yesterday, steered his ship as long as the liner would answer her helm, and perished at his post. More than a hundred people are believed to have died, being roasted in the burning steamer or drowned in the sea. Seventy were rescued, and the bodies of fifty dead have been recovered.

Among two hundred Arab pilgrims who were passengers on the Sardinia, a panic broke out. Fearing the sea, these people stayed on the doomed ship and many of them perished. The only safety for those on the vessel lay in the sea, where there was a chance of being picked up. Rescue work even in this way was difficult, because, though fast tugs and small craft of all sorts pput out from the harbor, the high sea made a near approach to the burning steamer impossible.

CREW STAYED AT POST.

The crew stayed at their posts, passing out life-belts and working the pumps until they became useless. Capt. Littler then took the helm and steered the Sardinia toward the shore. When the steering gear became useless the boat drifted around and was beached broadside on the rocks of the harbor, still burning fiercely.

WARSHIPS HELPED.

The British Vice Admiral, Sir Ashton Curzon Howe, and Admiral Fisher directed the work of rescue, and of bringing the dead ashore. The mutilated remains of the captain were taken ashore yesterday afternoon in the presence of great crowds, standing uncovered.

The Sardinia carried a crew of 41 Englishmen, 11 first and 6 second class English passengers, and nearly 600 Arab pilgrims.

The Chinese and the Poppy Problem

China, a Peking correspondent informs us, has at last been able to notify the foreign Legations that all the Powers have given their assent to the prohibition of the import of morphia, except for medicinal purposes, and that the import of the drug will be forbidden from January 1st. We, ourselves, says the London Times, gave our consent to the prohibition six years ago, in the Mackay Treaty, of which so many provisions have proved abortive, and the United States followed in 1903. But, for one reason or another, some other powers have been slower to accede to the wishes of Peking, and it was not until Tuesday that Japan announced her readiness to meet them. The assent of each of the powers was necessarily conditional upon the assent of all. So long as any one of them continued to claim the right of importing the drug into China, a renunciation of that right by others would merely have transferred their share of the trade to the country which stood out. But it was not only against the risk of such a transfer that the framers of the Mackay Treaty — and doubtless also the framers of all subsequent agreements upon the subject — had to take precautions. They had also to provide that the prohibition of the import would not be used by the Chinese for the establishment of a lucrative government monopoly in the manufacture of that commodity at home. The treaty accordingly contains an undertaking by the Chinese government to take measures at once for the prevention of the manufacture. Whether that undertaking has been observed better than a good many others in that instrument is one of the interesting points which the International Opium Commission that is to meet in January at Shanghai will have to investigate very closely. The self-denying action of the powers must be, of course, conditional upon the fulfilment of this undertaking by the Chinese.

In a careful study of the subject by the Shanghai correspondent, on which we commented last January, he declared that the first efforts to enforce the stringent anti-opium regulations of November, 1906, would be found in the area of poppy cultivation within the empire. The Imperial Edict decreed that this area should be reduced by one-tenth annually for ten years, so that by the end of ten years no poppies should be grown in China. In accordance with the spirit of this enactment, we, for our part, have agreed to reduce our exports to China of Indian opium also by one-tenth for three years, and doubtless we shall continue the reduc-

Hon. Dr. Pyne will be Here for Opening of New Collegiate

The formal opening of the Collegiate Institute will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the event will be an important one in the history of the city. Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario, will arrive here on the noon C.P.R. train and after luncheon at the Oriental with several prominent citizens, he will visit the Queen Alexandra Public School and the Normal School, and will arrive at the Collegiate Institute for the opening ceremony at 3 o'clock. An address will be presented to the Minister by the Board of Education, and there will be speeches by the Minister and a number of local gentlemen. The function will be held in the Assembly Hall and citizens are cordially invited.

In the evening the Collegiate Institute pupils and their friends will hold a promenade.

Thousands of Unemployed Tramp Streets of London

London, Nov. 25.—Thousands of the unemployed of London, carrying a large banner bearing the words "Work or Revolution; the Government Must Decide," marched through the fashionable districts of the city this afternoon. This is the first of a series of similar demonstrations. In speaking of the procession to-day, one of the leaders said—"We are going to let the West End know that the East End does not intend to starve."

HOCKEY

Lindsay, Nov. 26.—Latin and much enthusiasm marked the holding of the annual meeting of the Lindsay Hockey Club last night. It was decided to enter a team in the intermediate series of the O. H. A., and as all the old players except L. Cotey, who will probably figure on St. Mikes this year, are on hand, the prospects look rosy. There will be no dearth in the material for a fast team, as there will also be a fast six-team league, and in all likelihood a junior team which may enter the O. H. A.

Officers were elected as follows—
President—A. L. Campbell.
Secy.-Treasurer—Aird Haveille.
Executive—L. R. Knight, H. B. Clemens and Dr. Brown.

It will be now or never for this intermediate championship, at any rate. The rink has been remodelled, and will hold several hundred more spectators.

Steamer Kawartha Is In Trouble

Lindsay, Nov. 26.—Capt. Burgoyne, of Fenelon Falls, owner of the steamer Kawartha, came near losing his steamer last Saturday. He had occasion to make a trip to Rosedale with a cargo of supplies for Contractor McDonald, and found the new channel covered with a thin film of ice. Through this the little steamer seemed to force its way easily enough, but when near the lock the discovery was made that the hold was awash with water. The boat was run ashore, when it was discovered that the ice had cut through the stout oak planking for a distance of 20 feet aft of the bowsprit.

An Assault Case at Bobcaygeon

Lindsay, Nov. 26.—Mr. F. D. Monro, K. C., County Police Magistrate, tried an assault case at Bobcaygeon in which two families, closely related, figured.

The trouble which led up to the assault was originally caused by the children on both sides carrying tales to their parents. In the course of time they came together in deadly combat and one of the women in the mixup brandished a potato masher and threatened to exterminate anyone who crossed her path. The row occurred on Nov. 16th and the evidence presented at the trial was of a decidedly spicy nature. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting in all to $10.25.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

THE CATTLE DANGER

On account of the outbreak of foot and mouth diseases among cattle in the United States, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has declared quarantine against all cattle and cattle products from the States of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. The quarantine applies not only to cattle and cattle products, but to horses as well. The Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington is working in accord with the Dominion Department and elaborate precautions appear to have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease in the States and its importation to Canada.

On the other side of the border the formidable forces of the United States Department of Agriculture have been brought to bear upon the discovery of the source of the disease. A report from Buffalo says that the infected cattle which were found in the stock yards there came from Canada. If such a statement were true it should be a conclusive proof. In point of fact the United States authorities themselves have not definitely ascertained the location of the original outbreak.

The Canadian people are immediately interested in such a case. The wealth of the Canadian cattle trade is developed and maintained at a great cost to the government and the individual breeders. But years of protest have not availed to secure the removal of the British embargo, maintained by the Home Government against Canadian live cattle on the false pretext that there is disease in the Canadian herds. The prevalence in the United States of so virulent a disease as that which now afflicts the cattle there would be a warrant for the application by Canada of the strictest preventive regulations. The two governments appear to be working in the closest harmony, but this is an immense continent. The imaginary boundary between the two countries is very long. The Dominion Government has brought into force quarantine against individual States. But since the real source of the evil cannot be located in the States, no safeguard can be made a protection unless it be total; unless the importation of cattle and horses from the States to Canada is completely stopped there must remain some reason for anxiety until the disease is stamped out in the States.

In the meantime the British Government has prohibited the importation of American cattle through the port of New York. There will be accordingly a heavy shortage in the British meat supply, always deficient in quantity. Some further vindication of the Canadian cattle, if such vindication were necessary to a fair argument—might result from the demonstration of the complete ability of the Canadian authorities to protect the health of the Canadian herds.

A clergyman writes— "Preventics, those little Candy Cold Cure Tablets are working wonders in my parish." Preventics will surely check a cold, or the Grippe, in a very few hours. And Preventics are so safe and harmless. No quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish, restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

CHANGING THE EUROPEAN POLITICAL METHODS

The last few months have seen great and far-reaching changes in political and administrative methods in more than one of the countries in Europe. Russia seems to have clearly entered on a constitutional system, and the comparative success attained by the third Duma has been an agreeable surprise to its friends and well-wishers, and a source of disappointment to the reactionary party which anticipated a very different result. Not a little credit for this result must be given to the Tsar who, in the midst of many difficulties and against the influence of the grand dukes, and the machinations of the bureaucratic party, persisted in the effort to give some part in the administration of his immense domains to representatives of the people. While his edicts restricting the franchise for the election of the members of the present Duma caused at the time an outcry that he was not sincere in his promise to introduce some measure of popular government, the result has shown that he acted sagaciously and in the only manner that could give the scheme a chance of success. It is impossible to compare the situation in Russia with that in any other country in which a popular form of government has been in existence for a number of years. The masses of the people there are illitrate and have had no training to fit them for legislative work. As the experience of the first two Dumas made very plain, the members elected by some of the classes to which the franchise was then extended, demanded changes in political and administrative methods that would be regarded as too radical and utopian even for countries in which popular government had existed for generations. After two failures it would scarcely have been surprising had the Tsar despaired of success and reached the conclusion that a pure autocracy was the only form of government suited to the condition prevailing in the Empire. By a restriction of the franchise, somewhat unwillingly accorded to by the more advanced section of the press, he succeeded in getting together a representative assembly which seems to be proving capable of doing the work for which it is designed and which contains the elimination to its power necessary for success under existing conditions. The country has been fortunate also in the man who is at the head of the Cabinet and who has evinced a sincere desire to give all legitimate scope to the efforts of the Duma to fulfil its functions in the administration of the State. It is to be hoped that he anticipations now held of the successful development of constitutional methods will be fully realized.

Perhaps, still more surprising, as it was certainly more unexpected, is the peaceful revolution—for it is nothing less than that—that has recently taken place in Turkey by the promulgation by the Sultan of a constitution. Moslem methods and the manner in which under that system society is organized, seem so utterly opposed to a popular form of government that events in Turkey under the new order of things will be followed with keen interest in other countries. The Young Turk ports as the reformers are called has so far shown much moderation, and if that course if followed a great and beneficent change may be brought about in Turkey. A country rich in natural resources, and with a sober, industrious and thrifty people, Turkey under more favorable conditions than have prevailed in the past, should become prosperous. But the change in political methods will, if it is to succeed and be permanent, involve alterations of a momentous character in the social life of the people much more far-reaching than would be the case in any nominally Christian country, and, therefore, the present situation must be regarded as an experimental stage in political evolution.

Lindsay, Nov. 25.—An enthusiastic meeting of the Lindsay Racing Association was held in the Simpson House here last evening. It was decided to hold the races here on Jan. 12 and 13. Last year Lindsay had one of the best winter meets in Canada, and an effort will be made this year to surpass it. George A. Simpson was appointed secretary-treasurer.

A Costly Department

Buffalo, N.Y., November 21. — The cost of prosecuting the men who smuggled Chinamen into Buffalo from Toronto, Hamilton, and other Canadian points, has been very heavy in the past years. Entirely apart from the salaries of special immigration officers, the United States Government has paid out within the past 7 years $20,000 in this district alone. During this same period the Government has received exactly $3,500 in fines, collected from convicted smugglers.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even-numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

Duties.—(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) A homesteader intending to perwith the above while living with his parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

and value advanced from 10 cents per share to $5.00. That is what an investment in a California Mother Lode mine did for me. My great regret now is, and has long been, that I did not secure a larger interest.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half-miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

We need and want milling equipment immediately, and are therefore offering a block of stock at the sacrifice price of ten cents per share (par value $1.00) for quick sale.

Write immediately for full particulars. Local agent wanted.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres),, all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet.

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will brigg a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Gov't License fees

EACH SHARE OF STOCK REPRESENTS 315,600 FEET OF TIMBER

Big Tariff Fight Is In Prospect

Steel Manufacturers are Annoyed Over Mr. Carnegie's Article

Washington, November 17.— There's strong conviction here that the tariff fight before the Committee on Ways and Means is merely a prelude to the struggle which is coming between the high and low tariff men, the maximum and minimum tariff men and those who want practical free trade.

Demands are being made that H. E. Miles of Racine, Wis., and J. W. Vancleave, member of the National Association of Manufacturers, come to the front with the date they are supposed to have as to so-called iniquities and real inequalities of the tariff and make such disclosures as would shock the country. They have not been heard from, and Representatives Payne and Dalzell are enruggling their shoulders and saying that they probably have not much to produce.

It was learned to-day that Miles is on his way to Washington, but is coming via Hot Springs where he went to see Taft and tell him a few things in confidence. It is said the developments of the week will be such as to shake the "stand patters" to their very souls.

Steel manufacturers are annoyed over the publication of Mr. Carnegie's views on the tariff.

...and the chunk and part of the trees were split into kindling.

The family slept shoulder to shoulder before the hearth, with the brave colored blankets of the partition for extra covering. Lancaster and the younger girl stayed in bed all of the twenty-four hours. Dallas got up only long enough to tend the animals and prepare food. But a day came when she could not make her way to the lean-to and when the warped door could not be opened in the teeth of the raging storm. Toward noon she cooked some food, however. The seed sacks were empty. There was no rice and no flour. While the blizzard howled without and Simon and the mules called pitifully for their fodder and drink, she broke up what was left of the table. Over its blaze the last switch of bacon went to savor the last pint of beans.

After the meal Dallas read aloud. Lying down, she held her book in one hand until her fingers were blue with cold, then changed to the other. Father and sister drowsed, and she put the story aside to study over the predicament, in which she felt herself at fault. Counting on blizzards, but knowing nothing of their duration, she had determined to say little about their needs until those needs pressed, when, she knew, her father would see their extremity. The extremity had come. Yet, willing or unwilling, Lancaster was cut off from seeking help.

That day closed in fearful cold. The wind was becoming a furious gale. Sturdily the log house withstood it. Only the roof seemed threatened. With each great blast it lifted a little, as if on the point of whirling away, but when darkness came even the roof settled into quiet, for the drifts that had been piling up gradually to the north and west of the shack, sealing the windows and the door, had risen to the grassy eaves and overflowed them and so weighted the thatch.

Next morning long before Marylyn and her father wakened Dallas roused. The room was in dusk, and its air was so cold that it seemed fairly to singe the skin. She could not read. Presently Marylyn turned. The elder girl hastened to soothe her. Then their father yawned. Dallas feigned sleep.

But the evil moment could not be put off. Lancaster propped himself on an elbow and called to her. He was hungry.

Very quietly Dallas told him that there was no food.

He grunted, arose and lighted the lantern. "You dish that snow on th' floor," he commanded. "We'll need a fer drink."

"What 're you going to do?" she asked, hastening to obey. Her voice was lowered apprehensively.

He was wrapping some clothes over his shoes. "Butcher Simon," he said curtly.

Her face became a white spot in the gloom.

"Critter 'll be tough, like's not," went on her father, "but y' c'n poun' th' meat."

After a long wait she spoke. "You can't reach him," she declared, half triumphantly.

"Yas, Ah c'n," he answered. "Ah c'n chop through with th' hatchet." He was between the fireplace and a corner, feeling over the logs with his hands.

She ran to him. "Oh, how can you think of it?" she demanded huskily. "Simon's so friendly and—came to us for a home. How can you kill him! Maybe you could eat him, but I couldn't. It 'd just choke me!"

"Oh, ain't we sof'!" sneered her father. He was fumbling about near the bunk, as if hunting something. "Mebbe y' 'd like Ah should kill a mule! Ha, ha! No mule meat fer me. Ah'll give thet bull a tunk 'tween th' eyes, an' we'll hev steak."

She stood in the dim light, one arm crooked up to cover her face. Presently Marylyn moaned. Then Dallas lowered her arm and looked down at her sister. "One of the mules would be easier," she said bitterly. But, remembering the brown eyes of the team and the long, gray whiskered noses, she covered her face again.

"Ah don' keer w'at y' say," declared her father. "We'll hev steak." He selected a log and began to hack at it.

Shuddering, she sank to her knees, one hand reached out to touch Marylyn. "Maybe Charley 'll come, honey," she whispered hopefully. "Maybe, maybe!"

And now it seemed as if she heard something outside. She crept to the door. Around the latch was a little space. She put her ear to it, and the icy air blew against her cheek. There it was again! The shriek of the gale.

She went back to the bed.

Hack, hack, hack! Then muttered curses. And again the sound of chopping.

When she could bear it no longer she got up and stumbled over to her father. "Dad," she said, "if I break up

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, but they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

Appetite Gone---Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tried her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Wattmere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headaches. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfect. For a good cleaning, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essences in vegetable life—are safe for young and old, and guaranteed to make renewed activity and strength in every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Rink for Knox Boys

The Knox Church hockey boys will have no trouble this year in securing ice, as they will have their own rink and will get busy making ice as soon as the weather will permit. The rink will be located on the Bradburn lot adjoining the church property, the same place as last year, which was found to be very convenient.

Charity for a consumptive

Charity Agent F. W. Miller desires to acknowledge contributions from Mrs. (Dr.) George Burnham and Mr. Geo. Webber of $5 each for the purpose of helping an English family return to England. The man of the house is afflicted with consumption, and while he does his utmost to work he frequently has to be assisted home. He thinks that if he could get back to England he would be better off. Anyone who desires to contribute to the fund may send their contributions to Mr. Miller, Water street.

Port Hope Merchants were Easy

Another fake advertising scheme is exposed by the Daily Guide. Local business men advertised in a proposed directory of Port Hope, which was to be printed. The publisher got the ear of the Guide office and made the firm a party to the scheme by using some collection cards of their. He made the collections and skipped out, leaving his printer's bills and hotel bills unpaid, and the "directories" unpublished.

A Harvest Home Supper and Sale

An immense crowd availed themselves of the hospitality of the ladies of St. Luke's Church last night and had supper at the Foresters' Hall on Simcoe street. From before 6 until 8 o'clock the large dining hall was kept full, and the ladies waiting on the tables were kept busy. The supper was an exceptionally good one and it was enjoyed by all.

In connection with the affair the ladies also had a large quantity of fancy work for sale, along with many other articles of a useful nature, and the candy booth. The sale was very successful, and nothing was left on hand. A short programme of music was also presented and altogether the ladies of St. Luke's did well and deserve credit.

To Inspect the Imported Cattle

Dr. T. Johnston, the local veterinary surgeon, received a telegram from Dr. Hilton, of Ottawa, Acting Veterinary Director General, asking him to go at once to Western Canada for immediate duty. It is understood that he will be engaged in inspecting cattle that may be brought into Canada at Windsor.

The action of the Government officials has been immediate and thorough. Stringent measures are being adopted to keep out of Canada this disease of the foot and mouth of cattle which has spread through the New England States, and threatens a wider circulation. Competent veterinary men are being engaged to watch the points where cattle usually enter Canada, and special attention will be given Western Ontario. Dr. Johnston left on the evening C. P. R. express for Toronto, and will likely commence work in a day or two.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was very becomingly attired in a dark blue travelling suit and Gainsborough hat. Mr. and Mrs. Waram left shortly after the ceremony for Kansas City, Missouri, where they will make their home. The bride received many handsome presents, the groom's gift being a pearl crescent.

Refused to Settle for His Meal

The police were called upon yesterday afternoon to take charge of a fellow who annoyed the Chinaman of the southern restaurant. The prisoner is now waiting trial before Magistrate Dumble. He went into the restaurant, it is said, in an intoxicated condition, and after having a meal, refused to settle. A scuffle ensued, during which a pane of glass was broken.

Battery Stores are in Good Shape

The inspection of the stores and equipment of the 24th Field Battery were inspected at the East City Armouries by Master Gunner Stroud, of the Royal Horse Artillery, of Kingston, and were pronounced by him to be in first-class condition. He expressed his extreme satisfaction with the manner in which he had found the armouries and all the stores. Major T. W. H. Young, commander of the battery, received many congratulations on its fine condition, and the other officers and men are pleased that the inspecting officer could make this satisfactory statement.

John Dormer Received Bad Cut in His Knee

While going to work last night as night watch at the Tool and Shovel Company's factory, Mr. John Dormer fell and cut his knee so badly that he had to go home. He was about to cross the railway tracks at Stewart street, and the presence of quite a number of engines shunting excited the old man, and as a result he tripped and fell. His knee is badly swollen and the probability is that he will be laid up for some time.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The old-fashioned way of dosing the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM SIMMONS

Within a little over a month two members of one family in Peterborough have succumbed to typhoid fever. The mother of these two persons was only removed from Nicholls Hospital on Saturday last, after several weeks' illness with the same disease. It was then that she learned of her son's death, which occurred over a month ago.

The family referred to is that of Mrs. Thomas Trotter, Smith street. Her eldest son passed away a few weeks ago, and this morning at one o'clock her daughter, Mrs. William Simmons, died at Nicholls Hospital.

Her maiden name was Flinda Grace Trotter. She was 35 years of age and was married eight years ago to her now surviving husband. Four small children are left to mourn her loss, the youngest being an infant only fourteen months old.

Her mother, three brothers and two sisters also survive her. The brothers are Messrs. George, of Moose Jaw; Bert, of Orangeville, and Charles, of Peterborough. The sisters are Mrs. Robert Robinson and Mrs. George Barrett, of this city.

The funeral will take place this (Friday) afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

Chinese and the Poppy

tion at the same rate should we find, at the end of the three years, that China is dealing earnestly and successfully with the opium problem. But the Indian export is a relatively small factor in that problem. Only a seventh of all the opium used in China in 1906 was of foreign origin. Six-sevenths were produced from the native plant, and one of the vital facts which the Commission must ascertain is whether the acreage under that plant is being reduced in accordance with the edict or not. Such evidence as is at present available on the point does not conclusively establish that it is diminishing. It is alleged, for example, that in the province of Sze-chuan, which consumes nearly half of the opium used in all China, the Edict is practically a dead letter. This province produces its own opium and the chief result of the regulations, it is said, has been to substitute (ficial) stations for the sale in the place of private establishments.

In Ho-nan, again, it is reported that another device has been practised to evade the Edict. It is simplicity itself. The area under poppies was returned at some 25 or 30 per cent. greater than in fact it was. This gave the cultivators a comfortable margin on which to effect the prescribed reduction of 10 per cent. There are doubtless other methods of escaping from the confiscation of land and goods which is the penalty awarded in the regulations to offenders. The Commission must try to discover what they are, and how far they have accomplished their end.

Some of these subterfuges may be difficult of detection, but trustworthy evidence ought to be forthcoming as to the acreage under the crop before and since the Edict. This is a matter in which Europeans who have travelled through the provinces can speak, and some of them assert that, in the parts of the country which have come under their observation, there were more poppies last winter than ever. Our correspondent laid a fees upon the contention that, so long as the Chinese grow the crop, the drug extracted from it will be consumed. The conclusion to which he came was that when he wrote there was no evidence to show that the Central government seriously intended to enforce the regulations in which they were framed. On the other hand he discerned indications, in the attitude of men so influential as Prince Ching and Chang Chih-Tung, that they might be seeking to trade upon the sympathy of foreigners with the anti-opium crusade in order to fill the depleted coffers of the State. That those coffers will be depleted seriously, and the coffers of the provincial governments more seriously still, by any real restriction on the trade in opium is a fact which has a very direct and important bearing upon any estimate of the real intentions of the government. There is, undoubtedly, a strong popular opinion in some parts of the country in favor of the suppression of the use of opium, but it is not by any means a unanimous opinion. If the researches of the Commission prove that it is strong enough to compel the government to enforce the more important of the regulations, and, in particular, the regulations for the reduction of the area under poppies, we shall be ready to do all that is reasonable, upon our part, to support a policy so admirable. The assent of the Powers to the prohibition of the importation of morphia encourages the expectation that they would be as willing as ourselves in so good a cause.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEW COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE FORMALLY OPENED BY MINISTER OF EDUCATION

Big Crowd of Citizens and City and County Officials were Present—Splendid Address by Hon. Dr. Pyne—Local Gentlemen Speak—Robt. Fair Occupied the Chair.

An Address Presented to the Minister of Education

Peterborough new Collegiate Institute has now been formally opened and the public has had an opportunity of visiting the building and inspecting the equipment. The event was graced by the presence of Hon. Dr. Pyne, the best Minister of Education the province ever had, and his private secretary, Mr. C. C. James. It was an important occasion in the history of education in Peterborough, and the opening ceremonies will be deeply impressed upon not only the parents but the rising generation, which is now in attendance at that institution.

A description of the building has appeared in these columns before and the public generally is not only well aware of the nature of the structure, but they are well pleased with it and with the equipment, and particularly well satisfied with the teaching staff.

Hon. Dr. Pyne, with his secretary, arrived on the noon C. P. R. train and were met at the station by the Chairman of the Board of Education and a few of the members who accompanied them to the Oriental Hotel, where luncheon was served. During the afternoon the visiting gentlemen and a few local educationists enjoyed a drive about the city and to the different schools. Hon. Dr. Pyne was particularly well pleased with the Normal School here. This was his first opportunity of seeing it, and he was loud in his praise.

It was just shortly after 3 o'clock when Chairman Robert Fair, accompanied by the speakers and members of the Board of Education, occupied the platform, and the opening exercises were commenced. The large and handsome auditorium was crowded with the leading people of the city and the proceedings were greatly enjoyed.

Those who occupied seats on the platform were—

C. W. James, Sec. Dr. Pyne, Hon. Dr. Pyne, T. E. Bradburn, George Morrow, L. M. Hayes, Robert Fair, D. Dumble, Mayor Read, John Belcher, Dr. W. Packenham (Technical School, Toronto), John Crane, Dr. Morrison, W. J. Nelson, W. H. Hill, George W. Morrow, Sec.; Rev. Keith, Warden Thompson, Rev. Father McCall, H. R. H. Kenner, W. S. Rommson, J. E. Smith, M. P., East Peterborough, and Jas. Stevenson.

MR. FAIR.

Mr. Fair spoke as follows;

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As chairman of the Board of Education, the honor and duty of presiding at this important occasion has fallen upon me.

The purpose of this gathering is well known to you all, but its significance to this city and county cannot yet have been fully recognized.

The formal opening of this new Collegiate Institute building marks but the last step in a series of very important undertakings which the Board of Education of this city has had to grapple with during the past few years. These steps are so important and have involved the expenditure of so much money and energy that, much as I would prefer to pass over them and call upon some of the distinguished gentlemen who are to address you, yet I deem it my duty to briefly outline what the Board has undertaken and accomplished during these years.

Within the past ten years Peterborough has made rapid strides. The increase in wealth and population has been most gratifying. The public school population, alone, has in these years increased by fully thirty-three and one-third per cent.

So rapid was this increase in the school population, that the Board soon found the school accommodation entirely inadequate. Recourse had to be made to the half-day system of teaching in the junior forms of our public schools and additional accommodation was provided by renting a private building for school purposes. These were but temporary expedients and the Board realized that a new school in the southern part of the city was an absolute and pressing necessity.

This need was met by the erection of the King Edward School, and the wisdom of putting up a large building has already been shown by the fact that eight rooms are now occupied in this school. There are yet four unfinished class rooms in this building which will provide accommodation for future expansion in that part of the city.

The King Edward school, designed and planned by Wm. Blackwell, is, admittedly, a splendidly constructed building, and it is a monument to the integrity and self-sacrificing spirit of the late Wm. Pringle, who, as Chairman fo the Building Committee, had much t odo with its erection. The County Council Presented Address to Warden Thompson Who is Retiring

Final Session of the County Council for 1908 Devoted to Receiving Committee Reports and Passing By-Laws—Successful Year Brought to a Close.

The Special Report of Committee on Roads and Bridges

The final session of the County Council for 1908 was concluded yesterday morning, and the representatives of the various municipalities gashed in and before evening left for their homes, well satisfied with the year's work. They might be proud of their accomplishments, too, for the year has been a most successful and harmonious one. The morning was devoted to presenting an address to the warden, reading of reports and passing by-laws. All the members were present and Warden Thompson was in the chair.

Moved by Messrs. Breault and Coben that the townships of Harvey, Galway and Chandos be added to the territory given Mr. [illegible] the newly appointed county police magistrate for part of this county, and that this resolution be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature.

ADDRESS TO THE WARDEN

To the Warden of the County, Esq.

James Thompson, Esq., M. P. P.

Sir,—Having learned with regret that you have decided to withdraw after this year from municipal life we desire to express ourselves, as your colleagues, so as to impress upon you the fact that we have not only been proud of you in your capacity as Chief Magistrate of the county during 1908, we heartily congratulate you and congratulate your constituents upon your election as representative in the Legislature for East Peterborough. We feel confident you will lend dignity to that greater body as you have done to the County Council.

Your stewardship here has been of such a character that Havelock will in future be recognized as one of the important municipalities of the county, and your successor will have nothing to encounter but the best of feeling for his village.

Again permit us, in saying good bye, that the concentration of effort put forth this year was largely due yourself. Signed on behalf of the Council, A. Breault, Chairman of Finance Committee.

WARDEN'S REPLY.

Warden Thompson, M. P. P., assured his colleagues that he did not expect any such recognition of his services, and he felt that he was not really entitled to so much praise. He had, however, done his utmost to fill the position to the best of his ability. But if things had been done satisfactorily it was due more to the spirit of the councillors. He wished to congratulate the representatives of the various municipalities for their harmonious conduct during the past year. He hoped that while he would not be here next year he would not disappoint them in his future career. He also expressed great pleasure at the way Mr. Scott, Chairman of the House of Refuge Committee, and to Mr. Brown, Chairman of the Roads and Bridge Committee, for the very faithful manner in which they have done their work during the past year. The year has been a particularly heavy one in these two departments and it required a great deal of timand good management.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Hundreds Visit Collegiate Last Night

It was a happy, admiring and satisfied, if not proud, throng of citizens who gathered in the new Collegiate Institute last night and participated in that part of the formal opening, the building was thrown open for public inspection for the first time, and many hundreds of citizens, graduates of the old Collegiate, students in the new, parents of students and ex-students, and many who hope to be parents of students, were there, and took great pleasure in roaming through the structure, which will for many years be the home of thousands of the young people of this city who are climbing the ladder of life and preparing to take upon their shoulders their share of duty and responsibility of the world's affairs.

The Board of Education was out en masse and every member, including the secretary, wore a broad smile of satisfaction. Their looks said very audibly "We did this; how do you like it?" and no one would blame them for such thoughts. It was largely due to the strenuous fight put up by the members of the board for several years that theople finally voted the funds necessary for the building, and it was largely due to the personal interest, time and labor of the members of the board that the institution is now a dream realized.

There was no programme last evening. Everything was free and easy, and the people were at liberty to come and go as the spirit moved them. An orchestra furnished music in the assembly hall, and all evening the visiting capacity was taxed to its utmost. In different parts of the school members of the teaching staff were located for the purpose of discussing the uses of the various rooms, and thus adding greatly to the pleasure of the visitors. For a free and easy function last night's was as successful and pleasing as anyone could wish. The people are satisfied with the Collegiate Institute and they are satisfied with the way the board handled their money. What more can be desired? It is now up to the teachers to do their part and to the pupils to do their part, then truly will the $80,000 of the citizens' money have been well spent.

Getting Ready for Opening of Navigation Next Spring

There is considerable activity along the course of the Trent Valley Canal, and it is likely to continue during the greater part of the winter. This will no doubt be something of a surprise to the majority of people who do not realize the extent of the work that is necessary, or who are not in a position to know what has to be done. The Dominion Government has two of their own dredges and four steamboats, besides the two big lift locks, the dams, power houses, bridges and the machinery connected therewith, the total value of which is not less than one and a quarter millions of dollars. This includes only the machinery, not the permanent work, and all this machinery has to be taken apart, cleaned and repaired, and put in place again as good as new, not only this winter, but every winter, so that when navigation opens in the spring, there will be no delay as everything will run smoothly. The machinery at the two lift locks alone means a big task to overhaul and repair, and very few have any idea what amount of labor it represents. The navigation on most of the canal has been closed since early in November, although a few boats have made occasional trips on some sections. Boat traffic is now, however, practically closed until the ice breaks up in the spring.

Must Serve Three Years for $45.00

Special to the Times.

Montreal, Nov. 26.—In the police court to-day Pierre M. Desclos, former Vicar of Valcourt, in the Diocese of Sherbrooke, was sent down for three years. Desclos, who is an old country Frenchman, obtained leave from Bishop Laroque in August to return to France, and, coming to Montreal, obtained $45 from J. E. Carreau, a Notre Dame street merchant, promising to return it when his trunk arrived. Desclos never returned and finally he was arrested with the abovestated result.

Mr. Walter G. Roberts, who has been confined to the Nicholls Hospital for some time, is convalescing at his home, 496 Stewart street, much to the pleasure of his friends.

Thin Blood Made Strong

TIREDNESS AND WEAKNESS OVERCOME.

A Joyous Letter.

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that for nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. Hazen, of Beauport. "At first I felt sort of flat in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remember my sleep was disturbed, that dreamy, restless sleep, from which you finally awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin, lost my color, got nervous and fearful about nothing, and kept thinking about myself all the time, and was irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if I had not taken Ferrozone, I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and in a little while, less than three months, no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere. I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advantage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance, it's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men, women and children use Ferrozone every day and all say it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers.

Local Water Supply is Best on the Continent

In the City of Ottawa the water suply has been a serious and a burning question for several months. No rain has caused such a decrease in the flow of the Ottawa River, that the city, transportation companies and manufacturers who depend upon the river for their motive power to do harder thinking and more figuring than they ever had to do before. The flow of the river is so slight that it places the city in a very serious position in the case of fire. There is not enough pressure to suply the hose, and the corporation is resorting to all kinds of schemes.

Such is not the case in Peterborough or along the Trent Canal. The system of conservation of the waters on this waterway is the most complete on the American continent. The lakes and streams used as reservoirs for holding the water has enabled the superintendent of the canal to maintain the flow in the Otonabee river practically up to normal, and it was only for a day or two that anyone noticed any particular difference. As a matter of fact, the superintendent, Mr. J. Harris McClelland, informed the Times yesterday that if there is a fair freshet next spring he will be able to conserve enough water to maintain the flow without any rain for a year. This is a very broad statement, and one which the superintendent is reasonably safe in making, as it is altogether improbable that he will ever be called upon to make the test, nevertheless the fact remains that the area of watered lands in the back country is sufficient to accomplish the deed. There is therefore no need for Peterborough citizens to be alarmed by a dry spell.

Reign of Terror Overshadows Hayti---Wholesale Executions

New Orleans, Nov. 26.—According to a despatch received to-day by the Picayune from St. Thomas, B. W. I., private cable advices there from Port-au-Prince say that censored despatches from Hayti give only a faint idea of the reign of terror now existing on that island. The despatch says that anarchy reigns throughout Hayti, that the country is literally running with blood and that foreigners in Hayti are making frantic appeals to their governments for protection. The French and German representatives are said to have cabled their governments for ships. The despatch also says—"Private cables received here from Port-au-Prince state that wholesale executions are in progress both by the government forces and the revolutionists. R. A. Waite Investigating Boys' Work Here

Mr. R. A. Waite, jr., of New York, secretary of the boys' religious department of the Y.M.C.A., arrived in the city yesterday morning and has been since working hard upon his investigation of the boys' work in this city. Mr. Waite proposes to go thoroughly into this branch of the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of making suggestions, which will be of great value to the local institution and much benefit is looked for from his visit.

Yesterday at noon the directors of the "Y" met Mr. Waite at luncheon at Mr. Thomas Hooper's and he delivered a most interesting address upon his part of the work. This afternoon he will meet the Ladies' Auxiliary, and to-night at 6.30 he will meet the senior leaders.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Waite will address a mass meeting in the Grand Opera House on "Par Values." This should not be missed by anyone, as it promises to be very interesting.

Black Bass will be Propagated

The public works department has selected as a fish pond for the propagation of black bass, a small tributary of the Trent River at Healey Falls.

The creek in which it is to be made will require to be dredged out and the bottom covered with gravel. A dam with slide will also be constructed so as to keep the water uniform in depth. The surface area will be about 300 feet in length by 100 in breadth. Work will probably be done this winter to make the pond ready for use in the spring and local anglers are rejoicing at the thought of the benefit the fishing will receive in this vicinity and also throughout the province.

The Address to the Minister of Education

To the Honorable E. A. Pyne, M.D., Minister of Education,—

Sir;—The Board of Education of the City of Peterborough gratefully acknowledge the courtesy and kindness of your attendance at this, the formal opening of their new Collegiate Institute.

The bold and liberal measures adopted by your Government for the advancement of the educational interests of the country, mark a new era in our history; all our educational institutions have been helped—from the public schools to the universities—and the most liberal measures adopted have elicited from the people, not censure, but only universal approval.

The disclosure of unlimited mineral resources and the extension of commerce through the opening and settlement of New Ontario, and the Western provinces, present a great field for the employment of our people in the home land. But these call for educational fitness to meet the emergency and you, Sir, have grasped the requirement and nobly risen to the emergency. We congratulate you on your liberal treatment of educational problems. When a deputation of our citizens went to Toronto to solicit the location of one of the new Normal Schools at Peterborough, you, and the members of the Cabinet courteously received us, and now we rejoice in the possession of the magnificent Normal School with its splendid staff of instructors,

We have met the requirements you called for, and by large expenditures and great care in the selection of our Public School teachers, have builded a complete Public School System, which with the Normal School and this Institute, will complete an educational establishment equal in all respects to anything of the kind in Canada.

We welcome you to our city. We thank you for your presence, and we wish you the happiness of living to see the splendid results from your liberal and wise legislation in behalf of Education.

On behalf of the Board,

R. FAIR, Chairman.

W. G. MORROW, Secretary.

Clever Wife

Knew How to Keep Peace in Family

It is quite gratifying to find the number of persons who get well of "harming" heart trouble when they let go on tea and coffee and use Postum as the beverage instead.

There is nothing surprising, however, because the harmful alkaloid in tea and coffee—caffeine—is not present in Postum, which is made of clean, hard wheat.

"Two years ago I was having so much trouble with my heart," writes a lady in Washington, "that at times I felt quite alarmed. My husband took me to a specialist to have my heart examined.

"The doctor said he could find no organic trouble, but said my heart was irritable from some food I had been accustomed to eat, and asked me to try and remember what disagreed with me.

"I remembered that coffee always soured on my stomach and caused me trouble from palpitation of the heart so I stopped coffee and began to use Postum. I have had no further trouble since.

"A neighbor of ours, an old man was so irritable from drinking coffee that his wife wanted him to drink Postum. This made him very angry but his wife secured some Postum and made it carefully according to directions.

"He drank the Postum and did not know the difference, and finally, after using it to his lasting benefit, he told his wife that the coffee. Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted, and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

WEST PETERBOROUGH ELECTION

The Times, from the first mention of a protest in the West Peterborough election, has deprecated the idea on the grounds; first, that the verdict of the electors was so unmistakable in the emphasis of its majority that it is absurd to claim that it was secured by improper means; second, that it involves a useless turmoil and expense to the county without any possible object because, if compelled to go through another contest, Hon. Mr. Stratton's majority would, we believe, be in four figures instead of three; and, third, the material interests of the city and county can best be served by having at Ottawa a man of Mr. Stratton's industry, influence and practical business ability.

However, the protest has been entered, and it only remains to await the result, which may possibly not be realized for a year; but which, we will venture to prophesy, will convince the authors of this unwise step that their zeal is largely in excess of their discretion.

It is the opinion in the administration of justice that the man who appears in court asking for the condemnation of another's conduct, must go there with clean hands. Facts of wide notoriety in connection with the present election make it impossible for Mr. Stratton's opponent to appear in the character of injured innocence, and in this regard he makes a confession of wrong-doing by failing to claim the seat, which now certainly would have been done if he believed he were either entitled to it, or could by any means attain to it.

A leading feature of the protest is its allegation that Hon. Mr. Stratton gave largely to churches and charities previous to the election, with a design to improperly influence the electors.

Now, if a man who, during a lifetime had never given a dollar to church or charity, and suddenly, while a candidate for parliament, developed an unprecedented liberality toward influences that might help his political fortunes, we are free to admit that his conduct might be viewed with grave suspicion, and would be so regarded in an election court.

But Mr. Stratton, throughout his whole life, and especially since a large measure of financial success has rewarded his enterprise and industry, has been a constant and liberal giver, not only to churches and charities, but to useful societies, and to every object that promised to better the material or moral condition of our city and county. In fact, to such an extent has this been systematized, that among the first to be approached for a subscription to any useful project has always been

They are the ...ation's donations for ...plained of have ...ear than last year, ...that, and, in fact, ...deviation whatever ...rule of conduct in that regard, and it is absurd to suppose that they will have even the least weight in court, unless it may be to impress the judge favorably with the author of such wise and useful liberality.

But the authors of this protest, in making a feature of this foolish contention, have taken a step that, without in the least helping themselves, is well calculated to cripple the welfare of all those moral influences whose success is most important to the welfare of society and the maintenance of a desirable standard of good citizenship. Men appreciate the good work which they can only aid by financial support, will be led to hesitate if their generosity is liable to be held up against them as an offence against law, and the interests of our most useful moral institutions may suffer thereby.

The protest, as a whole, is a mistake, nad when we consider all the circumstances, and the interests of the city and county in the relations with the government, a mistake that is equivalent to a crime. But this particular feature of it, which seeks to introduce into political disputes our churches and our charities to their hurt and injury, is not only a blunder, but an inexcusable outrage.

Syndicate Offers to Lease Madison Square

A syndicate has offered to lease the entire Madison avenue front of Madison Square Garden for twenty years. It is said the rental the lessees would pay would return a handsome profit to the owners of the property, and if accepted would keep intact the main body of the building, which for years has been used as the home of the circus, horse show, and as a place for holding many great public meetings and entertainments.

The Garden occupies the entire block bounded by 26th and 27th sts., Madison and Fourth avenues. It has a frontage of 425 feet each in 26th and 27th streets, and of 197.6 feet in each avenue. The Madison Square Garden Company, the owner of the property, wants a buyer for the entire property, and for that reason here is little likelihood of the syndicate becoming the lessee of the Madison avenue end of the property.

The plan of the syndicate is to acquire control of that part of the premises fronting 197.6 feet in Madison avenue, and having a depth of about 100 feet. The building is so constructed that this project could be perfected without reducing the size of the great hall and arena, which is so popular with residents of this city, and is so much needed for large public gatherings.

According to a report the projectors of this scheme will have no use for the part of the structure which would have to be torn down, and the Madison avenue end of the building could be rebuilt at the Fourth avenue end of the property. In this way the present entrance would be preserved, but would occupy the easterly instead of the westerly side of the structure.

The famous tower, with the statue Diana adorning the top, would not have to be removed, as it is a few feet east of the plot which would be affected if this lease were made. The parts of the building which would be obliterated by the perfection of the lease and the carrying out of the plans of the syndicate for improving the plot would be the Garden Theatre, at the northwesterly end of the building; the concert hall, occupying a large space above the main entrance of the structure; the dining room adjoining it, the restaurant on the ground floor and the roof garden. The theatre, concert hall, assembly rooms, cafe and restaurant, and the roof garden have been considered the non-paying parts of the property, and it is said that improving this end of the building with office structures would place the entire property on a good paying basis and preserve the most popular part of the Garden.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres),, all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Goverament, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontineatal Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will briug a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Govt License fees

Wallop on Nose Made Fitz a Great Fighter

Just a little thing like a blow on the nose which fractured the olfactory organ, drove Bob Fitzsimmons from the ministry, towards which he was headed and landed him in the roped arens. Whether the famous fighter would have attained the success in a ministerial office that has been his portion in the prize ring, is a matter of speculation. But the story of the little incident on which the fortunes of the great plastic exponent hinged is an interesting narrative.

Fitz, who is now 46 years of age, having been born June 4th, 1862, acknowledged it was really a close shave he had from getting into the ministry. He was a regular attendant at church and Sunday school during his brief residence in England, and up to the time he went to Timaru, New Zealand. Not that he knocked off because of a change of residence does Fitz figure that he missed the clerical garb, for as a matter of fact he continued to attend church there.

He was brought up so that he had a fancy for the church, and he was ambitious in that direction until one day his mother sent him to the drug store for six pennyworth of snuff. Fitz was 11 years old at the time. To reach the drug store he was obliged to pass a lot where two elevens were playing a practice game of football. The ball was kicked out into the street and Bob just naturally chased it. He had just kicked it up in the air when he got a blow on the nose that fractured the organ and simultaneously put him to sleep from 2 o'clock until 5.30. The player who struck him was six feet two in. tall.

"You're quite sure about the time you spent in dreamland, Bob?" he was asked.

"Sure about it!" retorted the actor-fighter. "Well, I should say so. This happened right in front of the town hall. I looked up just a moment before I was struck, and there the bells were striking two when I went to sleep. When I woke up the first thing I did was to look at the clock and I noticed it was 5.30. There could not possibly be any mistake about that."

The fracture Fitz said gave him the only mark he bears to-day, after fighting in some 89 battles during a ring career of 20 years. The worst of it was that when he got home his mother took him across her knee and larruped him for not bringing the snuff. From that day on the ministry gradually faded from his ambition. His sole desire then was to become a prize fighter and some day take satisfaction out of the giant

He sat back on his feet, puffing crossly. "Light a fire," he said. "Use them chips. Ah'll res'." He threw down the hatchet and crawled under the blankets. He was glad of the interruption, for the duty ahead was assuming an ugly guise.

Dallas had filled the coffee pail with snow. Now she gathered up the chips, lit them and pried up the wide board of the mantel. This she split with the hatchet.

"What are you going to make?" asked Marylyn from the bed.

"Pepper tea, honey. It'll warm you up."

"Oh, I'm so glad. Ma made some once."

Pepper tea it was. When the snow had melted and the water was boiling hot Dallas added pepper and salt. Then she spread a cloth and turned the wheat and corn sacks out upon it. She got a handful of flour. With this she thickened the water. Three cups were sitting upon the floor. She took the coffee pail over, poured into two and handed them to her father and Marylyn.

"Don't spill a drop," she cautioned.

"You got some?" queried Marylyn, sitting up.

Dallas went back to the other cup. "Well, what do you think I'm doing?" she asked and lifted it to her lips.

Soon the three were lying shoulder to shoulder again, the section boss drawing a little added comfort from his pipe. Before long he was asleep; Marylyn too. Then Dallas got up cautiously and brewed a cup of peppered water for herself. The hot draft relieved the pangs of her hunger. She lay down again.

Hours later she was awakened by hearing faint squeals directly overhead. Hastily she lit the lantern and took down the Sharps, then stepped directly under the sounds and poked the rifle's muzzle into the hay of the roof. Above, storm driven and crowding one another against the stones of the chimney, were some pigs!

In her eagerness she trembled so violently that she became unsteady on her feet. It lost her the opportunity of firing, for as she waited, trying to get a blind aim, the squeals suddenly died out. The pigs had gone over toward the edge of the lean-to.

When next she awoke—awoke from a dream of well spread tables—she could not guess how much time had passed or whether it was day or night. The shack was pitch dark. Of one thing she could be sure—the storm had not abated, so there was no hope of aid.

She knew something must be done. Simon and the team wrung her heart with their pleas. Beside her Marylyn was turning with fretful complaints. The younger girl rolled her head from side to side constantly and moistened her lips. Dallas chopped up the rifle rack and made a fire of it, then plied Marylyn with more of the pepper tea. The section boss refused to partake. The first cup, he said, had burned him. Tobacco was better solace.

Dallas did not taste the tea either. A fearful nausea beset her. Her heart went like a trip hammer. She wrapped up, turning her back to the blaze. Oddly enough, her father did not make a second attack on the log. His perique went far toward helping him fight the gnawing of hunger. He could afford, having to endure little pain, to let the hours bring Dallas to the point where she would ask the life of that bull. He knew where she was most vulnerable. When Marylyn turned from the tea that now partially eased her hunger and began a demand for food, Simon would die.

It came sooner than the section boss expected. His lethargic sleep was broken by Dallas shaking him. As he opened his eyes she thrust the hatchet into his hands.

"Dad," she said hurriedly, "get up. You got to do it—for Marylyn—for Marylyn."

To him it was a real victory. He wrenched a quid from his tobacco slab, grasped the hatchet handle and arose. Dallas had lighted the lantern once more. Now she pinned one of the smaller blankets over his shoulders. When he put on his hat and knelt before the chopped out place in the east wall she wrapped a second blanket about his feet and legs.

Says This Medicine Has Mystic Powers

Will Assist Anyone in Weak, Pale, Nervous Condition to Robust, Hearty, Health.

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this state, read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the kidneys made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic power surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts.—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, drive out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in the mighty song of praise for the herb plant aid that comes from this kind of all tonics. It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The old-fashioned way of dosing the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

were passed. The reports were as follows—

COMMITTEE ON WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

We desire to express our endorsement of the harmony which has characterized our meetings during the year, and also to recognize and commend the dignity with which the Warden has presided over us on all occasions, and the ability he has shown in conducting the affairs of the county during the present year.

As pointed out by the Warden there has been a considerable expenditure during this year, in the way of bridge construction, and future councils will no doubt find it necessary to continue the work of replacing our wooden bridges with those of a more permanent character. We consider that the work of the county in this respect has been done in a thorough and substantial way, and yet with a due regard to economy of expenditure.

We are pleased to learn that in spite of the calls upon the funds of the county, the estimate and levy previously made by this council will not likely be exceeded.

We note an increase in the number of inmates in the House of Refuge, but believe the levy made this year for its maintenance will not only be sufficient, but will probably not have to be exceeded for some years to come, the building, equipment and furnishings of the institution being now practically completed.

We are very pleased to endorse the views of the Warden as to the continued prosperity of the county and province, and to join with him in the hope that this condition of affairs may long continue. Respectfully submitted, J. Fife, Chairman.

Other reports will apear in Monday's issue.

Formal Opening

school involved an expenditure of $35,000 and good value was obtained for the money expended.

About the same time Peterborough was fortunate enough to be selected by Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, as a centre for the erection of one of the new Provincial Normal Schools. Its location in the northern part of our City necessitated the building of a six roomed addition to the old school building, making the new structure, when completed a ten room school. This addition was built and completed in 1897 and we now have in the northern part of the city a building which, in appearance, accommodation, convenience and equipment would do credit to any city in the Province.

The successful and expeditious construction of this school is largely due to D. W. Dumble, K.C., who, as chairman of the Building Committee, supervised its erection. Mr. Dumble gave much time and energy to this work and his wide experience in building was most valuable to the Board. As a result the city has in the Queen Alexandra School a modern and commodious building, well equipped, well planned and satisfactory in every way.

The enlarging of the grounds, the erection of the building and its equipment cost approximately $26,000, which again the Board feels satisfied, is an expenditure for which good value was received.

Of the ten class rooms in this school, nine are already occupied.

Not only were our public schools inadequate, but in High School, accommodation we were, if possible, in a worse condition. The old Collegiate Building was practically condemned by the Education Department years ago.

There were no proper physical or chemical laboratories and the seating accommodation was so overtaxed that during 1897 and the first half of 1898 the Board found it necessary to send two of the collegiate classes to one of the new public schools. No other course was, therefore, open to the Board than the erection of a new Collegiate Institute and this fine building in which we are gathered is the result.

I need add no words in defence or praise of it, as the building speaks for itself, but the Board desires publicly to express their appreciation of the ripe experience and skill of the architect, Mr. John M. Belcher, C.E., under whose superintendence the building was planned, designed and erected and also their complete satisfaction with the contractors, Messrs. Langford & Sheehy who faithfully executed the work undertaken by them, and to the Clerk of the Works, Mr. John Kincaid, whose serious and regrettable indisposition prevents his presence to-day the Board also desire to express their appreciation of the services he rendered.

It is undoubtedly one of the best and most modern collegiate buildings in the province. The supervision of its construction fell to the lot of Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Building Committee and that he gave unstintingly of his time, an examination of the building itself will prove.

The building has been carefully and mainly constructed and there has been no lavish expenditures. The cost of the site, building and equipment will be, in round figures, about $30,000, a large sum of money but for which again, good value had been received.

The Board hesitated, however, not wishing to increase the already heavy expenditures, when recently a favorable opportunity presented itself which was taken advantage of. This opportunity was the proposed joint-engagement of the teachers of three subjects by the Board and the Education Department. The favorable terms offered by the Department makes the city's expenditure comparatively light and now very soon the classes will be organized and set to work in these subjects of study.

The vacation of the old Collegiate Building affords accommodation for these classes, so that when they begin work in the near future they will start under most favorable conditions.

Not only has the Board provided adequate and suitable accommodation for the school children but they used every means in their power to secure the best teachers available. In the selection of new members to the teaching staffs, both public and high, great care had been exercised and with gratifying results. The Board believes that to-day few, if any cities in Ontario have a stronger teaching staff than has our City of Peterborough. And in this regard it is appropriate to say that in Mr. Inspector A. Mowat the Board has seen fit to unite in obtaining the services of a gentleman of marked administrative and literary ability who is proving a most efficient superintending officer and renders the Board most valuable assistance.

In opening Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, expressed the great pleasure it afforded him in being present at the opening of so important and handsome an educative institution. He said he felt greatly honored in being presented with so flattering an address, which he would certainly carry back to Toronto as a message to his colleagues. He was here as a citizen and he was glad to see so large an audience, composed of members of both political parties, and yet there was no sign of politics in the meeting. It was a congregating of the masses in the interests of education, and the people were to be congratulated upon their attitude in this matter.

He congratulated the Board of Education upon the splendid building they had erected, which was an ornament and credit to the city. He also congratulated the Board of Education upon the very great interest displayed in education.

Hon. Dr. Pyne then took up the policy adopted by the Department of Education, when he accepted the portfolio of Minister of Education. One of the first things he realized was that all the buildings in the country could not have favorable results unless there were good teachers. He therefore decided that one of the first things to be introduced was to increase the teachers' salaries, and this had been done as well as the standard of the teachers had been greatly raised.

Speaking of the location of the Normal School in Peterborough, Hon. Pyne stated that he was greatly pleased that the institution had been brought here. He was more than gratified with the building and with the equipment, which he said was far in advance of anything he had yet seen. In a great measure the success of Peterborough in securing the Normal School Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P., was responsible.

The demand for industrial training was so great in Canada that he was finding it very difficult to solve the problem. He took the position that the tariff of the country was controlled entirely by the Dominion government, and thus was built up a demand for mechanics. He therefore contended that the Dominion should make a large grant to the provinces towards technical education and allow the province to solve the problem of how that money was to be expended.

The speaker referred to the policy of higher education adopted by the Ontario Government. He said that the Toronto University had been placed on a financial basis that would would put in a position to better cope with their task. Therefore, while Ontario has probably not done as much as has been done in some of the States. Yet the people of Ontario have the opportunity to secure a higher education if they desired it.

One of the great troubles confronting the Minister of Education was the constant changes taking place in the other countries in the world and the demand for great changes in the educational world. for Canadians must be kept abreast of the times and be in a position to hold their own against all other nations.

He again congratulated the people on what he had seen since coming to Peterborough and upon the splendid educational buildings, which reflected credit upon the Board of Education. It was a great pleasure to him to see so handsome a building and he hoped that the citizens would receive much benefit from it. Still it was really the teacher who made the men and women. A properly trained teacher would, he contended, do away with the cry for more temperance work, etc., in the schools.

He paid a tribute to Principal Walker, of the Normal School; Principal Kenner, of the Collegiate Institute; to Mr. Mowatt, the Public School Inspector, and to that great mathematical master, Mr. Fessenden, and to Dr. Pakenham, an old Peterborough boy who is now in Toronto.

MAYOR RUSH.

Ladies and Gentlemen.—I am pleased to be present on this occasion, as the head of the city council, to join with the Board of Education in the formal opening of this magnificent educational institution. And I am pleased, as I know we all are, to have with us the Minister who is at the head of the educational work of the province, and those officers who are his able assistants in that work including our old friend, Dr. Pakenham, formerly a student in this institute. The Board of Education is to be congratulated upon the completion of this fine building, which is a credit to them, to the architect who designed it, to the men who constructed it, and to the people who by their votes authorized its erection. The old school building, large as it may have been for the service required at the time it was erected, had long ago been inadequate, and the erection of a new building was necessary. Certainly a better site could not have been secured, and Peterborough now has, I believe, the best Collegiate Institute in the province on one of the best sites. The new building has cost considerable money, and there may have been, and no doubt was, difference of opinion as to the expenditure of so large a sum for the purpose, but the ratepayers endorsed the expenditure and all are agreed that the institute is a credit to the city. The Board of Education has a sphere of work, and a very important one, separate from the city council, but the board and the council are at times brought into contact on important educational matters, and it has been a pleasure to see that the two bodies work in harmony, and I think it has always been the desire of the council to assist the board to make the schools efficient, so that the children and young people of Peterborough will have the best educational equipment obtainable when they take their places in the world's work. With the excellent staff of instructors that the institute has, and the facilities afforded in these new premises, good work is being done, and we may look forward with confidence to years of successful work in this institute.

REV. MR KEITH.

The President of the Ministerial Association, Rev. Mr. Keith, expressed his great pleasure in being present on this very important occasion. He paid a fitting tribute to Dr. Packenham and then congratulated the city and the Board of Education upon their forward step. He paid a high tribute to the teaching staff in Peterborough, which he characterized as the finest staff that can be obtained in Canada.

REV. FATHER McCOLL.

Rev. Father McColl stated that we had every reason to congratulate the Board of Education upon the results in the construction of this fine building. He congratulated the architect, Mr. John Belcher, who conceived this handsome building. Rev. Father McColl paid a high tribute to Hon. Dr. Pyne, who, he stated, had done all that he possibly could do towards raising the standard of education.

DR. W. PACKENHAM.

Dr. Packenham, of the Technical Educational Department in Toronto, stated that the exercises had taken on a triumphal note. The Board of Education had determined to make Peterborough the educational centre for the midland counties, and they had triumphed to a great extent by the completion of this building. He took up the importance of high school education and the higher education as a means of training the young to occupy the leading positions in the country.

WARDEN THOMPSON, M. P.P.

Warden Thompson, M. P.P., on behalf of the county council, extended the congratulations of that body to the City of Peterborough upon the completion of the new Collegiate Institute, and upon the successful formal opening. He made a very pleasing and appreciative address.

H. R. H. KENNER.

Mr. Kenner stated that he was sure that all would agree with him that he should at this late hour postpone his short address. He did, however, take this, his first opportunity, of thanking the public through their representative for appointing him head master of the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P., Mr. J. E. Sexsmith, M. P. for East Peterborough, and Mr. Stevens, inspector of public schools for Victoria County, also gave short addresses.

The gathering was dispersed with the singing of "God Save the King."

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Eye Troubles

Caused by Improper Food

Most people would never think of connecting eye disease with the food they eat. But when we remember that every part of the body—every organ—is nourished by the blood and the blood is made of the food we eat, it seems reasonable to trace even eye troubles to food.

A New York man had an interesting experience at one of the great hospitals in that city that may benefit persons who have chronic eye trouble. He writes—

"Four years ago I was stricken with an eye trouble. After being unsuccessfully treated by several physicians and oculists, I went to a noted New York hospital.

"On examination they pronounced my case iritis (inflammation of the iris), caused by poor blood on account of improper assimilation of food.

"They had to operate on my right eye, keeping me in a dark room and on a strict diet for several weeks. When leaving, the doctor cautioned me in regard to saving the other eye, saying that I must be temperate as to my diet and use neither tea nor coffee.

"I told him it would be almost impossible for me to get and live on what they had given me at the hospital. He replied, "It is not necessary. As an official head I cannot recommend any private bread of food or drink. As a friend I advise you to try Grape-Nuts, discard all fatty, heating foods as much as possible, especially in the morning."

"This advice I have followed, excepting a few times when I have grown careless, but danger signals always come, such as specks and blots before my eyes, and inflammation. You may be certain I go back to what my doctor advised—Grape-Nuts. There's a reason."

Unrest in Asia and in Europe--Everywhere Clouds Obscure Horizon

India in the Throes of an Agitation—In Persia, Turkey and Russia there is Perturbation.

The Kaiser is Anxious

London, Nov. 31.—A man of moods like the German Emperor may well be affected by the aspect of affairs not only in Europe, but in Asia. Everywhere clouds obscure the horizon—some charged with lightning, others no bigger than a man's hand, yet capable of infinite expansion.

India is in the throes of an agitation that presages an imminent change in the administration of the dependency.

Persia is struggling toward a constitution which the Shah withholds at the instigation of the reactionary party, who seem determined to die in the last ditch behind the palace walls in Teheran. Their hopes travel beyond the farcical conflict in Tabriz to the capitals of Europe. London has lately received delegates from the defunct Parliament, whose mission appears to be to create mischief between Russia and Great Britain by casting suspicion on the good faith and intentions of Russians in Persia.

A CHANGE OF VILLAINS.

A similar mission has arrived in St. Petersburg and is performing the same play, with a change of villains. Great Britain in this case being the culprit and Russia the innocent. These oriental methods will cause no surprises, and, happily, in the circumstances, must fail in their object, despite the assistance of a powerful third party, whose activity in Persia is of recent growth.

Turkey, though Europe seems unconscious of the fact, is engaged in a general election, and hopes to have a Parliament before the end of next month. It is characteristic of the Turk that he should say little about what he is doing, and should lead strangers to imagine that he is occupied only with the Balkans and the fate of the Sultan. These are naturally topics of greater interest to western people than the election of a member for Jerusalem or Jericho. And they have reached a stage when we may take a practical view of them. Both Turkey and Bulgaria have abandoned the game of "bluff," which has been played in the face of Europe, and have settled down to business.

COMPENSATION TO TURKEY.

It may be accepted as the truth that they have at last agreed upon a common basis, and that Bulgaria has consented to pay for her independence as well as for her act of Spoliation. Representatives of the two States will in a few days be deciding the amount of compensation that Turkey is to receive for the railway in dispute, and the capitalization of the Eastern Roumanian tribute in exchange for the shadowy rights of suzerainty.

The destiny of the Sultan appears less certain. Rumor, which is never idle in the east, proclaims the existence of a plot to disperse the Albanian guard at Yildiz and to replace Abdul Hamid. The Young Turks have shown so much prudence and moderation that one may dismiss the suspicion that they contemplate so dangerous a coup d'etat on the very eve of a parliamentary election. At the same time it would be rash to dismiss the rumor as a mere invention of the enemy. It has been persistent ever since the proclamation of the constitution, and is an obvious weapon that the reactionaries would eagerly seize upon.

THE SUCCESSION IN TURKEY.

The law in Turkey insists on the succession of the eldest member of the Imperial Family, and at the moment this happens to be Mehemmed Reshad, who for over a quarter of a century has been a prisoner in his own house near Constantinople, and has just emerged into comparative freedom. Of his capacity to succeed so astute a Sovereign as Abdul Ha-

Saw Sweetheart at Murder

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 28.—A new turn was given to the mystery which has surrounded the death of Peter Waeltz, 64 years old, whose body, with neck broken, was found at the foot of a stairway here last Sunday, when Miss Nellie Morton, 17 years old, confessed to the police that she sat watching the old man sink into unconsciousness while her sweetheart, Sydney Baker, held a chloroformed handkerchief to his face.

Baker is a photographer, and Miss Morton is in his employ. Baker has not yet been found.

Waeltz was a well-to-do farmer, and when last seen by his friends had $15 with him.

McAllister Dam Being Torn Down and Chopped Up for Kindling Wood

The old McAllister dam and that section of the Otonabee River which is being dredged by the Department of Public Works, was an attraction for not a few Sunday afternoon walkers. It is only once a week that a great majority of citizens have an opportunity of visiting the public works being carried on in the city. The old dam, which is probably one of the oldest along the river, and which was built about half a century ago, will in a short time be no more. It has been out of commission for some time, and last spring, it will be remembered, part of it went down with the spring freshet. Since then the Hydraulic Power Co., which purchased it years ago, gave a number of men permission to remove the material for fuel, and this is being done just about as rapidly as possible, and the low water of the past few weeks has greatly assisted them in the work. At the present time very little of the old dam remains, and in its stead piles of cordwood ready to be drawn away can be seen. Only three or four sections of the timber remains intact, and unless something turns up soon they will be removed, and used for the purpose of keeping someone warm this winter. The removal of the dam will greatly improve the appearance of that section of the river, although it is another old landmark gone.

The dam was built and used for supply power for the McAllister long mills and the several other mills mills which stood upon that side of the river but which have now all disappeared except the McAllister mill. The raceway has also long been filled in and it will not be long before all trace of the once industrial spot has gone and been forgotten.

An Elephant Runs Amuck Through New York Streets

New York, Nov. 28.—The antics of a tiny pig so frightened a four-ton elephant to-day that the big beast broke away from its keepers at the Hippodrome, crashed through several stout doors which barred her passage, and started on a wild run towards the East River. Down Forty-third street to Fifth avenue, and then through crowded Thirty-fourth street, the huge beast swung along at a speed that amazed the great crowd following, and spread consternation ahead of her. No hand was raised to stay her progress as she swept along busy Thirty-fourth street, dodging street cars and automobiles.

Between Second and First avenue the frightened beast stopped short and plunged into the entrance of a tenement house. The passage way was too narrow to admit her immense bulk, but the elephant threw her weight forward and the sides of the doorway crumbled. Trotting through the long hallway, she forced an exit in the same manner and then started on a wild rampage through back yard fences.

By the time her keeper arrived on the scene she had swept through half a dozen of these frail obstructions. The keeper finally succeeded in getting a rope around one of the elephant's legs, and by making the rope fast to a clothes pole, held her until help arrived, and the beast was securely tied.

Then came the problem of getting her back to the playhouse, where she, with three companions, is one of the attractions. The beast refused to leave the yard, and as a last resort the three other elephants were led to the scene. When they arrived the big beast became as tractable as a kitten, and the four were driven back to the Hippodrome.

Mr. R. A. Waite's Address to Men in the Opera House Sunday Afternoon

Probably 100 men gathered in the Opera House on Sunday afternoon to hear Mr. R. A. Waite, jr., give his address on "Par Values." The meeting was presided over by His Worship Mayor Rush, and the service throughout was bright and unanimous. This was the first of a series of Sunday afternoon gatherings which had been planned by the Y. M. C. A. to be held during the fall and winter at intervals of once a month, and those in charge hope to secure other good speakers—for the following sessions.

Mr. Waite has been in the city for the past three days in the interests of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. work, and stated that he had met with great success. He devotes his entire time to this branch of the work and he is well versed therein. His address on Sunday was on "Par Value," and he opened his remarks by asking, "If all you men were put up at public auction, how much are you worth? How much are you worth in the market of public opinion? How much would your wife give for you?" He then proceeded to outline the different classes of men, and placed a value on them. The first class which lived purely for self and who had a big idea of their own importance were worth nothing whatever. Another class which made great promises but failed to live up to them were priced at one cent, while the man who lived the Christian life was valued at $10. He pointed out the weaknesses of the first two classes and the strength of the third class.

During the afternoon several popular hymns were sung and a quartette rendered a couple of selections, and at the close of the service the speaker asked those who had become converted and those who desired to take a forward step to stand up, and fully 90 per cent. of the men present rose to their feet.

Peterborough Visited by Electrical Engineers

Mr. Sotham, of Toronto, one of the electrical engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and Mr. E. G. Converse, of Niagara Falls, another electrical engineer, were in the city on Saturday and made a thorough inspection of the Canadian General Electric works.

As is generally known, the C.G.E. Co. is likely to be awarded a large contract for supplying part in equipment for the power lines of the Hydro-Electric Commission. It was to assure themselves that the local concern was equipped and able to handle the contract that the engineers of the Commission made the inspection on Saturday.

The visitors would make no statement, it being necessary for them to report to the Commission before making anything public.

Another Mining Proposition for Local Investors

Mr. T. H. Crowley, the well known mining expert and mine promoter, has arrived in the city again and has a proposition to offer the public which he claims is the best thing he has yet had. He has been through the Lake of the Woods, Eagle Lake and the Manitou regions, and he has discovered very rich mineral lands. He knows exactly where it is and now he comes to his old city of Peterborough to give the people here the first opportunity to get in right on this. He requires thirty-three men who will stake three claims at $10 per claim. This will give one hundred claims. Mr. Crowley will register all the claims and will bring back the licenses. Then he proposes to sell fifty of those claims, so that the investors will get their money back and the remaining fifty will be saved and a mammoth syndicate formed. Mr. Crowley proposes to go to Paris and other European countries, where he claims he knows where to sell and what he can get. The only restriction in the whole deal is that Mr. Crowley takes one-quarter of all moneys. He also guarantees to sell each property for more than the individual owner can get for it. A meeting will be called shortly of all those who are interested in mining. Mr. Crowley's properties are close to the Anthony Bloom and the Sultana mines and he claims that these will be far surpassed in richness.

Inthon Bible Class

Seventy-one turned up yesterday afternoon to hear the address given by Dr. Marshall on "The effects of alcohol on the system." Being the world's temperance Sunday the address was just the thing, and you may be sure it was listened to with great interest.

After the friendly hand-shake which always closes each meeting, nearly all the class marched in a body to the Grand to hear Mr. R. A. Waite, jr.

Tigers Win Dominion Rugby Championship, Defeated Varsity 21-17

About Nine Thousand People Witnessed the Struggle for Supremacy. Hamilton Weakened by Loss of Simpson

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Never has there been such interest in a football game as was displayed in the city Saturday. Everybody was talking of the contest.

As for the crowd at Rosedale, it beat all records.

When the whistle blew the crowd was about 9000, including 1,500 students. The weather was ideal for rugby, save for a strong intermittent wind from the west.

The first applicant for admission to the grounds presented himself at 9.30, and from that time onward the stream steadily grew in volume. Towards noon there was a long line outside the eastern fence, and it was estimated that nearly 500 people were at midday patiently waiting to receive general admission checks.

By 1 p. m. the bleacher stands were filled, and half an hour later a line of spectators encircled the field.

The grandstand was, however, almost empty, since fortunate holders of reserved seat coupons were under no necessity of being early on the field, having secured their accommodation, some by an all night wait for the reserve seat plan to open last Thursday morning and others by the payment of from two to five times the original cost of the little bits of pasteboard.

The students, unhampered by conditions which kept a lot of spectators chained to business until noon or later, were among the pioneers. With lavish decorations of blue and white ribbons, armed with genuine megaphones and unlimited lung power, they swarmed into open stands early, and when the bleachers could hold no more they packed themselves densely into the enclosure at the west end.

The 48th Highlanders' Band enlivened the wait with lively airs, most of them of the Varsity flavor, including such classics as "Dutch Company" and "

The collegians joined lustily in stirring refrains, under the direction of class leaders, who, equipped with huge megaphones, led each chorus.

The arrival at 2.30 p. m. of the Lieut.-Governor, Hon. J. M. Gibson, late of Hamilton, was signalled by the playing of the National Anthem and a demonstration of enthusiasm.

Hamilton Tigers just managed to beat Toronto Varsity at Rosedale on Saturday by four points, 21 to 17, when the students scored eight points early in the game. The boys were nonplussed at the outset, letting the Tigers lose one for a touch within a minute of the start, 1 to 0.

Varsity won the toss and took the advantage of the stiff autumn wind, with the wind at their backs, but could not gain ground with this advantage.

As if by magic Varsity returned to life and as suddenly the visitors were up in the air. First Tope, then Moore, Biggs and Burton [illegible] and in almost the twinkling of an eye Varsity had four points. Goal. The reliable old schoolmaster, Bob Simpson, was missed, as no one seemed at this juncture able to handle Lawson's punts. Ben worked out before the start, and then decorated the touch line. They probably thought of Ben and stayed the ride till the welcome interval, and the score was 6 to 4.

The second quarter saw the Varsity lose the championship of Canada. It was all Tigers. [illegible] breeze was in their teeth. A rouge, try and goal came in quick succession, 13 to 4. Then it looked like Varsity's turn again. They worked the leather right to the corner, pointed over on the third down. Tope returned cleanly. Dixon fumbled and the next play resulted in another try, that a goal. It was terrible, 13 to 11.

But Moore and Lawson gave a nice exchange of kicking, and Hamilton Varsity tried an end run that brought a try without a goal.

On resuming after half time Varsity accepted the help of the breeze and in quick time had the ball over and the crowd cheering for an apparent try. It was off-side, and the result of the next attack was a single—19 to 10. Lawson made the run of the day next, about 40 yards, and it was another—19 to 11.

TRIES ON ENDRUNS

Had Varsity tried end runs earlier than the last quarter the Tigers would have been so hopelessly beaten that they would not have been known back in the fair on Saturday night. Never daunted, the students started the last session with wind and sun in their eyes. The great half-back Lawson had only to get the ball to bowl over the flying wings. First a try, right at the line and almost converted, and then again over the line, which Ritchie placed between the bars, and the enemy were only two ahead. Now Hamilton has a bar of life, and on working the ball to Varsity territory, they kick over for two single points, and it is all over—21 to 17.

Varsity were crippled near the outset by the loss of Ramsay, the star outside wing, who was hurt in the first few minutes.

That Hamilton was lucky in getting loose balls there is no doubt and one try at least, when Correll mistook Referee Hendry for a Tiger behind the Varsity line gave the Tigers their margin.

TEAMS ON THE FIELD.

The Varsity men were first to make their appearance from the clubhouse. As they sallied out in their weather stained uniforms at 2.24 p.m., a great cheer went up from the bleachers.

A moment later the shout, "Here they come!" came from the grand stand as the Hamilton contingent caught sight of their pet Tigers emerging from the clubhouse, and the thousand mountaineers present cheered to the echo.

Contrary to morning reports, but confirming the despatch in Saturday's World, Ben Simpson, the great half-back, did not take the field for the Tigers. His leg is still troubling him, and he voluntarily, though regretfully, gave way to Burton.

T. A. S. Won the City Rugby Championship

The Y. M. C. A. fourteen didn't offer effective opposition to the T. A. S. team in its game on Saturday for the city championship and the latter won by the solid score of 28 to 3. From the commencement the abstainers were on the aggressive, and in three minutes' time had secured their first point on a touchdown, and Y.M.C.A. didn't make a tally until after their opponents had run up the big lead of 22 points.

There is not much to say about the game, as it was by no means a revelation in either classy or spectacular rugby. Both teams worked hard, however, and tackled with considerable vigor. A strong and uncertain wind blew during the entire afternoon and this made well placed punting an utter impossibility. Perhaps the only feature was the strenuous play of the teams for the ground was stubbornly contested in spite of the fact that T.A.S. managed to get through so frequently.

Toronto Centrals Won the Basketball Game Saturday

Toronto Centrals 38, Peterborough 17. That was the score of the big basket ball game at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Saturday night. The local boys did well and put up a good game considering that they were up against the fastest basket ball team in Canada. It was the same bunch of ball towers that defeated the wonderful Y. M. C. A. team of Hamilton, which defeated all comers previously and who decided to turn professional and go looking for bigger game.

The sport Saturday night was witnessed by a big crowd. The gymnasium was crowded and many more could not gain admittance. It was hot contest from beginning to end, and while the local boys could not hope to win, they did not let up, but on the contrary were in the game all the time. The visitors are masters and they taught the home boys many good points, which, if adopted, will be of great value.

The line-up was as follows—

Toronto Centrals—Swanson, Britton, Tompkins, Olivette and White.

Peterborough Y. M. C. A.—Sutherland, Dobbin, Fitzpatrick, Laing and Best.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the heart and kidneys. The oldfashioned way of dosing the stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out the error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. The vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell. Sold by all druggists.

Extensive Alterations to Crystal Theatre

Mr. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal Theatre, is making extensive alterations to his popular amusement house on George street, to give more accommodation to the crowds who nightly visit the theatre. The Crystal is now one of the best and prettiest theatoriums in Canada, and the class of amusement provided the public is above reproach. Mr. Edwards, as well as his theatre, has become very popular with the citizens, and is receiving the patronage of the very best people of the city. The stage is being set fourteen feet back, giving more seating capacity. The building, besides being used as a theatorium, is frequently crowded on Sundays by many from the congregations of the different churches, when religious or temperance meetings are held.

Two Hundred Miners Entombed in a Burning Mine--All are Likely Dead

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 28.—The mine of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal Co. at Marianna, near here, is on fire. The mine was supposed to be one of the safest in the country. An explosion occurred about 11.30 a.m. today. About 200 men are said to be in the mine.

It is not considered likely that any of the miners will be rescued alive. The explosion was terrific, and if all were not mangled by its force, there seems little doubt that they perished in the subsequent fire or were suffocated by the deadly fumes.

According to State Mine Inspector Louttit there were between 180 and 200 men in the mine when the explosion occurred.

Inspector Louttit had been out of the mine only three minutes when the accident happened.

PILES FOR FOUR YEARS

Only those who suffer from piles can know the agony, the burning, throbbing, shooting, stabbing pains which this ailment causes and the way it wrecks the sufferer's life!

Zam-Buk is blessed by thousands who used to suffer from piles, but whom it has cured. One such grateful person is Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of Greenwood Avenue, Toronto. She says: "For four long years I suffered acutely from bleeding piles. During that time I spent an immense amount of money on 'remedies' and doctor's prescriptions but I got no ease. Zam-Buk was different to everything else I had tried and it cured me. I am grateful for the cure, and as I have never had piles once since, I know the cure is permanent."

Another thankful woman is Mrs. A. E. Gardiner, of Catelina, Trinity Bay. She says: "In my case Zam-Buk effected a wonderful cure. For 12 years I had been troubled with blind, bleeding and protruding piles. I had been using various kinds of ointments, etc., but never came across anything to do me good until I tried Zam-Buk which cured me! That this may be the means of helping some sufferers from piles to try Zam-Buk is the wish of one who has found great relief."

Zam-Buk is a purely herbal balm and should be in every home! Cures cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, ulcers, blood-poisoning, itch, cold-sores, chapped hands and all diseases and injuries of the skin, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

THE LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

One of the most significant things of the present day is the interest and practical interest the laymen of the different churches are taking in the cause of missions. The steady and rapid growth in enthusiasm and support of the Laymen's Missionary Movement—for such it is designated—shows clearly that there is nothing evanescent about it. Effective organizations throughout Canada and the United States now exist, through which the work in hand is designed to be carried on to splendid fruition.

The needs, however, in connection with the work have not all been supplied. In this connection the statement made a few days ago by Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, one of the leaders in the movement, comes with peculiar force when he says:—

"It has been estimated that Canada's share of the world to be evangelized represented not less than forty millions of people outside of the Dominion itself. Accepting the basis supplied by the various missionary organizations, one foreign missionary was required for 25,000 people, so that Canada's share meant sending out 1,600 missionaries. What it means financially was that, allowing $2,000 per year for the salary and equipment of each foreign missionary, the amount which should be raised in Canada for foreign missionary work was $32,000,000. To enable the churches to adequately do the work of home missions it was estimated that from $1,200,000 to $1,500,000 was required, and adding that to the amount necessary for the foreign field, the total which Canada contribute if she was to do her share of the work of evangelization was $34,500,000. To-day Canada was giving foreign missions less than $600,000, and for home work less than $1,000,000."

Mr. Rowell, with reference to what has already been accomplished, said that in twenty-four centres, representing 2,000 of Canada's non-Catholic communicants, $540,000 was contributed to home and foreign missions last year. This result has probably been due, to a certain extent, to the advance movement in the interest of missions made during the past few years for students in the colleges and universities, and to the most general diffusion of missionary information.

St. Catharines laymen have identified themselves with the movement, and a strong executive committee, representative of the city churches, is moving along right lines to accomplish the desired object, and good results may be looked for. From a purely denomination standpoint, the Methodists of St. Catharines, Merriton, Thorold and Grantham have formed themselves into a social union and with that as a central organization will seek this year to augment considerably the missionary givings of former years.

The needs of the foreign fields, of if the welfare of the foreign fields, of humanity and the Christianization of the heathen nations of the world. The exigencies of the home work in the dioceses of the Dominion into which the tide of immigration is flowing, however, perhaps share in an inappreciable degree the attentions of the laymen of this country.

The Laymen's movement, however, as it tends to develop in those who interest themselves in it a broader vision and a deeper sympathy than they had before is fraught with great and beneficent possibilities, and its progress will be indicative of the thought of the present century.

Respectfully submitted. — Pott, Chairman.

REPORT OF CHAIRMAN OF ROAD AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit the following report, which, on account of the amount of work as well as the report of the chairman of several committees I do not think it advisable to enter too minutely into details. The first work undertaken was filling in the approaches to the Burleigh Falls bridge on the Smith township end, the old wooden approach has been removed and a permanent structure 16 feet wide between the railing completed, the cost for same amounted to

The Deer Bay Creek bridge, authorized to be built at the June session, has been finished and shortened and over ninety feet turned into permanent roading, it being thought better to make two bridges, there being two channels.

Your committee also visited Buckhorn bridges and inspected both the old and the new, the latter constructed by the Dominion Government and soon to be handed over to the county.

It was not deemed advisable by your committee to make any claim on the timbers of the old bridge; I may say the new bridge appears to be a very permanent structure. It was out wish that every member of this council should have an opportunity of seeing this work.

A new wooden bridge over Black Lake Creek has been completed, 35 feet in length, with approaches 85 feet in length, nine feet above the bed of the stream; the whole structure appears to be done in a solid and satisfactory manner, at a cost of $240.

The three new steel bridges at North River, Victoria street, Norwood, and Armstrong's in Otonabee, have all been undertaken and completed, and fuller details may be procured from the chairman who had charge of the work. This, with small repairs done on boundary bridges between Durham and Peterborough, complete a large amount of work and consequently a like expenditure, but as all new work has been of a permanent character, their repair will not amount to any considerable expenditure for many years to come.

But now our Company owns outright one and one-half miles of the same California Mother Lode and its promise is better than the other was at the same stage. It can be reached any day from San Francisco.

Power and hoisting machinery is installed and paid for. Development work is done exposing a quartz ledge 20 feet wide at 170 feet depth extending laterally and down indefinitely. Assays of this immense body of ore prove up a great mine. The usual mining risks are therefore practically eliminated.

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres),, all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Govt. trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontinental Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will brigg a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Gov't License fees

Got a Hard Rap that Made Him a Champion

Just a little thing like a blow on the nose which fractured the olfactory organ, drove Bob Fitzsimmons from the ministry, towards which he was headed and landed him in the roped arena. Whether the famous fighter would have attained the success in a ministerial office that has been his portion in the prize ring, is a matter of speculation. But the story of the little incident on which the fortunes of the great fistic exponent hinged is an interesting narrative.

Fitz, who is now 46 years of age, having been born June 4th, 1862, acknowledged it was really a close shave he had from getting into the ministry. He was a regular attendant at church and Sunday school during his brief residence in England, and up to the time he went to Timaru, New Zealand. Not that he knocked off because of a change of residence does Fitz figure that he mixed the clerical garb, for as a matter of fact he continued to attend church there.

He was brought up so that he had a fancy for the church, and he was ambitious in that direction until one day his mother sent him to the drug store for six pennyworth of snuff. Fitz was 11 years old at the time. To reach the drug store he was obliged to pass a lot where two elevens were playing a practice game of football. The ball was kicked out into the street and Bob just naturally chased it. He had just kicked it up in the air when he got a blow on the nose that fractured the organ and simultaneously put him to sleep from 2 o'clock until 5.30. The player who struck him was six feet two in. tall.

"You're quite sure about the time you spent in dreamland, Bob?" he was asked.

"Sure about it!" retorted the actor-fighter. "Well, I should say so. This happened right in front of the town hall. I looked up just a moment before I was struck, and there the bells were striking two when I went to sleep. When I woke up the first thing I did was to look at the clock and I noticed it was 5.30. There could not possibly be any mistake about that."

The fracture Fitz said gave him the only mark he bears to-day, after fighting in some 89 battles during a ring career of 20 years. The worst of it was that when he got home his mother took him across her knee and larruped him for not bringing the snuff. From that day on the ministry gradually faded from his ambition. His sole desire then was to become a prize fighter and some day take satisfaction out of the giant

Plow Woman

"Go 'long, go 'long," he said, not unkindly. "Keep you'self warm." Then the hack, hack, hack, began again.

She did not watch him, but donned the long cloak over her jersey, kissed Marylyn and paced up and down the shack. For every step there was a blow of the hatchet.

"Poor Simon! Poor Simon!" she whispered to herself. The bull was lowing again.

At last the sound of the hatchet became unbearable. She gave a quick glance around the room, then, crossing to her father, pulled at his arm. "If you kill Simon, there's no wood to do any cooking," she said. "Better wait, dad—hour or two, please!"

He twisted from under her hand and scowled up. "Shucks!" he answered. "Here's chips 'nough fer a fire." And swung the hatchet with fresh zeal.

She lingered a moment, smiling grimly. It was only a play for time. She knew very well that there would be timber when her father reached Simon's stall.

Lancaster was making fast progress. The log upon which he worked was dry from the heat of the hearth. It splintered like weathered pine. A section of it was seen cut away so far that a final blow with the hatchet head drove it in. It rolled to the noses of the mules. Lancaster thrust his head through the hole.

Between the scantlings that penned Simon into his part of the lean-to the section boss spied two glowing eyes. They watched him, then the door, then him again. "M-m-m-m!" came a deep protest, as the bull blew and pawed at the dirt floor.

The section boss drew back nervously. "Simon's actin' funny," he said. "He's locoed or he's smelt a mice."

He got no answer. Dallas was in the corner farthest from him, crowded against the logs. Her arms were raised. Her head rested between them.

Lancaster grunted disgustedly and fell to chopping again. The opening in the wall was not quite wide enough up and down for his body. He enlarged it by cutting away at the lower side. Finally, satisfied with its size, he unpinned the shoulder blanket, freed his feet and crawled through.

And now Dallas looked around, fastening her eyes upon the dark hole beyond the hearth. Beside it the lantern burned with a sickly fume. "It's murder! It's murder! It's murder!" she breathed.

Marylyn tossed, moaning. Dallas ran to her. There she stayed, eyes and ears buried in the bedclothes.

Within the lean-to a curious parley was being held. Lancaster was standing, hatchet in hand, at the bar of

He was alternately mooing and blowing, and his angry eyes were fixed not on the section boss, but on the bottom of the door.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organs itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach those controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is foolish. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative, in either Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, sometimes nervous, finding it hard to do your housework?

Thousands feel just the same,—feel the enervating influence of spring, whether that brings out latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flannigan of Essex Junction—here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness — never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,—Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite—I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Committee Meets

The committee in charge of the layman's banquet to be held on Tuesday, Dec. 8th will meet on Friday night next.

Y.P.S.C.E. Tonight

This being St. Andrew's Day the Y.P.S.C.E. of St. Andrew's Church will hold a social evening to-night under the auspices of the social and literary committees. All the young people of the congregation are invited to attend.

W.C.T.U. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. The reports from the Barrie convention will be presented, and all the ladies interested in temperance are requested to attend.

Personal

Mr. Frank VanWinkle, Inspector for the Underwriters' Association of Toronto, is in the city inspecting the wiring in different places.

Mr. J. H. A. Taylor, representing the Consolidated Lithographing and Manufacturing Company, of Montreal, was in the city Saturday on business. Mr. Taylor is an old newspaper man, and was formerly on the staff of the Toronto Mail and Empire.

The many friends of Mrs. Adam Frick, Jackson avenue, will be sorry to learn the she has been confined to her room for the past week owing to an attaeck of quinsy. She is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

A clergyman writes: "Preventics, those little Candy Cold Cure Tablets are working wonders in my parish." Preventics surely will check a cold, or the Grippe, in a very few hours. And Preventics are so safe and harmless. No Quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

Right in the Business

D. E. Sprague is one of the largest lumber manufacturers in Canada, as the following letter shows. He speaks from personal experience—

D. E. Sprague,
Lumber Manufacturer.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 1, 1908

"I have known Mr. James M. Anderson for a great many years, and have had numerous business dealings with him. We are also jointly interested in some timber in British Columbia on Lake and Bear Creek. Any representations Mr. Anderson has made to me in regard to timber have been justified by my cruisers upon examination, and I would consider myself justified in relying upon any representations he would make me.

Yours truly,
(Signed) D. E. SPRAGUE.

Thin Blood Made Strong

TIREDNESS AND WEAKNESS OVERCOME.

A Joyous Letter.

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that for nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. Hiscox, of Beauport. "At first I felt sort of flat in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remember my sleep was disturbed, that dreamy, restless sleep, from which you finally awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin, lost my color, got nervous and fearful about nothing, and kept thinking about myself all the time, and was irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if I had not taken Ferrozone, I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and in a little while, less than three months, no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere. I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advantage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance, it's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men, women and children use Ferrozone every day and all say it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers.

Lang cheese meeting will be held on Wednesday at 2 p. m.

The Improvement Society has a staff of men busily engaged repairing the streets. They are under the supervision of T. McIntyre.

The water in the Indian River is at present the lowest that many of the oldest settlers remember of.

The Stillman brothers are erecting a driving shed on their premises, which adds greatly to the appearance of their property.

A couple of Keene duck hunters succeeded in bagging 37 brace of ducks on Wednesday.

Mr. H. McLachlan and Mr. L. Brown, and James Dickson are ponding a few days chasing the wary black ducks up and down the lake. They have not been successful in catching them as yet.

Mr. Wm. Erly, Roseneath, made a flying visit to Keene Thursday.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wrecked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

Monkeys Like Scrapping.

"Monkeys are in a class by themselves," said the circus man. "If one of them has red hair he is sure to be a dandy scrapper. The best fighter is always the leader. They hang together and bow and scrape before the boss just like a good many people. Monkeys with red faces and fat heads will whip the life out of those smaller than they are, but will run like the wind when it comes to an even break. A monkey riot is a funny spectacle. Even in the same cage you will find groups herded together as if there was some class distinction and the lines were drawn tightly. If two of the big ones come together in a row the others generally stand off and let them have it out, but if any of the little ones get to scrapping then the father and mother are apt to mix in, and the next step is a general row. We separate them by turning on the hose and punish them by locking up the den so that they cannot get any peanuts from the crowd and hold back their meals. This plan puts them on their good behavior for awhile at least. The monkey likes to eat and likes to be noticed."

Slightly Mixed.

They had just set up housekeeping and were working on the plan of economy. The bathtub needed a coat of varnish. He promised to attend to it if she would order the varnish.

"You'll find the varnish in the closet with the groceries, dear," she said a day or so later, "and the can opener in the knife drawer."

He opened the can and, according to his contract, applied the coat of varnish and then left it to dry.

The soup for dinner that day had to be abandoned, for somehow it possessed a peculiar paint shop odor that was nauseating. After dinner he took her to inspect his work on the bathtub. Now that it had dried it had a certain unnatural appearance. The top and sides were streaked, and here and there little lumps clung to it.

"The man said that was the best varnish," she explained, taking up the can of varnish for an examination. "But—why, dear, you have varnished the bathtub with the ox tail soup!"

"Then it was the varnish we ate, dear," he added, horror stricken.—Lippincott's.

A Model Hotel "Boots."

It was in a Dublin hotel, and as I closed the bedroom door, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian, I noticed that the end of one of my boot laces was inside the room, the boot to which it was attached having been placed as usual outside. When I awoke next morning the boot lace end was still there, and I opened the door expecting to find that the boots had not been cleaned, but I was wrong. A very careful hotel servant, a very model among "boots," had found the lace tightly gripped by the door and rather than disturb me had carefully removed it from the lace holes and carried away the boot. Presently I heard a quiet noise outside the door. The model boots had brought my boots back again and was industriously replacing that one which he had unlaced.

Cheese in the Middle Ages.

Cheese must have been a rather dear or scarce article of food in 1502, for it is recorded in the "Black Books" of the Honorable Society of Lincoln's Inn that at Easter term, 1502, it was "agreed by the governors and benchers this term that if any one of the society shall hereafter cut cheese immoderately at the time of dinner or supper or shall give cheese to any servant or to any other or shall carry it away from the table at any time he shall pay 4 pence for each offense. The butlers of the society shall present such defaulters weekly under pain of expulsion from office."—Law Times.

Her Test.

"When a young man proposes you should always be careful and test his love," cautioned the conservative chaperon.

"But I go one better, auntie," twittered the pretty girl. "Do you see this tiny bottle?"

"Yes. Does it contain perfume?"

"No; it contains acid. I test the engagement ring."

Not Very Funny.

"I did my best to be entertaining," said the young man in a voice of sorrow.

"Did you succeed?"

"I'm afraid not. I recited Hamlet's soliloquy. She looked at me reproachfully for several seconds and then exclaimed, "I don't think that's very funny!"—London Telegraph.

His Conscience.

"He's forever prating about what his conscience tells him. What does his conscience tell him, anyway?"

"Apparently it usually tells him what awful sinners his neighbors are."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Where She Gets Her Ideal.

She—I wonder if you are just the kind of man I want. He—What kind of man do you want? She—I can hardly describe him to you. He—Don't try. What's the name of the book?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Father and His Eight Sons Preach the Gospel. Daughter a Missionary

New York, Nov. 30.—Every Sunday morning when a rare old Scotch preacher arises in his Presbyterian pulpit in Londonderry, Ireland, to expound the Gospel he does it with the Christian pride that somewhere, on the same Sabbath morning in eight other Presbyterian pulpits, eight stalwart sons are likewise expounding the gospel, while a daughter is teaching the heathen in Egypt.

Two sons of this remarkable Presbyterian family are well known in Iowa. One, Rev. James S. Corkey, is pastor of a thriving Presbyterian Church at Winterset, also president of the Iowa Sunday School Association and prominent as a temperance lecturer; another, Rev. Alexander Corkey, was formerly located at Fairfield, Iowa, and president of the Iowa Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, though now he has a pastorate at Cedar Bluffs, Neb.

These two sons, strong, sturdy men, with their clean Scotch ancestry evident in their stalwart make-up, have just returned with their wives from a reunion of their remarkable family in the old manse which has been the home of the Corkey family during the nearly 50 years of the father's pastorate in Londonderry. All eight of the preacher boys were there, every man of them a son in whom the father found just reason for his pride. Each came to the reunion with a stately "Reverend" as his title, and, except for the sons in America, they all held pastorates in such good old Irish parishes as are found in Armagh, Drumhillery, Cullybackey, Ballygawley, Belfast and Londonderry. The missionary daughter could not come, but two other daughters, who live at home, were there. There was only one break in the family at this reunion—the mother of these stalwart sons and daughters was not there. But she had seen them all grow up into manhood and one after another enter the ministry, as she had always prayed they might.

This reunion was made the occasion of a notable celebration in the Second Glendermott Presbyterian Church, in Londonderry, over which the father had presided for 49 years. The entire parish and Presbyterians from far and wide participated. The parish itself joined in a memorial address to the veteran preacher, in which fitting testimony was paid to his long and honored service.

Eire, Water and Light Committee in Session

A letter was received from Fire Chief Howard, drawing the attention of the committee to the effect that a party or parties have been in the habit of removing the keys from alarm boxes 52 and 53 in Ashburnham.

The chief stated that he had put nine keys in box 53 since he has been here. He said he desired to protect the brigade in case of fire in that neighbourhood while the key was gone.

Ald. Buller suggested that the city secure at once door porches for all the boxes so that they cannot be removed.

The suggestion was adopted and a motion was passed.

Ald. Johnston stated that in respect to the financial condition of the fire department, he had City Treasurer Adams prepare a statement, which showed that the estimated overdraft, owing to the change from a volunteer brigade, to a paid brigade would be overdrawn. The chairman said he would like to have the whole thing threshed out.

The committee then went over the various items of contention and threshed them out.

Ald. Johnston stated that there were several accounts coming in to be paid of which he had no knowledge, and he did not feel inclined to assume the responsibility of marking them O.K.

The Chief was instructed to keep closer to the rules governing the department and not to order anything without the chairman's authority.

It was moved and seconded by Ald. Buller and Ald. McIntyre that the offer of the Peterborough Light & Power Co's offer to supply extra light for the fire hall at $30 per year be accepted.—Carried.

It was moved by Ald. Buller and Ald. McIntyre that the Committee recommend to the Council that insurance be placed upon the men of the fire brigade and the chief, to protect them against accident.—Carried.

United States and Japan Agree to Act Together--Will Defend China's Independence and Integrity

Maintenance of Status Quo in the Pacific—to Equal Commercial Opportunities in the Chinese Empire to all Nations

Farreaching, Important Agreement

Washington, Nov. 27.—Information of an agreement of far-reaching importance between United States and Japan, covering the policy of the two countries in the Pacific, has been obtained from trustworthy sources.

The agreement is based on the idea of encouraging and defending free and peaceful commercial development in the Pacific. It contains not only a mutual guarantee to respect each other's territorial possessions there, but defines the attitude of the two countries towards China, binding each to defend China's independence and integrity by every peaceful means and to give equal commercial opportunity in the Chinese Empire to all nations.

But, more important still, the agreement, in the event of complications threatening the status quo, binds the United States and Japan to consult each other with a view to acting together.

The agreement is in the form of a declaration, and consists of five articles, of which the following is an accurate and faithful description—

The first article gives expression to the wish of the two governments to encourage the free and peaceful development of their commerce in the Pacific.

The second is a mutual disclaimer of an aggressive design, and also contains a definition of the policy of each government, both as directed to the maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific and the defence of the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry in China.

The third article contains a statement of the consequent "firm purpose of mutual solution of questions arising" to respect the territorial possessions in the Pacific of the other.

In the fourth article the United States and Japan express their determination, "In the common interest of all the powers," in China to support "by all peaceful means at their disposal," the independence and integrity of China and the principle of equal commercial and industrial opportunity for all nations in the Empire.

The fifth article mutually pledges the two governments, in case of "the occurrence of any event threatening the status quo, as above described, or the principle of equal opportunity, as above defined," to communicate with each other for the purpose of arriving at a mutual understanding with regard to the measures they may consider it useful to take.

Advice to Ottawa

Every time it rains considerable interest is naturally displayed as to the extent that the local water supply will be affected. A Times representative yesterday called on Superintendent McClelland of the Trent Valley Canal and asked him how he found things generally. In reply, he stated that the rainfall of to-day did not materially affect the flow, although there was no water lost through evaporation. The water is, however, rising in Stony Lake and is now fully eleven inches higher than a few days ago. This is caused to a large extent, by the waters coming down from the north.

This reply prompted the newspaper man to ask whose idea the conservation of those waters was and under whose direction the work was carried out, to which Mr. McClelland gave the credit to Mr. M. J. Butler, chief Engineer of the Railways and Canals Department at Ottawa. Mr. Butler was the first man who took up the question and he was not slow in grasping the value of the proposition. He set to work at once and so had the Government consent to carry the scheme into effect. The result is that the Trent Water Way is one of the best on the continent.

The people of the city are enjoying a good water supply, while other cities are in great distress. One of these is Ottawa, and by an Ottawa paper it is noticed that the power users of that city and vicinity are once more appealing to the Public Works Department for aid.

It would appear at this distance that those gentlemen would be much farther ahead if they applied to Mr. Butler and secured advice from him, as he is a man of experience and a man of action. It appears that if Ottawa got Mr. Butler interested in their case, he might make an effort to have the Ottawa river transferred from the Public Works Department to the Railways and Canals Department. If successful in this move, then they could depend upon Mr. Butler carrying out a conservation scheme which would end all future trouble. He did it on the Trent Waterway and he certainly could do it on the Ottawa river.

An Exciting Game in the P. A. C. Tournament

Another match in the P. A. C. bowling tournament was pulled off last night, and it was probably the most interesting contest of the season, especially the third game, when Wareham required only nine pins off his last strike to win out. He got six pins with the first ball, leaving a cluster of four. He only needed three more balls and could have got them by slamming down the centre, but the scorer told him he needed a spare which was a difficult shot for him to make. However, he went after it, but missed and only got the centre pin, and lost the game by two pins. The Belmonts won the match by 70 points.

The scores were as follows:

Mack Pacifics,—
McIlvoy	176	146	151
Connors	166	124	140
Lillie	141	138	156
Totals	483	408	470

A Wise Mother's Story

Let all Mothers and Daughter Read Carefully and Profit By It.

"I am convinced," writes Mrs. A. B Hopeford from St. John, "that a majority of young girls who die of consumption do so because their mothers neglected their health at the critical time when carefulness insures vigor and sound health, if a girl's health is neglected from her eleventh to sixteenth year her body will be weak and she becomes a ready victim of typhoid anaemia, and in many cases consumption itself. In her sixteenth year my youngest daughter showed signs of failing strength. Some dyspeptic troubles developed, her heart became weak and palpitation frightened her dreadfully. She was irregular in the important bodily functions and rapid loss in weight and a ruddy complexion pointed to a rapid decline.

She disliked making her troubles known to our doctor, a feeling I felt I should respect, and so by good fortune I was led to use Ferrozone with most gratifying results. My neighbor next door, Mrs. Woods, had found Ferrozone so good in nervousness that she persuaded me that it would restore Flossie's health, and from the time the second box was commenced her improvement was constant. She is now a big, strong girl, ruddy and plump, able to study hard and to take her share of household duties. I am an earnest advocate of Ferrozone. We all use it now as a tonic as it is certainly woman's best friend."

All dealers sell Ferrozone, 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50; procure a supply today.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription — Dr. Shoop's Restorative— is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments — the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and scant improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Alfred Shrubb will Run Tonight at the Roller Rink

Alfred Shrubb, the world's champion ship distance man and holder of all professional records from 2,000 yards up, is in the city to fill a three nights' engagement at the Auditorium Roller Rink, where he will appear tonight, Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week against local runners and roller skaters. He came here from Toronto, where he saw Tom Flanagan, ongboat's manager, with a view to coming to terms with the Indian's man regarding the races proposed between LLonghoat and himself. Shrubb came from Princeton to Philadelphia where he ran an eight mile relay against four men and won. This was in the morning. In the afternoon he ran a four-mile matched race against Percy Small att Trenton, N.J., beating his opponent handily. He then went to New York, where he ran across Dorando, while he (Shrubb) was having a conversation with Pat Powers in the Flatiron Building. Shrubb stayed but a single night in New York, going from there to Buffalo, to Toronto, then to this city. He is registered at the Munro House here.

The chief business of the Englishman in Toronto was, of course, to see Tom Flanagan, with a view of the two coming to a mutual understanding, but no definite arrangements were made.

Regarding the races suggested between Longboat and Shrubb, and about which much has been written lately in the Canadian ppress, Shrubb says his proposition to his way of thinking is quite reasonable and one would agree with him in the matter when they are explained.

The champion says he suggested to Flanagan to run 5, 10, 15 and 20 mile races against the redman, commencing at the smaller distances. If would be willing to run all the distances indoors with the exception of the 20 mile fixture and think he thinks should be held over until next spring when it could be run out of doors. Shrubb says he is willing to deposit $1,000 forfeit that if Longboat meets him in the shorter distances he will take him on for the long one, which Flanagan seems to anxious to have arranged. He also states that the final arrangements in the matter may be made by next Saturday.

During the past year Shrubb has been in the Eastern States in the vicinity of Boston largely and has run 34 races, 33 of which he has won. They have been relay races mostly. The one he lost was in Boston when he gave Frank Kennedy 125 yards handicap in a mile and the concession proved too big a one. Besides running himself, Shrubb has been looking after a squad of Harvard runners and he had them at Princeton when he was there as mentioned above.

"What do I think of Dorando," said the great distance man, "I think he is about the nicest little fellow I ever met. He does not do any boasting about his running and is a very pleasant fellow to talk to. His brother is also a fine fellow. Dorando certainly showed that he is a very much superior distance man to Hayes and clearly showed this in the race between the two at Madison Square Gardens. I think Longboat would beat the Italian at 45 miles, but think the Marathon runner should beat him at either 20 or 25."

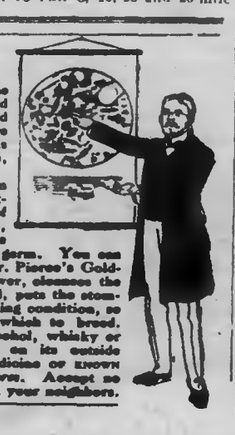
Concrete Structure Replaces Otter Lake Dam

Lindsay, Ont., December 1st. — Mr. John Pearson, of Lindsay, who has had charge of the work in connection with the construction of a new concrete dam at Otter Lake, Monmouth township was in town to-day. The structure, which was commenced about two months ago, replaces an old wooden dam, which was erected by the late Thos. Walters about 21 years ago. The government, by the way, intends replacing all wooden dams which are going to decay, with concrete ones.

The new dam at Otter Lake is a splendid structure. It is 165 feet in length and has a 10-foot head. The area of Otter Lake is 4 miles long by one mile wide, and this new dam will afford a much larger capacity for reserve water.

Otter Lake empties into Burnt River, which is one of the feeders of the Trent Valley Canal. A staff of 25 men was engaged on this work, which was under the supervision of Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, and Mr. Samuel Clegg, of Peterborough.

Afraid of Ghosts



Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Rugby Club Last Night

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Rugby Club was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlors. A big bunch of fans were present and the discussion was very lively. Many matters of interest were brought up in reference to the management, etc., of the club for next year. The boys also discussed whether to enter the senior or intermediate series next year. All these matters were talked over but the final arrangements were left until later to be decided. Mr. R. F. McWilliams presided over the meeting.

No reports were presented, although the club's finances will not be short.

New Music Store for Peterborough

A new music store is being opened up at 326 George street by Mr. W. H. Ruse, who is one of a family of fourteen children, all of whom inherited great musical talent from their parents and grandparents. Four of the brothers graduated from the University of Music in New York. Mr. W. H. Ruse began his musical studies at nine years of age, and, while quite young, began his career in teaching singing schools, choruses and bands. At the same time, developing business ability, he was induced to engage in the piano and organ business and, being always aggressive and progressive, he was soon closely associated with one of Canada's largest manufacturers at that time. Many of his suggestions regarding regulation and tone production were acted upon which proved to be of much benefit to the instruments. His twenty-five years' experience in the trade in its different departments, both wholesale and retail, together with his close association and manufacturing knowledge of pianos and organ construction, having a full insight to the value of the materials used, his knowledge of music and large experiences has made him a critical expert in judging a good instrument. Mr. Ruse has held high positions as salesman with the best manufacturers in the States and in Canada. His information will be free to all who desire to buy any musical instrument. Mr. Ruse will carry a varied stock of Canada's best makes of pianos and other instruments, which will be represented true to their value. His prices are reasonable compared with those of the trade, and his terms are as liberal as the trade can offer, quality being considered. Every intending buyer should call on him, get acquainted, and know more about what you are going to buy. 326 George street, Market Building. See To-morrow's Times for advertisement.

How to Reduce Fat Proportionately

Preparation is the thing. A fat woman yearns to reduce her abdomen, but she doesn't want to produce scrawny neck. This fact condemns the dieting method of reducing. You can't starve the fat off one place and not off another. Simply impossible. But why try dieting, or even exercising, when there is a better way of reducing fat than either.

Try the following: One half oz. Marmola, 3-4 oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 1 3-4 oz. Peppermint Water. Any druggist will fill the above cheaply. Take a teaspoonful, after meals and at bedtime, and see if in a few weeks you are not losing about a pound of fat a day — not from places where you are normally plump, but from those that are overly fat. The receipt works like a charm, I am told, and though it produces delightfully apparent results, yet it is perfectly harmless. Doesn't even cause wrinkles, they say who have used it, nor interfere with one's diet which are two other and important differences it possesses over other fat reducers I ever heard of. Instead of being harmful in fact, as so many of the advertised remedies are, it improves the health and appetite and complexion.

Glow of Health Speaks for Postum

It requires no scientific training to discover whether tea or coffee disagrees or not.

Simply stop it for a time and use Postum in place of it, then note the beneficial effects. The truth will appear.

"Six years ago I was in a very bad condition," writes a Tenn lady. "I suffered from indigestion, nervousness and insomnia.

"I was then an inveterate coffee drinker but it was long before I could be persuaded that it was coffee that hurt me. Finally I decided to leave it off for a few days and find out the truth.

"The first morning I left off coffee had a raging headache, so I decided I must have something to take the place of coffee."—The headache was caused by the reaction of the coffee drug—caffein.

"Having heard of Postum through a friend who used it, I bought a package and tried it. I did not like it at first, but after I learned how to make it right, according to the directions on pkg., I would not change back to coffee for anything.

"When I began to use Postum I weighed only 117 lbs. Now I weigh 170 and as I have not taken any tonic in that time I can only attribute my recovery of good health to the use of Postum in place of coffee.

"My husband says I am a living advertisement for Postum. I am glad to be the means of inducing my many friends to use Postum too."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

Social Evening at St. Andrew's

A pleasing and enjoyable social evening was spent at St. Andrews' school house last night by the young people and their friends. It was in honor of St. Andrews' day and the evening's programme was presented by the social and literary committees of the Y.P.S.C.E. Rev. J. G. Potter occupied the chair and, after the usual devotional exercises, a number of vocal and instrumental selections were rendered. After this all present were taken on a social trip from Peterborough to Winnipeg. This was something new in the way of entertainment and proved a very bright feature of the programme. At North Bay the excursion was stopped for refreshments and then the journey was continued to the western metropolis. Upon arrival there, the passengers were informed that the treasury had become exhausted and that they would have to walk home. Taking the hint, all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

(LIMITED)

OCTOBER TO MARCH is the time to plant orange lemon and grape-fruit trees in Cuba.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most lucious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

TEN ACRES planted in oranges and grape fruit will produce when in bearing, an income of $2,700.00 to $5,00.00 per annum, thus rendering the owner independent for life.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

CUBAN FRUITS can be gathered and shipped when fully ripened, whilst Florida fruits are usually shipped green, the result being that the first are most lucious and wholesome and more eagerly sought by the buyers. No frost or snow, no extreme heat, and one of the healthiest climates in the world.

CALL AND SEE recent photographs of results. Prospectus seen on appliaation. Every information freely given

THIS COMPANY owns over 100 tobacco plantations, producing some of the finest grades known to the trade.

MORE THAN 70,000 citrus fruit trees (orange, grape-fruit and lemon) have already been planted. and more are being continually added.

NOW IS THE TIME to purchase. Under existing circumstances it will be but a short time before these fruit lands will bring many times their selling price.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION

Our attention has been called to the fact that an article in the Times under the above heading, might be construed, under precedents, into an attempt to prejudice or influence public opinion on a case pending in the court before which the protest against the election of Hon. J. R. Stratton, will be tried. Nothing could be further from its intention. The purpose and purport of the article was simply to question the wisdom of the action under all the circumstances affecting the public welfare of the county. We had no intention of making any imputation reflecting upon any individual connected with the complaints made in the protest. We take it for granted that any one taking so serious a step must at least be persuaded that he has a real ground for action, and we presume that such ground will be disclosed when the case comes up for trial.

BRITAIN'S UNEMPLOYED

The report to which [illegible] a document much discussed in Britain. The claim of those who believe in it is that every citizen has a right to look to the State to give him work when he cannot find it for himself; and the point of opponents is that the State is merely an organization of citizens and that to one of the number has a right to call on all of the others to provide him with work. On the other hand, it is contended with reason that the State does attempt to save its members from the ultimate consequences of the want of work is, from starvation. This is especially obvious in the Motherland where the Poor Law system offers a stable home to all who cannot provide for themselves.

In Canada, we have still an easy and patent method of dealing with the "out-of-works". We emigrate them toward the unfilled areas of the West and bid them go to work for themselves. If they cannot find an employer, they can then employ themselves on the land. This implies at times a pretty violent change of trade; but political economists never worry about details of this sort. They deal with men in, masses and moving through long periods of time. Still it is undoubtedly true that the ability to employ one's self on the land does open the door of release to many a man who otherwise would be crowded to death between want of work and want of bread. More than that, it frequently entices a man to give up a position in some one else's employ, and thus creates an opening for another of the unemployed.

The situation in Britain just now is serious. It is calculated that nearly ten per cent. of the skilled workers of the country are unable to get work. The normal percentage of skilled unemployment is scarcely two per cent., which, however, is large enough. The Government is trying to hurry on such work as it can; and there are relief works started in various parts of the United Kingdom. Yet these measures do little more than serve as palliatives. Something more serious is demanded; and those who lay claim to the "right to work" point out that it would pay the state far better to provide work of some sort for them than to maintain them in idleness by charity and in the poor houses. Even if their claim is not admitted in principle, they argue with much reason that it ought to be admitted in practice for economy's sake. That is where the State admits a right to food; it ought for its own sake to admit a "right to work."

Two ideas will suggest themselves to Canadian observers. One will be that much of this unemployment is due to the crippling of British industries, and that possibly some of this paralysis of British industry comes from its inability to hold its own home market. For this we have a cure in Canada. We call it protection—a term in much disfavor in Britain. Another solution that will occur to Canadians is that our land cure might also be tried. It is true that Britain does not possess our free acres; but it does possess a lot of unfarmed land, and a little planning would open this land to the spade of the unemployed. The "potato patch" scheme, once so popular in American cities, might be studied in this regard. If as many of the unemployed as chose to could go to profitable gardening on the unused land of the British Isles, the problem would probably shrink to much less formidable proportions.

Chunks of Gold as Big as a Fist

Montreal, Nov. 23.—A report has been received by the Canadian Pacific Industrial Department this morning giving particulars of what seems to be the most important gold discovery that has been made in the Lake of the Woods or Rainy Lake districts, where gold mining has been carried on for many years with success.

The discovery is on the English River not far from the Canadian Pacific on the north side. The nearest station is Red Portage. It is not far distant from the famous Anthony Blum gold mine where there is a gold crushing plant in operation turning into the market considerable quantities of precious metal.

It was one of the miners employed in the Anthony Blum, doing a little business in the way of prospecting on his own account who came upon the quartz reef which he found on making the usual tests, to be fairly loaded with the genuine yellow metal. He went on chipping and as he knocked off the surface coatings he came upon lumps of gold as big as his fist embedded in the solid rock.

Just what it may amount to nobody can say as yet. It may mean as big a discovery of gold as Cobalt proved in silver for it may prove to be just a local upruals of some northern lode beyond reach—enough to make a few men millionaires but of no real national significance or importance.

Need Not Fear of a Crash with the Earth

Pittsburg, Nov. 27.—Dr. John A. Brashear, the Pittsburg astronomer, denied emphatically to-night, that the inhabitants of the earth need fear any danger from a collision with the comet recently discovered by Moorehouse, at the Yerkes Observatory.

"The spectroscopic study of this comet," said Dr. Brashear, "indicates that not only is it composed of hydrogen gas, but also of cyanogen, a very poisonous gas. A very sensational article recently printed in New York tells us that had this comet struck the earth, not a living being would have been left upon it. But my own observations, with those of others, indicate that if the comet had struck the earth, so thin is its gas that there would not have been enough for one single atom of it for each block of our city.

"There would have been absolute no danger to the inhabitants of the earth. The fact of the matter is that when the head, or nucleus, of the comet was 100,000 miles in diameter, I could see a fifth magnitude star through it without any apparent diminution of light."

Mrs. Henry Greene, 202 Perry street, left yesterday for Havelock, where she is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Wilde.

CHAPPED HANDS

Frost-Bite, Cold Sores,
Roughness & Redness Yield to Zam-Buk.

ARE your hands chapped, cracked, or sore? Have you "cold cracks" which open and bleed when the skin is drawn tight? Have you a cold sore, frost bite, chilblains, or a "raw" place which at times makes it agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief and will heal the frost-damaged skin. Anoint the sore places at night and if it is the hands—wear a pair of old gloves overnight. Zam-Buk's rich healing essences will sink into the wounds, end the smarting, and will quickly heal.

Zam-Buk is Soothing and Smoothing.

READ MRS. YELLEN'S EXPERIENCE!

Mrs. Yellen, of Portland, says:—"I consider it only my duty to tell you of the great benefit I have derived from Zam-Buk. My hands were so sore and cracked that it was agony to put them near water. When I tried to do so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I seemed quite unable to get relief from anything I put on them until I tried Zam-Buk, and the balm succeeded when all else had failed. It closed the big cracks, gave me ease, soothed the inflammation and in a very short time healed my hands completely. I would strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from chapped or cracked hands. It is a wonderful healer and should be in every home."

ZAM BUK ON CANADIAN FARMS.

Every farm should have its box of Zam Buk always kept handy. Writing from Ochre River (Man.), Mr. C. D. McArthur states:—"I cannot praise Zam-Buk too highly. It is the only thing that has done my hands any good. They crack and bleed in the cold weather but Zam Buk has soothed and healed them in fine style. I have a brother who suffers in the same way, and he also has found Zam Buk of great value as a balm for cuts, burns, and skin injuries of all kinds so frequently sustained in farming. Zam-Buk is in our estimation without any equal."

FATHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH CURED.

Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galesburg, Ont., writes:—"Zam-Buk is the best balm we have ever used. Every year I am troubled with chapped hands and arms and nothing ever seemed able to heal them until I tried Zam-Buk. It is surprising how quickly this balm has healed up the sores and cracks. My father has used it for several ailments and injuries, and thinks there is nothing to equal it."

Zam-Buk

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES.

Zam-Buk is excellent for chaps, chilblains, cold sores, sore faces and lips, chadings, rashes, winter eczema, piles, ulcers, festering sores, sore heads and backs, abscesses, pimples, ring worm, &c., cuts, burns, bruises, scalds, sprains, &c. As an embrocation it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, &c. Of all druggists and stores, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Price 50 c. a box, 3 for $1.25. You are warned against the "just as good" preparations which are sometimes offered when Zam-Buk is asked for.

B. BROUGHTON,
Mgr. Hamilton Stamp & Stencil Works, Hamilton

This Company holds 22 Timber Berths, aggregating 52 sq. miles (33,280 acres), all Carefully Selected, containing over 800,000,000 Feet of Finest Timber Bought by this Company at the Exceptionally Low Figure of 26 Cents per Thousand Feet

All of this timber is located in the Willow River District on solid level ground, lies close beside good water for logging, and is mostly White Spruce of a superior quality. It averages 30 inches in diameter and ranges from 90 to 160 feet high. The limbs commence half way up. There is some good tall Pine and Balsam. The Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Surveys both cross the Willow River lower down than our limits.

British Columbia White Spruce is infinitely superior to the Ontario variety, and makes the finest finished lumber for interior work. It also makes splendid lumber for general use. Ends of logs and logs too small for lumber can be utilized for pulp, as WHITE SPRUCE IS UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE FINEST MATERIAL IN THE WORLD FOR PULP FOR FINE PAPERMAKING.

The limits were cruised by James M. Anderson, of Sutton West, an Ex-Crown Timber Agent, and the company has on fyle at its office a number of letters from some of the most prominent business men in Canada in recommendation of his capability and integrity, and from settlers in the Cariboo District, verifying his report of the timber.

The company has also issued in pamphlet form the report, dated October, 31st, 1908, of Mr. H. P. BELL, M.I.C.E., member Am. Soc. C.E., at present Superintending Engineer on the Government Staff on the Trent Valley Canal, at Campbellford, Ont., who was employed by the British Columbia Government in 1874-5-6 to make a survey up the Willow River Valley for the proposed route of the British Pacific Railway, and who cut the Government trails through the Willow River District in 1895. His report substantiates Mr. Anderson's in every detail, and in view of Mr. Bell's pre eminence among the Civil Engineers of America, among whom there is no higher authority on the topography of the Cariboo District, his report willbe universally accepted as being entirely correct. Mr. Bell was recommended to this company by M. Collingwood Schreiber, Consulting Engineer to the Dominion Government, and Chief Engineer of the Western Division of the National Transcontineotal Railway.

Good Timber if Well Located is the Safest and Best Investment in the world to-day

FIRE DOES NOT DESTROY MATURED TIMBER; it kills and stops the growth, but if cut down WITHIN TWO YEARS AFTER the fire this timber will make first class lumber, but fire does destroy the young growth of small saplings, thus depriving the coming generations of their timber supply. ANY RELIABLE LUMBER DEALER WILL VERIFY THIS STATEMENT.

The C.P.R. holds several timber limits in British Columbia, and after reserving the best, is selling the second class timber at $2,00 per 1,000 feet on the stump. If we sell our selected timber at the same figure in three years, on a basis of $224,000 paid-up capital,

Each Hundred Dollars invested To-day at Par will briug a return of $722.52

This is not exaggerated ; $2.00 per thousand for good timber is a ridiculously low price. In Ontario Spruce is now worth from $7.00 to $9 00 per thousand feet on the stump and is rapidly increasing in value.

The Company has reserved $36,000 Treasury Stock to provide for future Gov't License fees

EACH SHARE OF STOCK REPRESENTS 315,600 FEET OF TIMBER

A Limited Number of Shares is Now Offered at Its Par Value

$100 per Share on Time; Cash, per Share, $97.50

CHRISTMAS ROD AND GUN

Full of good things is the December (Christmas Number) of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. A specially written and finely illustrated account of the trip taken in the woods by the Premier and Surveyor-General of New Brunswick, at the invitation of the organized guides of the Province, opens an exceptionally good number, the high standard of which is maintained throughout. Sportsmen of all classes may be recommended to the well written and informative article on Ancient Indian customs is a fine reminder of the difficulties the Indians experienced in the matter of obtaining a living before the advent of the white man to the North American Continent Physical Culture at home is the first of a series of articles by an expert on a subject which cannot fail to interest all sportsmen. In the Spirit of the North will be found some fine verses, every line appealing with strong force to every lover of the wild but attractive north country. These are but samples of the many good things dealing with every phase of sport in Canada to be found between the covers of a number surpassing in both quantity and quality the best yet given by this leading Canadian magazine. The illustrations are specially notable and attractive in this fine Christmas issue.

To stop any pain in 20 minutes, take one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. See formula on the box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula. It can't be bettered. Womanly pains, head pains, any pain gets instant relief. Box of twenty Pink Pain Tablets, 25c. Sold by all dealers.

The Canadian Magazine

The publishers of The Canadian Magazine deserve praise for their enterprise in securing for their Christmas number a hitherto unpublished poem by William Henry Drummond, entitled "Invocation Ciuny Loquitur." It is merely one of many features that go towards making this number the most attractive from a literay and artistic standpoint that has ever been published in Canada.

Simon, Simon," said Lancaster in a wheedling tone. He could scarcely see the animal, for the eastern window was snowed shut. The bull made no move. Presently the old man shoved the single bar aside and hopped forward a step or two, his gaze fixed on the star between those glowing eyes.

Still the bull did not move.

"So, Simon," purred the section boss. He gave another hop forward and raised the hatchet. "So, Simon; nice Simon!"

"Wo-o-o-ah!"

It was a roar that fairly shook the lean-to. Simon flung up his head.

Fearful for his safety, Lancaster dodged to the left, stumbled, overturned and went down, with a cry. "Dallas—help!"

A cry answered him. The mules reared. Then out of the gloom plunged a red bulk, head lowered, tail straight. There was a second roar, a crash, as the stable door flew outward, an inrush of frigid air and the swirling sound of wind and sleet. And Simon, leaping something that was lying at the entrance, shot on into the blizzard.

Early morning of the next day as the Lancasters were enjoying a breakfast of roasted pork cooked by a scantling of Simon's manger they heard the storm renew its fury in strange noises that were like the human voice. The warped door creaked; the latch rattled.

They paid little attention to it, being fairly content with the strange good fortune that had left a fat frozen pig in the snow outside the lean-to. The stable had been nailed tight again, and there were enough scantlings in it to last out three or four days. Marylyn was better, having rallied swiftly on a diet of rich broth. Even Ben and Betty were not unhappy, for they were greedily consuming the hay of the bedticks.

"Sam Patch is shore bustin' loose," observed the section boss, selecting a second juicy rib and salting it from end to end. The salt spilled. He flickered a pinch over one shoulder.

Boof, boof, boof, bang! came the muffled sounds from without.

"The harder it howls now the sooner it'll get over it," answered Dallas, piling on more wood.

Lancaster lit his pipe. "Danged glad Ah got t'baccy."

Hey, hey! yelled the storm.

Marylyn looked up from a book. "Sounds as if men are outside," she said. "Listen!"

They listened, straining their ears.

Something thumped the warped door. They started up. A moment and a thread of light came through the gap above the latch.

"They is!" cried the section boss.

A cheer replied. A sharp command was sung out to them. "Keep back! Out of the way!"

Again the door was thumped; then great pressure was put upon it. It opened, letting in a half dozen men and a wide path of warm sunlight.

"Hurrah, hurrah!" "Folks, you snowed in?" "Thank God, you're all right!" "The basket, boys; the basket!"

"W'y, Lawd!" cried the section boss, winking against the light. "Ain't they no blizzard?"

A trooper with a chevroned sleeve saluted them. His air was jaunty. His face beamed. "There was, sir, last night," he said gayly, "but there hain't none now. Clear has a bell, sir."

"Y' fr'm th' post?" demanded Lancaster, trying to look severe.

He of the chevrons waved his companions out. "Hi'm from Hingland, sir," he answered. "Sergeant Kippis his my name. Will you 'ave some 'soldier's coffee,' sir?"

Dallas hurried past him and into the newly dug tunnel. Overhead was a serene sky. Between shack and river lay a dazzling mile of drifts and midway, brisket deep, but advancing resolutely and bugling at every floundering step was Simon!

CHAPTER XVI.

"WELL, captain?" It was partly a greeting full of relief, partly an eager inquiry, as Colonel Cummings came hurrying out of his library to meet Oliver in the entry.

The latter straightened a little, but hesitated deprecatingly before taking the colonel's hand. "I've nothing to report but failure, sir," he said.

The stinging wind that had blown the command home into barracks and scourged the humped shoulders of the men and the thin flanks of their mounts had cut the flesh over the captain's high cheek bones until it was red and raw. The lower part of his face was hidden under a growth that matched his drooping mustache. On his forehead and about his eyes the skin was a dark sallow, marked by a lattice of deep lines—lines of worry and weariness.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granules wasten, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no logical excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful baths it is safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years," says W. B. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt desperate and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a perfect spring medicine; they destroy germs and poisons of every description and strength whereby the system rallies and the patient quickly enjoys the blessings of Perfect Health. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills—to-day—25c at all dealers.

A Railway Magnate's Opinion

Chief of the Executive Department of the Canadian Northern Railway, and next in charge to McKenzie and Mann, is Mr. Hugh Sutherland, who also holds the charter of the Hudson Bay Railway. Any man might well be proud of a recommendation such as the following:—

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY
Executive Department,
Winnipeg, Sept. 12, 1908.

"I wish to say for your information that I have known Mr. Anderson for about thirty years, during which time he was for a long time Crown Timber Agent in Manitoba, and has been dealing in timber and timber limits in Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia for the greater part of the time since he left the Government employ.

"I have had an opportunity of knowing a good deal as to his judgment and ability in regard to standing timber, as well as of his honesty and integrity. I can, therefore, recommend him as a man whose estimate of standing timber can be relied upon."

Yours truly,
(Signed) HUGH SUTHERLAND.

L. M. HAYES, Chairman.

In accordance with the resolution of the board at its last meeting your committee on appointments advertised for a teacher for the public school staff.

Before the selection was made Miss Coveney resigned from the East City staff, your committee advertised for two teachers and recommended the appointment of Miss Persie G. Meadows, of Cartland, first-class professional certificate, and has had three and a half years' experience.

Miss Minnie E. F. Mann, Peterborough, second class professional certificate, and has had three yeears' experience, engaged at initial salaries as per schedule of Board.

REPORT RE TRAINING SCHOOL GRANT.

When this board first entered into an agreement with the Education Department to provide a suitably training school for Normal students, it was not then anticipated that more than a ten roomed school would be necessary. When in August last the principal of the Normal asked for seventeen room for ob-ervation purposes, members of the board made representations to the Education Department that the annual grant of $1,500 first agreed upon would not be sufficient inducement for capable teachers to offer their services as the extra work entailed by the Normal students is very heavy and exacting. The Education Department considered the matter carefully, and as a result this annual grant has been increased to $2,250.

It now becomes the duty of this Board to apportion this grant among the teachers in the training schools.

Your committee has consulted Dr Merchant, Inspector of Normal Schools, and Mr. Walker, Principal of the Normal School, and as a result propose that the grant be apportioned as follows for the year 1908-09.

(a) To each of the two principals schools, $150 per annum—$300.

(b) To each of the 15 assistant teachers, $100 per annum—$1,500.

This leaves a balance of $150. which your committee considers the board is entitled to use in order to defray certain expenses that were incurred in providing suitable accommodation for the Normal students.

The terms of payment of this grant to the teachers and the amount of each payment will depend upon the method of payment of the said grant by the Education Department.

I would therefore move the adoption of this report.

OTHER BUSINESS.

When receiving the report of the attendance at the Collegiate Institute, Dr. Morrison took occasion to compliment the principal upon the very high average. He said he had never heard of such an average before. Out of 340 on the roll the attendance was 326.

Mr. L. M. Hayes took occasion to compliment Mr. Hodgson and the officers of the cadet corps and the principal upon the splendid showing made by the corps during the recent inspection.

On motion the St. James' Church Sunday School was given permission to use the King Edward school until their new building is ready.

Mr Hayes took occasion to compliment the report of the militia inspector. That official among other things said the corps was not uniform. The principal, however, stated that he would endeavor to have this remedied, and would also try to organize a bugle band. Heretofore the $50 received from the Government went direct to the instructor. He therefore moved that this money be paid into a fund to aid in purchasing stores and equipment.

Mr. W. H. Hill stated that as the year 1908 had been a very important one in the educational history of Peterborough, the board with all the executive officers be photographed, and the picture be framed and hung in one of the schools. This was adopted and the board will sit before the photographer's camera shortly.

Caught Two Prisoners

Lindsay, Dec. 1.—Brooks and Mallory, the two escaped prisoners from the Victoria county jail, have been reclaimed to the fold. They were rounded up last evening near Pefferlaw, a few miles from Cannington, and are held in custody there pending instructions from the Lindsay Chief of Police. It is said that the two prisoners were caught dressed in their prison garb, and the wonder is how they got away so handily. The supposition is that the two men were heading for the Canadian Northern.

Canada's Opportunity to be the Grand Fusing Place of the Nations of the Earth

A large and delighted audience assembled in St. Paul's Church last night to hear the address of Rev. Dr. Johnston, pastor of the American Presbyterian Church in Montreal. Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's, presided, and Rev. Mr. Webb led in prayer.

The chairman in a very neat address introduced the speaker.

Dr. Johnston's address was exceedingly bright and comprehensive in its character. He opened with several stereopticon views of the Tercentenary of Quebec, in which was disclosed the narrower life of the east, and then proceeded westward, showing the larger, more expanding and the more greatly inspiring life of the west. Dr. Johnston referred to the conglomerated population of this new country, and he looked upon the present to be Canada's opportunity to be the grand fusing place of the nations of the earth. He instanced by a comparison of the onrush of the immigrants from 1850 to 1900 (fifty years) 584,000 From 1900 to 1905 (five years) 541,000, 1905 to 1907 (two years) 558,000.

He took his audience among the Galacians and Doukhobors and pictured the life and customs of those people. He paid a rapid visit to the various mission stations, nineteen in number, supported by his church in Montreal, and then he passed along quickly, giving views of the different places, including Alberta, Yukon, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Georgian Bay and the Kawartha Lakes. He paid a tribute to the work accomplished by such men as Dr. James Robertson, who made the west what it is to-day.

Rev. Dr. Johnston also gave some statistics which will furnish a little idea of how Canada, west of Lake Superior, is growing. Thirty years ago there were 100 souls in Winnipeg, while to-day there are 100,000. The Province of Manitoba alone is capable of producing half as much grain as the whole of the United States. Canada has 170,000 square miles more territory than the States. Twenty-five years ago there were 25 head of cattle on the Canadian ranches, while in 1907 there were 640,000 head.

At the close of the lecture Sheriff Hall moved, seconded by Mr. R. F. McWilliams, a vote of thanks to Rev. Dr. Johnston for his very able address.

In reply the reverend gentleman paid a tribute to Mr. John Marsh, son of Rev. Dr. Marsh, who he said produced the views illustrating his talk, the best he had ever seen them produced.

CHIEF SHOT A CONSTABLE

Simcoe, Dec. 1.—In Lynwood Sanitarium, with his body riddled with shots and too weak to have the bullets removed, late Night Constable Wilkins, while under arrest in a cell of the county jail in Chief of Police A. W. Malone, and a charge of cold-blooded murder may hang over his head. The lips of Wilkins in his conscious moments made the charge against the chief, and by a ruse the latter was arrested and two revolvers and a bottle of whiskey found on him.

All that a horrified town can imagine as a cause for the crime is that Malone in a drunken fear of what Wilkins might reveal of his conduct lured him out to a lonely spot in Lynwood Park and shot him down.

Examiner Defeated Pete Lang's Bowlers

There was just forty points difference between the Examiner trio and Pete Lang's bunch in the tournament game at the P. A. C. bowling alleys last night. The 40 points were in favor of the newspaper men, who won two games out of the three, and if Lang's trio had bowled the second game as they did the third the result would have been considerably different. There were quite a number of spectators and a whole lot of interest is being taken in the tournament. The scores were as follows—

Western Farmers Get Big Returns

Winnipeg, Man., December 2.—Up to November 23rd, there had passed inspection at Winnipeg 40,000,000 bushels of wheat of the crop of 1908, or nearly 9,000,000 bushels more than ha dbeen inspected up to the end of December last year.

Putting the exportable surplus of the crop at 80,000,000 bushels, more than half of the surplus has already been inspected, and before navigation closes on December 5 the amount will have run over 45,000,000 bushels.

GRAIN-GRAINING RECORD.

In spite of the "kicks" that continue to come from the country as to car shortage, the West already has gotten out more wheat, considering the distance it has to travel, than any country has ever moved in the same period before.

FARMERS GET BIG RETURNS.

Up to the en dof September the average price to the farmer had run just about 85 cents per bushel for all grades. This averag chas not been made up since that time, but it certainly has been higher, rather than lower. Taking the average of wheat passed inspection at 85 cents to the farmer, there has been paid dto the farmer on this year's wheat crop $34,340,000.

CAR STATISTICS.

It is interesting to note the record of the various roads in the movement of the crop. Of the 43,973 cars inspected up to the 23rd instant, the Canadian Pacific Railway handled 27,845, the Canadian Northern Railway 12,821, and the new Grand Trunk Pacific made 924, and 2,383 went over the Great Northern to Duluth.

Made a Rich Haul in a Crowded Car

Four Men Armed with Revolvers Robbed Conductor and Passengers on a Trolley Car

New York, Dec. 1.—Four desperadoes armed with revolvers held up a crowded street car in lower Third avenue to-day, throttled and robbed the conductor, terrorized the passengers, and escaped with a large collection of purses and other valuables. There is little hope of their capture. Men and women who had just left a dance hall crowded on the car at Third street. Just before the conveyance reached Houston street, four men blocked the exit at the rear door, and drawing revolvers, covered the crowd. Two attacked the conductor, one pressing a revolver against his head while the other rifled his pockets. In the meantime the other two had been going the crowd of passengers. Their pockets were stuffed with women's purses, watches and small wads of bills, when the screams of the women so frightened them that they bolted from the car and dashed down a side street into the heart of the crowded slums.

Rheumatic Liver, Overstrained Kidneys

A REAL MIRACLE.

"My doctor told me I had gouty or rheumatic liver and kidneys," writes G. O. Forde, from Halifax, "I guess he was right for I was a mighty sick man and felt the game was pretty nearly up. So many remedies failed that the doctor was completely puzzled. As for symptoms—I had bushels of them in the morning a sort of nausea. Sometimes the bowels were constipated, at other times quite relaxed. I felt dull, and a sense of weight in the back and over the liver was very distressing."

LOST 15 POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

"My color resembled a yellowish pallor, and gradually I lost weight to the alarming extent of fifteen pounds. I looked jaundiced and felt sure I would die.

"Then I read of the wonders worked by Ferrozone and in desperation I bought six boxes. At once I began to mend. Ferrozone must have put a peg or two into them nervous system for things at the end of the month began to look up. In three months I felt like new, but kept on taking Ferrozone. In six months I was cured."

FERROZONE SAVED HIS LIFE.

"Were it not for Ferrozone I wouldn't be alive today. I am sure it will cure any weakness, rheumatism, gout, debility, poor blood or nervousness. My condition embraced all these, and Ferrozone cured me." Reader, get Ferrozone today, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Shrubb Won First Race From Local Sprinters Will Appear Tonight

There was not a large crowd at the roller rink last night to see Alf. Shrubb, the holder of the world's professional distance records, run against the local boys. Shrubb is one of the greatest runners in the world to-day, and he should draw a packed house every night in a sporting city like this, and where there is so much interest taken in athletics of all kinds, and especially in running and walking. There were quite a number of other attractions on last night which no doubt prevented many attending. But he will appear again to-night and Thursday night in relay races of three miles and four miles, respectively, so that everyone will have an opportunity to see the game little Englishman perform.

Last night he travelled a mile and a half against Collins, Webber and and Russell, all local runners, each one taking ten laps and Shrubb won by a little over a lap. The boys ran remarkably well and deserve credit.

The track was made on the skating floor and was necessarily small to allow for any particular speed, but even then Shrubb did not apparently exert himself to any great extent. The longer distances to-night and to-morrow night should furnish a lot of sport.

Flanagan To Shrubb, Shrubb to Flanagan, Race with the Indian

Mr. Flanagan Says He Does Not Think the Englishman will Run But Shrubb Says It is Baby Talk

Quite Willing to Meet Tom Longboat

The Toronto Star last night said—

"There has been a whole lot of bally-rot going on about this Shrubb-Longboat race," said Tom Flanagan, the Indian's manager, to-day. "I just want to set the thing right.

"Shrubb has not come to my terms, and I don't think he ever will, in spite of what he says. I want a 20-mile race first, and Shrubb can have his choice of 15 and 10 or 15 and 15 miles after that. He says he wants $1,000 bet on each race. He can have that. All he has to do now is to name his duties and put up his money. It is up to Shrubb, and I'll tell you now, I don't think he will ever run the Indian from will meet him any place, out doors or in, for $0 miles."

Meyers, one of the men Longboat beat in relay races on Thanksgiving day, beat Shrubb in a relay the other day at Philadelphia, and beat him good, so a letter from Meyers to Tom Flanagan says. Meyers wants a race with the Indian at five miles.

Flanagan to-day received from Pat Powers the contract for the Indian to meet Dorando on Dec. 15, in Madison Square Garden.

"He'll win if his feet hold out, and I think they will," said Flanagan.

Percy Selten, who is a wee little runner, thinks the Italian will grind Longboat into defeat in 25 miles indoors.
